VOL XXXVIII. NO 41. WINCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, APRIL 4, 1919 PRICE FIVE CENTS

CARPENTERS STRIKE

Contractors Erect Victory Arch on Common

The Winchester carpenters went on a strike this week for a raise to 80 cents an hour. They had been receiving 65 cents for a 44 hour week. Learning of the proposal of the carpenters to go out Tuesday morning, the Master Builders met and organized on Monday, forming the Winzed on Monday, forming the Winchester Building Trades Association, and voting to cease all work at once. As a result there is no construction work now going on here.

The matter has been under discussion for some time, the local carpenters asking for the raise immediately upon the strike of the Boston carpenters for 80 cents. Local contractors say they cannot pay the wage asked. Work at present is at a standstill and beyond ordinary repairs and a few garages nothing is under construction. If the increase is granted they claim they will be no worse off than they are now.

As a result of the deadlock all construction has ceased with the exception of the Victory Arch on the Common to welcome the returning soldiers and sailors. Work on this stopped the first of the week, but yesterday the Master Builders got together and decided to complete the job themselves, starting the work at the regular time in the morning. Three of the builders were right on the job. James Johnston, George A. Richburg and George A. Hamilton, Frank H. Enman, Charles A. Lane and others are expected to take a hand.

DR. TUTT'S LECTURE

A Middle Westerner on Christian Science Tuesday Evening

John M. Tutt, C. S. B., of Kansas City, Missouri, a teacher, practitioner and lecturer on Christian Science will address the public of Winchester and vicinity in the Town Hall next Tuesday evening, under the auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist. Dr. Tutt has been an active worker in Christian Science for a number of years, and because of the ability and fidelity displayed by him in various important capacities, he was elected by the Christian Science Board of Directors to the Board of Lectureship of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts, last summer.

The lecture will be free and a cordial invitation is extended alike to those who differ from and to those who agree with the doctrines of Christian Science.

One of the principal aims of lectures of this character is to correct erroneous impressions, views and beliefs with regard to the teachings and practices of the religious philosophy founded by Mary Baker Eddy. Christian Scientists welcome, even court, searching analytical inquiry and criticism.

To those who are really desirous of knowing what Christian Science is, and of learning about it at first hand, Dr. Tutt's lecture at the Town Hall, Winchester, next Tuesday evening should afford an excellent opportunity.

CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS UNITED

At a special meeting of the members of First Church of Christ, Scientists, of Winchester, held last Monday evening, resolutions strongly disapproving and repudiating the action of the Christian Science Board of Trustees in entering upon legal proceedings against the Directors of the Mother Church over a question of authority, and warmly upholding the latter body, were adopted. Local Christian Scientists are unanimous in deploring the course taken by the Trustees in turning from The Manual, which contains the governing bylaws of the church to civil courts for the settlement of a denominational controversy.

WILLIAM PARKMAN LADIES' NIGHT

The annual ladies' night of William Parkman Lodge, A. F. & A. M., occurred on Friday evening in the Town Hall, with an attendance of about 100 members and ladies, together with invited guests. The affair as usual was one of the social events of the season.

As on last year, the program for the evening was in the general form of a pop concert. A hundred tables spread over the floor of the hall, beneath the balconies and in the small hall, were used by the guests for refreshments, while the centre of the main hall was left clear for dancing.

The decorations were again patriotic. Flags were everywhere, from stage to entrance, the big service flag and the handsome silk flag of the Lodge being given prominent positions on the stage. William Parkman's service flag has to date 30 stars. Flags of our allies were hung from the balconies and side walls, and in the centre of the hall, high against the ceiling, a festoon of large flags hid hundreds of small balloons, which were released just before the close of the program as the party was singing the "Star Spangled Banner," making a most effective feature. The tables were decorated with cut flowers, and each had a small balloon floating above it, held fast by its anchorage in the centre of the cloth.

The entertainment included songs by Miss Molly Mildram exhibitions of modern and fancy costume dancing by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Page of Medford, a dramatic sketch by the Pendelton sisters of "The Follies" company, songs and ballads by a colored male quartet, instrumental music by a colored orchestra. The dancing alternated with the entertainment program numbers.

The committee in charge included William H. Bowe, chairman; Vincent Farnsworth, George B. Hayward, Claude M. Crafts, Charles W. Morrill, William R. Moorhouse, H. J. Saabye, C. B. Bird, E. F. Boyd, E. S. Foster and G. H. Lochman. Mr. Vincent Farnsworth had charge of the seating and table arrangements.

Much interest is being shown by all participants and the debate promises to be a good one. This will be the second debate between the two classes the first one being held about a month ago. The subject of that debate was as follows: "Resolved, That Immigration to the United States should be prohibited a period of at least three years." Prominent socially in this and surrounding places, her death will be greatly mourned by many friends.

THE WINCHESTER STAR DEMONSTRATION HOME GARDEN

Conducted by

MRS. ALONZO F. WOODSIDE, 30 Lebanon Street

Co-operating with the

Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture and Home Economics

In order that the gardeners of this town may have access to reliable and timely information on gardening this season, the Winchester STAR is going to cooperate with the Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture and Home Economics. Each week we shall print an article on some timely phase of gardening to be furnished us by the County Bureau in connection with our garden column. Mrs. Woodside will conduct for us a demonstration home garden in connection with her own farming operations, and we feel that we have been extremely fortunate in securing the services of Mrs. Woodside for this work. This garden will be 25 feet square, it will be conducted in a practical manner and will supplement the weekly garden articles by teaching the home gardeners by demonstration the correct and most practical methods of gardening.

A bulletin board to be placed near the garden will also contain weekly reports on the progress of the garden together with timely garden instruction. In connection with the garden article, there will be a garden question box. All questions concerning gardening which are sent to the STAR will be answered the following week, so far as space will permit, by the Home Garden Agent of the County Bureau.

There will be at the STAR Office, next week for free distribution, a bulletin on home gardening issued by the Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture and Home Economics. This bulletin contains a suggestive plan for a garden 25 feet square and also gives practical pointers on gardening practices.

In choosing varieties for the home garden the greatest attention should be paid to their quality. One should choose the varieties which are liked best by his family. Choose the old stand-bys rather than some newly advertised specialty. Buy the best seeds obtainable and get them early.

The following varieties are well suited for the home garden:

Pole beans (shell)—Carmine Horticultural Pole beans (snap and shell)—Kentucky Wonder

BASE BALL PROSPECTS

During the past week the base ball candidates have been busy at Manchester Field. The team this year is captained by Frank Vallely and managed by Laurence Curtis. Coach Schuster is being assisted for the time by Mr Butters. The most promising candidates are Raymer and Captain Vallely, yast years veterans, Mathews, Fairey, Eldredge and Purrington. Others out are French, Riddle, Chapman, Hatch, Ramsey, Phelps, Gilotti, Cullen and Flaherty. Other candidates are expected out shortly. Although it is rather early in the season to judge it seems as if there was a lot of good material that only needs practice to get into shape. The team is indeed fortunate in its pitchers, having Clinton Raynor, last year's twirler, back in fine form. It is expected that Dave Meskell who was behind the bat last year will soon be in his old place, thus filling a long felt want.

WINCHESTER ICE GOES UP FIVE CENTS

Federal statistics show that since 1913 food has advanced 85 per cent, fuel 53 per cent, clothing 106 per cent, and other things of ordinary use in proportion. We are not surprised therefore to learn that ice is to be advanced on April 7th. Fortunately, the advance is very slight—5c per hundred pounds.

As we recall it, a few years ago when distributors in all the near by cities increased their prices, our local company stated in the papers that they would not do so as long as they had a ton of ice left, and they kept to their word.

Their intent now is to supply the hospitals, both of Winchester and Woburn, at last season's prices, for which we commend them.

By winning all four points on Tuesday night team J captured third prize in the tournament, it having now completed its schedule of games and no other team following being able to reach it. Teams I and E, in first and second places, have still matches to roll, and as but two points separate them, these prizes are in doubt. Should team E lose all four points in its last match, it will tie with team J. Other matches rolled Tuesday evening did not affect the standing of the teams engaged. Richburg was high roller. He made a total of 314 and a single of 130. TELLS OF EXEPERIENCES

Winchester Girl Gives Interesting Account of War's Cripples

Miss Estelle Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George B Davis of Boston, until recently of this town, gives some interesting facts noted in her work among the wounded soldiers at Serany, France. Miss Davis has recently returned. Her work was in occupational therapy. She was a member of the first class to graduate from the Boston School of Occupational Therapy, then in the Franklin Union. The object of this new branch of hospital work is to give the soldiers something to do during the long and tedious period of convalescence and to prove to the maimed that they can be useful and self-supporting. The workers teach the men woodworking, painting, molding, weaving, knitting, basket work, etc.

"It was marvelous to see how it cheered the men up" declares Miss Davis. "Just before I left a man who had lost both arms and was, O' fearfully blue and discouraged, was taken up by one of our workers. The day I left he was painting away in a workshop with a brush strapped to his arm stump, doing really well and so delighted to find he could do something.

That is just a typical case. There have been ever so many men who wouldn't have gotten well at all without the mental stimulus of an occupation. You can't imagine what it meant to them.

Of course we weren't trying to teach them a trade with which to earn their living. There wasn't time in the hospitals. What we tried to do was to amuse them and help them back to self-reliance.

When we first went over the doctors and nurses didn't know what to make of us. They considered us the worst kind of fifth wheel and evidently were afraid we'd be in the way. But when they saw how the convalescent men cheered up over the things we taught them they changed their minds. The head nurse at our hospital said that for her part she could never do enough for an occupational worker. The others seemed to feel the same way.

I went over in October and shortly after landing was attached to Base Hospital 8, the New York unit, at Savenay in Brittany. All of us reconstruction workers were given rank as nurses' helpers. For a long time we were general utility workers, doing anything that there was no one else about to do. For my part I made plaster of paris bandages for a long time.

One of our troubles was supplies. We hadn't any money and nothing was sent to us at first. Many of the girls brought woodworking tools and other simple bits of apparatus in their trunks. Our supply department was the salvage heap. Of course, in every hospital there are countless things thrown away. We would go rummaging about in the rubbish and find all sorts of things we could use.

Old tins were exceedingly handy. The men could do lots of things with them. Then there were the wrappings in which the Red Cross did up the bandages. They were made into bags. Another source of supply the selvage edges on the great rolls of crinoline used in the hospital. We would tear them off, dye them and give them to the men to weave into things.

The courage of the men was something indescribable. I can't tell you any more about it than is already known. I don't believe there is a coward in the American Army. Sometimes, after a day in the wards I used to wonder how men could bear such things. Most of them, even the worst wounded, were joking and telling stories. They were wonderful.

They were extremely proud of their wounds. I remember a negro from New Orleans, who worked in my shop His hand had been badly wounded, but was all healed. However, he insisted on keeping a huge bandage on it. One day I asked him why.

'O miss,' he grinned. 'Ah just nacherly must have some kind o' bandage to show my gal back home. If Ah don't preserve dis yer bandage Ah'll find her out a'walking with some no-count nigger on crutches. Ah just gotta make a showin'.

So every day he took off his bandage and worked until night. Then I did it up nicely and impressively, and back he went to the hospital. I hope he was able to keep it up until he reached home."

On her way back home Miss Davis was treated to a little extra excitement. A depth bomb on the ship exploded, and for a time it was believed that the vessel had been torpedoed.

Miss Davis, by the way, won't be Miss Davis much longer. She is engaged to Maj. Theodore W. Sill of the Chemical Warfare Service, a Princeton man, who comes from East Orange, N. J.

W. H. S. NOTES

The championship of the Boy's Inter-Class Basket Ball league has been awarded to the seniors, who have not been defeated once. The freshman team has surprised many students, finishing second, one of their members having won his varsity letter and three of them have played regularly on the Varsity second team.

The final standing:

Team	Won	Lost
Seniors	5	0
Freshmen	3	2
Sophomores	1	4

It is hoped by the students that an Inter-Class Base Ball league will be formed. It would produce much interest and much exercise to those who would not play otherwise.

The Junior Girls' defeated the Freshmen 23 18. This makes one each for both teams and a play-off will probably be arranged.

HOLLIS ST. THEATRE

A most delightful and unusual evening's entertainment is being given by that distinguished artist, Mr. George Arliss, at the Hollis Street Theatre, where he will begin the last two weeks of an extremely successful engagement. Mr. Arliss is a great favorite with Boston playgoers. The company supporting Mr. Arliss is one of excellent merit. Mr. Merivale has roles in both plays, for besides playing the Voice, he plays the husband of the indolent woman brought out of her mollusery by her brother, a role most admirably portrayed by Miss Viva Birket. Elsie Mackay, who is the dainty governess in "The Molluse" and "Laura" in "A Well-Remembered Voice" plays both roles charmingly, and Mrs. Arliss is especially well placed in the role of the mother in "A Well-Remembered Voice." The two "bits" in the Barrie playet, which is most unusual, yet wirtten with all the delicacy and whimsy for which the author is noted. are played by George Wright, Jr., and Harry Maitland. The settings are admirable.

Matinees will be given on Wednesday and on Saturday.

Remember the date—April 5, and be at the Town Hall. Tech Glee Club Concert.

The Crusader's Club and the Girl's Missionary Society of the First Congregational Church are to present "Alice Through the Postal Card" at the church vestry on Saturday afternoon, April 12th.

With the co-operation of the Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture and Home Economics the STAR has taken up the matter of home gardening, and from this week on will publish each week an interesting article pertaining to home gardens. To carry out the idea of furnishing useful and instructive information to Winchester gardeners, a local garden has been selected to be known as the Winchester Demonstration Home Garden, which will be featured as it develops. Thus as this garden meets the ordinary difficulties of this section, it may be assumed that other gardens in Winchester are experiencing like difficulties, and recommendations and suggestions for improvement will apply to matters which are interesting all Winchester gardeners. The Winchester garden will be conducted by Mrs. Alonzo F. Woodside of 30 Lebanon street and will be marked with a bulleten board containing weekly reports of ... progress and ... timely instruction. There is still much need of home gardening. Many who have conducted war gardens are still interested in continuing them; others who had bad luck with their venture are undecided whether to continue or not. It is with the idea of stimulating interest and furnishing instructive and satisfying results that this department will be conducted. The first instalment will be found in this issue.

Capital and labor have again locked horns in Winchester. This time it is serious not a friendly argument as at our annual town meeting, with the foregoing conclusion that both parties are willing and ready to make a satisfactory adjustment. The local carpenters, in asking for a wage of 80 cents an hour, have gone beyond the limit, according to the master builders. With little or no work outside of repairs and some small construction the contractors state that they may as well close up shop, so to speak, as the raise cannot be met with continued orders. Therefore, they have assumed the attitude that they may as well definitely state that they will take no work in Winchester. The carpenters on the other hand claim that they are not making enough to live on. What the outcome will be is problematical. There appear signs however, all over the country that Capital is reaching the limit of its concessions. With government notes yielding five per cent. interest and certain tax exemptions, men of means are hesitating to embark in further business enterprises where the return of even a fraction of that amount is open to question. In the present controversy it looks as though the residents are backing the contractors. A peculiar feature of the situation is that the wage scale varies in all of the suburban places and in Boston

The following letter was received from Mr. Charles F. Dutch, declining the nomination as Town Counsel of Winchester for the ensuing year:

March 29, 1919.

Board of Selectmen,
Town Hall,
Winchester, Massachusetts.
Dear Sirs:

I duly received your letter of March 26th, notifying me that at a meeting of the Board, held March 24th, I was nominated by a vote of four to one for the position as Town Counsel for the ensuing year on the usual terms, and asking whether I would accept the position.

I have delayed a negative reply in order to give full consideration, not only to your request for this service, but also, to urgings by telegrams and letters from others whose opinions and desires likewise command thoughtful respect.

As I have previously served the Town as its Counsel for six years and as I am just about to return to my office for general practice after six months duty here on war work, I feel that I am justified in declining to assume the burdensome and time-consuming services properly required under the salary. I am urged to accept your nomination because of numerous complicated court and commission cases pending of which I became especially familiar, and it is pointed out that for this knowledge and familiarity the Town has already made payments which it should not have to make to a new man. So far as these matters are concerned, it is not necessary that I should accept your nomination; I shall gladly be available to such extent, if any, as your honorable Board desires.

I therefore have to reply that I cannot accept your nomination. I do not underestimate the potential importance of the position as such in the welfare of the Town, and I appreciate very sincerely the honor involved in the preliminary vote of your Board.

Very respectfully yours,
(Signed) Charles F. Dutch.

After accepting Mr. Dutch's resignation the Board unanimously appointed under suspension of its rules, Mr. Ralph E. Joslin, as Town Counsel of Winchester, for the year ending April 1, 1920.

A letter was received from the Sealer of Weights and Measures stating that in accordance with word from the Commissioner of Standards, the Board may appoint a Measurer of Grain annually. Acting in accordance with this letter the Board appointed Mr. Maurice Dineen a Measurer of Grain for the year ending April 1, 1920.

A letter was received from the Sealer of Weights and Measures enclosing a letter from the Department of Standards in regard to the appointment of Public Weighers. As there is some doubt as to whether Public Weighers can be appointed, the Board decided not to appoint any one Public Weigher.

The report of the Superintendent of Streets for the week ending March 29, was received and ordered filed.

The Board voted to authorize the Superintendent of Streets to purchase a new Ford car for the Highway Department from E. Teel & Company of Medford.

Word was received from the Superintendent of Streets that the work of raising the barn on Stone lot and the sloping of the banks where the foundation walls were, was completed.

Mr. Emerson reported that he had seen Mr. Dean, Chief Engineer of the State Highway Department in regard to getting some of the material which will be taken from Cambridge street by the State Highway Department when that street is relocated. Mr. Emerson stated that Mr. Dean at the present time was unable to tell whether or not the State Highway Department would need all the material.

It was decided to purchase a ton of Lehigh Valley egg coal for the Town Hall Building, in order that this type of coal might be tried out. Mr. Simonds stated that two tons of this coal had already been bought for the Fire and Police Building, for experimental purposes.

Mr. William L. Cummings presented a petition to the Board signed by himself and several others, all residents of Hancock street, calling the Board's attention to the poor condition of Hancock street, and urging that the matter be given early attention, and that steps be taken at once to put the street into proper condition. This matter was referred to the Highway Committee for report.

A letter was received from the Town Engineer in regard to the matter of a sidewalk on Forest street, to which he called the attention of the Board a week or so ago. The Town Engineer states that he has taken the matter up with Mr. Kendall, County Engineer and that Mr. Kendall is of the opinion that it is advisable to start a new petition for changes in lines particularly at property of John Park and property of Mr Hinds. Along with this letter was a letter which the Town Engineer received from Mr. Kendall and also a form of petition for the widening of Forest street The Board signed the petition and it was ordered sent to the Middlesex County Commissioners and ask them whether they would be willing to share the expense.

A letter was received from Mr. Ernest Keepers, 117 Church street, calling the attention of the Board to the deplorable condition of the sidewalk in front of his house at 117 Church street. This matter was referred to the Town Engineer for an estimate and report.

The meeting adjourned at 11.25 p. m.

George S F. Bartlett,
Clerk of Selectmen.

ROLL-OFF A SOCIAL EVENT

The roll-off for the first prize in the mixed bowling tournament at the Calumet club, which took place on Wednesday night between teams 3 and 9, proved one of the social events of the week, there being a large and most enthusiastic attendance. The event had been anticipated with much interest ever since the tournament closed and these teams finished with 30 points each on the winning side, and although the notice of the roll-off was short the alleys were thronged with friends of the bowlers.

Team 3 won the tournament. The match was close throughout the first string and team 9 won by the margin of its handicap, the two teams finishing with three pins difference on flat rolling. Team 3 struck its gait in the second and rolled one of the best strings of the season, making 605 flat and thus took the totals by 15 pins.

Mrs. S. E. Newman and Mrs. E. Tucker were high for the ladies with totals of 177 each. Mrs. Newman got the best single with 97, and Mrs. Tucker and Mrs. Fausey each made strings of 92. Mrs, Goddard got a total of 166 and Miss Giles and Mrs. Fausey 161. Mr. Newman led the gentlemen with a total of 217 on a string of 131. Mr. Fausey got a single of 115 and Mr. Goddard 114.

Bells, horns and noise makers were present in quantity, adding to the fun and excitement. Teams 9, known as the "Rhode Island Reds," was costumed for the contest in easter finery and clown suits while team 3, known as the "Farmers," wore equally attractive country attire. The make-ups were complete, even to the faces, and the bowlers were effectively disguised.

The scores follows:

K. OF C. NOTES

Our chaplain, Reverend Nathaniel J. Merritt, announces, through the officers of the council, that a communion breakfast will be held in the council rooms on Palm Sunday, after the 8.30 mass. A prominent speaker will address the members on an interesting topic. Brother Harry Donovan has charge of arrangements. All brothers are requested to perform their duty and attend this event.

A smoke talk will be held Thursday evening, April 10th, as a get-together affair. The speakers will be K. of C. men who have seen service in France. The officers of the council are anxious to make this a success. Bring your friend and neighbor, it will be interesting and give us more knowledge of what our boys went through.

Ernest C. Mathews has embarked for the States and expects to arrive in New York this week. Welcome home "Ernie."

Sergt. George F. LeDuc, Jr., is at Bordeaux, awaiting transportation across the "pond."

James W. Haggerty, who always has the interest of the council at heart, expects to sail from France very soon. It can't come to quick for the boys Jimmy.

It is now Sergeant Edward G. Boyle who is still in France. He informs us that his job in the army is pretty soft and he doesn't mind whether it is June or December when he severs his connection with Uncle Sam.

Brother Daniel Hanlon tells us that the motor cars in England are on the average a better finished product than the autos in the States. The manufacturers over there do not go in for quantity production but hold to quality.

Brother Charles McGuerty, who bears evidence of having seen hard fighting in battle in France, still maintains the opinion of all our members as to the qualities of our soldier boys who went across to beat the Hun.

Brother Michael Flaherty informs us that after three weeks of burning midnight oil he was able to get his rating. Someone asked us if the brother heard the song about the "Navy Brought them Over and the Navy will Bring them Back."

Brother Michael Miskell believes we are steering the right course and "periscopes" that a yeoman in the navy these days is doing his share of work. We need help too, Michael.

Brother Will Rogers "parcel posted" to a brother his token that he misplaced last week.

Brother McDonald of Manchester Council was a visitor Sunday, and as he resides in town now, we are glad to welcome him in the council.

Brother Joseph Scott made quite an impression, and his little talk to some of the members was appreciated.

Our warden, "Gene" sure can be depended upon when it comes to producing the goods. His work showed thoroughness in all details.

It helps us considerable when D. G. K. is on the job as we depend upon his judgment which has always worked out for the best interest of all

The Membership Committee announces that there is quite a number of applications filed but wishes the members to help them out a bit more.

LETTER FROM ARTHUR LLOYD

The following letter from Private Arthur Lloyd will doubtless prove of interest to his friends:

Canterets, Pyrennes,
March 6, 1919.

Dear Mother:

Well, here I am once more on a furlough, but this time it is a much nicer place every way. We are up in the mountains where the scenery is wonderful. The mountains are capped with snow, but we are in a small valley.

We left Angers at 12.15 midnight, the second, and went to Paris. Arrived in Paris at seven-thirty a. m. We spent the whole of Sunday in Paris, while there we visited the Palace of Justice, once owned by King Louis the ninth; the Notre Dame church; the Effel Tower; the Ferris wheel. I was on the Ferris wheel. The trip takes ten minutes and it goes up in the air about 250 feet. Enclosed is a picture of the wheel. The cars are all enclosed and each car holds about ten people. We visited the Y. M. C. A. which is a grand place and we also took a walk around the high-toned part of the city, where all the swells promenade. Believe me, it is some city and has the prettiest girls I ever saw. But give me a girl in the U. S.

We left Paris on Sunday night at 7.25 and went to Bordeaux, arrived there at 6:50. Had breakfast at Red Cross Canteen and left there at 8.45. We got to Lourdes where we had to change for Canterets and was told we would have to stay over all night. So we did. The A. P. M. or assistant Provost Marshal, who is the American police officer of the town showed us to a hotel where we had supper. For supper we had soup, mashed "spuds," steak, eggs, coffee and bread, and for dessert we had an orange. We left there at eight the next morning and arrived here at 9.30 a. m., yesterday. I took a trip up to the bridge of Spain. It is over a big water fall or a cascade. Four other fellows and I rode up on mule back. It took about two hours each way. When we got up quite a ways we plowed through snow about two feet deep. The scenery around here is wonderful.

I attended the funeral of one of the Y. M. C. A. girls this morning. She died with pneumonia. It was very sad.

They had all the nurses, girls, commissioned officers, firing squad and a band. The body was carried in an automobile to the graveyard.

I forgot to tell you that while in Paris I met George Barbaro, who is with the Peace Commission. He took us around town in the afternoon. After we left him we took the subway to the station where we were to meet the rest of the boys. He got off at the wrong station and we only had ten minutes before we were to meet them so we took a taxi.

I have had a cold and lost my voice for a few days but it is coming back now, otherwise I am fine Will close now and write again soon.

With love,
Arthur

A fund of $5000 was raised for aviators; 16728 knitted articles and 540 kits were supplied them. $8000 was raised for the 301st infantry of the 26th Division.

According to the report, assistance was given in a great many, and great variety of ways too numerous to mention here in detail, but even this small part, may prove of interest to our branch of 287 members, to prove how valuable the year's work has been.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE LEAGUE

At the regular meeting of the Winchester Equal Suffrage League on Wednesday, at the home of Mrs. Moorehouse, Mrs. Alonzo F. Woodside spoke on "Gardens and Gods Out of Doors," emphasizing the need and value of gardening and life in the open, from various standpoints

Gardening for women, she said, is not a new idea as many seem to think; it originated in the First Garden which Adam was told to "dress and keep," and Eve was given to him as his helper. While the record of her activities is incomplete it is reasonable to believe that as his assistant, she did more than merely "help gather the fruit" While Mrs. Woodside spoke especially on the growing of vegetables, she held that it would be most unfortunate to let the war emergency reduce the real garden, defined as "A place where herbs, fruits, flowers and vegetables are cultivated" to merely a patch of vegetables in the back yard—or some other yard. While many factors influence our efforts, in gardening as in every other undertaking, our success or failure may in large measure be changed to our attitude toward the work, and if gardens today do not give us the same inspiration and happiness that they did in the days of old it is not the fault of the gardens.

At the close of the meeting the following nomination committee was elected:

Mrs. Norris
Mrs. Chas. Dutch
Mrs. W. R. Moorehouse

INTERESTING ASSEMBLY PERIOD

Tuesday in the Assembly hall, the period was given over to the Tech Glee Club committee and Mr. Grant. Theodore Clifton spoke on the obligations of the students in supporting the concert and Mr. Curtis succeeded in arousing a good deal of enthusiasm and spirit when he added a few remarks. The concert is of benefit to every member of the school as the proceeds are to be divided equally among the boy's and girls' athletic associations, and the high school paper, the Recorder. At a call for volunteers to dispose of the remaining tickets, over three quarters of the hall rose instantly. The concert is to take place Saturday evening, April 5, in the Town Hall. The committees are as follows:

G. A. A.
Kathleen Fairfield, chairman
Brenda Bond
Thelma Trott
Isabel Beggs

B. A. A.
Theodore Clifton, chairman
Clinton Raynor
Evander French
David Skinner

Recorded

Room 13, Leland Clifton
Room 14, Brenda Bond
Room 21, Ralph Emerson
Room 22, Elizabeth Stearns
Room 23, Elaine Castle
Room 24, Dorothy Hammond
Room 32, Jack Watters.

At the close of the Glee Club rally, Mr. Grant held another one of his now famous auction sales. The idea is to sell records which will be used in the coming musical appreciation and memory concert. The person who buys the records also agrees to loan them to the management until after the concert. Mr. Grant had no difficulty in disposing of the eleven records he had to sell. As an added attraction Mr. Grant promised to tell a short story after he sold a batch of five and favored the school with two very funny recitations.

PRIZE LETTER CONTEST

ARLINGTON GAS LIGHT COMPANY

Second Prize

Manager Arlington Gas Light Co.

Dear Sir:

I prefer gas exclusively as a year round fuel because I have proved that the problem of running a family, as many of us are now obliged to do without a maid, is made easy because of the saving in time and strength, not to mention money, in using gas instead of coal. Of course there is no question of the advantage of gas appliances in the summer but if properly managed the same can be said of their use in winter. Since a gas heater was installed nearly a year ago I have not once used my coal range although my kitchen is not otherwise heated. Any practical person will realize what this means in work saving.

In cold weather when I come down in the morning, in a rush, of course, I light all the burners of the gas range and also the gas heater. In one minute water from the heater runs warm and in five minutes the kitchen is warm and water is flowing hot in the bath room for the family use, while breakfast is prepared in incredibly short time on the range, the burners being turned off and on as needed. There are no trips to the cellar for fuel and no ashes to take care of. This last means a money saving where a man is hired to carry out ashes by the barrel. On wash day there is no hurrying up in the morning to urge on the coal fire, just touch a match to the heater and your kitchen will rejoice in water hotter than ever came from a kitchen range.

When through with the kitchen duties there is no further care until time to light up again for the next seance, and if one is going out there is a very comfortable feeling that there is no fire in the house short of the furnace in winter and none at all in summer, a condition especially desirable where there are children.

So far I have explained my preference for gas on the basis of using no coal at all in the kitchen, this applying to the old fashioned kitchen without other heat, but before I banished coal altogether I found it much more economical and time saving for any sort of quick cooking to use the gas range rather than to bring up the coal fire for any short job.

As to expense the gas bill may seem some what high each month on the face of it, but in winter using gas for both kitchen heat and cooking, the expense per month has been about that of a half ton of coal which is a decided money saving; while in summer the amount is considerably less.

Altogether my family is enthusiastic on the subject of gas appliances, since they can now have any amount of hot water for any purpose at a few moments notice, and as for me I am wondering what do to with a bin full of kitchen coal laid in before being sure of the success of my experiment

WILL STAMP OUT CRIME IN MIDDLESEX COUNTY

"The way of the transgressor is hard," runs the old saying and never was its truth better demonstrated than during the session of the Superior Criminal court which has just closed. Some time ago, when a wave of crime started in Middlesex County, District Attorney Nathan A. Tufts announced that he intended to stamp it out by asking for long sentences for all offenders caught by the police. It is rather significant that since Judge Dubuque, who presided at the session, began to give terms in State's prison to various young men who, by means of revolvers and clubs, relieved citizens of the county of their valuables, but one case of highway robbery has occurred.

Some of the robbery cases that came before the court and the sentences given the offenders, were as follows:

Francis McGovern and Joseph F. Mulgeary figured in two daring hold-ups. Both jobs netted them but $100 and they got 10 to 12 years in State's prison. On Sunday evening, February 23, they went into the store of Edward Kazzangian, in Arlington, covered him with a revolver and then beat him up with a club. During the struggle, a shot was fired but did not hit Kazzangian. They were frightened away and got no money. On the night of January 22, McGovern and Mulgeary, with James A. Hart, Jr., held up and robbed Elias Waian one of the proprietors of the Avenue Spa, North Cambridge. They got $100 from Waian. During the hold-up, Waian was struck on the head with the butt of a revolver and was so badly injured that he spent several weeks in the hospital. Hart pleaded guilty and was sent to the Conord Reformatory for his part in the robbery.

On the night of March 4, George W. Harding and Edwin W. J. Schacht attempted to hold up and rob Samuel Cooper of Everett. Cooper's cries for help made the would-be robbers take to their heels. Harding was given five years and a day in the Concord Reformatory and Schacht was given an indefinite sentence at the same institution.

Harry J. Richard was given five years and a day at the Concord Reformatory for snatching the handbag of Eva D. Lewis at Lowell on January 20. The handbag contained one dollar in change.

Louis Rose was given five years and a day in the Concord Reformatory for robbing William F. Templain a soldier, of $35 at Malden. Another man who took part in the robbery is still at large.

Antonio Morocco was given 8 to 10 years, Antonio Delgreso was given 10 to 12 years and Piettro DiZazzo was given 12 to 15 years in State's prison for three hold-ups which netted them $14 in money, a gold watch and a bunch of promissory notes. On January 31, at Winchester, they held up and robbed George Monroe of $2. On the same night they took $12 from Martin J. Caulfield, at Winchester. On February 5, they took a gold watch and a bunch of promissory notes from Carl A. Bergholtz at Stoneham.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

Friday next, April 11, the annual visit to the Home for the Aged will be made by the Winchester Union and plans are being made for a very interesting program of music and other features including refreshments and a social time. In fact it is to be a real party with a brief business session at three o'clock, as it is the regular monthly meeting. It is hoped there may be a good attendance of members and friends.

Tuesday at the Tremont Street M. E. Church, Boston, were held services in memory of Mrs. Katharine Lent Stevenson, twenty years the president of the Massachusetts W. C. T. U. and long identified with the temperance reform both here and elsewhere. Mrs. Gleason, her successor, was one of those who took part in the services, giving honor to her for her untiring devotion to the cause.

Mrs. Stevenson had not been well for some time and had been obliged to cancel some of her speaking appointments which she had made in behalf of the Million Dollar Campaign of the National W. C. T. U. but her death was very unexpected at the last. She was at the home of a favorite niece in Des Moines, Iowa, when the end came. She had often said she hoped she might be spared a long period of helplessness so her many friends may be glad that she passed quickly from this life to that better life which awaited her. Her long service in the white ribbon army will be remembered long and we rejoice that she lived to see prohibition for which she battled so royally, written into the constitution of the United States.

"TOMMY'S WIFE"

The Winchester Girl Scouts, troop 1, gave a play last Thursday evening, March 27, in Metcalf Hall. The farce was "Tommy's Wife," the scene being laid in an art studio where a wealthy woman desired to have her daughter's portrait painted, on the condition that Tommy, the painter, be married. Rose, Tommy's sister, consents to pose as his wife for a few hours each day. A lot of mix ups occur that keep the audience laughing.

The cast included: Mary Joslin, Katharine Pike, Florence Barton, Mary Louise Davis, Elizabeth Brown, Elsie Solis, Priscilla Lombard and Priscilla Tilden.

The play was under the direction of Mrs. Everett Farmer and the orchestra and Glee Club of troop 1, furnished the music. The Girls' Glee Club, which sang between the acts included Misses Muriel North, Dorothy Ordway and Helen Raynor, sopranos; Misses Rebecca Barrett, Rosamond Lefavour and Dorothy Riddle second sopranos; Misses Kathleen Case and Madeline Eastwick, altos. Mrs. William Lefavour was the director. The Scouts Orchestra comprised Misses Rebecca Barrett, Frances Hill, Dorothy Lewis, Dorothy Ordway, Muriel North and Rosamond Lefavour. Miss Kathleen Case was the director of the orchestra.

A candy sale was held between acts and dancing followed. The proceeds amounted to $123.00 and are for the benefit of troop 1, captained by Miss Eugenia Parker.

Miss Eugenia Parker, had general charge of the arrangements of the affair. Mrs. Myron Davis, lieutenant of troop 1, was stage and property manager, assisted by Miss Ruth Peck and Hazel Paine. Miss Harret Smith was business manager, assisted by Miss Mildred Lewis.

COPLEY REPERTORY THEATRE

For many years "The Middleman" has remained the most popular of Henry Arthur Jones's dramas. It is a play of human impulses and frailties, a play that touches our sympathies because of its faithful representation of man's conduct towards man, and above all it is a play of strong dramatic scenes and contrasts.

"The Middleman" will be seen next week at the Copley Repertory Theatre. The cast will include the full strength of the Henry Jewett Players with Mr. Wingfield as Cyrus Blenkarn. Popular matinees are given Tuesday and Thursday, with the highest price seats at $1.00.

Don't forget the date—April 5, 1919.

BUT THERE ARE A NUMBER of subscribers who overlook their telephone bills, who neglect to pay them within the reasonable specified time, and the cost of collecting these accounts is great—probably two or three times as great as that involved in collecting all the accounts that are paid within the desired period.

THE EFFORT involved in collecting overdue accounts would be saved if all accounts were paid within a reasonable time, and, might better be devoted to other work of value to the community's telephone service.

MUSIC MEMORY CONTEST

Plans to Stimulate Memory Helps

The plans for getting more familiar with the contest numbers, as published in last week's STAR, helped many children to progress quickly. They were as follows: First, to listen attentively while the music is being played in school. Second, to take advantage of any facilities that the home or neighborhood offers, such as Victrolas, Piano Players, Musical instrumentts, etc. Third, to memorize the names of the selections together with those of the composers,—that is connecting the two. Thus a child will at once associate the name "Humoresque" with Dvorak or "Cairtnia" with Raff. This part of the work may be done without hearing the music and will make it easier for the child to connect the music itself with its name and composer—an important factor in the contest.

Day by day the parents are becoming more and more enthusiastic about Mr. Grant's efforts to bring to the children of Winchester such splendid musical training. Heretofore this has only been possible by constant attention to practicing, and by frequent attendance at concerts.

All these advantages are now obtainable by having the children take a lively interest in this contest. The children enjoy it not only because they like the music but because they know the successful ones are going to win fine prizes.

LIEUT. WOOLLEY HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Woolley and son James, of Fells road returned Saturday evening from Garden City, Long Island, and were accompanied by their eldest son, Lieut. Charles H. Woolley who recently arrived on the Plattsburg, from France. Lieut. Woolley commanded the 49th Aero Squadron and won unusual distinction on the front. He went to France as an American ambulance driver two years ago, and transferred to air service three months later. Lieut. Woolley has two German planes officially to his credit. He has been in all of the American offensives and flew fast French machines. His squadron pays him highest tribute. He was noted at the front as being one of the most daring and fearless of aviators, and at the same time was most watchful of his squadron, never leaving a man in a perilous position, guarding the lives and safety of his men in the air as carefully as an officer on land protects his soldiers. He held the love and respect of his squadron throughout his leadership. Lieutenant Woolley was within six days of his promotion to Captain when the armistice was signed.

MYSTIC NOT GOOD FOR BATHING

Editor of the Star:

At the last session of the Annual Town Meeting I was conspicuous by my absence, or in other words I didn't participate in the discussion relative to the problem of ascertaining definitely a hygenic bathing place where our present and future generations of this town could learn to swim.

From what I have read in the STAR I believe the electorate were fully convinced after listening to the evidence that was submitted for their approval or disapproval, that Wedge pond at the present time isn't a hygenic place to bathe in.

I was astonished to hear that the voters were satisfied with the poor makeshift of the Mystic lake. In my opinion Mystic lake is not a hygenic place to bathe in. Practically all the surface drainage water from the east side of the town enters the Aberjona river and empties into Mystic lake, and with the exception of a few streets, all the surface drainage water in the west side finds its way to Mystic lake, to say nothing of all the other filthy tributaries that some of us are so familiar with. A few years ago bathing was prohibited in Mystic lake. The State Board of Health informs us that it is a much better place to bathe than Wedge pond.

Now Mr. Editor, I would like to ascertain if the conditions that exist at Mystic lake at the present time are not just exactly what they were when bathing was prohibited. Are the members of the present State Board of Health the same gentlemen who prohibited bathing in Mystic lake a few years ago? Physicians, you know are like juries—they disagree when they can't see. But believe me, I can see that Mystic lake is only fit for skating, canoeing and ice boating.

We have playgrounds galore. Now let us solve the bathing problem. It can be accomplished it seems to me by some of our high priced help, and remember that we have a far more difficult problem to solve in the near future, namely, the housing problem.

In conclusion, several years ago Mystic lake abounded with beautiful white and yellow lillies. What is the cause that they don't bloom there in the good old summer time. The only pond that I know of where the lillies bloom is Winter pond. Why—because there is no pollution from filthy tributaries.

We are warned by the medical fraternity to avoid crowds and to watch out for sneezers, coughers and expectorators. It thus follows that we must be careful where we allow our children to bathe. A few years past we were not allowed to harvest ice where we now permit our children to splash.

As space forbids me to delve deeper into this problem, I will now come to a halt. I remain

Very truly yours,
Patrick H. Craughwell

A LECTURE ON

Christian Science

Entitled Christian Science: Its Restorative Ministry, by Dr. John M. Tutt, C. S. B.

Member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

There was a large audience at the Winchester Town Hall on Tuesday evening to greet Dr. John M. Tutt, C. S. B., of Kansas City, Missouri, a teacher, practioner and lecturer on Christian Science on the occasion of his address given under the auspices of the local church. The lecturer has been an active worker in Christian Science for a number of years, and because of his ability in various important capacities, his address here was an event of especial interest, not only to local church members, but a large portion of our residents outside the church, who attended.

Dr. Tutt was introduced by Mr Frank W. Jones, First Reader of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Winchester, as follows:

"Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, through divine inspiration and guidance, formulated the rules and by-laws of The Mother Church, known as The Manual.

"This Manual all Christian Scientists love and cheerfully obey.

"The Manual provides that The Mother Church shall maintain a Board of Lectureship and that each lecture shall contain a true and just reply to public topics condemning Christian Science and shall bear testimony to the facts pertaining to the life of Mrs. Eddy.

"Our Lecturer is a member of this Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts. The lecture is therefore an authorized one.

"It is a pleasure to introduce Dr. John M. Tutt, C. S. B., of Kansas City, Missouri."

Christian Science has come to humanity in response to its cry: "Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me. Restore unto me the joy of thy salvation." It has come to restore health in the place of sickness, righteousness in the place of sin, supply in the place of want, joy in the place of sorrow, understanding in the place of ignorance. Through the restorative ministry of Christian Science multitudes today rejoice in newness of life. These individuals bodily saved and spiritually awakened, are not incompetent, but representative citizens of the communities in which they live—they are your friends, perchance. Many of them were Bible students all are now. Many were Christians all now are striving to be. Many, turned from disease and sin, are restored to health and responsibility. Unquestionably there is a mighty power in this influence which has touched the lives of your fellow citizens and blessed them, which has made bad men good and good men better.

Personal Experience

As one of the many who have returned from going down into the pit, I testify gladly to the power of Christian Science in my own experience. Because of the bias of medical and theological education, I was for many years deprived of the benefits of Christian Science. When my eyes finally were opened, I found health and spiritual awakening I had never known in the old ways of medicine and theology. I then discovered that the growth of Christian Science is due entirely to the fact that it "meets the heart's great need" as no other system has met it. Throughout thirteen years of the study and practice of Christian Science, in proportion to my understanding and application of its divine Principle, I have felt the abiding consciousness of God's presence and power, and have come into an ever enlarging sense of dominion over all that is unlike good. I have experienced healing and have been witness to the healing of many others. These cases include acute and chronic conditions, functional and organic diseases, nervous and mental disorders. I have seen all types of disease and sin healed and their victims restored through spiritual power alone.

My friend, I am aware that the foregoing statement accords to Christian Science a place as a restorative agency, not achieved by any of the prevailing systems of religion and medicine.

Now I do not speak incompetently, nor do I wish to speak impertinently of materia medica. To qualify myself to practice medicine, I studied three years and graduated at a standard medical college. At no place did this course of study rise above matter. The text book which has most to say about health and the way to restore and maintain it, was omitted from the curriculum. The Bible is not a medical college. At no place did supreme authority on cause and effect, the one exhaustive study of man and his Maker is there ignored. The entire tendency of material medicine is away from the spiritual. However much material systems of medicine may infect ordinary religion, and the infection has already deprived the orthodox church of spiritual healing, it cannot be said that religion has affected medicine, which is avowedly unreligious, its practice requiring no Christian qualification.

Christian Science honors and respects that class of physicians whose lives are devoted to the alleviation of suffering, whose interest in mankind is not selfish nor political. To such noble men and women Christian Scientists say: "Let there be no

Brothers we have seen the light and we are sorry we were not able to discern it before now. Brother Glendon says it is about time. We all agree with him.

Our Chaplain Father Merritt, believes all the members of our Council will perform their duty Sunday morning. As the Council has not had a Communion Breakfast for some time, every effort should be made to make it a remembrance.

Brother Bill Leonard says he did not run an information bureau. We know why.

Brother Dan Leahy tells us that he has had the cylinders on the Ford carryall rebored and fitted with oversized pistons. We believe the counter plates a trip but he keeps [illegible]

The carriage was badly damaged.

ANNUAL MEETING

Visiting Nurse Association Elects Officers

The annual meeting of the Winchester Visiting Nurse Association was held at the Calumet Club on Tuesday evening with a large attendance. Mrs James W. Russell, Jr., president of the Association, presided. The usual reports of the Secretary, Mrs. Gardner D. Pond, the Treasurer, Miss M. Alice Mason, and the Trustees were read and accepted, all showing that the organization is meeting with the support it deserves from our residents and that its officers and members are ever active in furthering and improving its service. In addition to the regular reports, a Hospital report was read by Miss Norton, the Superintendent, she speaking of the many activities and difficulties performed and met during the year past.

It was voted to transfer the sum of $1,000 from the association to the hospital account, and Mrs. Harry C. Sanborn, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the list of new officers, which were voted as follows:

President—Mrs. James W. Russell, Jr.

Miss Charlotte Edlefson
Miss Helen Hall
Trustee, 3 years—Mr. Jere Downs

President Russell introduced the speaker of the evening, Dr Richard Smith, who gave a brief but very interesting talk on public health nursing. Dr Smith illustrated the need of considering food, environment and industry in taking up this matter. He contrasted what had been done in the recent war with results in the past, and paid tribute to the visiting nurse as the one important factor in carrying out the work.

The meeting closed at 9.30.

In an address to the Winchester Visiting Nurse Association, on the subject of Public Health Nursing, Dr. Richard Smith of Boston, said in part, that the people of America had been rudely awakened, at the time of the first draft, to the fact that the health of a community is of public concern, when such an alarmingly large percentage of the young men, between the ages of twenty one and thirty-one were rejected, as physically unfit for the army. That the time has come when something must be done to remedy the situation. Investigations are no longer needed, we know enough already to act upon. The underlying principles of public health are proper housing, that is, sufficient air and sunlight in homes, schools and factories. Living wages, so that the family may be properly housed and fed and a division of labor, so that the mother may be able to remain in the home to care for the children. Given these conditions, then, the public health nurse becomes an important factor in raising the health standards of a community. She goes into the home, giving pre natal care (50% of the babies who die during their first year, do so because of lack of that care before birth), seeing to it that the mother is given proper nursing during confinement, instructing the mother how to feed and care for her baby up to the time when the child enters school. She can then cooperate with the school nurse in looking after the children of school age, that they have the proper amount and kind of food, giving attention to the care of the eyes, teeth, posture and breathing so that when the child reaches the age of maturity the physical defects which have been found in such vast numbers may become almost entirely eliminated.

MARK KELLEY

Mark Kelley, one of the town's old and well known residents, passed away at his home on Arthur street early Saturday morning after an illness of three weeks. He was 63 years of age and was a native of County Galway, Ireland.

Mr Kelley had made his home in Winchester for the past [illegible] years. For the past six or seven years he had been retired, but until this time he had been a currier, working in several of the shops in this neighborhood. He married Miss Mary Mitchell of this town, who survives him, together with seven children, Mr. William H Vaye and Mrs Timothy [illegible] of this town, Mrs. James Heggins of Woburn, Miss Delia and Miss Winnifred Kelley, and John and Thomas Kelley also of Winchester. Since the death of his son James, three months ago, Mr. Kelley has shown signs of failing health, and the occurrence contributed to hasten his death.

High Mass of Requiem was celebrated at St. Mary's Church on Monday morning at 9 o'clock, attended by a large gathering of friends and relatives. Rev. John W. H. Corlett officiated and Mrs. James McGrath was the soloist. The pall bearers were Messrs. Patrick Nelson, James Heggins, John McCarron, Patrick Kelley, Mark Kelley and Daniel Reardon. The burial was at Calvary Cemetery.

The Metcalf Union will hold a sociable in Metcalf Hall, this evening, April 11th.

BIG CELEBRATION PLANNED

Winchester will have the biggest celebration in its history to welcome home her boys in service if the plans formulated by the recently appointed town committee are carried out. Everything now awaits on the number of boys coming home. Thus far only 100 of the 600 odd in the service are reported as having arrived home. Until at least a majority are back it is not deemed advisable to hold the celebration.

Boys, relatives and friends will confer great aid to the committee by promptly reporting the arrival home of any one in service. Report may be made either at the Town Hall or Police Station.

The plans outlined call for sports on Manchester Field, a monster parade to be reviewed by the boys, music by two bands at least, entertainment and banquet in the Town Hall and the best display yet of firework on Manchester Field.

At last night's meeting of the committee the following sub-committees were appointed:

Finance Committee: Messrs Wadleigh, Goddard, Kidder.

Decorations Committee: Messrs. Norton, Fitzgerald, Goddard.

Parade Committee: Messrs. Neiley, Tompkins, Laraway, Hinds.

Banquet Committee: Messrs. Willey Newman, Symmes, Metcalf.

Publicity Committee: Messrs. Simonds, Wadleigh, Wilson.

Fireworks Committee: Messrs. Norton Noonan, Barbaro, Abbott.

Music Committee: Messrs. Cox, Abbott, Leonard, Fitzgerald.

Sports Committee: Messrs. Laraway, Goddard Hinds.

Arch Committee: Messrs Johnson, Willey, Hinds.

Speakers Committee: Messrs. Emerson, Metcalf.

Canoe Committee: Mr. Wilson.

The committee is making every endeavor to ascertain when Winchester men will leave Camp Devens for home, as it desires to furnish autos for their transportation. Relatives and friends are requested to notify Mr. Kidder, Mr. Fitzgerald, Mr. Hinds or Mr. Laraway, autos will be sent for them.

THOMAS H. LYNCH

Thomas H. Lynch, 49 years of age, of 6 Grove place, died at the Mass. Gen. Hospital on Saturday of stomach trouble after an illness of but eleven days. He was a native of this town and was well known here. His parents were Andrew and Ellen (Lane) Lynch, and he married Miss Mary Flaherty of this town, who survives him, together with three children. For 23 years he had been employed at the Bacon Felt Mill as a felt hardener. Besides his wife and children he leaves three brothers, Edward and Michael of Woburn and Andrew of this town.

High Mass was celebrated at St. Mary's Church by Rev. John W. H. Corlett on Tuesday morning at nine o'clock. The pall bearers were Messrs. Rockland, John Callahan of this town, and Patrick Flaherty, Patrick Duran and Frank Reed of Woburn. The burial was in Calvary Cemetery.

John Kelley
Hugh A. Stevenson

FELL FROM WHEEL

About six o'clock Tuesday evening, John Carroll of Glenwood avenue was found at the foot of Myopia road in an unconscious condition by J. R. Bentley of Arlington who was passing in his auto on Cambridge street. Carroll had evidently lost control of the bicycle which he was riding down the hill and fell off when trying to make the turn at the corner. Lieut. W. W. Spencer, U. S. A., of Cambridge, who had been visiting at Gov. McCall's, volunteered to remain with the injured man while Bentley notified the police. Officers Sleeper and Cameron responded and took Carroll to the Hospital, where he was found to have sustained a broken nose and a badly lacerated lip. He will probably be discharged from the hospital today.

POP CONCERT

The annual Pop Concert will be held in the Town Hall on Easter Monday evening, April the twenty-first. The Ladies Philharmonic Orchestra, Hazel Carls, Conductor, which has been so popular among the social set in Boston this winter, will furnish the concert and music for dancing. Miss Helen Choate will be the vocalist and there will also be a cabaret singer. The community singing will be under the leadership of Mr Carleton Cummings of California.

Delegates from all the churches in town attended the annual spring sale and luncheon at the Morgan Memorial, this week.

OLD HALEY FACTORY BURNED

Town Had a Real Fire Last Friday Night

Winchester had another real fire last Friday night when the old Haley Patent Leather factory on Canal street was burned. The fire illuminated the whole town and attracted hundreds to the scene, while its close proximity to the Eastern Felt factory, upon which a shower of sparks and cinders were constantly falling, made it advisable to send in a call to Woburn for further equipment and assistance. The loss is reported to be in the neighborhood of $8,000 and the place is said to have been insured for $8,500.

The factory has been empty for some time. It is owned by a Mr Garfield of Boston. At about ten o'clock the fire was discovered by residents in the vicinity and a telephone call sent to the fire department, the old box 48, since discontinued, being sounded. At that time the fire had gained great headway, fed as it was with dope several inches thick, besides grease and oil.

At 10.25 the situation was rather serious with regards to the Eastern Felt Company building, the flames having then burst through the roof and sparks dropping in showers. It was then that box 44 was sounded, preceeded by three blows, calling Woburn. That city sent down its motor pump and crew, which did efficient service until 2.30 a. m., when the fire was so far extinguished that they left for home.

Both the Winchester and Woburn pumps had three lines each on the fire, but the Winchester pump experienced some motor trouble it is said and did not perform its usual effective work. Streams were kept on the Eastern Felt factory from the start, which saved that structure. A fortunate feature was the entire absence of wind. Winchester returned to its house at 1.20 a. m., after working at the second big fire the town has had in some time, the other being that of the old Tyler house on Main street a few weeks ago.

EN KA DANCE

Friday, April 4, a private dance was given by the En Ka Society in White's Hall. The matrons were Mrs. Lombard and Mrs. Dore. The hall was attractively decorated with the En Ka seal and red flower lamp shades. The committee in charge, Constance Lane Chairman, Florence Murphy and Thelma Trott.

Among those present were Misses Edith DeLoriea, Carleane Dean Helen White, Catherine Starr, Esther Cutting, Helen Raynor, Ruth Caldwell, Olive Pendleton, Louise Alexander, Dorothy Armstrong, Gladys Spaulding, Virginia Farmer, Flora Locke, Annette Mason, Thelma Trott, Brenda Bond, Elizabeth Anderson, Florence Murphy, Alice Freeman, Helen Woods, Beulah Foss and Constance Lane. Messrs. Clinton Raynor, Jack Woods, Lincoln Russell, James Fitch, Theodore Clifton, Reginald Kibbe, Jack Smith, Donald Storr, David Skinner, Irving Jennings, Edward Barton, Stephen Mathewson, Curtis Caldwell, Paul Eberle, Lowell Smith, Clarence Russell, Lloyd Goodie, Edward Wait, Stillman Weston, John Osgood.

VESPER SERVICE

Mrs. Nell Hunter, Favorite Colored Soprano of the South, to Sing. Mr. Chidley will Speak on "Communications From the Dead"

Next Sunday afternoon, the second of the series of Vesper Services now being held at the First Congregational Church will take place. A most interesting service is planned, with Mrs. Nell Hunter, of Durham, North Carolina, one of the foremost colored sopranos of the South as the artist. Mrs. Hunter has a voice of unusual richness, clearness and freshness of tone, besides possessing all the characteristic sweetness found in a voice of this type. She will sing a group of Burleigh's spiritual songs like, "Go Down Moses" and "Bye and Bye," besides some of the standard compositions.

Mr. Chidley will give an address on "The White Comrade" and will review Professor Hyslop's book "Life After Death," dealing with alleged communications from the dead. These questions have aroused great popular interest since the beginning of the recent war and people want to know what the evidence is for believing such things to be real.

The public is cordially invited.

WILL RUN OPEN SHOP

Latest developments in the controversy between the master builders and the carpenters appears to be that the builders will run open shops in Winchester, hiring men with no regard to the Union. The carpenters have stated that they did not strike. They say they were forced out by the builders. The builders say the carpenters presented demands, and there is no question about their intention to strike work if they had not taken the initiative and closed down as they did. The carpenters say they would not have stopped work.

As the situation now stands it appears apparent that the builders will take on work as fast as they can get the men to do it, while many of the carpenters are reported to have started in business for themselves.

CHURCH OF THE EPIPHANY

It is a pleasure to announce that the rector, Rev. Murray Wilder Dewart, has returned from overseas, and will have charge of the service Sunday morning.

THE WINCHESTER STAR DEMONSTRATION HOME GARDEN

Conducted by

MRS. ALONZO F. WOODSIDE, 30 Lebanon Street

Co-operating with the

Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture and Home Economics

Preparation of the soil is our most important garden operation. We are hunting up our garden tools and will put them to work at once in our demonstration home garden.

First, all weeds and rubbish will be raked up and burned as diseases and pests such as the European Corn Borer are likely to be hibernating in the stems. Then an application of stable or barnyard manure which furnishes both plant food and humus will be spread upon the ground at the rate of 3 bushels (one heaping wheelbarrow load) per 100 square feet. This will be forked in deeply and the soil well pulverized.

If our soil were sandy or gravelly we should work in a lot of strawy manure. If it were wet or heavy we should improve its texture by mixing in sifted coal ashes. It must be remembered however, that coal ashes have no value as a fertilizer.

Because most of the soil in this section is inclined to be acid we shall sweeten our garden plot by the application of 10 pounds of ground limestone broadcasted over every 100 square feet and spade it in thoroughly. The limestone not only sweetens the soil but it is an essential element of plant food.

Perhaps many gardeners will think that our liberal application of manure and lime is sufficient for proper plant growth, but we believe that nearly all home gardeners fail to realize the value and necessity of feeding the plant all that it will need for a healthy strong development. So after our manure and lime has been thoroughly mixed with the soil we are going to broadcast and dig in just before planting 5 pounds of a complete garden fertilizer to every 100 square feet.

A complete garden fertilizer contains the essential elements of plant food such as nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash. These elements are contained in the fertilizer in a quickly available form. Humus (decayed organic matter) which is supplied by the straw in the manure helps to make this plant food in the fertilizer more available for the plants. We shall save a portion of the fertilizer and apply it in mid-summer to those crops and plants which seem a little inclined to grow slowly.

After the fertilizer is well mixed with the soil we shall take an iron garden rake and prepare a fine seed bed by raking and re-raking the plot until all lumps are pulverized and the soil becomes fine and mellow.

Proper preparation and fertilization of the home garden is half the battle won.

Next week we shall consider our planting problems for our demonstration home garden.

SPRING TOURNAMENT CLOSES

Deciding Matches Did Not Change Standing of Winners

The deciding matches in the spring bowling tournament at the Calumet Club did not alter the standing of the three prize winners, although team E, which took second prize, had a narrow squeak from dropping into a tie for the place with team J. As it is E stands one win over J. Team I, in first place, won three points from E. B and K also rolled in this series, neither being affected by the match, in which B won three points. Barrett was high roller with 306 on 109. Simonds got a string of 113, Miner 111, Tarbell 108, W. Baker 107, Goodale 106, Weed 102, Knibbs, Corey and Newman 101 each.

The prize winners were as follows.

First prize—greatest number of points won. Won by team I—H. F. Bidwell, Capt.; F. I. Baker, W. R. Baker, F. E. Gregory, P. A Goodale.

IN AID OF FRANCES E. WILLARD SETTLEMENT

In the interests of the Frances E. Willard Settlement of Boston Mrs. Newton Shultis opened her home Thursday afternoon to a number of guests who heard Miss Nellie Frank Hill, head resident tell what is being done by the Settlement to help its neighbors in the West End. The buildings formerly owned by St. Andrew's mission, 38-44 Chambers street, are occupied by the Settlement, the parish house now being the club house and the boarding home for women with small pay being housed in the former Vincent hospital.

Miss Caroline M. Caswell, who started the work in three little rooms on Hanover street, is still president but the work has grown far beyond the bounds dreamed of at the time, for not only are there a thousand children and grown ups in the clubs and classes but there is in Bedford a neat home for women, Llewsac Lodge, which has been a blessing to many women in need of temporary rest. In the summer time a camp, named for Miss Hill, makes possible outings for many girls from the neighborhood, the Boston headquarters, who would otherwise have no opportunity to get away from the city. Llewsac Lodge also has established industries which are a help both to the Lodge and to those who are there to regain strength. The preserving, weaving, poultry and other lines have won well deserved recognition, and enable those who are there to earn a portion of their board.

In common with many other local philanthropies the Settlement has suffered during the war from diminished income and is asking its friends to come to its help to keep it going as it should. Its work in Americanization has earned it a right to generous support and it welcomes all who are interested to examine its work and see what has been done.

Following Miss Hill's talk which was replete with incidents of the work, tea was served with Mrs. W. Holbrook Lowell and Mrs. Wm. A. Kneeland at the table.

The Student Council for April is made up as follows:

Recorder—Gordon Wheeler
B. A. A.—Ralph Purrington
G. A. A.—Mildred Cummings
Room 13—Daniel Beggs
Room 14—Clinton Raynor (Chairman)

The first assembly of the Council, held last Friday was given over to the management of the Girls' Basket Ball team and the Tech Glee Club committees for two separate rallies, each to use half of the assembly period. Miss Bond took charge and called in Captain Morse as the first speaker. Afterwards there were brief speeches by Miss Bond, in behalf of the girls, Mr. Butters the faculty, and Theodore Clifton the boys, who urged everyone to attend the game which was to have been played at Malden. In the Glee Club rally tickets were auctioned off and distributed, quite a number being disposed of in this way.

MUSIC MEMORY CONTEST

Progress is Being Made and the Interest of Both Parents and Children Increasing

The children in both the upper grammar grades and the High School are making splendid progress in their endeavor to memorize the contest numbers. The High School pupils have bought many of the pieces that can be obtained on records and have loaned them for the period of the music memory contest. These numbers are being played during the noon assemblies and in the grade schools at recess and other convenient periods.

As has been previously stated, the music-guessing contest among the Winchester children is directing the attention of parents to the beneficial results which follow musical training during childhood and adolescence. The hours spent in hearing, producing and thinking music are developing one of the richest resources of life, for these hours gather cumulative force, and produce a cultured and refined influence throughout life without any additional effort in after years. Perhaps those parents best realize the vast possibilities of early musical training for their children, who have themselves been either deprived of such opportunities, or failed to take advantage of those offered.

By training the ear of the child to love and appreciate good music, parents lay the foundations for happiness in later years, and are storing away for him an investment for pleasure, the benefits of which will prove their value in years of maturity. True it is that many people have in later years acquired a love for music either through earnest and arduous application in practicing or through a thorough study of the possibilities of a player-piano or a victrola in training and fostering their appreciation of music. Just such cases of later development prove what additional labor and exertion could have been avoided, had music been instilled during the formative period.

A step forward in this direction has been made in Winchester, namely through the efforts of Richard W. Grant, Supervisor of Music, and similar action is being taken in other cities. This advance is with regard to the continuance of musical education through the high school. Under the present system a child may keep up his outside music lessons, in either piano, voice, organ or orchestral instruments and receive school credit for it. This public recognition proves that music is beginning to be universally considered a great factor in the lives of children.

ROLL-OFF A TIE

The special roll-off held on the Calumet Club alleys Saturday night in place of the regular monthly high average roll-off, resulted in a tie for first prize between Benjamin F. Blank and Joseph E. Gendron. George A. Richburg was third. Two prizes were awarded, a silk umbrella and a box of cigars. Which of the two gentlemen who will be fortunate enough to take first honors has not yet been decided, and they will either toss up or bowl over.

There was a good entry and some fine scores were made. Following are some of the figures turned in:

THE MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION

The regular meeting of the Mothers' Association will be held in the High School Assembly Hall Wednesday, April 16, at 3 p. m. Members take notice that the date is early in the month, but it is the third Wednesday as usual.

Miss Louisa I. Pryor of the Mass. State Board of Education, agent in charge of Vocational work for women, is the speaker for the afternoon. Miss Pryor is employed by the State Board of Education to present this subject to the public. There is no doubt in the minds of thinking men and women of to-day, and educators who have a vision into the future, that vocational training of boys and girls will form a large part of the High School Education in the next generation. Come and hear what it is, and what it means for future citizenship. The music will be furnished by the High School Musical Club.

Mr. Fausey will present the problem of the open air school room, after which there will be an opportunity for discussion of the matter.

All women interested in the welfare and education of children are invited to attend and become members if they wish. Tea will be served after the meeting.

WINCHESTER SUFFRAGE CLUB

At a meeting of the Suffrage Club at the home of Mrs. W. R. Moorhouse, the following resolutions were passed:

Whereas, we feel strongly that failure to establish a League of Nations at the Peace Conference, will mean the loss of the fruits of Victory and whereas we believe that after such a stupendous world catastrophe as this war has brought, the United States can never return to its former policy of isolation from the affairs of the world, and whereas we feel that the United States should deem it a privilege and duty to lead in establishing world organization and the substitution of law for war.

Resolved that the Winchester Equal Suffrage Club heartily endorse a League of Nations as the only safe basis of the Peace Settlement and opposes all effort to postpone its consideration; and

Resolved, that a copy of this Resolution be sent to the Massachusetts Senators in Washington, and to President Wilson in France.

BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA

The following scouts in this council have passed their merit badge test successfully: Roy M. Jordan, Troop 3, and Thomas Martin Troop 3.

Troop 1 is planning to give a play rehearsing under the direction of their Scout Master, F. E. Smith.

Troop 6 will probably enter a signalling team in the Mystic Valley Council Rally to be held May 17th, In Woburn.

Troop 3, Scouts Larz Sandberg and Donald Tucker completed their first class tests during this last week. This gives the troop 10 First Class Scouts, 16 Second Class and 7 Tenderfoot.

A LECTURE ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

strife," for, to the extent that we labor for humanity "we be brethren." But the radical cure and prevention of disease must come, not through drugs, not through material methods, but through improved mental states. Better thinking makes better bodies, just as better thinking makes better morals, and Christian Science is the religion of right thinking.

After practicing medicine for three years, I was forced to the conclusion that to ignore the spiritual man is to be unprepared to cope with the mental processes underlying the discordant manifestations we see in the physical body. Medical experience taught me, as it has taught others, that regardless of diagnosis and treatment, a very large percentage of patients recover, a small proportion are unaffected, or grow worse, and a few die. It became conclusive that whether my ears rang with commendation or burned with condemnation, I had perhaps done little to merit either. I came at last to know that material medicine, with its multiplied legion of diseases and its super-legion of remedies is not, and, by its very nature, never can be a genuine curative agency.

Today, from experience in the treatment of the sick covering active practice in both material and metaphysical medical systems, I am able to testify to the superiority of Christian Science over all other methods. To illustrate this superiority a single comparative instance will suffice: Shortly after I became a Christian Scientist, while on a business trip, I was seized with ptomaine poisoning. After a strenuous night I reached home in a semi-conscious condition and was just able to call for a Christian Science practitioner. With one treatment and a lapse of only twenty-four hours, I returned to my work entirely restored. About the same time a physician of my acquaintance was attacked in a similar manner. He was attended by five medical practitioners, lay in delirium for five weeks, and finally made a slow but imperfect recovery.

The Universal Panacea

If each individual in this audience were asked to give a reason for his presence here, no doubt it would be possible to classify the replies under two great heads, religion and medicine. These may be said to be the paramount human interests, for second only to a future salvation, mankind is concerned in the preservation of his body. Christian Science has amalgamated these interests so that, rightly viewed, religion and medicine become one; and since Christian Science, in its saving and healing grace, is applicable to all manner of discords, physical, mental and moral, it may be termed the universal panacea.

It is significant that the earliest systems of religious philosophy made no separation between religion and medicine. The pagan gods of medicine were called upon to heal sickness, just as the gods of war were appealed to for victory, and the gods of peace for plenty. Medicine began to separate from religion as medicine became more material and religion grew less so. Material medicine had so developed into a system apart from religion that when Jesus began his restorative ministry, and healed the sick by purely spiritual power, he was termed both by the theologians and the matter physicians a miracle worker, so unheard of had it become to invoke the healing power of God.

The only reason mankind has not turned to God, the great physician, in the time of physical distress, is because of the material bias of its education. Mankind has been taught to look to God for salvation from sin, but to rely upon matter for the cure of matter and its dire beliefs. Because of the seeming increasing power of false material education, mankind has been unable to grasp the simplicity and adequacy of the spiritual laws of God applied to the discords of the flesh.

Jesus knew these laws, employed them, and laid upon all Christians the injunction to imitate his healing works. It may be argued that Jesus conferred the power to heal upon his contemporary disciples only. Yet he said unequivocally: "These signs shall follow them that believe." But if the contention be true, how did Paul, who was not Jesus' immediate disciple, acquire the art of Christian healing? It must be admitted that Paul used none but spiritual power in his restorative ministry. The Master alluding to his divine Principle, the healing and saving Christ said: "Lo! I am with you always." This Christ was available to Paul and he rose in spiritual consciousness to the realization of it. The power of God to heal and to save, so wondrously present with Jesus, and with the early Christians for three hundred years, is available to all today, and when understood and employed, in Jesus' way, becomes the witness of "Christ in you, the hope of glory."

The Discoverer and Founder

Christian Science was discovered and the movement founded by a woman, Mary Baker Eddy. From childhood she had been deeply religious, and early had displayed a profoundly spiritual nature. Her first writings confirm this and also show remarkable literary talent; thus they forecast her later achievement. But such promise was handicapped by physical frailty, which, as she came to young womanhood, operated more and more to incapacitate her. Heroically she struggled against a semi-invalidism extending over many years. The failure of Allopathic medicine to help her, and her own study and futile application of Homeopathy, together with unavailing resort to other systems of treatment, combined to turn her toward God as a "very present help in trouble." Gradually she became convinced that disease, as well as sin, is mental in origin and therefore amenable to spiritual treatment, whereupon the Bible became the field of her search for health. At last she reached a state of spiritual growth where she experienced instantaneous healing from what her physician had declared to be a fatal accident. Filled with gratitude to God for her restoration, she withdrew from society and for three years sought within the Scriptures the explanation of her recovery. Her research revealed to her the Principle and rules of the spiritual healing which attended the restorative ministry of the Master and his disciples. This discovery she named Christian Science. Christian, because practiced by Christ Jesus; Science, because it is exact, demonstrable knowledge of the laws of God. Inspired by love for humanity, she wrote the text-book, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures. After demonstrating the efficacy of Christian Science to heal disease and sin, to restore health and dominion, she gave her book to the world. This book has revived primitive Christianity. In less than fifty years millions have received its evangelic message, "Fear not: For behold I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people." The world as yet little knows the extent of its indebtedness to this gentle woman, but today her grateful beneficiaries unite with Isaiah in declaring the promises due unto godliness: "Thou shalt raise up the foundations of many generations; and thou shalt be called The repairer of the breach, The restorer of paths to dwell in."

God

Christian Science accepts the primal order of Scripture which states fundamentally: "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth." The most self evident facts we can consider are that the universe, including man, exists, and that it is a creation. A creation implies a power by which the thing made comes into existence, and thus we arrive logically at the Creator. That is very plain, and there have never been in the world's history any considerable number of people who would deny a supreme Cause, or God.

Therefore Christian Science is not confronted with the necessity to establish in thought the fact that God is. Its mission is to reveal what God is, how we are to know Him, and how we are to utilize His power in solving life's problems. Mrs. Eddy knew that what humanity needs is the right concept of God; that until mankind learns something of the truth about God, its efforts to work out its own salvation are ineffective and its progress at best is slow. The restorative ministry of Christian Science includes then, primarily, replacement in consciousness of ignorant or inadequate beliefs about God with right concepts of Him.

In reviewing the history of religion it is surprising to note that however diverse the beliefs about Deity held by mankind, there is one striking similarity common to them all. Without exception these beliefs have pictured God. Invariably he has been thought of as the image and likeness of something. Moses commanded: "Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image or any likeness of anything — " Now God is not image, nor is He likeness; for the simple reason that, according to the Bible, His creation is image and likeness, whereas Deity is the origin of all things, or the first Cause. The progress of humanity has been proportional to the proper reversal of his inversion of natural order and the restoration in consciousness of divine Cause as primary.

Mankind's concepts of Deity have ranged from the crudest forms of matter, images of stone, wood, metals, and from the more impressive manifestations of matter, the sun, moon and stars, all the way to the deification of man. My early thought of God took the form of an elderly gentleman of most benign countenance and gracious carriage, who resembled no one so much as my father. And that is not surprising, since I was taught the fatherhood of God without an adequate explanation of His infinite character.

May it not be said truly that every individual that approaches the subject of Christian Science has a concept of Deity false in some degree? Mrs. Eddy saw this, and she saw also that these finite concepts, these false beliefs about God, operate to hinder the progress of humanity because they leave mankind to deal with effects without a true knowledge of Cause. She therefore chose seven prominent synonyms of God which she said were "intended to express the nature, essence and wholeness of Deity" (Science and Health, pg. 465.) Most of these synonyms she took directly from the Bible, and all of them have Scriptural authority. These wonderful words are found in Science and Health (pg. 465) in answer to the question, "What is God?" "God is incorporeal, divine, supreme, infinite Mind, Spirit Soul, Principle, Life, Truth, Love." Note that not one of these words expresses a concept of God as finite, whether person or thing. John said, "God is Love," and love is not a person, nor a thing, love is a principle. Jesus said to the woman at the well "God is a Spirit," and spirit is not a person nor a thing, it is a principle. When the Psalmist referred to Deity as a God of truth, he did not speak of a person nor a thing, but of a principle; when Moses said of God, "he is thy life," and Job referred to God "in whose hand is the soul of every living thing," they used words which express in each case a principle. "Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus," said Paul, and showed that Mind is Principle and not a person nor a thing. These seven words each indicate, then Principle, not person nor object, and are fully synonymous with God because they "express the nature, essence, and wholeness of Deity."

Now the outstanding character of Deity is His infinitude. God is infinite, incorporeal, that is, not limited, not bounded nor confined. The infinitude of God means, if it means anything at all, that God is one without a second. Therefore God is the only Principle the only Mind, the only Life, Truth, Love, the only Soul, the only Spirit. "The Lord he is God; there is none else beside him."

The revelation of "the larger thought of God" is enabling Christian Scientists to understand Him, to draw near to Him, to see his handiwork, and to reject what is unlike the divine nature. Whatever the problem confronting the Christian Scientist he never rests until he arrives at God. God must be in all his thoughts, for the presence of God means the presence of good and the absence of evil.

It is often remarked how intimately Christian Scientists speak of God. We no longer regard Him fearfully, because we have learned that He is divine Love. We no longer imagine Him to be a magnified mortal. We have ceased to look for him geographically or astronomically, or to circumscribe him in any way. But if to us his habitation is no longer limited to place, we have gained the understanding of God's presence everywhere. If we have lost our fear of Deity, we have gained for Him love and allegiance. If we have ceased somewhat to believe in the power of evil it is because we have learned something of the all-power of God. To all who thus are becoming acquainted with God, are learning to trust him, and are striving to be like him. Mrs. Eddy refers in the opening line of her text-book: "To those leaning on the sustaining infinite, today is big with blessings." (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, Preface VII.)

Spiritual Sense and Heaven

How do we know God and where do we find Him? Elijah in the mount before the Lord learned that God was not in the whirlwind, not in the earthquake, not in the fire—God was not in matter. He was in the still small voice. No man can understand God or know His abode through the finite senses for "no man hath seen God at any time." Because He is Spirit, He manifests Himself spiritually. "They that worship Him" said Jesus, "must worship Him in spirit and in truth." So Mrs. Eddy wrote, (Science and Health, page 481): "Through spiritual sense only, man comprehends and loves Deity." And again, (Science and Health, page 209): "Spiritual sense is a conscious, constant, capacity to understand God."

I recently read a report of a sermon by a clergyman on the subject, "Will Christian Scientists Go To Heaven?" No Christian Scientist can doubt that he will be in heaven just in the degree of his understanding of Jesus' statement, "For, behold, the Kingdom of God is within you." God and heaven are within the grasp of spiritual perception alone. Orthodox views received a just rebuke from a little child who, when asked where heaven is, replied "out in the graveyard." By inescapable logic he had concluded that if God and heaven were reached through death, as he had been taught, the cemetery must be the gateway to the Kingdom. The Christian Scientist to whose inquiry the child responded, was able to show him that since heaven is God's home, and God is everywhere, heaven must be everywhere. She explained that God is Love and God is Good, and therefore where love and good are found, there is God and heaven; so to the child came the joy of knowing God's eternal nearness, even His ever-presence.

Christian Science has come to restore the right concept of heaven, and to reveal it to be spiritual consciousness, and there is not one in this audience but may yield his material sense to that divine influence and now and here enter the realm of harmony.

Man

The restoration in consciousness of God as Spirit, or Mind, at once lifts thought to a higher contemplation of God's creation man. Mankind's estimate of man has risen of course, no higher than his estimate of God. False beliefs about God have resulted directly in erroneous concepts of man. So a finite, material sense of the Creator has been reflected in humanity's thought of man as finite and material. Christian Science comes to show the falsity of such belief and to restore the concept of man as spiritual, the image and likeness of Spirit.

Natural science declares man to be composed of chemical elements and to be confined to a physical body. It recognizes an immaterial factor in this man which it calls mind, but which it limits to brain matter, holding that form of matter responsible for mentality. Paul terms this animated brain matter the carnal mind, or the mind of the flesh, and further characterizes it as "enmity against God." Since this so-called mind

M. I. T. CONCERT

Last Saturday night in the Town Hall the combined musical clubs of the Mass. Institute of Technology held a concert for the benefit of the High School Athletic Associations and Recorder. Between five and six hundred persons were present and frequently applauded the numbers which were exceptionally fine. Mr. Conant, as a Scotch Kiltie won a great deal of merited applause, as did the Tech quartet. The Jazz Novelty might have been called the best of the evening. The program on this selection started with a violinist and piano player on the stage. Suddenly, two musicians, playing cello and saxaphone were perceived walking up the aisle to join the others, then a cornetist, followed by a number of banjo and mandolin players, appeared from the audience and, having arrived on the stage, gave a number of popular selections.

The hall was decorated with French, British and American flags on the sides of the balcony, and the High School service flag, with its eight golden and two hundred and forty blue stars, hung from the top of the stage. A large American flag, and some red, white and blue bunting gave the stage, with its woodland scenery, a very pleasing effect.

At the close of the performance dancing was enjoyed by many until 11.45.

Mr. and Mrs. Fausey and Mr. and Mrs. Stacy were the matrons and patrons on the floor. During the dancing refreshments were served. The committee in charge was as follows: Mr. Schuster and Mr. Butters, faculty; G. A. A., Katherine Fairfield, Isabel Beggs, Thelma Trott, Brenda Bond; B. A. A., Theodore Clifton, Clinton Raynor, David Skinner, Evander French; Recorder, Gordon Wheeler, Hollis Riddle, Elizabeth Anderson, Hester Bradford.

It is reported that the Concert was a great financial success, each of the three organizations netting in the neighborhood of sixty-five dollars, which will make a number of plans possible.

DISPUTE BETWEEN MALDEN AND WINCHESTER

Girls' State Basket Ball Championship

The Girls' Basket Ball game between Malden and Winchester last Saturday afternoon was called off on account of a dispute about the choice of the referee. The rule stands that the visiting team shall choose the referee if the home team is notified one day before the game, also that the referee chosen shall not be connected in any way with either team. Miss Bowman was chosen as referee by Winchester. She is a graduate and ex-basket ball player of Winchester High and Sargent School. Coach Neal of Malden would not consent to Miss Bowman as referee. Malden had chosen Miss Weller, coach of Melrose High's team, who has never refereed a game in which Malden has played. Winchester declared that Miss Weller was a personal friend of Miss Neal.

Both teams then agreed to play if two referees could be found in the audience. There were none, however, sufficiently acquainted with the game to act as referee.

The chances are that the dispute may be adjusted and another date chosen for the game.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Catarrh being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Medicine is taken internally and acts thru the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in the curative power of Hall's Catarrh Medicine that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

TELEPHONE NUMBER 29.

With the arrival of the various units of the 26th Division come the first large instalment of our Winchester boys who have been fighting in France. Since the signing of the armistice we have welcomed singly and in small groups many of our boys back home, but now we are to have the opportunity to greet the first large gathering to return. Our boys have been widely scattered, and it is doubtful if we have as many in any other organization as in the 26th Division. Our pride therefore in that organization will undoubtedly stand first in all of the war units. Some of the boys have already had a chance to make their visit home through obtaining a brief leave; others have not yet seen their relatives and friends. They all will soon be with us once more for good. We, as a Town, and as the home community extend to them one and all our greeting. We recognize their devotion to duty and the accomplishment of their purpose, and we all rejoice in their safe arrival among us after braving the unknown and most hazardous occupation—that of a fighting man. Welcome home you boys of the 26th.

It has been proposed that a suitable memorial to the late Joseph S. Hefflon, Principal of the Wadleigh School, be placed in that building. This custom originated with the erection of our High School and some fine memorials have been placed in that building to honor past individuals and classes who have proved their worth to the community. It seems right and proper that the Wadleigh School should so honor its "War Principal," who so bravely died on foreign soil doing his part to free the world of the fearsome black shadow hanging over all lands. It has been suggested that this memorial be purchased by popular subscription; that many of the residents, as well as the Wadleigh scholars, will desire to share in its installation, and it is therefore, very probable that plans will soon be formulated to secure the memorial.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING

April 7, 1919.

The Board met at 7.30 p. m. All present.

The records of the meeting of March 31, 1919, were read and approved.

At the invitation of the Board, Mr. B. B. Howard of the Street Lighting Division of the Edison Electric Illuminating Co., appeared before it and discussed street lighting matters for 1919. Mr. Howard stated that no contracts could be made with the Edison Co. after May 1, 1919, the date when the Town's contract with the Edison Co. expires. Mr. Howard stated that the cost of street lighting would probably only be increased by a sur charge of 10% and a coal clause charge. The municipal discount would be allowed the same as before.

The following letter was received from Mr. Ralph E. Joslin accepting the appointment of Town Counsel of Winchester, for the ensuing year:

April 5, 1919.

Board of Selectmen,
Arthur A. Kidder, Chairman,
Wincheser, Mass.

Gentlemen:

I am in receipt of your notification of my appointment as Town Counsel for the current year.

"I will undertake to the best of my ability to co operate with you and the other town boards and committees in giving the town a successful administration of its affairs during the current year."

Respectfully yours,
(Signed) Ralph E. Joslin.

The Clerk was instructed to write the Mayor of Woburn and Chief of the Woburn Fire Department thanking them for the services of the Woburn Fire Department at the recent fire on Canal street.

The Clerk was also instructed to thank Mr. Edward Fitzgerald and Eugene S. Flaherty, both firemen in the Winchester Fire Department, but who were supposed to be off duty on the evening of the fire, for attending this fire, and helping the rest of the Fire Department.

The Board voted that the permanent firemen be granted one day off in five, beginning May 1, 1919, and that they be allowed one hour and a quarter for the noon-day meal. The Clerk was instructed to notify the Chief of this vote and also to state that there would be a revision of the Fire Rules which would probably go into effect on May 1st, or soon thereafter.

Messrs. Edward S. Foster, 13 Grove street, Robert Bacon, 21 Grove street and Alfred E. Knight, 32 Grove street, appeared before the Board in regard to reconstructing Grove street. These gentlemen were told by the Board that there was no money appropriated this year for special road construction, except for Swan road, but that the Board would recommend that this work have first consideration in the highway budget, pertaining to new road construction, for next year.

Mr. Bacon presented a petition signed by Lewis Parkhurst and 20 others asking that this street be rebuilt.

A petition signed by Stanley B. Puffer and thirteen others, all residents and property owners residing in the vicinity of Harrison street calling the Board's attention to the poor condition of this street, and asking that some action be taken towards remedying this condition was received. This matter was referred to the Committee on Ways and Bridges.

The meeting adjourned at 11.20 p. m.

George S. F. Bartlett,
Clerk of Selectmen.

BASE BALL AND OTHER NEWS

There will be a meeting of all those who are interested in base ball next Wednesday, April 16, at the Town Hall. This meeting will be called at 8 o'clock p. m., in the Committee Room, and it is hoped there will be a large attendance. This is going to be a big year for everything in sports and base ball in particular. There will be no excuses to offer if Winchester does not have a good team on the field this season. There are plenty of good players to be had and they can be obtained with the hearty co-operation of every "Fan in Winchester. Now let us have a good attendance Wednesday night. Bring along a friend with you and offer your suggestions for putting Winchester on the map in the way of base ball.

Woburn is going to have the old crowd back at the wheel again. Dr. Stewart, "Jim" Murray, "Tom" McColgan and Percy Linscott. And they surely did give Woburn some good base ball. So wake up Winchester!

The Minute Boys are going to be in the field again. With Wormwood, the former N. E. League pitcher doing the managing. We won't have to wait to be invited to play with Lexington this season. They will be after us with bells on.

J. Willard Hayden, who had charge of the team in 1917 is one of the head workers for the Y. M. C. A. in France and Germany. He is continually on the go over there but the Lexington A. A. is still in the ring over here.

Wakefield and Reading will also have live teams but Arlington, the home of so many good players does not seem to have the luck with base ball that their neighbors do.

So take it all in all it looks like some season for all concerned. The season in Winchester will probably start May 30th. As the High School will have the field until then, and they are also booked for a couple of Saturdays in June. But that can be easily straightened out.

Now right here we have the foundation of a good team in Hevey, Hatch, McKenzie and Flaherty. That leaves five players from outside to be secured unless there are other players in town whom the writer is unaware of. If so, they should get in touch with the management as soon as we decide what is going to be done this season.

"BOOKS, BOOKS, BOOKS! FOR MEN ON THE WAY HOME"

"When the transport "Mongolia," carry 4,100 men, was six days out from France on her most recent trip to America, every one of the 1,700 American Library Association books aboard the vessel was out in circulation. The men were hungry for books. The biggest demand was for western stories and American love stories. Then came the call for books on agriculture. Books on machinery went out rapidly and there were specific demands for books on boilermaking, beekeeping and navigation. There was also a surprisingly large demand for poetry Longfellow, Tennyson, Whittier, Service, Kipling and Poe. One man asked for Masefield, one for Dante, and one for Omar Khayyam. Every book found a reader."

Books may be left at the Winchester Public Library.

The Sophomore girls defeated the Juniors 39-10 in a basket ball game Monday.

The first base ball team defeated the second team 3-1 in a short three inning game Tuesday. The batteries were for the first team, Cullen and Meskell, for the second, Raynor and Tansey. The first team lined up with McCartney at first, Datch at second, Tansey at short and Mathews at third. This infield is working together first rate. McCartney seems to be all over first base, gathering in anything, and it has to be a foot runner to beat Mathews throw from third. Coach Schuster expects to give Belmont a good battle and come out on top.

The Senior Girls defeated the Freshmen 24-12 on Thursday, tightening their hold on the Girls' Inter-class basket ball championship.

Manager Curtis has been notified that all athletics have been suspended in the Belmont High School. Therefore the game scheduled for April 12, will be cancelled.

He was brought to a stop by Howard Moffett, an ex-navy man, who brought the horse back and took Holland to his home. A doctor was summoned, who found Holland suffering from bruises only. PRIZE LETTER CONTEST

ARLINGTON GAS LIGHT COMPANY

Special Mention

Contest Manager:—

During my 35 years of housekeeping, I have had experience with all kinds of fuel. None of them can compare with gas. Some of the many reasons I have for preferring gas are these. The gas is always there, it never fails, there is no filling, kindling or waiting for coal to burn up. Ready at a second's notice day or night, a match is all that is needed. Invaluable in sickness as I can have hot water for medicine and hot water bottle in one minute and many a life can be saved by the quick work with a gas stove. In every kind of emergency connected with the running of a home, gas plays its important part. When an unexpected guest appears, the use of gas means instant and perfect hospitality. Gas as fuel will cook "just as it should be cooked" every kind of food ever served on a table. Bake, broil, steam, boil, simmer, fry and at any desired temperature. Every kind of canning, jelly making, drying fruits and vegetables during hot weather with least heat or trouble and all heat and expense stopped instantly when no longer needed. Gas will make perfect confectionary, as the heat can be so nicely adjusted by simply turning the valve handle and contents of dish will cook evenly. Economy in both time and fuel in cooking is wonderful as you do not light the gas until the articles are ready to cook, as the greatest heat desired is right there the moment it is lighted and the cooking begins at once. You stop all heat and waste of fuel by turning off gas before removing the dish. By using gas extra sleep and rest may be obtained in the morning as a nice breakfast can be so quickly prepared. Gas is splendid to warm the kitchen so quickly on cold mornings. With the "Water Heater" attachment the bathroom is always supplied with plenty of hot water, no matter how large the family. Gas is the quickest, cheapest and best for all laundry work, plenty of hot water quickly and at slight expense and with the "iron heating plate" several irons can be just the right heat for any kind of material to be ironed. Also the plate can be used for 2 or 3 dishes with different kinds of food cooking at the same time with only one burner. By using gas there is no dirt, ashes, smoke or smell. If you wish to sit down to sew or rest and have your meal cooking you can rest assured the flame and heat will be the same all the time. I have every modern convenience in my house but I would rather part with any one of them than the gas.

comes in with matter, is wholly dependent on matter for manifestation, and goes out with matter, Mrs. Eddy calls it mortal mind, and its personification she named mortal man. This erring, sinning, dying, material concept of man plainly is not the man God made in His image and likeness, for the likeness of Spirit could not be unspiritual, the likeness of God could not be imperfect. Divinity is never less than spiritual, while matter is never more than material. Spirit and matter are opposites in essence and qualities.

Popular theology holds that man is both material and spiritual; that he has a material body and a spiritual soul. It will not help to argue that man is both material and spiritual, since in that case, the destruction of the material body would result in the partial destruction of man. Christian Science teaches what the Bible imports; that the real man is wholly spiritual, and that the mind-matter combination, described by physical science and the spirit-flesh combination, described by theology, are false beliefs about man. Indeed the destructibility of the physical body clearly shows it to be utterly unlike the infinite, imperishable Spirit.

Jesus furnished an illustration both of the real man and of the unreal nature of physicality when, after proving its unreal character by disregarding and overcoming physical law, he separated himself from matter and disappeared. Does any one imagine that in the ascension Jesus was taken up as a mortal, material man? What then became of the physical body when he ascended to the Father? Is it not plain that the real Jesus was from the first spiritual and that the material body was at all times what he ultimately proved it to be, a false concept of finite sense which disappeared in the light of spiritual understanding? Hear the testimony of St. John: "For all that is in the world * * * * is not of the Father, but is of the world. And the world passeth away and the lust thereof; but he that doeth the will of God abideth forever." If "all that is in the world," mortal man and the physical universe, is "not of the Father," what claim can materiality have to reality? If the world is the author of the things that are in the world, and "the world passeth away," as St John declares, it is conclusive that God is not the author of the material universe nor physical man. Because they lack a divine Cause, the material universe and mortal man can have no reality, for "without him was not anything made that was made." St John's declaration that the things that are in the world are of the world indicates that materiality only substitutes itself, in belief, for the real creation, the spiritual universe and spiritual man, and merely counterfeits genuine being.

Evil

From the foregoing it is evident that Christian Science does not hold [illegible] the creation of that which Paul defined as "enmity against God." God is not responsible, directly nor indirectly for evil, for sin, disease, nor death. The explanation of evil must be sought outside of infinite Good. Whence then comes this enmity against God? People who are in trouble are not greatly concerned in the philosophic explanation of the origin of evil. Their interest centers in getting rid of evil, and the triumph of Christian Science is that it does just that. It is satisfactory to learn that God does not countenance evil nor include it among His very good works, and therefore that evil is unreal.

However, evil is accounted for logically in accordance with the law of supposed opposites. One of the synonyms of Deity, you will recall, is Truth. God being infinite Truth, there is evidently nothing beyond Truth's infinitely good and true manifestation. To bring evil into the equation it becomes necessary to suppose the opposite of infinite good, but remember that this supposition, this opposite of truth, must be a lie, and hence unreal. Now a lie's deception is possible only so long as it appears to be true? It must masquerade as truth, or counterfeit truth in order to gain credence. Christian Science has uncovered the "mystery of iniquity." The mystery of evil is just like any other mystery, ignorance of truth. The whole problem of evil is one of ignorance, or absence of understanding. All the trouble in the world is due to misunderstanding, to false estimates of God, man and the universe. In Christian Science men are learning neither to ignore evil nor to be ignorant of its pretense, but are addressing themselves to the task of recognizing evil as a lie, eliminating the lie from consciousness and replacing it with good. Evil is thus losing its claim upon thought, as the spiritual understanding of God and man is attained.

"But," you say, "Christian Science has not done away with evil. It's still here in spite of the uncovering of its nothingness." My friends, Christian Scientists already have made wonderful progress. We have learned much about the unreality of evil and to that degree have disposed of its claims. It is true that, although Christian Science shows man to be the image of God, perfect and spiritual now, man still seems to the physical senses to be mortal and imperfect. Some forms of evil, when unmasked, may continue as appearance, just as the sun continues to appear to rise in the east, even after one discovers that it really stands still and the earth revolves on its axis, but the illusion no longer deceives. In like manner, mortality unmasked, is shorn of its seeming power and reality.

Evil may seem to have its day, but because it is perishable, its destruction is inevitable. Because it is a lie about something true, it must go out, and Truth must be its destroyer. Remember that truth never destroys anything true; its destructive action is exerted always upon that which is unreal. For every lie, there is a true statement which will destroy it. Every time a Christian Scientist applies the Truth to a lie, he destroys that much of error, ignorance, and advances by that much the day of perfect spiritual understanding when "they shall all know me." (Good) "from the least of them unto the greatest of them."

Salvation and Christ Jesus

In cleaning out the rubbish of untrue theories and building again the old waste places, Christian Science is a true constructive force. It repeats the restorative ministry of Christ Jesus, whose mission an apostle said, was to "destroy the works of the devil," evil, and who "went about doing good." He who was named Saviour gave a new meaning to salvation. He who came to "save His people from their sins" applied the restorative power of the Christ, Truth, to every sort of evil; thus he healed disease and sin by the same process. As in Jesus' time, popular theology today views salvation chiefly as a preparation for the hereafter. But Jesus said "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly." Christian Science has restored to humanity the saving grace of Christian healing, proving that Christianity is a religion not to die by, but to live by.

Where, in the scheme of salvation, does Christian Science place Christ Jesus? In the words of Peter, "There is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved." Jesus was the name of the one individual in the world's history who has attained the perfect state of spiritual apprehension. By his understanding of God, Jesus proved that man is perfect, spiritual, indestructible. He overcame every law of matter, sin, disease and death, thus proving their nothingness. He took every human footstep in "the passage from sense to Soul" (Science and Health, page 566), and left the path so plain that "the wayfaring men, though fools shall not err therein." What he proved was for all mankind, for he himself said, "I am the way."

By this it will be understood that Jesus was not God, but was, as he himself affirmed, the son of God. In Science and Health (page 482), we read: "Jesus was the highest human concept of the perfect man." Jesus' unselfishness, purity and spirituality so endowed him with godliness that he was worthy to bear the title Messiah, or Christ. Again (Science and Health page 583), Mrs. Eddy has defined Christ as "The divine manifestation of God, which comes to the flesh to destroy incarnate error." With Jesus the Christ was so preponderant that when the human cried out, "Let this cup pass," Jesus was able to say "not my will but thine be done." Let the mortal disappear and the Christ appear as the representative of divinity. It was this Christ that caused Jesus to say "If I" (the fleshly concept) "go not away, the Comforter will not come unto you"—the restorative Truth will not become operative in your consciousness; in other words, you will continue to cling to my human personality and will fail to grasp the divine Principle which governs it.

Christian Science teaches personal salvation through all Christ Jesus lived to do; that each individual is to work out his own salvation from all error by the example Jesus furnished in his demonstration of the Christ. Christian Science accepts the essentials of Christianity as found in the Scriptural record of the life and teaching of Christ Jesus, but restores and emphasizes the spiritual import and observance of the doctrine he taught and ordinances he established. Above all, Christian Science teaches that the essentials of Christianity involve individual practice more than profession.

Prayer

The modus operandi by which Christian Science fulfills its restorative ministry is prayer. By prayer sickness is healed, sin is destroyed and harmony restored. By prayer ignorance is replaced with understanding. By prayer we draw near to God and enter into the heritage of his son. Prayer is that process by which false beliefs are destroyed and right concepts restored. To know the Truth is true prayer. Therefore the Christian Scientist when he prays, does not ask God for any material thing. He seeks to apprehend what is already existent and bestowed. He asks only for guidance, for wisdom, for true knowledge. So Solomon prayed for an understanding heart. So Hagar athirst in the desert, fearing for the life of her child, prayed the prayer which opened her blind eyes and revealed the well of water at hand. Such prayer has never failed, for it is the prayer of spiritual sense, that "conscious, constant, capacity to understand God," and the spiritual real man.

Christ Jesus, in teaching how to pray, said "Whatsoever things ye desire when ye pray believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them." True prayer then is comprised in asking and receiving. It is both desire and realization desire to know the will of God, desire to express that will in daily life, desire to overcome all that is contrary to good; realization of the unreality of error and the presence of God and his manifestation. Prayer in Christian Science includes the answer, and if this were not so, the loving Father would stand convicted of capriciousness and favoritism. The riches of His kingdom are available to all who claim divine heritage.

A little girl I know furnished an adequate illustration of the restorative prayer of Christian Science when she freed herself from the bondage of [illegible] "If God did not make it, how could I have it?" Very little process entered into her argument against the false sense that seemed to bind her but she rejected the erroneous concept and realized the allness of good. She sought refuge directly in the Truth of being and knew that she and God are inseparable. She [illegible] what she had done to bring on the sickness, and did not offer the false defense that she was still mortal; she did not think of herself as in the flesh, she wasted no time in self-justification, self-pity nor self-condemnation. Her thought turned naturally to God, divine Love, her only source of relief, naturally as the flower turns to the sun, and she was free! Do you wonder that Jesus declared the kingdom of God open only to the child-like thought?

The highest object of prayer and its ultimate answer is the attainment of the consciousness of man's inseparableness from his Maker—God. Ceaseless prayer is the demand of Scripture, and this is possible only as constant right desire and effort to be in His image and likeness, to be present with God. Of this supreme concept of answered prayer, Mrs. Eddy has written:

"Oh! Thou hast heard my prayer;
And I am blest!
This is thy high behest:—
Thou here, and everywhere."

In the presence of God, there is no unsatisfied desire.

Christian Science vs. Suggestive Therapeutics

It is now, perhaps, universally conceded that Christian Science restores the sick. There are those, however, who repeat the ancient mistake of attributing the miracles of Christian healing to the action of the human mind, through what these critics term mental suggestion. In Jesus' day the unbelievers said: "This fellow doth not cast out devils but by Beelzebub the prince of the devils," but Jesus disclaimed the human mind to be a factor in his work and insisted that his was the "finger of God" method. Christ Jesus fully proved that the divine Mind alone was the healing power in his practice. He said "I can of mine own self do nothing." "The Father that dwelleth in me he doeth the works." The Beelzebub method is illustrated today in the prevalent material methods of treating the sick and in the so-called mental sciences. One and all such systems rely upon the supposed action of the human mind. Although in materia medica the medium of matter is employed, nevertheless ordinary medical practice is little else than the practice of mental suggestion. Indeed the trend of modern medical thought is toward a frank admission of the suggestive character of material medicine. Belief in the method, as well as belief in the physician plainly is requisite for successful medical practice. When practicing medicine I have given, experimentally, a hypodermatic injection of pure water to a patient wild with pain, and have watched him go quietly to sleep. The operation would have been no less an instance of suggestive therapeutics had I injected the actual drug endowed through general belief with pain relieving power. Medicine is constituted in mental consent—it is whatever mortal mind believes it to be. Anciently human belief bestowed upon material objects supernatural power. A relic of such "medicine" is found in the modern practice of wearing amulets. Many people believe that a buckeye carried in the pocket has power to prevent rheumatism. It is not unusual to see a child with a piece of red flannel about its neck. That, many will tell you, is good for sore throat. Indeed there seems no limit to human credulity. It is perhaps within the facts to state that there is nothing "in heaven above or in the earth beneath, or in the waters under the earth" but has been used as medicine. That which in the kitchen is a food, becomes a medicine in the shop of the apothecary. True, mortal mind has usually abandoned its remedies about as fast as it has adopted them, but throughout the history of material medicine it has sought to find power in matter instead of in the divine Mind. It is a far journey, in point of time, from liquor of earth worms, once highly reputed in materia medica to modern serum of horses' blood, but the same mental consent has been required to furnish each generation with its ever changing pharmacopeia.

Mental suggestion and Christian Science are antitheses. The one is the supposed action of the human mind, which, being enmity against God, works only evil continually. The other is the power of God, divine Mind, and is wholly good. Christian Science has come to reassure mankind that all mental suggestions are mesmeric, wholly false, and can have no more reality and no more power than is bestowed upon them in belief.

Christian Science teaches how to free one's self, and others, from the belief of any influence other than the power of the one Mind—God: how to separate mental suggestions from the laws of divine Principle; how to eradicate false mental pictures from consciousness and to prevent them forming there; how to overcome fear; how to be unresponsive to sin. "But if I with the finger of God cast out devils, no doubt the kingdom of God is come upon you." Herein is the Christian method of healing found supreme—it not only heals the sick but reforms the sinner. If Christian Science did no more than eliminate the sinfulness of dissipation, in all its forms, it is proved the greatest restorative force the world has ever known. In Christian Science physical and social hygiene, sanitation, prophylaxis and therapeutics begin at their logical beginning in Mind, so that Christian Scientists are learning to think cleanly, normally, correctly, and thus to live clean, wholesome and normal lives. A sound mind produces and maintains a sound body as surely as effect follows cause.

A Practical Idealism

If Christian Science were to project merely a metaphysical system of theorizing about God and man, it would be the most impractical religion ever offered to a sin-burdened and disease-tortured race. But the idealism of Christian Science has a practical application to human interests. Because God is the infinite Principle, He is the source of all law. If, therefore, human affairs are to be ordered out of chaos, man must be governed by the law of God. This law is spiritual and its operation in human consciousness is to spiritualize thought. To the degree of his spirituality, therefore is a man redeemed from the discords of matter. When a man learns something of the truth about God and about himself, when he begins to understand that as the offspring of God man is the expression of Spirit and possesses only the divine, spiritual attributes, he begins to see the unreality of the false belief that he is subject to the so-called laws of matter. He begins to see that discord is no proper part of his experience, and that by realizing the facts of spiriutal being he can overcome all in his experience that is unlike God.

Thus he begins to take up the work of eliminating from thought the unspiritual qualities and of replacing them with the spiritual. He learns to reject as spurious thoughts that involve sin, disease, inharmony and limitation, because all such thoughts are not spiritual and to realize his divine heritage, dominion over all.

As this restoration of spiritual concepts goes on in the individual, the man is changed. He learns that man is well because God is whole and man is his expression. He, therefore, no longer accepts the domination of fear, false laws of health, hygiene, sanitation, but holds himself superior to these so-called laws of matter on the ground that God made man subject only to the laws of Spirit. Since the human mind and body are one, the body improves as the thought is improved, and health becomes normal and established.

In like manner such an individual finds his thought about sin undergoing a radical change. He finds that sin is of the carnal mind alone, and that as he comes into possession of the Mind of Christ, the fear of sin, the love of sin, and the ignorance of sin are destroyed. Thus sin and its effects disappear and righteousness is restored.

The Christian Scientist finds also his concepts of business improve. He begins to see that all real business is the activity of right thinking and belongs to the divine Mind. God is therefore the only employer, or proprietor, and business is wholly good. Thus the fears, doubts, discords, limitations and failure present or possible in the old way of thinking are displaced by right concepts and business is restored.

Thus Christian Science touches with its restorative ministry every human activity raising consciousness to a higher basis of the Christ ideal, turning thought into new and brighter paths, paths of health, paths of holiness, paths of loving service.

Triumph of Good Over Evil

The story of religion is the history of the world. To the student and thinker today is momentous with history in the making, with prophesy fulfilled. The restoration in human consciousness of the spiritual ideal has stirred to their depths the forces of evil which are ever at war with good. War is evil's self-destruction, and because it is so, how infinitely better is a just war than "a false convenient peace!" (Miscellany page 211.)

In the triumphant march of Principle against the hosts of evil, where did Christian Scientists stand? At home and at the front shoulder to shoulder with their fellow citizens and their allies, in support of a righteous cause. The ideals of Christian Science are the ideals of Anglo-American. Expressed in the words of Mrs. Eddy, they are: "Never to take away the rights, but only the wrongs of mankind." (No and Yes, page 40.) These are the ideals which enabled Mrs. Eddy to see, beyond the shell-torn battle fields the coming of the Prince of Peace. With true vision she saw the children of Principle, reunited, supreme over all, and the freedom of the world realized. In 1898 she wrote, in a poem, "The United States to Great Britain," these prophetic words:

"For Anglo-Israel lo!
Is marching under orders;
His hand averts the blow.

Brave Britain, blest America!
Unite your battle-plan;
Victorious, all who live it,
The love for God and man."

Conclusion

How shall we eptomize the restorative ministry of Christian Science? As Mrs. Eddy wrote of Christ Jesus, so may it be said of Christian Science, its "sublime summary points to the religion of Love." (Science and Health, page 138).

Little more than fifty years ago there was but one Christian Scientist in all the world, Mary Baker Eddy. Today, through her loving ministry, the restorative Truth plentifully is reaching humanity. Because of her love for God and man, she organized the Church of Christ, Scientist, "designed to commemorate the word and works of our Master, which should reinstate primitive Christianity and its lost element of healing." (Church Manual, page 17). Because of her love for God and man she established the Christian Science Reading Rooms, where the storm-tossed and distressed find refuge and comfort. Because of her love for God and man she founded the Christian Science periodicals which, daily, weekly and monthly send out the message of Truth's restorative mission. Through all its activities the Christian Science church is demonstrating the practical character of its idealism, for it is committed unselfishly to the redemption of humanity through the regenerating power of Christ, Truth, operating in human consciousness.

Christian Scientists desire nothing so much as that the power of God unto salvation, so richly enjoyed by them, because to them understood, shall be made available to their fellowmen. That is why all over the earth men and women are devoting their lives to Christian Science, to the restorative ministry of healing the sick and saving the sinner.

"Oh, he whom Jesus loved has truly spoken,
That holier worship, which God deigns to bless,
Restores the lost, and heals the spirit broken,
And feeds the widow and the fatherless.
Then brother man, fold to thy heart thy brother!
For where love dwells, the peace of God is there:
To worship rightly is to love each other;
Each smile a hymn, each kindly deed a prayer.
Follow, with rev'rent steps, the great example
Of him whose holy work was doing good;
So shall the wide earth seem our Father's temple.
Each loving life a psalm of gratitude.
(Christian Science Hymnal, pg. 172).

THE COLLECTION of telephone bills that remain unpaid after a reasonable specified date is—

WASTEFUL. Because it consumes in work that should be unnecessary, time, effort and expense that might be better devoted to necessary work.

EXTRAVAGANT. Because it lavishes upon work that should be unnecessary, the time the effort, the expense, that might be otherwise concentrated on the important business of keeping telephone service up to standards.

TELEPHONE SUBSCRIBERS can make a large part of this collection work unnecessary, just by paying their telephone bills within a reasonable time.

ANNUAL DINNER

Election of Officers and Entertainment at Calumet Club

The annual meeting of the Calumet Club, combined with the annual dinner and election of officers, was held on Saturday evening at the club house with the largest attendance in the history of the club for a like event. 240 members sat down to dinner at 6.30. In addition to this number there were many others who attended the following meeting and entertainment and who were unable to secure table reservation.

The large hall on the second floor was decorated for the evening with flags and bunting, the tables being placed the length of the hall, which they filled to the farthest end. During the dinner, which began at 6.30 following an informal reception, music was furnished by a colored jazz band, a very enjoyable program being rendered. Fantastic paper hats, hundreds of balloons and innumerable noise makers, all added to the fun of the repast and aided in promoting digestion. The menu was excellent and the dinner fully equal to the usual banquet provided by the club.

President George E. Willey presided, and in opening the business meeting following the dinner, he gave a summary of the year's activities of the club, its work in war activities, and paid high tribute to several of the officer. The election of new officers resulted as follows:

President William S Olmstead
Vice President Samuel E. Perkins
Secretary Fred H Farnham
Treasurer James M. Flinn
Directors for three years Danforth W. Comins, Wilbur S. Locke, Arthur W. Pitman.

Both the retiring and incoming presidents were given warm ovations, and in addition to their remarks, speeches were called for from the retiring and incoming President, Samuel E. Perkins and past Vice-President, George W. Fitch. Both responded to the satisfaction of their friends.

lowed. Violin selections and dancing was given by Miss Evelyn Lewis, and Miss Calita Conant entertained the gentlemen for almost two hours with songs and character sketches. She made a big hit and proved so attractive that she was prevailed upon to award the prizes for the bowling and pool tournaments, which she did in a most acceptable way.

Bowling prizes were presented to Team I H. F. Bidwell, F. I Baker, W. R. Baker, F. E. Gregory, P. A. Goodale; Team E—B. F. Miner, J. A. Maddocks, G. E. Willey, J. A. Tarbell, P. C. Simonds; Team J—T. P. Wilson, F. A. Parshley, G. A. Richburg, G. S. Littlefield, E. R. Keeper. B. K. Stephenson was presented with a silver buckle for the best net average 103 2-27, and Abbott Bradlee with a like prize for the best average with handicap 110 15-30. The team prizes were silk unbrellas, canes and bowl nut crackers.

Other prizes presented by Miss Conant for the committee were to Messrs. Newman and Comins, and President-elect Olmstead and Ex-President Dean for winning the cowboy pool tourament. These prizes were handsome pipes and canes.

THE FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

The annual meeting of The Fortnightly was held on Monday afternoon, April 11th. The annual reports of the recording secretary, Mrs. Harriet C. S. Hildreth, the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Helen F. Jordan, the treasurer, Mrs. George W. Apsey and the chairmen of the various committees, were read and accepted, giving to the club members a most interesting and instructive resume of the work of the club year 1918-19.

REV. MURRAY W. DEWART WELCOMED

Episcopal Rector Preached Sunday While on Furlough

Winchester turned out in a body on Sunday to welcome Rev. Murray W. Dewart, Chaplain of the 101st Artillery, on the occasion of his first sermon since before September, 1917. Rev. Mr. Dewart preached in his church, The Church of the Epiphany, before the largest audience of the year.

He was home from Camp Devens on a three day furlough, and after his absence of almost two years, the welcome accorded him by his parishioners and friends was a glowing tribute to the esteem and affection in which he is held.

Rev. Mr. Dewart took for his text, "Ye Are Bought With a Price," and after speaking of the significance of Palm Sunday and some of his experiences while with the 101st Artillery as a chaplain, urged upon the congregation the necessity of realizing and appreciating the great sacrifices made by men in the American Army for the protection of the people "over here" in America.

He also made a very stirring appeal to the congregation to stand for better things in their individual and community life, in order that the good that has been achieved in the war may be lasting in its effects on the people of this country. He urged upon his hearers the fact that the sacrifices by the soldiers "over there" should make the people "over here" in honor bound to stand for better things and a better country.

Among those present at the service were Mrs. Dewart and their three sons, Donald, Kenneth and Murray W., Jr. Rev. William S Packer who has been in charge of the parish while Rev. Mr. Dewart was in the army, assisted at the service.

Rev. Mr Dewart held an informal reception with his family after the service. He shook hands with several hundred people of the parish and of the town, who expressed their pleasure at his safe return from the war zone.

Rev. Mr. Dewart left for Camp Devens Sunday afternoon and will take charge of his parish on his discharge from the army in a few weeks.

Rev. Mr. Dewart served with the Massachusetts National Guard at the Mexican border, as a chaplain in 1916, and went across to France with the 26th Division in September, 1917. He was chaplain of the 101st Artillery Regiment until after the battle of Chateau Thierry in July, 1918, and was then transferred, after a rest at a hospital, to the U. S. Army School at Langres, in France. He was head chaplain at this school until shortly before he came back to this country on the Mongolia

LIBERTY LOAN COMMITTEE of Winchester

THE WINCHESTER STAR DEMONSTRATION HOME GARDEN

Conducted by

MRS. ALONZO F. WOODSIDE, 30 Lebanon Street

Co-operating with the

Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture and Home Economics

When can we plant with safety? This is a universal question among us home gardeners just about this time of the year. And it is as important as it seems because planting is governed by so many things such as moisture, temperature, climate, the time when the matured crop is desired and by the crop itself.

Perhaps it is safe to say we can begin to plant about the third week in April in this section. We shall plant our demonstration home garden about this time.

As planting varies each season, we are watching Nature's doings and are governing our planting operations accordingly. We shall not go far wrong by observing these natural signs.

We may safely plant vegetables which are known as hardy or cold weather types as soon as danger from heavy frosts is past and the soil has commenced to warm up some. At the time the young leaves appear on apple trees we may plant beets, Brussel sprouts, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, celery, kale, lettuce, onions, onion sets, parsley, parsnips, peas, radish, spinach and turnips.

We should not plant the tender or warm weather vegetables until all danger from late spring frosts has passed and the apple trees are in bloom.

Then we may plant our beans, corn, cucumbers, melons and squash. We may also set out tomato plants, egg plants and pepper plants at this time.

It is a good plan for us to plant our seeds somewhat thickly and later thin out the young plants to the desired distances. This practice is an especially important one to follow when we are in doubt as to the germinating qualities of our seeds.

We find there is nothing to be gained by soaking seeds before planting and this practice should be discouraged.

If we soak our seed potatoes for 30 minutes in a solution of 1 ounce corrosive sublimate in 12 gallons of water we can prevent many potato diseases. Dry in sun before planting.

Hilling or ridging up the soil only increases the soil surface hence producing more evaporation of soil moisture. This practice is only advisable on poorly drained wet soils and should be discouraged in all other cases.

It is well for us to plant the larger seeds such as peas, corn and beans from 1 to 2 inches deep and the smaller seeds not over ½ an inch in depth. We should take great care in covering the seed and firming the soil over it.

We should not plant too deep on heavy soils or when the ground is inclined to be wet. We should plant a little deeper in hot dry periods or on exceptionally dry soil.

It is perhaps better practice for us to apply our fertilizer broadcast over our gardens instead of applying it in the row itself. If seeds are allowed to come in contact with the fertilizer, we find that they will fail to germinate.

We should plant in long rows and not in small patches. Long rows save labor and space and they are very much easier to cultivate.

We feel that it is a good plan to plant the taller growing vegetables at the north end of the garden. If we plant a predominance of beans, greens and root crops we shall raise the maximum food value from a given area. We should only plant peas, corn and potatoes when we have a large garden and can spare the room.

Next week, we shall consider cultivating.

MUSIC MEMORY CONTEST

Interesting Stories of Some of the Selections

All the children in Winchester who are going to take part in the Music Guessing Contest to be held in May are thinking up all sorts of schemes and making up little plans of their own which will help them recognize the selections at the contest. Some little story about several of the listed selections will do a great deal toward making each child remember them.

The music of "Humoresque" by Dvorak, carries along with it the pathetic story of the court jester. The first part of this beautiful piece puts into short, gay little notes the jokes and comic words of the jester who must make the king laugh; but the second part is slow and solemn because it tells us of the really sad life of this man who must make jest though his heart is heavy; then again at the end the music brightens up to show that the jester is merry once more, forgetting his own sorrows in order to give others pleasure.

The "Erlkonig" of Shubert, starts off with rumbling music which tells us of the rushing night-ride of the anxious father who bears in his arms his feverish child. The music in quick, exciting dashes describes the stormy night and the father's wild anxiety and hope that his horse may be able to rush him in time to a source of help for his dying child. But the music grows sadder and sadder till at the end we realize that the grief-stricken father has arrived at his goal too late,—his child had died in his arms.

In the "Moonlight Sonata" Beethoven pictures a beautifully calm moonlight night; all is serene and fanciful, flooded with a mellow light. Throughout this graceful selection runs a light, simple melody,—just such a strain as runs through one's mind on a peaceful night.

What child does not immediately recognize Rubenstein's "Melody in F," the delicate music to which the charming words of "Springtime" have been written? The words tell us just what the music seems to send forth—a happy welcome to Spring. The sweet singing of the birds, the budding of the fresh green leaves, the peeping forth of Spring's first blades of grass, gladden every heart and bring rapture to the soul. The light music of "Melody" feels and is just what we all want to sing when we see the first signs of Spring.

The "Triumphal March" of Verdi's opera "Aida" sets everyone's feet marching. It has the compelling swing of a march and more than that, expresses a blare of trumpets which shows it to be a march of Victory. In the opera it is played when Radames, the hero who has led his country's army to victory, returns to this city. The wild cheers, shouts, drums and trumpets of welcome to the victorious hero are all splendidly brought out in the brisk, forceful melody and chords of the march.

Perhaps the most graceful, swaying melody, which is a well loved favorite with everyone, is the "Barcarolle" from Offenbach's opera "Tales of Hoffman." This music pictures one of the love-episodes in the life of the hero. It presents a Venetian scene on a beautiful summer night; on the moonlight waters slowly glides a gondola in which the lovers are seated. The words set to this music; beginning "O lovely night" are familiar to almost everyone. Slowly and gracefully the music brings with it a mellow strain of beauty, calm and enchantment.

Every child can weave stories in with the selections and thus recognition of the pieces is almost instantaneous. In this way when a selecttneous. In this way when a selection is played a vivid picture of its story will immediately come to mind and it will be very easy to connect it with the selection's correct name and composer.

SPECIAL AID

On April 20th at 3 o'clock, the Rev. Wm. Dewart will give an illustrated lecture in the Town Hall on "Devastated France." Refreshments will be served and a full attendance is desired.

Will every member of the S. A. reserve that date, come, and bring a friend. Mr. Dewart is well worth hearing, and his subject one of the most vital before the public today.

The following is an extract from a letter written by one of our hospital nurses in France: "You cannot put it too strong about the 'Dorothy Bags' as the boys call them. They are not allowed to have anything on, or under their beds so they hang this bag with all their toilet things and small souvenirs on a hook, which is at the head of each cot. We have bought 100 meters of cretonne, and have four French women sewing on them, and then we can only get enough each day for the stretcher cases. They are truly valuable."

If this is true in a Paris hospital on March 14th, it is also true at Camp Devens, and at the other hospitals for which we are working. We need your help, material may be obtained from Miss Gould, Myrtle terrace, at the Exchange, or from Mrs. Neilly, Walcott road.

NEW HOPE BAPTIST CHURCH BUILDING FUND

To whom it may concern:

I am glad to certify that I have known of the work of the New Hope Baptist Church, Winchester, from the date of its organization. There has always been a good spirit of harmony, and an earnest desire to build up their organization in a permanent way. The pastor, Rev. William H. Smith, is a man of zeal and consecration who, in connection with other employment by which he gains a livelihood, is ministering to the church, and is doing good work for the New Hope Church and for the colored people in Winchester.

I approve of the determination of the New Hope Church to secure a house of worship. They already have a lot free of debt, and considerable cash in hand. The church will not begin its building enterprise until the Executive Committee of the Massachusetts Baptist Convention is satisfied with the plans for the building, and is also satisfied that a sufficient amount of money has been secured to insure success in the undertaking.

Hugh A. Heath.

April 13, 1919.

This to to certify that the Deacons and Pastor of the First Baptist Church of Winchester most heartily approve of the effort now being put forth by the New Hope Baptist Church of Winchester to raise money for the erection of a house of worship on their lot on Washington street, near Cross street.

We have known the New Hope Baptist Church from the time of its organization, we have observed with satisfaction its constructive work, its steady growth and its splendid influence in the community under the leadership of its pastor, the Rev. William H. Smith, and we believe the time has come when plans should be made and money secured for building a suitable house of worship.

Harry T. Winn.

Newton Shultis.
Wallace P. Palmer.
Harry C. Sanborn.
Henry E. Hodge, Pastor.

Winchester, April 17, 1919.

To whom it may concern:

This is to certify that I heartily endorse the action of the New Hope Baptist Church in its efforts to raise funds to build a new house of worship. The church at present is very inadequately housed, and thereby crippled in its efforts to do Christian work. Its Pastor, Rev. William H. Smith, has been a resident of Winchester for ten years, and has the respect and confidence of his fellow ministers.

The New Hope Baptist Church is the only religious organization that is ministering distinctly to a constituency of fifty negro families in town.

The organization has a lot completely free of debt and is in the most flourishing condition in its history. The building project now under way has the endorsement of the State Baptist Convention.

Every dollar subscribed will be used for the Building Fund. It is hoped that the white citizens of this town will lend their support to this effort for the moral and religious education of these fellow citizens.

Howard J. Chidley.

THE HARMFUL INFLUENCE OF MOTION PICTURES

7 Webster Street, Winchester, Mass.
April 8, 1919.

Editor of the Star:

Dear Sir:

Apropos the oft-repeated question, "Why not Motion Pictures in Winchester?" I am enclosing a clipping from a recent issue of the Springfield, (Mass.) Republican, to which I suggest that you invite the attention of readers of the STAR.

A Motion Picture Theatre cannot do otherwise than exert a harmful influence upon the youth of the community which harbors it. This statement is not made at haphazard but as a result of experience with and study of the subject during a three years' term upon the Mayor's Board of Motion Picture Censors of East Orange, N. J.

One does not realize how far-reaching and subtle are the influences of the Motion Picture Theatre until he comes to study it at short range. Then he is sure to be convinced but, alas it is often too late.

Winchester is to be congratulated that it is free from this form of amusement and its citizens will do well to consider the matter most thoroughly before letting the "movies" get their head in the door.

M. P. Stevens.

A SCHOOL FOR GUNMEN

A Real Social Problem Right Here at Home

To the Editor of The Republican:—

I note in your edition this morning that another youthful gunman has appeared. How pleasant it is to see our efforts to develop the young bear such early and beautiful fruit. The young gunman the real young one, is on the increase. Fine! That's what we are after, and that's what we are getting. An all-wise and ever-answering Providence is with us. Ever go to the "movies," Mr. Editor? I don't mean "moving pictures." That is the Lyman Howe kind, and is distinctly a high-brow proposition. Of course that's where you belong, but take an hour off once in a while and drift into a side street, to a real thriller.

Rub up with a bunch of boys 10 to 18 or 20, who chew rank gum, smell abominably, talk all the time, use a language to which you are a stranger, Mr. Editor and who watch certain pictures with their slack jaws dropped, their foolish eyes bulging, and their purposeless hands twitching.

The fellow they watch is that magnificent movie cowboy, or that 16-year-old hero (always in evening dress) or perfect gentleman of a burglar, or intensely handsome, smiling tough, or others of that sort, all of whom flip out a "gun," twirl it around a finger and "drop" their man with an ease that is wonderful to behold. That's real life, that is. Imagine, if you can, "a guy wid de real stuff" in me, loafing around dis dead town [illegible] Springfield, when dere's [illegible] Say, [illegible] I'm goin' to [illegible]

I [illegible] I overheard [illegible] A big [illegible] on the screen, [illegible] as you [illegible] the way he pulled his [illegible] tough guys would have stirred your blood. [illegible]—at least the slobbering [illegible] of pitiful boys around me [illegible] Here are a few more sentences that I caught: 'Say, ain't he a peach. Look at the jaw on him.' Ever notice the naked jaw on these splendid movie heroes? Another boy, a little chap, well dressed and from a family where the napkins are clean, said breathlessly "I bet I can get a revolver. My brother had one and I bet it is somewhere upstairs."

Innocent enough remark, but you should have heard the devilish red-Indian savagery in the tone of that well-dressed little Springfield Sunday-school boy (he won't be when he's a bit older) who said the words; well, to cut it short, our movies are packed solid full of exactly the sort of lying sentiment lying action, and hypocritical, devilish stuff male and female, that is clearly suggested in what little I have quoted.

There may be a censorship, but if there is it is blind, if not dead, or bought. This stuff is absolutely sure to produce youngsters of the sort I sat with, and the sort that crops out increasingly in a shooting scrape. Perhaps that's what we're after, "guys wid de real stuff" in them, and if so we should be deeply happy, for our efforts are succeeding beyond what frail humanity might expect.

Hopeful.

Springfield, March 12, 1919.

PRESIDENT EAMES OF L. T. S. SPEAKS AT HIGH SCHOOL

Before a large and appreciative audience of students, president Eames of the Lowell Textile School spoke for three quarters of an hour on the advantages of technical training. He urged [illegible] every boy and girl to follow [illegible] as possible all branches of education. Mr. Eames showed a very interesting chart showing by means of [illegible] lines the progress of the boy with no education, [illegible] the boy with no education, and the boy with advanced education, with results which [illegible] After the lecture, Mr. Eames had a personal interview with a number of the boys who were interested in his school.

CALUMET BESTS KERNWOOD

The Calumet Club made a visit to the Kernwood Club at Malden on Monday evening, the usual matches in bowling, pool, billiards and cards being played, followed by a collation. Calumet was the winner, taking six points in bowling, two in pool and two in cards. Kernwood got two bowling points, two billiard points and one point in cards. Rogers and Stevens represented Calumet at pool, Comins and Smalley at billiards and Purrington and Reynolds at cards.

In the bowling Calumet won six of the eight points represented. The first team dropped the second and third strings, although the scores, especially the second, which was lost 531 to 541, were good. The second team made easy work of winning all four points. Stephenson led the field with a total of 336 on a single of 123. Bradlee got 313 with 107 and Gendron 307 with 118. Olmstead and Berry rolled singles of 111, Tarbell 109, Miner 107 and Taylor 103.

BASEBALL AND OTHER NEWS

(By Mack)

There was a meeting of the baseball Association at the Town Hall Wednesday evening, but owing to the weather there was not as large an attendance as expected. The few who gathered there had an informal talk on baseball, and all were enthusiastic over the coming season. The election of officers and arrangement for a manager were put over until Tuesday evening, April 22, when there will be a larger meeting and when the machinery will be started for the opening of the baseball season of 1919. The meeting will be called at [illegible] p. m. and all are invited.

It occurs to me before we start the baseball season that it would be a good idea to put one or two more rows of seats above the first base side. What do you say Messrs. Park Board?

And also while you are about it take the grand stand [illegible] and throw it in the river. It is an eye-sore on one of the most beautiful spots in Winchester. And right here I rise to remark that for a board who is doing the work for the town the present Park Board is doing, that they are being used pretty shabby by the citizens in the way of funds. Every other department seems to get what it wants. Why not the Park Department?

There will be a number of fast teams in the field this season and the writer is receiving letters every day in regard to games. But May [illegible] is early enough to start the season at home. We may have a game or two out of town for a starter.

You, who are interested in baseball will have to string along with the High School team until the Town team is ready to start its season.

And don't forget you can see some good games between the High School nines as some of them are evenly matched and a hit or an error is liable to decide the game one way or the other.

Winchester High opened the season Saturday, but were beaten 7 to 2 by Arlington. From what the writer could see there did not seem to be much to choose between the two teams, but bad outfielding and poor base-running put Winchester to the bad.

Arlington also handed Woburn High a beating this week 11 to 6, but it is early yet and later games may tell a different story. Winchester High will meet Woburn on Manchester Field, April 19th, and they say what they won't do to Woburn will be a shame.

I met "Nig" Flaherty of the 101st who has just arrived in Winchester and he said when the STAR arrived in France, Hindenburg and the Kaiser were forgotten, for the time being; especially during the summer when the games were on.

And in conclusion when you are looking for anything in the way of baseball news that concerns Winchester, read the STAR. It will be in it every week. Most of you fans know the writer and where he can be reached, and if there is any information you want, that I am able to give you, I will be only too glad to give it. It simply means we have all got to pull together and make this a big year. More next week.

FACTS ABOUT "THE BIRTH OF A NATION"

Coming to the Stoneham Theatre next Week, Wednesday and Thursday

Premier performance March 3, 1915, at the Liberty Theatre, New York. Some of the subsequent productions were: Tremont Theatre, Boston, Mass., beginning April 10; Illinois, Chicago, Ill., starting June 5; Brighton Beach Music Hall, N. Y., July 3; Nixon Theatre, Atlantic City, N. J., July 18th. All these were long runs of many months, the five separate companies aggregating a total attendance of 50,000 patrons weekly. Never before has a play run half a year simultaneously in so many cities, including also seventeen weeks in Los Angeles and eighteen weeks in San Francisco.

Produced by David W. Griffith, the foremost of directors and pioneer of the new art. Suggested by Thomas Dixon's novel, "The Clansman."

The play contains 5,000 scenes; presents 18,000 actors and 3,000 horses; cost $500,000 for actual production expense, and took eight months to produce. Story divided in two acts. Total time of performance, 2 hours and 10 minutes.

Reconstruction pictorialized in the actual South Carolina scenes, climaxing with a series of wild Ku Klux Klan rides that commandeered a county for a day and cost $10,000.

Women's dresses used 12,000 yards and Ku Klux Klan costumes 25,000 yards of cloth.

Wonderful artillery duels in which real shells costing $80,000 apiece were used. Miles of trenches, thousands of confederate and Federal fighters "were as it actually is."

Two shows daily will be given at 2:30 and 8:00. Patrons are requested to be in their seats at this time as the curtain rises promptly at these hours. Popular prices will prevail. Seats are now on sale for both days at the box office of the theatre.

Don't forget Foster Monday Pop Concert Night.

THE LAST CALL

For the fifth time since our Government declared war upon the German Empire the citizens of the United States are called upon to furnish the funds with which to pay the enormous cost of conducting a modern war.

Four times the citizens of Winchester have responded most loyally. Enough and more has been paid in each time to meet the quota assigned to us. Every one has felt proud to be a resident of a town that made such a splendid showing, not only in subscribing to each of the Bond issues, but for the Y. M. C. A., the Red Cross, the War Activities, and all calls that have been made upon us.

And now comes the last the Victory Loan. The end is in sight. The goal is near at hand. Let no one of us falter at this time but let us once more all together help to complete a record for patriotic service that shall stand for all time as a lasting memorial to the men and women of our town who throughout the Great War have been ready to make any sacrifice in support of our young men who offered their lives that Justice might still prevail among the nations of the earth.

The Secretary of the Treasury says this will be the last popular loan. The amount needed is much less than was expected; the rate of interest is higher, and the bonds are redeemable in so short a time that they ought to remain at or near par. So that we can honestly say that this is a safe investment, a good business proposition. 4¾%, practically free from taxation, is a good return for the use of money, and especially so for small investors.

The earlier loans have been remarkably successful in this town to a very great degree on account of the splendid team work of the Liberty Loan Committee. Substantially the same men are to manage this loan. They now ask that we will not oblige them to make a house to house canvass, but that on Wednesday next every man and woman in town, who can possibly do so, will come down to the Town Hall so that in a single day we may subscribe for our full quota of the Victory Loan one million one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars. A large sum! To be sure, but remember, this not a gift but a first class investment. If we could have been assured one year ago today that by giving this vast sum of money the war could be finished and a victory won before winter, how gladly we would have responded. Now let us not forget the anxiety of those dreadful days. Shall we allow it to be said that we are patriotic Americans only when danger threatens us?

We have been protected and saved from the rule of the Hun. He awaits the verdict of his judges at Versailles. Our boys are coming home; they have done their full duty. Let no one of the six hundred who went from Winchester ever be able to say that we who stayed at home failed to do ours.

When the bells ring out "The Last Call" on Wednesday next let us rally at the Town Hall as never before.

When the day is over and the reckoning made, may it be truthfully said: "Well done Winchester!"

Lewis Parkhurst.

COLORED QUARTETTE TO SING NEGRO MELODIES AT FIRST CONG. CHURCH, WEDNESDAY EVENING, 7.45

The Sedalia Quartette from Sedalia, North Carolina, will sing at the First Congregational Church next Wednesday evening, at 7.45. Mrs. Charlotte Hawkins Brown, Principal of the Palmer Memorial Institute will speak on Negro Education.

The quartette sang here a year ago and greatly pleased people from all the churches who came to hear them.

The Palmer Memorial Institute, which they represent was founded under the inspiration of Mrs. Alice Freeman Palmer, and has a number of strong friends in Winchester.

There will be no admission to the meeting Wednesday, but an offering will be taken for the work of the Institute. Rev. Joel H. Metcalf will preside.

THE QUESTION OF PIGS

Editor of the Star:

I do not wish by this letter to seem to criticize the Board of Health, for in this Commonwealth, there are none better and few its equal. I am trying to get the opinion of the citizens of the town as to the wisest course to pursue.

Last year on account of the war every one was urged to raise food products of all kinds, and under that heading came pigs. Licenses were granted freely to all who would increase the pork supply in this county and our citizens responded nobly as usual, and chiefly in that portion of the town where incomes are small and food prices are now a nightmare.

This year the Board of Health has decided to refuse to grant any licenses to keep pigs, except under the most rigorous conditions demanded. Is it the wisest thing to do? We must feed Europe for some time. The Board of Health say there is more pork in cold storage than ever before. The price is still exorbitantly high. In these times of labor unrest, such a course pursued by the Board of Health only tends to start one more blaze.

The Board of Health can grant a license, with definite conditions laid down as to cleanliness and sanitary conditions. If these conditions are not fulfilled, the Board of Health has the right to revoke the license. Why, assume every one is guilty before being given a fair trial? If the majority of citizens of this town, agree with the present decision of the Board of Health, enough be said.— but if there are others who do not believe this is the wisest time to stir up discord among those trying to do their level best to keep down their living expenses, I ask that they may be heard from.

Very repectfully,
H. A. Gale, M. D.

QUESTIONNAIRE OUT SOON

The Committee of Fifteen on Public Schools of Winchester has prepared a Questionnaire which will be mailed to parents of every child in public schools of the town, and, as far as it is possible to get the names, to parents of children in private schools and colleges. This list of questions has been prepared with careful and earnest deliberation, but its ultimate success and real value will depend upon a general and faithful response by the citizens. It is therefore hoped that the prompt filling out and return of this document will be considered the duty of each person who receives one, as his part toward helping on the investigation which the town voted to make. Any one who fails to receive a copy can obtain one by applying to the secretary of the Committee at 15 Pine street.

The board met at 7.30 p. m., all present.

Duffy and Cosmo Metrano, both of Woburn; also to James Haggerty of 161 Swanton street; and Giacomo Bengala of 165 Swanton street. These licenses are effective to May 1, 1920. The chief of police approved the granting of these licenses.

Licenses 1919, Dealers in Second-Hand Clothing and Furniture: The board voted to grant a license to collect second-hand articles, to Henry Wolinsky, 58 Border street, East Boston. This license is effective to May 1, 1920. Mr. Wolinsky's application was approved by the chief of police.

Licenses 1919, Hackney Carriages: Applications for a license of this class were received from Charles Goodgrass, Eugene P. Sullivan, Patrick Manice, Kelley & Hawes Company and Wills O. Purcell. These applications were laid over one week.

Licenses 1919, To Transport Intoxicating Liquors: An application was received from the American Railway Express Company asking for a permit to transport intoxicating liquors into the town of Winchester after May 1 1919. The board refused to grant this license and voted unanimously not to grant any licenses this year to transport intoxicating liquors into the town of Winchester.

Licenses 1919, Bowling Alleys and Pool Tables: A license of this class was granted to Charles E. Richardson, Park street, Winchester, effective to May 1, 1919. The granting of this license was approved by the chief of police.

Curbing 1919, Vine Street: The Board voted to have curbing laid in front of the Water and Sewer Board's work shop on Vine street, provided the Water and Sewer Department would furnish the labor for digging the trench and for filling it in again after the curbing is laid. The clerk was instructed to ask the superintendent of streets to get in touch with the Water and Sewer Board in regard to this matter.

Licenses 1919, Explosives and Inflamables: After holding a hearing in regard to the application of Mrs. Anthony Powers, 928 Main street, for permission to store gasoline in an underground tank and to sell gasoline from a sidewalk pump, and after reading the favorable report from the chief of the fire department, the board voted to grant Mrs. Powers a license for this purpose.

Pole Location, 1919, Pond Street: Messrs. Dennis Lawton, 31 Pond street, Henry C. Blake, 30 Pond street, Mr. Kent, representative of the Telephone Company, and Mr. Sanderson of the Water and Sewer Board appeared at the hearing in regard to the petition of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company for permission to erect 18 poles on Pond street from Cambridge street, easterly. Messrs. Sanderson, Lawton and Blake all remonstrated against granting this permission to the Telephone Company as also did the chief of the fire department, who read a report which he and the town engineer had made in regard to the same matter two or three years back. Mr. Kent stated the reason why the Telephone Company wanted those poles was on account of the high tension wires which were carried on the present poles by the Edison Company. These wires, he stated, were exremely dangerous as they might conflict with the wires of the Telephone Company and cause a dangerous condition of affairs all along the line. This matter was referred to Messrs. Kidder and Simonds of the board to take up with the Edison Company and to report back at a later date.

Mystic Valley Parkway (Tree:) The clerk was instructed to write the tree warden and ask him to call a hearing in the Selectmen's Room on next Monday night, if possible, at 8 o'clock, in regard to the advisability of cutting down a tree located at the junction of the Mystic Valley Parkway and Bacon street. The clerk was instructed to ask the tree warden to publish a notice in the STAR and also to post the tree.

Honor Roll: A letter was received from the town engineer asking that something be done in regard to building an approach to the Honor Roll. This matter was referred to the committee on Town Hall with power to act.

The meeting adjourned at 11.15 p. m.

George S. F. Bartlett,
Clerk of Selectmen.

HIGH SCHOOL EXHIBITION

Have you noticed the High School exhibits this week in the Boy Scout room? A chart showing the number of pupils prepared by the school for various colleges has been a permanent feature. Beginning Monday at 3.30, one day has been set apart for each department to exhibit its work in the window.

On Monday in the commercial exhibition there were shown bookkeeping samples short hand and all kinds of typewriting, including a poster done in decorative typewriting. The work in the history department shown Tuesday was illustrated by sample maps and notebooks.

The household art exhibit was most attractive. A dainty Easter luncheon was exhibited consisting of fruit cup, broiled halibut with tartar sauce, mashed potato, water lily salad, lemon jelly, and frosted cake, prepared by the freshmen and sophomore classes in cookery. The classes in sewing, dressmaking and millinery showed underwear, household linen, skirts, blouses, dresses, and hats. In correlation between domestic art and art a minature bedroom was furnished. Household Arts II showed their study in dietetics by a food plan for one day for a family of five.

Thursday, there was the science department exhibit. The household arts chemistry showed liquid soap, ink, paint pigments and samples of cotton and wool, bleached or dyed by the class. College chemistry was represented by an appartus showing the electrolysis of water. Notebooks indicated work done during the year.

Friday is the language day. In French there are letters, dictation, and composition. In Spanish I, there are compositions on the daily life of a pupil. The Spanish II class have themes on why Spanish should be studied. The German II class wrote letters on their daily life, and German III, papers explaining why the study of German should be continued.

The English department is represented by themes, poems, book reviews and book lists compiled by the various classes.

On Saturday sample pieces of work done in the Art Department will be displayed. The following are the aims of drawing and design in the High School as given by Miss Clark, head of the art department:

1. By means of artistic training to raise the standard of taste.
2. To develop an interest in an appreciation of, and a preference for fine design in public buildings and homes, historic and modern.
3. The colonial period in furniture and house decoration is studied by the girls in the Household Design course.
4. Civic design is new as a subject and is being introduced with mechanical drawing in the first year.
5. Appreciation of color in natural and in art is developed by means of elementary experience with landscape composition in water color.
6. Appreciation of the artistic element in fine books by picture making with pen and ink.
7. The history of costume is studied and the principles of design and color as they apply to modern ideas.

GORDON'S CENTRAL SQUARE THEATRE

Five big vaudeville acts head the all-star program at Gordon's Central Square Theatre, Cambridge, next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. Dorothy Gish who made herself famous in the "Birth of a Nation" is here in her strong impression role once more in "Peppy Polly;" DeWitt Burns-Torrence in "The Awakening of the Toys," a very pleasing act; Les Morchants, singing and dancing; Charles Dingle & Co., in a real old Irish skit, Tazat & Asle Comedy, musical offering; Tazar & Dale in a Mirth of Melody.

One of the most disconcerting situations ever put into a photoplay occurs in Dorothy Gish's latest Paramount picture "Peppy Polly" when Polly (played by Miss Gish), after planning with the judge of the juvenile court to sentence her to three months in a reformatory so she may obtain evidence of graft in the institution, comes into court and finds the wrong judge on the bench.

There will be an entire change of program Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Five big feature vaudeville acts.

The management announces that Jovedah, (The Girl with the Sixth Sense) will appear at an early date.

TREMONT THEATRE

Paris boulevards or New York's Fifth Avenue, it is claimed, never saw a more spectacular display of beauty and fashion than that which adorns John Cort's phenominally successful musical comedy "Flo-Flo," which opens an engagement at the Tremont Theatre, Boston, next Monday evening, April 21.

"Flo-Flo" is said to have lyrics that won't be forgotten, pithy lines, interesting situations, magnificent scenery, exquisite gowns, a chorus of which each member boasts of being a "perfect 36" and two teams of eccentric dancers that are surpassed by none in this country. It boasts of more pulchritude to every square foot of stage than any show on tour.

The "Flo-Flo" personnel includes Andrew Tombes, Rena Parker, James B. Carson, Thomas Handers, Arthur Mills, Burt Gardner, Edna Morn, Louise Beaudet, Armond Robi, Marjorie McClintock and Wm. Hugh Mack.

Matinees will be given on Wednesdays and Saturdays, with an extra matinee on Yankee Division day, next Friday, April 25.

IMPORTANT!

Men and women returning from service are earnestly requested to register at the Town Hall or Police Station. This is important in making accurate records for the Town and in giving aid to the various committees.

FOR ME AND YOU

In ever-glowing France
Near the unresting sea,
They laid my boy to rest,
Far, far from me.

Kind were the stranger hands
That bore my soldier-son
To his last bivouac,
The rest well won.

They placed the lowly cross,
Blest sign to all who weep,
And then with other boys

Wild birds sweet requiems sing,
Wild poppies radiance strew
Above these boys who died
For me and you.

They fought their inward fight,
They conquered mortal fear,
They flung away sweet youth,
To them so dear.

O, boy, my boy, my boy,
The heart aches ever anew,
But O, I am as proud,
So proud of you!

Garrison Flag.

The garrison flag of the United States army is made of bunting, with 36 feet fly and 20 feet hoist; 13 stripes; and in the upper quarter, next the staff is the field or union of stars equal to the number of states, on a blue field over one-third of the length of the flag extending to the lower edge of the fourth red stripe from the top.

Why We Have a "Victory" Liberty Loan

WE of the United States entered the war because we had to. The ruthless murder of our own men, women and children, on ships at sea, compelled us.

Without malice or hatred for the mistaught Boches, we went into war enthusiastically, determined that as it had to be done, we would do it thoroughly.

Great Britain, France, Belgium and Italy, after three years of tensest strain, were beginning to be weary. The fresh troops we poured into Europe in almost unlimited numbers, put hope and assurance into the hearts of the Allies, and dismay into the hearts of the Boche. His hour had struck.

To gather, equip, maintain, train and transport overseas our fast growing Army and Navy, required great sums of money. The unparalleled outpouring of the people's savings in the First and Second Liberty Loans furnished these sums and also kept the Allies in the field. The Third and Fourth Loans, with their still greater offerings of the people's savings, made it possible for our Army and Navy to accomplish their marvelous tasks.

By December 15, 1918, the money raised by the Fourth Liberty Loan was all used. There still remains the gigantic task of demobilization, the maintainance of an army of occupation, the care of the wounded, and the finishing of the ships.

These problems confront us now, and in order to bring the war to a successful conclusion we must lend more money and "finish the job."

THIS IS WHY WE ARE HAVING A "VICTORY" LIBERTY LOAN.

Patriotism is an abiding force in every American heart. The same sacrificing efforts which made the earlier loans so successful, will never leave this ob unfinished. The Victory is ours and we will pay for it by subscribing to the "VICTORY" LIBERTY LOAN. We will "finish the job."

RED CROSS

The Red Cross is well supplied with unmade refugee garments, good sewing machines, and all necessary sewing materials, but it does need workers. Can't you supply this need? If between now and June, more women will either go to the room to sew, or take garments home to make, Winchester will be able to show a splendid record for the winter's work. Don't leave all the sewing to a few faithful workers—do your share. The need for surgical dressings is over, but there is still a tremendous call for refugee garments for the poor people our boys have been fighting for. Let us do our part now as they have done theirs. It is our privilege as well as our duty to help.

There is also a good supply of wool on hand for children's sweaters and socks, which can be obtained at the room on Mondays and Wednesdays. There is still great demand for these knitted refugee articles. Will the women who have left their Red Cross aprons at the room please call for them? It is desired to have all aprons taken home as the space is needed for other things.

The Home Service Institute in Boston offers an intensive training course of 6 weeks to train Home Service workers, beginning April 21. The course consists of lectures, field work and assigned reading. More detailed information will be found on the Red Cross bulletin board, 9 Mt. Vernon street, or on application to Miss Katherine McMahon, 755 Boylston street, Boston. Can't Winchester furnish at least one or two people for this course?

BAPTIST CHURCH NEWS

The Rev. Gabriel Reed Maguire, D. D., pastor of the Ruggles Street Baptist Church, Boston, sometime missionary in Africa, will give his famous lecture on "An Irishman in the Heart of Africa" on Monday evening, April 28, under the auspices of the Men's Club. This lecture is one of the most thrilling addresses that may be heard from the lecture platform today. To this lecture the public are cordially invited.

W. H. S. NOTES

The basketball season was not very successful this year owing to the fact that two of our best players, French and Hart were out for serveral weeks. This broke up the team badly, but through the star playing of Raynor, this year's captain, we managed to win a few games. Next year we will have an entire team of "W" men in school and we may hope for a very successful team. The following men won a "W": Capt. Raynor, Skinner, Purrington, French, Eldredge, Vallely, Hart and Tansey.

PRIZE LETTER CONTEST

ARLINGTON GAS LIGHT COMPANY

Special Mention

Contest Manager:—

During my 35 years of housekeeping, I have had experience with all kinds of fuel. None of them can compare with gas. Some of the many reasons I have for preferring gas are these. The gas is always there, it never fails, there is no filling, kindling or waiting for coal to burn up. Ready at a second's notice day or night, a match is all that is needed. Invaluable in sickness as I can have hot water for medicine and hot water bottle in one minute and many a life can be saved by the quick work with a gas stove. In every kind of emergency connected with the running of a home, gas plays its important part. When an unexpected guest appears, the use of gas means instant and perfect hospitality. Gas as fuel will cook "just as it should be cooked" every kind of food ever served on a table. Bake, broil, steam, boil, simmer, fry and at any desired temperature. Every kind of canning, jelly making, drying fruits and vegetables during hot weather with least heat or trouble and all heat and expense stopped instantly when no longer needed. Gas will make perfect confectionary, as the heat can be so nicely adjusted by simply turning the valve handle and contents of dish will cook evenly. Economy in both time and fuel in cooking is wonderful as you do not light the gas until the articles are ready to cook, as the greatest heat desired is right there the moment it is lighted and the cooking begins at once. You stop all heat and waste of fuel by turning off gas before removing the dish. By using gas extra sleep and rest may be obtained in the morning as a nice breakfast can be so quickly prepared. Gas is splendid to warm the kitchen so quickly on cold mornings. With the "Water Heater" attachment the bathroom is always supplied with plenty of hot water, no matter how large the family. Gas is the quickest, cheapest and best for all laundry work, plenty of hot water quickly and at [illegible] expense and with the "iron heating plate" several irons can be [illegible] for any kind of material to be ironed. Also the plate [illegible] for 2 or 3 dishes with different kinds of food cooking at the same time with only one burner. By using gas there is no dirt, ashes, smoke or smell. If you wish to sit down to sew or rest and have your meal cooking you can rest assured the flame and heat will be the same all the time. I have every modern convenience in my house but I would rather part with any one of [illegible].

W. C. T. U. NOTES

Following the custom of a number of years the Winchester Union met last week Friday at the Home for Aged on Kendall street, where every woman resident of the Home is a member. As is also the custom, the children provided part of the program but an usual feature was a union "sing," led by Mrs. Ivan W. Moulton, the newer war time songs as well as the old, familiar patriotic airs being given to the great enjoyment of the hostesses.

Little Ruth Kingsbury gave a very dramatic rendering of "Barbara Frietschie" and Inella Mobbs gave a very delightful reading. Mrs. Harlan Ray read John B. Gough's "Building of the Temple" which seems almost prophetic in the light of the present growth of prohibition. Mrs. Maude Wolff also gave a reading and Rev. A. B. Gifford and Rev. Henry E. Hodge each spoke interestingly and [illegible] of the Union and the Home which is so much like home.

At the business meeting at which Mrs. Martin Knceland presided in the absence of the president, it was voted to contribute $25.00 to the fund to establish a scholarship at Simmons College in memory of Mrs. Katharine Lent Stevenson, for twenty years president of the Mass. W. C. T. U. Each member is urged to contribute at least twenty cents to this fund but as there will be no other meeting of the Winchester Union until after May 8, Mrs. Stevenson's birthday, when it is desired to have sum completed it was decided to take this amount from the treasury [illegible] the members to hand in their contributions later.

It was also [illegible] the day [illegible] third Friday [illegible] May meeting which [illegible] all day [illegible].

The High School base ball team was defeated last Saturday in the first game of the season on Manchester Field. The scheduled game with Belmont was cancelled owing to the dropping of athletics in that school, but Arlington was substituted on the list. Considering the number of new men on the team the High School made a good showing. Raynor, one of the two last year veterans, pitched very well through the seventh inning, when Captain Vallely took his place. The excitement started in the seventh inning when Murphy of Arlington knocked a home run with the bases full. This blow settled Winchester's hopes and the game ended with another run for Arlington in the ninth. Next Saturday the team plays Woburn here.

COUNTRY CLUB COURSE READY

Reconstruction of the Winchester Country Club course is completed. Everything is in readiness for the official opening on April 19.

The 14th green has been made about twice as large and has been backed up by a mound about two feet higher than the rest of the green, which will prevent a slight over approach, landing on the green, from rolling into the rough. Traps have also been dug on either side of it that will catch a poor approach shot.

On the 13th hole the brush on either side of the fairway has been cleared away and the ground rolled and seeded, making the fairway about 30 feet wider from tee to hole. The old ninth tee has been replaced by a new one, which is about three times the size of the original tee. The greens are in unusually good condition.

An 18 hole medal play tournament for members will be held April 19. It will start at 9 o'clock and continue throughout the remainder of the day. An [illegible] dinner and dance is scheduled for the evening.

The polls for the election of officers for the coming year, 1919-20, were open from 1.30 until 4.00.

Owing to a misunderstanding as to the time when active duties of the Recording Secretary should begin, Mrs. Lillian F. Mason kindly consented to allow her name to be placed on the ballot instead of Miss Frances Elder. Miss Elder is at present actively engaged in Red Cross Medical Social Service work at the Base Hospital, Camp Devens, but will complete this work the first of June. Miss Elder regrets that this situation has arisen as she was eager to accept the office.

The result of the election was as follows:

President—Mrs. Lora A. Bond

First Vice-President—Mrs. Harriet C. S. Hildreth

Second Vice-President—Mrs. Sarah J. Apsey

Treasurer—Mrs. Florence R. Scales

Recording Secretary—Mrs. Lillian T. Mason

Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. Helen F. Jordan

Chairmen of Committees

Home Economics—Mrs. Maud G. Smith

Civics—Miss Ethel A. Gleason

Education—Mrs. Lorence M. Woodside

Literature—Mrs. S. Emma Cole

Music—Mrs. Anna M. Mason

Legislative—Mrs. Mabel E. Bradley

Art—Mrs. Una H. Bird

Dramatic—Mrs. Carolyn D. Gilpatric

Membership Committee

For 3 years—Mrs. Mabel L. Kneeland

For 3 years—Mrs. Harriet A. Pace

Finance Committee

For 3 years—Mrs. Helen W. Kelley

At the close of the business meeting, Mrs. Richard W. Grant, assisted by Mrs. Fay Hoyt Lefavour, led the club in Community Singing, choosing first some of the old, familiar airs and later some of the more recent popular songs.

In the disappointing absence of the expected artist of the afternoon, Mr. Crawford Adams, violinist, his accompanist, Miss Nan Synoll, most acceptably entertained the club with a varied program of classic and ragtime selections some of which were her own composition.

Miss Cora Quimby then introduced the new President, Mrs. Lora A. Bond. The latter spoke charmingly of the value of a woman's club to a community. For instance, within the last two years, The Fortnightly has disbursed $2,013.16 for war work. As Mrs. Bond reviewed the excellent work of The Fortnightly in years past, members of the club felt the force of the statement that "It is every woman's duty and privilege to belong to the woman's club in her town."

At the adjournment of the meeting, the new officers formed in a receiving line at the front of the hall, and refreshments were served under the direction of the Social Committee.

It is to be especially noted that the next meeting of the club is to be on Monday afternoon, April 28th. Mrs. John Craig (Mary Young) will speak on "Drama at the Front." This will be an open meeting.

Report of the Secretary

April 11, 1919, brings The Fortnightly to the close of another club year. Unlike other years, there have been but eleven regular meetings instead of the usual fourteen. Through the efforts of the War Service Committee, it was voted on May 13, 1918 that six regular meetings of the club should be omitted and that a sum not exceeding fifty dollars for each meeting omitted should be given to the local Red Cross. The meeting of November 25th, December 23rd, and January 27th were omitted, but upon notice from the Red Cross that our financial aid was no longer needed, it was voted on February 10, 1919, to rescind the motion of May 13th, and to return to the regular routine. The Program Committee, therefore, proceeded to fill in the afternoons of February 24th, March 24th and April 28th, which were starred in the Year Book.

The entertainments this year have been pleasing and varied. Wilma Dearborn Carter charmed with her readings and she was ably assisted by Mr. Bennet, baritone. "The Sunbeams," Miss White and Miss McDonald gave songs and readings.

At the first meeting in the Fall the Club showed by the numbers present, that the members were interested to hear Mrs. Margaret Deland talk on, "Experiences in France." At the next meeting amid the pealing of the Victory bell on the Town Hall, another country was presented by Miss Alice G. Lane, who talked on "Russia."

On December ninth, the afternoon was in charge of the Dramatic Committee, Mrs. Gilpatric, Chairman. This committee presented a bright, catchy play, "Patty Makes Things Hum," written by their own Chairman.

Guest Night, the Reverend Newell Dwight Hiller gave a most stirring lecture on "America's part in the War." At this meeting the first Vice-President, Mrs. H. T. Bond presided. Owing to ill health, our President, Mrs. Eaton was obliged to go to California. She left her duties in the able hands of Mrs. Bond who has conducted the affairs of the club since then.

The Music Committee had charge of an afternoon when a delightful musicale was given by Pauline [illegible], Soprano, Piccardo Bonelli, Pianist, and Ruth Collingbourne, Violinist.

February 24th was the first [illegible] filled in by the Program Committee. They were most fortunate in securing the Reverend Joel H. Metcalf, who had [illegible] France and [illegible] "[illegible] Front."

The Reverend [illegible] "America [illegible]."

At the first meeting [illegible] was voted by the Club [illegible] should [illegible] no person [illegible] should be a guest of the club [illegible]

On February 24th this motion was rescinded and the afternoon of March 24 was made an "open" meeting so that a good sized audience was able to hear Robert MacMillan and to see his wonderful pictures of the Arctic Regions.

A new feature of the afternoons for the past year has been the singing by the whole club. With Miss French at the piano, this singing was at first confined to The Star Spangled Banner at the opening of the meeting. Then Miss French having procured some song sheets, instituted the custom of singing two or three songs at the beginning of each meeting. At the last three meetings at the close of business, Mr. Grant, Supervisor of Music, in the public schools, led the singing.

This year was the year of the Biennial. The Fortnightly sent its President to Hot Springs, Arkansas. The club has also been well represented at the State Federation meetings held at Boston, Marlboro and East Boston, also at all the Department Conferences possible.

The Fortnightly is still represented in the State Federation. Mrs. Wellington is a trustee of the [illegible] Fund, and Mrs. Eaton is on the Badge Committee.

Financially, the club has responded generously to the various war demands. Attention is called to the page in the Town Report where a list of the war work of The Fortnightly for the year 1917-1918 is given. Since the last Annual Meeting the club has given $100 to the local Red Cross, bought $200 worth of Liberty Bonds, raised $375 for the Victory Commission, given the Special Aid $100, the United War Work Campaign $200 and the fund for French War Children $10.

Miss Gleason, Chairman of the Education Committee, with the help of the Italian women of Winchester, raised $35 for the Italian War Relief Work by an Italian Supper held in the Town Hall. To this list should be added the work done by the committee in weighing and measuring children during the Child Welfare Campaign Week. Also the support of three French war orphans in memory of Mr. Heffon.

The average attendance for the year has been about 250.

Respectfully submitted,
Harriet C. S. Hildreth,
Recording Secretary

TELEPHONE STRIKE

Most Local Calls Cared For Here

Winchester in common with every other place in this vicinity found itself without outside telephone service after seven o'clock Tuesday morning when the New England Telephone Operators went out on a strike. The ethics of the controversy are still under public discussion in the daily press, but the fact is very apparent that this community has been most fortunate thus far in the absence of any necessity arising for the use of the phone. We have thus far been free of sudden sickness, accidents or fires.

Withall the strike has not turned out half so bad as most people thought it would. The local office has had from two to three persons at the exchange during the day hours to handle calls, and while in some cases it has been necessary to wait a few minutes before securing a call, in others the connection has been made immediately.

No efforts have been made or could be made to give connections outside the town, but most subscribers have been accommodated in town, much to their gratification. If three operators are able to give the service of the last few days they are to be congratulated upon their ability. The Chief Operator a traffic manager and one non-union operator are reported working at the local exchange. Ordinarily about 35 operators are employed here.

Two striking operators are kept constantly on picket duty in front of the Exchange in regular shifts. They appear to be in high spirits over the situation and on Wednesday afternoon the two on duty were giving an attractive exhibition of aesthetic dancing, to the interest of passers-by. Thus far no effort has been made here to break the strike or instal new operators. Persons using the phone locally should bear in mind that while an effort is being made to handle calls, only those absolutely necessary should be requested.

The men employed at the exchange went out Wednesday night in a sympathetic strike in common with those employed everywhere in this section by the telephone company.

On dark nights in spring the zodiacal light can be seen [illegible] like a great pyramid in the west. Its color is yellowish [illegible] in marked contrast with the pure white of the milky way. The zodiacal light is so large that it is often mistaken for some peculiar sunset effect. In watching for the zodiacal light small clouds in the west often prove a great aid. Clouds are always brighter than the night sky and appear white against it, but when the zodiacal light is shining behind them they always appear dull and black.

WINCHESTER VISITING NURSE ASSOCIATION

Reports of Secretary and Treasurer as Given at Annual Meeting

Madam, President and Members of the Association:

The twentieth year's work has been different in many ways from any preceding in the Association's history. Our way has been beset by rocks and ridges, which seemed at the moment insurmountable; but now we have reached the end of the way and are starting on another year's climb, we feel that our mountainous trip of 1918-1919, though the advance has not been far, has made our muscles hard, our strength increase, and our courage high, believing there cannot be a more rugged path ahead, but even if the way be hard, we can surely climb it.

Any one can understand that a Hospital and Nursing work, probably more than any other servants of the community, have suffered by war time demand the shortage of doctors, nurses called to the Red Cross work and subsequent frequent changes and inefficiency, difficulty in getting women of the proper calibre for the training school with war time wages proving so attractive, the domestic problem in the Hospital, the universal high cost of living and the epidemic. Nothing has ever taxed our work more than our one great problem of the year—it taxed our work our hearts, and our courage—the epidemic; but we are thankful to say that no call went unanswered. We couldn't have done it alone, the whole town did it with us. Former nurses volunteered to go on the District and into the Hospital; through the Public Safety Committee automobiles were at the nurses' command. Many were the homes where food was a necessity and no one to provide it, so Mrs. O. C. Sanborn organized daily relief with broths and other nourishing food which was delivered to those who needed it. Others went into the Hospital and took the cooking, cleaning and laundry work into their hands; two extra nurses were employed on the District. It is inadequate to thank these people. Out of this condition some good has really come; it has roused the people of the town to a consciousness of what a hospital and a District Nursing organization means for help, and a horror of what our toll of suffering would have been without them.

Just to touch a little on the year's work:—The town responded in a satisfactory proportion to it's child population to the nation wide call to weigh and measure children under five. This is a measure to start on the path of health children under the school age before they have the oversight of the school nurse. Out of this has come the child welfare work, which has not grown into any such dimensions as we have wished, but the problems of the war and the epidemic had to outway any other consideration and that, at least, has a strong start to grow this coming year. Prenatal work also is underway, which will be the great boon to bettering the race, the need of which has been demonstrated through the draft.

It is enlightening to know that the nurses on the District have made to per exact knowledge, 4,207 calls. They have really done more than that, for during the epidemic, the extra nurses did not make a report of each case in a household, including regular bedside nursing, social service, baby-welfare and prenatal visits, more than 100 visits a month of the latter three. The Hospital has cared for 732 patients.

During the year we have acquired a Ford car, which has come to be a necessity of efficient district work. That is nothing the Association has accomplished, nothing in which we can take pride, except a pride that by our work we have back of us friends who are interested in our need, and generously provided us with the means of doing our work well. It has proved a boon to the work, and we are greatly indebted to Mr. and Mrs. William Palmer for their generosity.

It is inevitable that we must look to the town to help us in these ways. The Directors put in their work and experience. It is not an organization run for the community's good just by the Directors: it is an organization for the whole town to participate in; and we must always look to many

EXCITEMENT IN SQUARE

There was great excitement in the centre Wednesday forenoon when the police, in arresting two suspected men, had a chase down back of the railroad station to get one of them, the officer firing his revolver into the air.

The two men were seen by Edward McKenzie near Wildwood Cemetery. One appeared to be on guard while the other was searching among the leaves and tree stumps. He telephoned the police and then kept watch on them.

They finally left and went to the centre. Sergt. McCauley and Officer Cassidy were waiting for them. As the officers started towards them at the crossing they ran, one being quickly caught by McCauley and the other chased by Cassidy. Two firemen, John Flaherty and John Gorman joined in the chase, they being taken by the driver of R. E. McDonald's auto. As officer Cassidy ran he fired his revolver into the air to stop the man, but without results.

Meanwhile Gorman in the auto had almost overtaken the man at the rear of the railroad station. Seeing that he was caught, he ran over the wall into Rangeley, where Gorman, who had left the car followed him, and caught him.

The square was black with people and the excitement was intense, no one knowing what the men had done, and the wildest stories were circulated. At the police station nothing could be found to incriminate either man. Both had been arrested, and they told conflicting stories of their doings, but after being kept for several hours they were allowed to depart.

Troop 6, F. C. Wormelle, scout master, reports the following new scouts for registration: Thomas Lynch and Hall Gamage. The troop is also preparing a signalling team to enter the council rally in May. Troops 1 and 3 are both working hard in anticipation of the inter-troop contest that is to be held some time in May.

Scout Books

Winchester scouts will find a number of books recommended by the national head-quarters in the Winchester Public Library. All scouts should avail themselves of this splendid opportunity of securing good reading material. Scouts who are making plans to purchase scout books should first consult the catalogue at headquarters.

POP CONCERT

Brilliant Affair This Year at Town Hall

The annual Pop Concert was held this year with all its former brilliancy and attractiveness in the Town Hall last Monday evening. It proved to be the most attractive concert yet of the series, for with the secession of the war the elaborate decorations and the attractive menu, together with an unsurpassed musical program, all returned to add to its splendor. The attendance was the biggest ever, tables being set up in both the large and small halls and even then being hardly sufficient to care for the demand for reservations.

The concert was given under the direction of the Pop Concert Committee, a group of ladies headed by Mrs. Oren C. Sanborn, and including Mrs. H. C. Munroe, Mrs. C. O. Mason, Mrs. W. F. Witherell, Mrs. P. W. Witherell and Miss M. Alice Mason. This committee, as in years past, was assisted in its work by Messrs. Warren F. and Percy W. Witherell.

The decorations were of pink and green, streamers and tapestries, with white muslin curtains at the windows, many trellises of pink sweet peas, and statues in the hall corners, making a charming and effective setting for the evening's enjoyment. Programs with the music and menu were in a like combination of pink and green and were a feature of the affair, and general dancing was enjoyed following the concert.

The music was given this year by the Ladies' Boston Philharmonic Orchestra, Miss Hazel Clark, Conductor and violin soloist, Miss Helen Choate, soprano and Miss Marion Hyde at the piano. A. H. Handley, well and favorably known to the local music lovers, was the director. A feature of the music was the community singing, which was led by Mr. Charleton Cummings of California.

The Victory Loan was represented by Lieut. Patrick O'Brien of the 101st Inf. Lieut. O'Brien was introduced by Chairman Ralph E. Joslin of the local Liberty Loan Committee, and he gave an interesting talk on overseas experiences with the 26th Division.

Mrs. Harriet C. Munroe, chairman of the refreshments at the Pop Concert offered a tempting menu which was served by thirty-one very attractive girls, dressed in white with pink sashes, in a most efficient way. The girls who served were:

MUDGE—WHITING

The marriage of Miss Kathryn Virginia Whiting, grand-daughter of Mrs. Frances Anne Chambers of Roanoke, Virginia to Capt. Arthur Warren Mudge, Jr., took place on Wednesday, April 23rd, at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Mudge of 7 Wedgemere avenue.

The bridal couple were attended by Miss Alice Phillips Tatler of Trenton, N. J., and Mr. William Forbes Mudge, brother of the groom.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Howard J. Chidley, D.D., of the First Congregational Church of Winchester.

Capt. Mudge is a M. I. T. man, class of '14; he enlisted in the U. S. Army in April 1917, from which he has just resigned to take a position with the Antoine Chiris Co., of Grasse, France and New York.

At the time of his resignation he was on duty with the 22nd U. S. Infantry, Fort Jay, Governor's Island, N. Y.

Capt. Mudge and his bride left immediately for New York City, and will reside for the present at 138 Orchard street, Newark, N. J.

THE FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

The next regular meeting of The Fortnightly occurs Monday afternoon, April 28th. The treasurer calls attention to the fact that annual dues are payable at this time. Members are urged to be prompt at the business meeting at 2.30 as the program is an "open meeting" and begins at 3.30.

The Fortnightly and friends are fortunate, indeed, in having this opportunity of hearing Mrs. John Craig speak on "Drama at the Front." It is the story of her own and Mr. Craig's experience "over there," told with the exquisite simplicity and charm that belongs to "Mary Young" alone. It is a story of weeks of toil, many difficulties to be met and mastered with but one purpose—to cheer "the boys" wherever they found them, in rest camps, in hospitals at the front within sound of the guns. It was a work much broader and deeper than "drama," full of a personal sympathy that could not fail to bring cheer, strength, and courage to all who came under its influence.

Questionaire

There will be mailed by the Committee on Historical Record, to the family of every person who served in the Army or Navy of the United States or her Allies or who served overseas in the Red Cross or United War Work Activities, a question blank to be filled out by the persons who so served or by their families.

This data is needed to prepare an Historical Record of War Service to be published and presented to every family in Winchester.

It is important that these questionnaires be filled out correctly and returned promptly to the Committee.

Committee on Historical Record, Town Hall.

NOTE: The above committee desire all data relative to men or women who served in the Civil, Spanish-American or War with Germany. Kindly communicate with the Committee.

SIBLEY TO SPEAK

Noted War Correspondent Will Be at the Calumet Club

Announcement was made yesterday of the last ladies' night of this season at the Calumet Club, and fully as important was the news that Frank P. Sibley, one of the staff of the Boston Globe, one of the few war writers to be decorated by the French Government, would be the speaker. In the war from the beginning to the end, Mr. Sibley has a fund of information and a list of thrilling experiences to his credit enjoyed by few others. He will be present at the club and tell some of them.

The affair is to be held on the evening of Monday, May 5th, and as it is impossible to accommodate other than members and their families, the attendance is to be so limited.

HEFFLON MEMORIAL

Proposed to Place One In Wadleigh School

Action has been taken by interested friends in placing a suitable memorial to the late Joseph H. Hefflon, former principal of the Wadleigh School, in that building. Many people have expressed an interest in the matter, and in order that all may have the opportunity to contribute to the memorial, subscriptions may be left at this office and will be acknowledged in the STAR.

A committee of three has consented to serve in the matter and take charge of the selection of the memorial and the wording of any inscription which may be deemed suitable to be placed upon it. The memorial will be placed in the Wadleigh school where Mr. Hefflon taught until he left for work in France last Spring. The committee in charge which has consented to handle the matter includes Selectman Henry A. Emerson, Chairman Henry S. Chapman of the School Committee and Mr. George C. Coit, formerly of the School Committee.

It seems eminently fitting that there should be a memorial in the school to Mr. Hefflon, probably the most popular principal the school has ever had, and while the scholars are interested in the matter, many outside have expressed a desire to share in its installation. The following letter has been received from the School Committee expressing its approval and support:

Winchester, April 23, 1919.

To the Editor of the STAR:

Sir:—The School Committee has heard with interest of the plan to commemorate the services of Mr. Hefflon both to the schools of the town and to his country. It believes that such action would be most fitting and it is glad to give to the project its cordial approval. It is hoped that the response of the people of Winchester will be so generous that the memorial will be creditable to the town and in some measure appropriate to the merits and the services of the good man and faithful citizen whose loss we all deplore.

Very truly yours,
Henry S. Chapman.

Former Superintendent of Schools, Schuyler F. Herron, a close friend of Mr. Hefflon, and now in France, writes as follows:

Education Department,
Y. M. C. A. Gondrecourt.
March 14, 1919.

Editor of the Star:

Dear Mr. Wilson:

I am glad to hear that it is proposed to place in the Wadleigh Grammar School a memorial to Principal Joseph H. Hefflon. Mr. Wait and I talked about its desirability when in Paris at his funeral. It seemed to us that it should be arranged for the sake of the pupils and as a deserved tribute to a brave man.

Mr. Hefflon died for his country and humanity as truly as any other man from America who has fallen in France. He was a superior teacher, a wise Principal, a sympathetic friend of young people, a patriotic citizen and an efficient member of the American Expeditionary Force. A memorial in the building where he labored will continue the inspiration of his life and sacrifice.

May I suggest that the pupils should have a share in providing a memorial? They loved him as he did them. They will be glad to show their appreciation of all that he did for and with them and will be benefitted by participation in perpetuating his memory.

Yours very truly,
Schuyler F. Herron.

BASEBALL NOTES

On Saturday of this week the High School baseball team will play Dorchester High. At present Dorchester High is leading the other Boston nines in the race for the city championship. Our heavy hitters have got going and all are aiming for the mate to the straw hat of our first baseman, McCartney. The team this year has got the goods and all we want is that some of the townspeople come down and give us an opportunity to show you how we can prove it. Don't forget, Manchester Field, at 3.15 p. m. Saturday. Winchester vs Dorchester.

LIBERTY LOAN

Winchester's drive for its quota of one million, one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars in the Victory Loan is going well. The scheme of holding one big day, when everyone was expected to go to the Town Hall and subscribe worked well.

The morning opened at the hall at 6 o'clock, and shortly before seven the residents were awakened to their duties by the ringing of bells and blowing of whistles. Under the direction of Chairman Ralph E. Joslin of the Committee, aided by Charles E. Barrett, secretary, Cutler B. Downer, publicity chairman and Harry A. Goddard of the men's committee, an active campaign was carried through. Others of the committee who were active at the hall included George B. Whitehorne, Harold E. Ball George T. Davidson, Harry A. Norton, Arthur W. Dean, Mark R. Jouett, Addison R. Pike, Harry C. Sanborn and Carl F. A. Seidhof.

There were 40 tables in the hall, besides two booths of the two banks. Of the tables ten were in charge of the Women's Committee, who were very active all day and who secured the bulk of the subscriptions. This committee was headed by Mrs. Daniel C. Dennett, and at the tables were Mrs. W. R. Moorhouse, Mrs. C. M. Crafts, Mrs. W. A. Lefavour, Mrs. F. S. Scales, Miss Helen Hall, Mrs. George E. Willey, Mrs. C. E. Ordway, Mrs. A. R. Pike, Mrs. C. A. Burnham, and Mrs. R. S. Taylor. Each lady had a number of assistants helping her.

Up to the noon hour over 500 subscriptions had been cared for at the hall, while many more had been received at the banks. The sum at that time realized was about $200,000 so far as could be reckoned. The evening, however, was the big time, for everyone went to the hall and listened to the music, saw the baby tank and bought a bond. As early as seven o'clock it was reported that $600,000 had been taken in.

The hall was opened at 6 and a band gave a concert about town until 9. At 4 the concert was renewed, continuing until 9.

The tank arrived on a big truck shortly after seven, but it was not until after nine that it was unloaded, it being difficult to find a place to get it off. An attempt was made to take it off at the rear of the First Church, Scientist, but soft ground made this impossible. It was finally taken off at the Whitney Machine Co., and it traveled about the centre and fired volleys from its machine gun for an hour or more.

THE WINCHESTER STAR DEMONSTRATION HOME GARDEN

Conducted by

MRS. ALONZO F. WOODSIDE, 30 Lebanon Street

Co-operating with the

Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture and Home Economics

Didn't that fresh soil smell good on the 19th as we turned it over in preparation for planting? And did you notice the many cutworms that were exposed when forking over the soil. This mild winter has been very good to our garden insects and pests. They are all with us again this spring.

We may just as well make up our minds right now that we shall have to wage a royal war on cutworms and plant lice this season. The latter are already sucking the life out of the young green shoots on the apple trees.

Did you notice the names of those hardy vegetables that were listed in last weeks' article? We should get busy and get these in if they are not already planted. We can let the tender vegetables wait for two or three weeks yet before planting them.

We backyard gardeners with our small areas must conserve space if we wish to obtain a maximum yield. And that's what we are all after—a large production.

So why not plant radishes in that row of parsnips. They will be ready to eat before they begin to crowd the parsnips. Then we can grow a head of lettuce between our early cabbage plants and hills of pole beans. What's the use of giving over a portion of the garden to lettuce and radish when they can be grown elsewhere?

If we set out a row of onion sets and leave a space every 2 feet, a tomato plant can be planted there later but it should be trained to one stem and tied up on a stake. The onions will be out before the tomatoes need the room.

A hill of bush beans may be grown between our hills of corn. Squashes are also grown among corn to good advantage. We recommend that only early varieties of corn be planted this year in areas infested with European Corn Borer. Better none at all.

We should not let any available space remain idle but see that something is always growing there. We are all surprised sometimes at the amount of vegetable products we see growing in some neighbors garden.

We should make it a point to set out right away a few lettuce and early cabbage plants. We can obtain these from most any greenhouse.

Next week we will discuss transplanting and methods for protecting young plants from garden pests.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE

It is not only for the sick Winchesterite, but the sick Winchesterite's friends, that the physician comes. His presence is—often as good for them as for the patient, and they long for him yet more eagerly. How we have all watched after him! What an emotion the thrill of his auto at the door, has made us feel! How we hang upon his words, and what a comfort we get from a smile or two, if we can vouchsafe that sunshine to lighten.

Who hasn't seen the mother prying into his face to know if there is hope for the sick infant, that cannot speak, and that lies yonder, its little frame battling with fever? Ah, how she looks into his eyes! What thanks if there is light there; what grief and pain if he casts them down and dare not say "hope!" Or is it the housefather that is stricken. The terrified wife looks on, while the physician feels his patients' wrist, smothering her agonies as the children have been called upon to stay their plays and their talk. Over the patient in the fever, the wife expectant, the children unconscious, the doctor stands as if he were fate, the dispenser of life and death; he must let the patient off this time; the woman prays for his respite!

One can fancy how awful the responsibility must be to a conscientious man; how harassing the sympathy with survivors, if the case is unfortunate—how great the delight of victory.

There are a few families here in Winchester or elsewhere, in which love is not abused as furnishing a license for impoliteness. A husband, or father, or brother, will speak harsh words to those that he loves the best, and to those who love him the best, simply because the security of love and family pride keeps him from getting his head broken. It is too bad that a man will speak more impolitely at times to his wife or sister, than he would dare to to any other female, except a low and vicious one. It is thus that the holiest affections of a man's nature prove to be a weaker protection to a woman in the family circle than the restraints of society, and that a woman usually is indebted for the kindest politeness of life to those not belonging to her own household.

Things ought not so to be. The man who, because it will not be resented, inflicts his spleen and bad temper upon those of his hearthstone, is a small coward and a very mean man. Kind words are the circulating medium between true gentlemen and true ladies at home, and no polish exhibited in society can atone for the harsh language and disrespectful treatment too often indulged in between those bound together by God's own ties of blood and the still more sacred bonds of conjugal love.

Dr. Johnson wisely said: "He who waits to do a great deal of good at once will never do anything. Life is made up of all things. It is but once in an age that occasion is offered for doing a great deed."

True greatness consists in being great in little things. How are railroads built? By one shovelful of dirt after another, one shovelful at a time. Thus drops make the ocean. Hence, every Winchesterite should be willing to do a little good at a time, and never wait to do a great deal at once. If we would do much good in the world, we must be willing to do good in little things, little acts one after another speaking a word here and a word there, and setting a good example all the time.

In the Church we have "the getters," "the givers" and that third class known for many centuries as the "Laodiceans." In the book of Revelation they were described as being neither hot nor cold, and the wish was vehemently expressed that they might be one or the other. Sam Weller described that chalybeate taste of warm spring water as having the "flavor of warm flatirons," which fits very well into the description of the Laodiceans; and yet he is not to be despised, as a Winchester pastor recently emphasized for he is the material upon which the active members of the church, including minister, congregation and choir leader, must work in order to bring out their latent power and make them useful members of society.

Writing editorially the Christian Register says:

"The givers are those who, having been enriched by gifts drawn from the storehouse of universal blessing, are eager to impart of their abundance to the rest of the world. For them the church is a human apparatus fitted with spiritual dynamos of which advantage may be taken by all who love their fellow-men. They are the benefactors of the community, and by organizing and supporting living churches give impetus to every worthy cause and the enthusiasm of humanity that reveals itself in countless good work. The statement was once made on this page that the church, or institutions of religion that are like it in spirit and purpose, has been the founder of every kind of useful institution, including such, for instance, as represent science, education, benevolence the healing art, and artistic developments of every kind. The statement was vigorously controverted by a man who held that many of the most useful institutions and movements were rivals of the church and in origin independent of it. After a spirited controversy he gave in and admitted that our statement was true.

The getters, who frequent the church and often contribute liberally to its support, are Laodiceans who have begun to appreciate the consolation, comfort, and courage which are supplied to them. They stand halfway between the workers and the indifferent ones, and would be shocked to learn that they are really parasites and pensioners, dependent upon the spiritual energy evoked for them by those who stand nearer to Him 'in whom we live, and move, and have our being.'"

Mr. Rogers was prominent in the Calumet Club, and at the beginning of the war went to France with C. N. Eaton to drive in the ambulance corps. It was these two gentlemen who raised the funds for the purchase of the unit known as the "Winchester Ambulance." Upon the entrance of the United States in the war, Mr. Rogers was invalided home. He later entered the Canadian aviation service, but the armistice was signed before he had completed his training.

NEW HOPE BAPTIST CHURCH BUILDING FUND

To whom it may concern:

I am glad to certify that I have known of the work of the New Hope Baptist Church Winchester, from the date of its organization. There has always been a good spirit of harmony, and an earnest desire to build up their organization in a permanent way. The pastor, Rev. William H. Smith, is a man of zeal and consecration who, in connection with other employment by which he gains a livelihood, is ministering to the church, and is doing good work for the New Hope Church and for the colored people in Winchester.

I approve of the determination of the New Hope Church to secure a house of worship. They already have a lot free of debt, and considerable cash in hand. The church will not begin its building enterprise until the Executive Committee of the Massachusetts Baptist Convention is satisfied with the plans for the building, and is also satisfied that a sufficient amount of money has been secured to insure success in the undertaking.

Hugh A. Heath.

April 13, 1919.

This to to certify that the Deacons and Pastor of the First Baptist Church of Winchester most heartily approve of the effort now being put forth by the New Hope Baptist Church of Winchester to raise money for the erection of a house of worship on their lot on Washington street, near Cross street.

We have known the New Hope Baptist Church from the time of its organization, we have observed with satisfaction its constructive work, its steady growth and its splendid influence in the community under the leadership of its pastor, the Rev. William H. Smith, and we believe the time has come when plans should be made and money secured for building a suitable house of worship.

Harry T. Winn,
B. F. Jakeman,
Newton Shultis,
Wallace P. Palmer,
Harry C. Sanborn,
Henry E. Hodge, Pastor.

Winchester, April 15, 1919.

To whom it may concern:

This is to certify that I heartily endorse the action of the New Hope Baptist Church in its efforts to raise funds to build a new house of worship. The church at present is very inadequately housed, and thereby crippled in its efforts to do Christian work. Its Pastor, Rev. William H. Smith, has been a resident of Winchester for ten years, and has the respect and confidence of his fellow-ministers.

The New Hope Baptist Church is the only religious organization that is ministering distinctly to a constituency of fifty negro families in town.

The organization has a lot completely free of debt, and is in the most flourishing condition in its history. The building project now under way has the endorsement of the State Baptist Convention.

Every dollar subscribed will be used for the Building Fund. It is hoped that the white citizens of this town will lend their support to this effort for the moral and religious education of these fellow citizens.

Howard J. Chidley.

TELEPHONE STRIKE SETTLED

The telephone strike was settled on Monday afternoon and on Tuesday the usual service was opened in this section. It was reported in Boston papers Monday morning that an agreement had been reached between the strikers and the officials engaged in adjusting the difficulties, and local service was resumed, but at noon the operators at the Winchester exchange again went out, it having been reported that a hitch had occured in the negotiations. A telegram was sent to Boston headquarters of the union, which brought the order for the local members to "go out." The strike was settled at about the time the local operators left their switchboard. There was some local service in the evening, and Tuesday morning everything opened up.

CANNES—ALONG THE MEDITERRANEAN—FRANCE

The following leter is from Sergt. Frank M. Collins of 6 Fitzgerald avenue, Wincheser, Mass.:

March 8th, 1919.

Dear Mother:

At last I have an opportunity to write and let you know I am on my first furlough since being in the Army and here I am down in this beautiful country along the Mediterranean Sea. I am certainly enjoying it all and what a great change it is from the rainy and muddy France I have seen before. Really Mother I couldn't believe any part of France was worth visiting but now I know different.

This is the land of sunshine, palm trees, orange trees, lemon trees, the most beautiful flowers, magnificent buildings and I don't know what not.

A week ago today I was notified my leave would start the following day so I cleaned up and put on all my best clothes. Last Sunday afternoon at 3.30 about 70 of us from Mesves started and rode to Nevers, where we changed trains, and boarded one which got into St. Germain about midnight. Well, we were rather tired so went to a small hotel and hired a room for 5 francs each. We had to get up at 5 o'clock next morning as the train pulled out at 5.30. You can imagine how hard it was for me to get up at that early hour for I like my sleep as well as ever. Anyhow we made the train and about 10 o'clock that morning landed in Lyon. I think this is the next largest city to Paris and nearly as large as Boston. Just now there is a world's fair going on there and all countries are represented in the various booths throughout the city. We went around and saw considerable of this city and enjoyed the remainder of the day there.

There is a beautiful Cathedral way up on a hill and we visited inside. They have some wonderful Cathedrals in France. About eleven that night we went aboard what is called the American Special with about twenty cars filled with soldiers going to the leave Areas along the Mediterranean. The car we rode in was one of the German coaches which they had to hand over and all the signs on it were in German. Being very tired, after promanading through the streets in Lyon I soon fell asleep on the hard wooden seats and on awakening found we were down in Marseilles. It was about seven o'clock I believe.

The American Red Cross were there and had a taste of coffee which is not like the coffee back home. There was only a short delay in Marseilles and we were off again on the last lap of our journey. After riding a short way we soon had our first glimpse of the beautiful Mediterranean and then started the high mountains of the Alps.

I wished you sometime or other could see how pretty it is riding along the shores with ocean on one side and mountains on the other. About eleven o'clock that morning (Monday) we arrived here at Cannes and were taken to the Hollande Hotel where we were staying. The Government pays the hotel expenses and also the railroad fares. We were getting very good meals and have a fine bed each. Here in Cannes the Y. M. C. A. have taken over the beautiful Casino and there is always something going on. It is the most exclusive place here and contains a dandy large theatre, gymnasium, pool and billard tables, dance floor and about everything.

Wednesday morning we started again and took a street car which ran along the Riviera to Nice which I think is the most noted winter resort in the world.

It surely is a wonderful place numerous hotels, the most beautiful of flowers, gardens, palm trees, and a high class of visitors. The Y. M. C. A. have leased the big Casino there also, and it is always packed with American soldiers and Officers. We stopped for two nights at the Splendid Hotel and payed ten franes each for the room. People from all over the world visit Nice this time of the year.

Thursday morning bright and early we left on a tour to Monte Carlo and across the Italian Border. I wonder if any of you know what country Monte Carlo is in. I thought it was in France and was real surprised to find it in the smallest country in the world, called Monaco. This little country is ruled by the Prince of Monaco with a population of sixteen thousand, and a standing army of one hundred and twenty-six.

We were with a Y. M. C. A. Guide and at first visited a grand building where one can take a sulphur bath. After this we went to the greatest gambling resort in the world and this place is a marvel in itself. All the millionaires throughout the world come and gamble and there are rooms after rooms filled with tables on which is played roulette and one or two other games.

The place is kept up and everything is shining. It interested me to see one of the attendants take apart one of the roulette wheels and shine up. Soldiers are not allowed to gamble there and must be out before nine-thirty a. m., when the playing starts. I heard ——, the big—— magnate from the States lost one million francs there a few days ago.

The Prince of Monaco owns this palace and leases it to a syndicate and he collects the rent, also lends them so much money every year whether they need it or not and demands high interest in return. Monaco is the richest country for its size in the world and they don't want for anything. Everything depends on this gambling place. I cannot express how pretty it appears rising up on the mountains from the sea. You would have to see it yourself. We visited the Prince's Palace but fortunately could not get in in the morning.

There is a fine Museum and numerous works of Art. All kinds of fishes, skeletons, even one of a whale, in fact everything imaginable is within it's four walls.

Completing our tour of this little country we went on an electric car along the mountainous coast through Mentone and up the mountain to the Italian Border. I could not go far into Italy for there is an M. P. who halts every soldier and you cannot pass. I sent you a card while there so let me know if you receive it. We arrived back in Cannes yesterday afternoon and now we think it's best to rest and take things easy till we start back next Monday night at half past eleven.

There are certainly many fashionable people who promanade along the Riviera and I never saw so many different uniforms worn by the soldiers from the various countries, American, British, French, Italian, Belgium, Australian, etc. Before starting this letter I attended a band concert outside, given by an American band.

Lemon and orange trees grow like weeds down this way and I have eaten several oranges.

When I get back to Mesves next week I will send you many postcards which I bought wherever I visited. I think it would be nice to put them in a post-card album.

First Sergt. Burkhalter and Sergt. Welch are with me and we are the first three from our company to go on leave.

Well Mother I think I will close for the present and I hope you are all in the best of health.

Goodbye until I get back and I will write more then.

Your loving son.
Frank.

WINCHESTER HIGH SCHOOL 9 WOBURN HIGH SCHOOL 2

Winchester High School soundly trounced her ancient rival Woburn in a baseball game on Manchester field, Saturday, by the score of 9—2. Woburn had a very poor outfield and some bad misjudgments were made in the second inning. McCartney, the Winchester first baseman, opened the inning with a home run clout into the river. Then the Woburn pitcher "blew up" and Winchester scored six runs which put the game on ice. Raynor was pitching in fine form and Woburn could not do anything with him. There was a good deal of bunt hitting in the game by the Winchester team, Matthews, Miskell and Eldredge each getting a three-base hit, besides McCartney's home run.

W. H. S. NOTES

Under the leadership of Mr. Arthur E. Butters, the new course in military training is progressing rapidly. Mr. Butters commands four divisions of about forty men, each of which drill regularly, four times a week. Lately, the squads have drilled on Manchester field, where they have also games and calesthenics.

The following non-commissioned officers have been appointed by Mr. Butters in order of their respective authority: David Skinner, sergeant, and Corporals Reginald Kibbe, James Fitch, Ralph Pierpont, Lloyd McCartney and Clinton Raynor.

More appointments are forthcoming. The drills occur twice each week weather permitting.

The Mystic A. C. wishes games with all boys' club team, scout teams or high school class teams, of boys not over 17. Address Clinton Mason, Lloyd street.

Easter services Sunday at the various churches in town were the largest attended in years. Almost every church was obliged to have extra seats in service to accommodate the audience. The Easter music and special programs were among the best ever given here, and all of the churches held special services.

Mr. E. M. Messenger and wife and Miss Doris Shores, fiance of Mr. Guy Messenger, and Mrs. John Park and daughter Constance with Mr. Kenneth Park made a trip by motor Tuesday to Camp Devens, where Mr. Guy Messenger is awaiting demobilization.

MUSIC MEMORY CONTEST

May 27th is the Date Set for the Contest

The study of Music Appreciation in our schools has necessarily been, until recently, mostly a study of songs and song writers, except to a limited extent, because the materials for the study of the masterpieces of instrumental music have not been available. Lately, however, we have been trying to give a broader knowledge of all sorts of music through the use of the pianolas and phonographs.

The contest now being carried on in the schools came at just the right time, and is the greatest possible means of showing the value of such study, as well as being also a great stimulus to the children to remember selections which they hear only a few times. To do this it is necessary to detect and remember the themes upon which they are built. This is not so difficult, for a theme will remain in the mind of a child fairly well, if his attention is called to it. The difficulty is to connect the name of the selection with the theme, and to connect this with name of the composer.

It is very interesting to notice which selections the children confuse. The "William Tell Overture" and the "Soldier's Chorus" from Faust, are quite often confused because of the martial spirit of both. "Traumerei," "Cavatina" and the "Intermezzo" from Cavalleria are also often mistaken for one another, and they are all slow, pensive, and legato in character. Very seldom do the children make foolish mistakes.

The benefits of the contest cannot be estimated now for they will be everlasting. Children are acquiring an interest in the masterpieces of music which they will hold to the end of their lives, and which they will hand down to their children. The contest gives an an added interest to all the music study the child is doing in any line. It shows him that all that he does will count toward a real knowledge of music, and more than that it shows him that music is a joy and not a bore.

DEMOBILIZATION OF THE SERVICE FLAG AT VESPER SERVICE

The Service Flag has a personality. It is a definite, concrete, sympathetic emblem of the service and the sacrifice that the men of America have made. For these Flags to disappear gradually, weather beaten, tattered and unnoticed, would be a great loss.

At the First Congregational Church next Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock, a service will take place at which the Stars on the Service Flag which represent men who have been discharged from the service or who have made the supreme sacrifice, will be demobilized.

The Service Flag is the one general symbolization representing the sons, the brothers, the fathers and sweethearts of those who remained behind. Lowering reverently as greeted its appearance throughout the country. Now it should be sacredly preserved and cherished. In its stars we have read the story of those who have gone forth to battle; blue for service, red for wounds, and gold for those making the supreme sacrifice.

A well defined programme has been arranged, including community singing; war, home and "welcome home" songs, conducted by Mr. Richard W. Grant; an address by Mr. Arthur W. Hale representing the civilian and by Sergeant George D. Beere for the enlisted men.

Ceremonies of a similar nature will be repeated from time to time until the men are all mustered out. The public is cordially invited.

The program:

Organ Prelude "Patriotic Songs of the Allies"
Salute to the Flag. "The Star Spangled Banner."
Singing of Patriotic Songs. Led by Mr Richard W. Grant.
Singing "Battle Hymn of the Republic"
Singing "Speed Our Republic"
Singing "Columbia the Gem of the Ocean."
Address. "Over Here" Arthur W. Hale
Singing of War Songs and Hymns.
Singing "America the Beautiful."
Singing "These Things Shall Be a Loftier Race" (Tune Duke St.)
Singing "Keep the Home Fires Burning."
Singing "There's a Long, Long Trail."
Demobilization of the Service Flag.
Each boy salutes as the bar is pinned across a Star.
Demobilization Gold Stars.
Demobilization Taps.
Demobilization fifteen seconds of silent tribute to the men who have fallen.
Demobilization Prayer by Rev. Howard J Chidley, D.D.
Address. "Over There" Sergeant George D Beere, of 312th Infantry, 78th Division.
Offertory "Old Melody."
Sing of Home Songs
Singing "Old Folks at Home"
Singing "My Old Kentucky Home."
Singing "Lowes Old Sweet Song."

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, 75c.

LETTER FROM GERMANY

The following extracts are taken from a letter from Lieut. Henry B. Harris, who is with the American Army of Occupation in Germany, to his parents Mr. and Mrs. Charles N. Harris of this town.

March 29, 1919.

In the absence of anything special to write about this week, I am going to try to give you a little idea of how the Germans live under American military rule by reversing the facts and imagining ourselves surrounded by enemy troops.

First we can think of every available room in every house occupied either by one officer or by several enlisted men. When I say every available room, I mean each room that is left after the family has been made to move into the fewest number of rooms it can get along with. If it were our house for instance and we four were living there, you would both together be allowed one sleeping room and Arthur and I another, as well as one for the maid. The other sleeping rooms would be given over to officers and the rooms on the third floor would be for two or three enlisted men, while the library might be used for a dining room or office. All conveniences of the house would of course be used by all the occupants, who would also have free access at all times day and night, early and late.

Unless we were sound sleepers, we would be awakened each morning at an uncomfortably early hour by the sound of the bugle blowing first call and the soldiers subsequently making a hasty and probably noisy exit.

Our new hospital would be used by the army and like so many other things would probably be "For Officers Only." Some of the school houses would be turned into hospitals for the soldiers, and our youngest pupils would have to remain at home with nothing to do until military necessity no longer required the use of their buildings. Likely one building only would be allowed for both High and Grammar Schools. One set of pupils would occupy it in the morning; another in the afternoon.

The town hall or other prominent office building would be taken over as headquarters, and sentries with bayonets fixed would constantly guard its entrance, allowing none of our own citizens to pass without first showing proper credentials. Public halls would likewise be used by the enemy for educational and recreational purposes.

Our Manchester Field would be taken by the enemy for use as a drill field and for athletics and entertainment. Other fields and open lots in the town might also be used for drill line for a rifle range, for parking artillery or motor transportation or to corral horses and mules.

Wherever we might wish to go, it would first be necessary to obtain permission from the officials of the occupying army. Armed guards would be stationed constantly on every road leading out of town, and it would be necessary for us to stop and show our authority for travel. Railroad stations would also be surrounded by guards and none would be allowed to board a train without first presenting his pass. Military policemen would work in conjunction with the civil police in maintaining order among both civilians and soldiers.

Our storehouses and freight yards would almost entirely be given over to the enemy and he would demand reservations on already overcrowded trains. None of us would have automobiles except possibly one or two doctors, and municipal officials. We would walk and would have to continually be on the alert to get out of the way of the many and fast moving touring cars and trucks, the drivers of which would show no sympathy for the slow moving or careless individual who failed to get beyond the range of the splashing mud. Our best and most influential citizens would walk, while the enemy private might use motor transportation if his errand were official business.

While walking it would be necessary for us to turn out of the way of the enemy officers. They would probably not give way except for a lady. Any of our people wearing a uniform would be required to salute them—firemen, policemen, postmen, conductors and brakemen, soldiers and sailors, army and navy officers no matter what their rank.

We would have little to eat; food would be very difficult to obtain everything would cost three or four times its normal price; yet we would see our enemies in our very houses having everything they need to eat furnished by their government and being able to buy more from the same source at very low prices. From them we would be allowed to buy or accept nothing.

All our mail would be censored and consequently subject to long delays. It would not be an uncommon sight to see some of our men marching up or down the street, or laboring, under the close surveillance of a prisoner guard as a result of having committed some minor offense. None of our citizens would be allowed to have arms of any kind in their possession, while practically every one of the enemy would be armed.

Such would be the situation if our country were as depleted of its resources after four and one-half years of war as Germany is today, and if our town were occupied by an enemy and that enemy was no more domineering, no more demanding in its terms, or no harsher in its treatment of the people than our army is here in Germany. Needless to say if the conditions actually were reversed the Boches victorious, and occupying our beautiful little town, it would hardly be worth living in. What they did in France and Belgium is proof of that. Our citizens would be forced to labor for them, our young women and girls would be insulted and raped, and property—public and private—would be unlawfully seized. Yet such might have been the case had our Allies not held the advance of the German hordes before we came to their assistance. France and England have much to thank us for, but perhaps we owe more to them than they to us, and we don't know it.

The Germans where I have been seem not only not to resent our presence here with all its attending discomforts, inconvenience and humiliation to them, but on the other hand are cordial, friendly, and willing to submit to whatever our military commanders dictate. To be sure they realize that it is better to submit gracefully to enemy conquerors and have order preserved than it is to have revolution wrought by their own people like that in the parts of Germany not occupied by the Allied armies. However, if conditions were for our people what they are for the Germans here, I wonder whether we would submit as calmly and with so little apparent ill feeling. The Boches as a people show that they are accustomed to discipline and to act as they are directed.

It is very possible that their friendship is only apparent, not real and that when they realize the severity of the peace they must accept (as I think few of them do at present), then we may have trouble with them.

While I have been writing this, a big tire broke out and the guards all over town fired their rifles and pistols to give the alarm. The same thing happened a short time ago in the middle of the night, and until we knew the cause of the firing, it took a little imagination to realize what a riot would be like.

Three days ago, an ambulance of one of our companies drove down one of the banks of the Moselle River, at a point where the current is swift and the water deep, in order to take a ferry across. The brakes failed to work and the ambulance kept on going. Although the driver had time to jump as others in the vehicle did—he failed to do so for some unknown reason, and neither he his body, nor the ambulance has been seen since, in spite of all efforts made.

For the last seven days we have had more snow and concentrated disagreeable weather than we had all winter, making it unfit to go out with any pleasure.

SCHOOL BOARD ISSUES SECRET SOCIETY DECREE

[By our High School Correspondent]

On Monday at a special assembly period, Mr. Fairsey, superintendent of Schools, made, in behalf of the school committee, an announcement regarding the gradual abolishment of secret societies from the High School. From the tone of the announcement it is concluded that the edict was aimed at the fraternities and sororities at present having members in the High School, although they are by no means the only secret societies represented there.

The announcement, which fell as a thunderbolt upon a number of the pupils has the following conditions: That from this time (the date of the announcement) on, any person who is a member of the public schools and who joins any secret organization or society, will not be allowed to take part in any athletic activities under the jurisdiction of the school board, hold any office in any school association, nor hold any post on any school publication, nor be allowed in any way to represent the school in any activity outside of the regular routine of studies. In other words the pupil will be restricted in every advantage and privilege except that which the law allows in his or her education in the public schools of the town.

Owing to this announcement nearly all activities in the High School are at a standstill, as nearly a hundred out of the three hundred pupils of the High School are members of organizations of which it is suspected that the ruling will affect. As a result it has been reported that every officer of the two athletic associations, and with one or two exceptions the entire staff of the Recorder, has threatened to resign. Also the officers and a majority of the members of the senior class are on the point of refusing to take part in the coming graduation exercises unless things take a different turn.

The members of the various organizations feel very keenly the truth of the fact that if their coming members are to be denied the privileges, they themselves should not hold them, hence the threatened resignations.

A meeting is planned in the near future at which all of the societies affected will join on an agreed and definite plan of action.

HIGH SCHOOL SECRET SOCIETIES

Winchester, April 23, 1919.

To the Editor of the STAR:

Sir:—I should be glad if you will let me have a few words in which to make clear to the people of Winchester the action taken by the School Committee concerning the secret societies in the High School.

A number of successive committees have wrestled with this problem; to my knowledge every committee for at least ten years has been agreed that the existence of secret, self-perpetuative fraternities were detrimental both to the efficiency and the morale of the High School. Most Winchester people will remember the zipper affair that was made when Rev. Mr. Sutro was a member of the School Committee to effect the disbandment of the societies through the influence of the parents. Not so many perhaps, know of an attempt that was made more recently by Mr. Redfern to solve the problem through appealing to the graduate members of the fraternities.

Neither of these efforts succeeded though both were at first promising, and for a year or two the committee has given a good deal of thought to the matter, in the hope that some practicable way might be found to accomplish at least an abatement of what is sincerely believed was a harmful influence in the school.

The present action therefore is not hasty or ill considered; it is not even experimental, for the committee has simply put into effect a regulation that has been successfully employed elsewhere in schools where an exactly similar situation existed. Nowhere do school authorities approve or even look with indifference on the existence of secret societies, and the plan we have adopted is that which has found most favor among those who have studied the problem. It has long been in practice in the schools of Springfield and has been more recently adopted in Melrose, to mention only two of the towns where it is in force.

The School Committee does not have authority to forbid school children from joining such societies; that is clearly the law of the case. But it can do what the Winchester School Committee has done; it can disqualify those who belong to such societies from representing the school on its athletic teams, from editing the school paper, from belonging to other semi-official school activities and from holding class offices. But it ought to be made clear that the rule is not an ex post facto law; it does not apply to any scholar who is at present a member of a secret society; that, the committee thought, would be unfair. It does however oblige children entering the High School to choose between membership in a society and participation in the other outside activities of the school.

It may be unnecessary for me to add to this letter an explanation of the reasons which led the School Committee to take this particular action. But I may as well say that we regard school fraternities as another distraction, from the least defensible distraction, from the regular work of the school. There are already too many such distractions; parents who have children in school know how many there are; and we feel that if boys and girls choose this one they should at least be prevented from adding others to it.

We believe also that the societies are an undemocratic influence in the school, and that what ever may be the fact as regards private preparatory schools, there ought to be as near an approach to perfect democracy as is possible in a public high school, which is provided for all the children of the town and which so many children attend.

The committee hopes that it will have the approval of the people of Winchester, in its action, and the support of the fathers and mothers of the town in making that action effective. It hopes also that the boys and girls of Winchester will understand and appreciate the reasons that have led us to this step, and that they will accept the rule in the spirit in which it was made—for the better efficiency and morale of the public high school. I am,

Very truly yours,
Henry S. Chapman.

Vote of School Committee, Winchester, Mass., April 18, 1919.

"No pupil of a public school who shall hereafter become a member of, or associated with, any fraternity, sorority, or other secret society, shall be eligible to an office in any school organization or on the staff of any school publication, or to represent his school on any intellectual or athletic contest, or in any public manner whatever."

"Before any pupil shall be permitted to hold any of said offices, or represent his school in any of said capacities, he shall satisfy his principal, by a written affidavit or otherwise, that he is not, and will not become, a member of any of the aforementioned secret organizations."

SWINE LICENSES

Winchester, Mass.
April 22, 1919.

Editor of the Star:

Dear Sir:—In last week's paper Dr. Gale took issue with the Board of Health in its decision to lessen the number of swine licenses issued, and argued that with the present high price of meat its production should not be diminished. It will not be, for our garbage has always been bought by people who have fed it to swine. The present contractor told me a few days ago that every pig fattened in Winchester on Winchester swill lessened his output just so much.

Since the Board published its open letter a few weeks ago I have personally investigated nearly every application for a new swine license and talked with some member of the family. I have been astonished at the number of remarks like the following, which I have heard: "My first pig died," "When we killed our pig the meat was so funny that we did not dare eat it," "Our pig has been sick ever since we got it," "This pig has had rheumatism most of the time since we bought it," "Our pig was sick and we had to have some one come and carry it off."

After this investigation, I am convinced that if the one thing desired were to convert Winchester swill into the greatest possible amount of pork, it would be better to have it fed by experts than by amateurs.

The question the Board of Health had to decide was: whether the thickly settled portions of Winchester are suitable locations for pig pens. The Board decided they are not and the communications received from the people during the past few weeks are an indication of popular opinion, then the majority of our citizens are of the same belief. However, to lessen the hardship as much as possible and not to make the change too abrupt, the Board proposes to permit most of the applicants to finish fattening the pigs they now have.

Clarence J. Allen.

OLD WINCHESTER ATHLETE STILL IN RACE

Winchester, April 22, 1919.

Dear Mr. Wilson:

I wonder if you can find space in your next issue of the STAR, to say a few words relative to the recent wonderful performance of a local athlete.

In these times when we hear so much about physical fitness, one cannot fail to appreciate the courage and grit, to say nothing of the sturdy physiques of the young men who entered and ran in the B. A. A. Marathon last Saturday, April 19th.

I explicitly mention the young men for it was my privilege and I assure great pleasure to accompany and care for the local man mentioned above, who, because of his youth (?) was refused admission by the officials.

Just after the starter fired the shot that sent the forty-eight contestants on their way, our young man, took up the trail. Inside of the first mile he had passed one, and was hot on the heels of the next nearest.

To tell in detail all that this man did would perhaps take up too much space, but to condense my story, out of 48 starters, 25 finished, (officially) and our entree was the 26th.

He covered the entire route and finished at the B. A. A. Club house in the remarkable time of 2 hours and eight minutes. Remarkable, when I tell you that his age is 64 and that this was the twelfth time he has entered and covered the course.

He finished with a sprint and was tendered a tremendous ovation by the big crowd that had evidently heard that he was on the way and had waited for him. That you may realize how perfectly he had conditioned himself, he did not enter the club but quietly slipped into his clothes and jumped into the machine, apparently none the worse for his long grind. No bath or rub-down for him. Hats off to Peter Foley, the "grand old man of Winchester, a physical marvel."

Sincerely,
C. J. Harrold.

HEARING ON SWINE AND STABLE LICENSES

The hearing before the Board of Health in the town hall Tuesday night on the applications for licenses to keep swine and to maintain stables was largely attended, about 75 persons being present. The hearing was opened by Chairman Comins of the Board, who called for remonstrances against granting the licenses. As the crowd in attendance were all for the licenses, no remonstrants were heard, whereupon the Board closed the hearing.

It is the attitude of the Board to grant licenses to fatten pigs now kept. This means renewing many existing licenses until next December. Some 64 licenses were granted and 21 refused. Of the 70 applications for stable licenses none have yet been refused.

SPECIAL AID

An illustrater lecture on "Devastated France" will be given in the Town Hall by Rev. William Dewart rector of the Old North Church, Boston, on Wednesday afternoon, April 30th at 3 o'clock. Refreshments will be served. The public is invited, and it is hoped that a good audience will greet Mr. Dewart.

W. H. S. ASSEMBLY OMITTED

With no official reason the regular assembly and open meeting of the student council was omitted Tuesday. It has been reported that it was on account of the resignation of the president and some other members of the council due to the recent announcement regarding societies.

Miss E. J., and Miss C. A. Quimby were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Barron at their cottage over the 19th of April at Pemberton.

SIGMA BETA DANCE

Last Saturday, the Sigma Beta Sority held a most successful dance in Waterfield Hall. 45 couples were on floor while six members of a Jazz band furnished the music. The hall was very attractively and elaborately decorated with flags and bunting. A number of the Victory loan posters were placed about with a very pleasing as well as patriotic effect. The stage was decorated with greens and the electrically lighted Sigma Beta seal. Suspended from the rafters were two immense American flags containing small baloons and confetti. Later in the evening the dancers were showered when a string was pulled and released the mass. During the intermission refreshments were served. Later a lucky number dance was held, Miss Florence Murphy and her partner, selecting the winning number. They were presented with a box of candy.

There were a number of out of town dancers besides those of this town. Among those present were, Misses Brenda Bond, Florence Murphy, Isabel Beggs, Katherine Fairfield, Eleanor Fairfield, Annette Mason, Buelah Foss, Elizabeth Anderson, Edith Deloriea, Thelma Trott, Katherine Pike, Dorothy Soutter, Hester Bradford, Dorothy Ordway, Dorothy Abbott, Elizabeth Passano, Lillian Anderson, Louise Alexander Esther Cotting, Ruth Davidson, Audry Goddu, Barbara Goddard, Marion Bowman, Doris Bowman, Messrs. John Salver, Jack Smith, Jack Sanborn, Jack Woods, Forbes Getty, Edward Waite, Robert Hart, Parker Hart, Langley Keyes, Theodore Clifton, Clinton Raynor, Stuart Eldridge, Reginald Kibbe, Linwood Davis, Houghton Goddu, Paul Goddu, Alden Symmes, Richard Caldwell, Stillman Weston, Stephen Neiley, Maro Weston, George Barton, Edward Barton, Evan Kibbe.

KNEW ABOUT CIGARETTES AS HE DID ABOUT SHELLS

Private Edgar McGee Co. L, 165th Infantry Rainbow Division, is an Indian member of the great army of soldiers who believe in the sign of the Red Cross.

But Private McGee holds a unique place in this army, not because of his Indian blood, but for the reason that the Red Cross saved his life in an extraordinary way. The whole story can be summed up in four words: "Cigarettes from the Red Cross."

Of course there is many a soldier in this man's Army who will swear that the Red Cross saved his life by giving him cigarettes, but this Indian buck private from Willreston, Oklahoma, has a different kind of story to tell, and he tells it in good English, acquired at Armstrong Academy and Haskell Institute.

"I think I know a little about shells and more about cigarettes", said Private McGee, as he sat up in bed at American Red Cross Military Hospital No. 5, in Paris, smoking one of the never-ending chain of cigarettes provided by the Red Cross. "Altogether I had fifty-five days of shell-fire, and I hate French cigarettes. I think the worst shelling we had was on October 14, 15, 16 and 18th. On each of those days we went over the top, and we were up against the 3rd Prussian Guard Division.

"Now I have no use for Germans, but I must say that those Prussian Guard sure did fight. When we went at them in the little old town of St. Georges, there was only one way to put them out, and that was bayonet to bayonet. But we put them out. On the 16th we captured a number of them when they met us in a little valley. I got separated from my company, and the German gunners took it into their heads to pick me off with a '77'. I started running, and the more shells they fired the more speed I put on. Before they could place the shells near enough to damage me I made it over the top of a small hill to safety.

"Two days later I wan't so lucky. For the fourth time we went over the top and gained our objectives. While we were waiting for a relief the Germans counter-attacked. They gave us everything they had, from machine gun bullets and shrapnel to gas shells and liquid fire. Several of our men were badly burned.

"Now here's where my life and the Red Cross cigarettes come in. I had been sent back to get a box of cigarettes that the Red Cross had given us. I was carrying it on my shoulder, when a shell dropped about fifteen feet from me. The first thing I knew there were cigarettes all over the landscape, with me in the middle of them. One piece of shell that would have got my head if it hadn't hit the box damaged the cigarettes badly. A second piece caught me in the left hip. The shell fell to the right of me, and how a piece ever got around to hit me on the left side I haven't yet been able to figure out.

"But no matter how it did I am certainly strong for the Red Cross."

who can give of themselves to the work, to give of their substance without which no amount of diligent work can accomplish anything.

We are indebted to many for their assistance and consideration. Thanks have been sent to all those to whom the secretary knows we are indebted —individuals and organizations; and we regret if any one has been overlooked in acknowledging their generosity. The church organizations, the Winton Club, Red Cross and Public Safety Committee, Needlework Guild of America, Pop Concert Committee, the town's Water Board for rebate on water bill, Shade Tree Department for work on grounds of Hospital, Mr. Joslin, Mr. Whitaker, Mr. Nash, and Mr. Price Wilson, Miss Talpey for assistance on the District, Mrs. Woodside for continuous and plentiful supplies of vegetables, and Mrs. Scales for invaluable help in the Hospital office. These and all the townspeople who have come to our assistance, we most heartily thank.

Miss Redfern, in a talk to the Directors last May, held up before them a standard for nursing and training nurses which will ever be before us. It was the standard of what should be sent out into the community as a graduate nurse, the standard which earnest doctors and nurses are working to establish, and which will come; and when it does we want the nursing staff and training school to measure up to the standard. Needless to say, such work requires money for laboratory equipment and theoretical training which we aim to give in time; and enough of working staff to make things run efficiently.

Your Treasurer's report will show the financial standing. That there is any balance to report for the Hospital after the heavy expenses of the year is encouraging. But the balance is due mainly to what we have gone without or what the Hospital Committee have been conservative in procuring, feeling the time did not warrant more than the necessities.

The Hospital is a 50 bed institution; at it's opening it was equipped to a capacity of 32 patients which number we expected would be the maximum for five years. However, we are running the Hospital practically to its bed capacity now and have every reason to expect to continue. This requires increased equipment, additional graduate nurses; we have all the nurses the home will accommodate. Already we are obliged to look into the future; and the future holds increase in all our activities and that we necessitate more money. The Hospital has taken from patients this nast year $23,812.50, to operate the Hospital it has cost $29,658.84, thus patients have paid 80.2% of our expenses which is all that a hospital of this kind has any excuse for paying. Thus a portion of the expenses always must be met by the townspeople's contributions; and we have reached a point where we must have more equipment, more graduate nurses, and further accommodations for nurses and help, a safe driveway and numerous other real necessities to keep and make the Hospital the kind it must be to meet the demand.

The same is true of the Visiting Nursing work. We have come to the place where we must branch out. To bring into a community well born babies, to look after their welfare until they have school supervision, to strive for healthful living conditions, and all the factors of Public Health work is the need of the present day and of the future, both from an unselfish and from a selfish standpoint—for their own good and for the community's good. Therefore, this coming year must find us no laggards in this branch of the work—we must advance extensively along Public Health lines.

This is just a general view of the past year's work and problems. The year ahead will have them; but we trust they may be problems more easily solved. We have prospered and we will prosper; and at this time we close a year's effort with the assurance and courage of the experience to take up another year in which to offer to the town through the District work and the Hospital the greatest help possible. Will you all help the Association in whatever way comes to you, in it's far reaching work.

Respectfully submitted,
Amy E. Pond, Secretary.

The Lynthia Young Pierce Fund

This fund consists of 13 Old Colony St. Ry. 4 p. c. bonds given to the Trustees of the Association. Mr. and Mrs. William H. Maynard of Winchester have again paid to the trustees for the maintenance of a free bed for one year the sum of 500.00

A total for the year of $3627.30

While it is essential that each of the maintenance funds be kept separate and distinct so that donors and all others interested may know just what disposition has been made of the different gifts, the trustees have established a miscellaneous account showing the investment of the balances of the different funds as follows:

James Moulton and Associates	$ 74.32
Nancy Brewer Harrington Ward	83.75
Frank Harrington Ward and Room	159.03
	413.09

This balance has been invested in:—

1—500 Liberty bond 1928 4¼ p. c.	475.30
Balance of funds on hand, uninvested at end of fiscal year	$254.89

The trustees have learned with regret of the decease of Mrs. William H. Maynard, a constant friend of the hospital and a generous giver to its maintenance.

There is now pending in the Probate Court for Middlesex County a petition by the executors of the will of the late Joseph Moulton asking for the instructions of the Court as to the disposition of the residue of Mr. Moulton's estate amounting to about $10,000.00.

By the terms of his will, Mr. Moulton gave this residue to the Home for Aged People in Winchester and to the Winchester Hospital in Winchester, in equal parts.

The executors desire a decree from the Court to the effect that by "the Winchester Hospital, etc." Mr. Moulton intended to designate this Association. Your trustees have no doubt that upon a hearing such a decree will be entered. But if Mr. Moulton had used the correct legal name of the Association this Court proceeding, with the consequent delay, would have been obviated.

Members and friends of the Association should have in mind at all times, when considering the matter of a bequest to the Hospital the form provided for such a bequest which may be found in the printed report of the Association for the last year and will be printed in all subsequent reports.

Mr. Jones is out of the state at this time and we have not been able to present this report to him for his signature.

Respectfully submitted,
Ralph E. Joslin
Jere A. Downs,
Trustees

What was probably the most successful event in C. history was held on Tuesday evening by Santa Maria Court, daughters of Isabella, when it gave its annual concert and ball in the town hall to the pleasure of over 400 members and guests including a large number of army men recently discharged from the service and on furlough.

About 75 couples followed Mr. and Mrs. George R. Poland in the grand march, which followed a most attractive concert program. The concert numbers were presented from 8 to 9:30 and included violin selections by Master Thomas Gigliotti, an exhibition of modern dancing and an old-fashioned cake walk by Mr. and Mrs. Carl M. Page of Medford, vocal Irish musical selections by Mr. and Mrs. James Connell of Malden, vocal solos by William I. Coty and Mrs. Gertrude K. Poland, who was also accompanist.

Dancing followed until a late hour being opened by the grand regent, Mrs. George R. Poland, and Mr. Poland. Patriotic souvenir favor hats, caps and bonnets of colored paper were distributed. Refreshments were served during the intermission in the dancing, which lated until 12:30.

Miss Mary A. Kenney was chairman of the general committee and the grand regent, Mrs. Poland, had charge of the dancing. The refreshment committee included Mrs. Anna McNally, Mrs. H. E. Brown, Miss Katherine O'Connor, Mrs. Michael Noonan, Mrs. Richard Glendon Mrs. J. F. Cassidy, Mrs. Thomas Kelley, Mrs. M. C. Ambrose, Mrs. E. F. Fitzgerald and Mrs. E. P. Flaherty.

CHURCH OF THE EPIPHANY ENTERTAINS

The "long, long trail" etc., happily in many New England homes with the return of its famous 26th Division. In the words of another popular war song:

"The great red dawn is shining
When the waiting hours are past,
When the tears of night are ended
And I see the day at last;
I shall come down the road of sunshine

To a heart that is fond and true,
When the great red dawn is shining,
Back to home, back to love, and you."

The parish of Epiphany rejoices in the home coming of its rector, Rev. Murray W. Dewart, who sailed away in the summer of 1917 as chaplain of the 101st Field Artillery, and it proposes to celebrate by giving a Welcome Home Party at the Parish House, on the evening of Tuesday, May 6th.

Mr. Dewart is not the only good soldier whom the parish would honor. The religious services of the church have been most ably conducted and many good works directed and aided by Rev. William Packer, also of Winchester, and rector-in-charge, during Mr. Dewart's absence. His devotion, optimism and courage have lightened many a dark hour and during the epidemic he and Deaconess Lane proved to us all that good soldiers were not all in France.

The Parish House is small, but not the hearts of its people and there will be nothing small about the welcome to Mr. Dewart, the words of appreciation to Mr. Packer, or the welcome to any of the friends of Mr. Dewart who feel like dropping in on that evening.

A special invitation is extended through the columns of the STAR to all soldiers of the 26th Division, and to any other soldier or sailor in our town.

Kindly enter by the church door, leaving coats and hats in the pews. You will find the welcome awaiting you in the choir rooms beyond.

It's going to be "some party."

The children of the Parish of the Epiphany will have an opportunity to greet their rector, Rev. Murray W. Dewart, on Wednesday afternoon in the parish house from 3 to 5. All young people up to High School age are cordially invited to be present.

TUCK HOME FROM FRANCE

First Lieut. Leon Parker Tuck of the United State aviation forces, son of Mr. and Mrs. Whitfield L. Tuck of 9 Winthrop street, arrived home Wednesday morning on a two days' furlough from New York. Lieut. Tuck landed in New York from the transport America the night before, after 18 months' service overseas with the aviation forces of the American Army, serving both in Italy and in France. He expects to be sent to Texas on his return to New York.

PROFESSOR W. J. WALSHE

To Appear in Arlington This Sunday, May 4th

Professor William J. Walshe, the noted lecturer and traveler will give one of the most popular of his entertainments in the Regent Theatre, Arlington this Sunday evening, May 4th. It is entitled "Irish Evening No. 2" and consists of a grand collection of the incomparable landscape scenery of Ireland, her sweet sounding melodies and her all absorbing story at the present hour. Two highly interesting photo narratives never witnessed in this vicinity before will be an added attraction. This particular entertainment has been presented to over five millions of people during Mr. Walshe's career on the lecture platform with the result that hundreds of thousands of Americans have visited the "Land of the Shamrock", after hearing her beauties so graphically and delightfully portrayed by him. As Mr. Walshe is today considered the greatest living authority on Irish affairs in this country the occasion will prove one of interest and profit for those who will attend. This entertainment is identical with those given recently in the Tremont Temple, Tremont and Boston Theatres, and the big halls of New York and Chicago. The musical program will be rendered by Mr. Henry Desmond, tenor; Mr. Frederick Deitzer, cellist; Miss Anna Walshe, pianist. Among the selections are: "Then You'll Remember Me," "Last Rose of Summer," "Bells of Shandon," "Who fears to Speak of '98?" "Molly Brown," "Rose of Tralee," "Kathleen Mavourneen," "Eileen Alanna," "Dublin Bay," "I Dreamt I dwelt in Marble Halls." Mr. Walshe is coming to Arlington at the request of his large circle of friends in that town and a large sale of tickets is already reported.

BOY STRUCK BY AUTO

John Sullivan, the 16 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Sullivan of Holland street, was struck by an automobile near the Lexington-Concord line Sunday afternoon and badly bruised and scratched. Sullivan was out on a bicycle ride with Edward McDonald. According to the boys' story they were riding on the right side of the road when the auto, in turning out to pass another car, struck Sullivan, throwing him five or six feet and rendering him unconscious. The driver of the car stopped and took him in, bringing him to his home here. According to the driver's version Sullivan's shed skidded in some soft dirt and caused him to run in front of the car. The boy's injuries, while painful are not thought to be serious.

On Saturday afternoon the W. H. S. baseball team will play the Woburn team at Woburn.

RALPH D. GILBERT

Ralph Dewey Gilbert of 9 Ridgefield road, secretary and treasurer of the Bowker Fertilizer and Insecticide Company of Boston, died at his home on Thursday of pneumonia after an illness of six weeks.

He ceased his university activities to join Arthur D. Little, Inc., of Boston, later becoming affiliated with the Bowker Company.

He had made his home in Winchester for the past six years and was a member of the First Congregational Church here. He was also a member of the Sigma Xi, the honorary society of Yale College. He is survived by his wife who was Miss Helen Ryder of Bellows Falls, Vt., and three daughters, Deborah, Elizabeth and Katherine. He also leaves his mother, Mrs. H. E. Buell, two brothers, Albert C., of Brooklyn N. Y., and Myron R., of Stafford Springs, Ct., and one sister, Miss Mabel M. Gilbert of New Haven, Ct.

Selections were rendered during the service by a soprano soloist, and the display of flowers was very beautiful and profuse. The pall bearers were Messrs. Mark R. Jouett, Edward H. Kennerson and Albert Gilbert of Brooklyn, N. Y., and D. F. Ryder of Bellows Falls, Vt. The remains were taken to Gilead, Ct., for interment.

SIBLEY HERE TUESDAY

Frank P. Sibley, the noted war correspondent, recently decorated by the French Government will speak on Tuesday evening at the Ladies' Night entertainment of the Calumet Club. Owing to the large number who will attend, only members and their families will be admitted.

THE FORTNIGHTLY

The regular meeting of The Fortnightly was held on Monday, April 28th. Mrs. Henry Hildreth, first vice-president, presided.

A recommendation that The Fortnightly do something for the boys in service, and for those who have returned—was offered by the board and accepted by the club.

Mrs. Symmes gave notice that at the next meeting of the club she should ask for $20 for the maintenance of The Fortnightly room at the Winchester Hospital to be taken from the Philanthropy Fund.

Mrs. Bradley gave notice that she should ask that $100 be set aside, from the Philanthropy Fund for emergency use during the summer.

Mrs. Palmer gave notice that she should ask for a sum, not exceeding $100, to be used, if necessary, for the boys in service and for those who have returned, to be taken from the General Fund.

Mrs. Smith gave notice of a course of talks to be given in the High School Assembly Hall, beginning on May 19, by Mrs. Mary S. Woolman.

Mrs. D. C. Deuuett made an eloquent appeal for more subscribers to the Fifth Victory Loan.

As this was an open meeting, a very large audience greeted Mrs. John Craig who told in her own charming and inimitable way of the life and experiences of the Craig Players at the front, where they, as the pioneer troop of real actors, went in order to give cheer and comfort to our brave boys over there.

She told of the rude huts in which the performances were given—often in a railroad station, with the trains coming and going, of the scanty stage setting, the crude substitutes which were used for properties, as well as the absence of lights. She recited from the plays which were given America, Baby Mine and Joanna D'Arc, closing this delightful talk by reciting the poem "In Flanders," which Mr. Craig had often read to the boys in the trenches.

YORK—IRELAND

Former Winchester Girl Married to Aviator

A former well known Winchester girl was married last Saturday evening when Miss Helen Gertrude Ireland, daughter of Mrs. Albert Frost Ireland of Winter Hill, was wedded to Lieut. Walter Raymond M. York a Croix de Guerre member of the Lafayette Escadrille, son of James M. York of 52 Dartmouth street. The ceremony was attended by Mary Winchester people.

The wedding took place in the Winter Hill Congregational Church at eight and was performed by Rev. Dr. Charles L. Noyes in the presence of several hundred guests. The bride was given in marriage by her cousin, Mr. William C. Covey of Wilmington, Del., and was attended by Miss Ina A. Brown of this town, maid of honor, and Miss Irene Lord and Miss Constance Park of Winchester, Miss Eleanor Jones of Somerville and Miss Hester Bellows of Worcester, who were bridesmaids. Dr. Rodney W. man of New York was best man. The couple were preceded by two little flowers girls, Miss Mary York and Miss Martha Jones.

The bride wore white satin with pearl trimmings and long court train and veil. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and orchids. The maid of honor wore cloth of gold with purple tulle trimmings and carried jack roses, and the bridesmaids were all dressed alike in yellow satin and yellow tulle trimmed with gold tinsel. They wore yellow tulle scarfs and carried bouquets of purple pansies. The two little flower girls wore ruffled yellow organdie and carried baskets of marguerites and rose petals.

The church and parlors where the following reception was held were decorated with palms, marguerites, and sweet peas, giving a yellow and white effect. The ushers for both ceremony and reception were Messrs. George York, William Fitch, Arthur McIntire and Howard Barker.

Lieut. York left his studies at Dartmouth to join the North Harjes Ambulance Corps which became attached to the 21st division of the French army and served for three months in the summer of 1916 during the German attack on Verdun. He enlisted in the Lafayette Escadrille in June, 1917, and participated in 26 combats with German aviators, and was decorated by Gen. Petain to the order Metz Nov. 10, 1918, when the French forces entered that city. He is now home on a furlough and will receive his discharge from the French army when peace is declared.

Mrs. York attended Winchester High School for three years and moved to Somerville with her mother four or five years ago, graduating from the Somerville High School. She attended the Boston Normal Art School.

The couple are at present spending their honeymoon in Montreal and Quebec. They will make their home in Lincoln, N. H.

TWO BAD AUTO ACCIDENTS

Two bad auto accidents occurred on Wednesday in town. Fortunately in neither case was anyone seriously injured, although the autos were badly damaged. The most serious of the two was that at the corner of Mystic avenue and the Parkway at about seven o'clock in the evening when a Hudson runabout driven by Ex selectman George C. Ogden collided with a new Willys-Knight touring car driven by Mrs. Sharles W. Ellis of Bradford.

This is a blind corner and has already figured in several accidents, it being a dangerous spot. Mr. Ogden was travelling down Mystic avenue and Mrs. Ellis north on the Parkway. Both cars are reported to have been going at a good clip and as the Ogden car swung onto the Parkway it caught the Wills-Knight at its rear wheel, spinning it around and turning it over twice before it came to a stop upside down with Mrs. Ellis pinned underneath.

Those who went to her assistance expected to find her killed or fatally hurt. The car was raised and she was taken out, none the worse for her experience except two badly cut hands and scratches about her face. She was taken to Dr. Ordway's office and her wounds dressed, after which she was taken to her home at Bradford.

The Ogden car received only a bent front mudguard, but the Ellis car had it back end badly smashed. This was a new car.

The other accident occurred at about 4.15 in the afternoon. As the 4.10 Arlington car, in charge of motorman William Murphy and conductor Robert Perry was making the turn from Church to Cambridge street a big Packard limousine owned and driven by Julius L. Cabot of Roxbury tried to pass between the track and the bank at the side of the road. The electric caught it as it was swinging and sent it up on the bank badly wrecked. Fortunately the driver escaped without injury.

ORIENTAL VESPER

At the First Congregational Church, Sunday, at 4 P. M.

The last and what promises to be the most interesting vesper in the series of Spring vespers at the First Congregational Church will be held Sunday afternoon at four o'clock. The artist of the occasion will be Miss Marie Backian, of New York, a native Armenian, who will sing Armenian Folk Songs and sacred selections. She will appear in Armenian costume. Miss Backian has a voice of rare sweetness and flexibility, combined with the appealing quality of the oriental character. She has won immediate response from all her American audiences. The speaker of the afternoon will be Mrs. Stanley Enrich, who has been in devastated Armenia, and knows its atrocities from first-hand experience. She is one of the few American women who have been on the inside of a Turkish harem, and she describes the contrast between the Turkish and American wife with vividness and vigor.

The offering of the afternoon will be for Armenian Relief and should be a generous one.

The public cordially invited to enjoy this interesting service. Please note the change of hour to four o'clock. The change has been made to accommodate Mrs. Enrich's engagements.

THE SHAKESPEARE CLUB

Tuesday afternoon the Shakespeare Club celebrated its thirty-second anniversary at the home of one of its members, Mrs. J. H. Dwinnell. This club was originally a committee of the Fortnightly with Mrs. Joshua Coit as leader. The work done during it's first year was so enjoyable and its members so mutually congenial that they have continued to meet fortnightly for reading of dramas during all the years. Madame Coit is the only one of the original members left in town.

Some of the reading done includes the following: Old Greek dramas of Aeschylus Sophocles and Eurlpides; Dante's Divina Comedia; a Spanish comedy by that most prolific of all dramatists Lope da Vega, who could write, rehearse and produce a comedy in twenty-four hours, and be assured of an audience for each of his hundred and more plays; Moliere and Racine of the French writers; Goethe and Schiller of Germany; Ibsen of Norway, and by no means last or least, Shakespeare and many other great dramatists of England and America.

The past winter has been spent on Irish plays by Lady Gregory, W. B. Yeats and John M. Synge.

At this meeting on Tuesday, after a charming Irish song by Mrs. Bicknell, the club and its friends had the unusual privilege of hearing one of our own townspeople, Mrs. Charles Herrick read an Irish play of her own composition, a work of rare interest and merit. The plot was a war-time one and although simple, as befits the plain people with whom it deals, was of absorbing interest to the end. The writer's understanding of the Irish mind and heart was one hitherto unattained by anyone except a Celt and the strain of poetry throughout was inspired. Altogether it is a notable achievement and one bound to reflect great credit on the town of which Mrs. Herrick is a native.

THE WINCHESTER STAR DEMONSTRATION HOME GARDEN

Conducted by

MRS. ALONZO F. WOODSIDE, 30 Lebanon Street

Co-operating with the

Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture and Home Economics

It's the first head of lettuce, the first tomato, or the first cucumber that the home gardener relishes the most. But the little extra care required to produce these early vegetables is well worth while. The seeds are first planted in a hotbed or seed flat in the house and then placed in their new environment through the process of transplanting when the weather conditions become suitable.

Transplanting is an operation that any one can perform with success provided attention is given to a few essential considerations such as hardiness of the plant itself, its development, the physical condition of the soil and weather conditions.

When transplanting be careful not to disturb the root system. The small rootlets are very tender and to break these off only lessens the chances of the plant to live. So take up as much of the adhereing dirt as possible along with the plant.

Water the plants thoroughly a few hours before transplanting. It is common practice to dip the roots of the plants before they are set out into a thin paste made by mixing equal parts of garden soil and water.

The plants should be set a little deeper than they were before. With a dibble or trowel make a hole in the ground just deep enough to insert the root system of the plant, insert the plant and firm the soil around it.

Thoroughly soak the soil around the plant with water and next morning loose dirt should be pulled over that portion of the ground to preserve the moisture.

Select a cloudy or rainy day for transplanting. To protect the plants from the sun use shingles, strawberry boxes, or newspapers.

Tomatoes, eggplants, peppers, melons squashes and cucumbers should not be transplanted to the open ground until about the first of June. Early cabbages, lettuce, young beets, onions or any of the other hardy vegetables can be set out any time now.

Next week cutworms and their control will be considered.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE

In an old prayer there is a petition to God as one "who seest that we have no power of ourselves to help ourselves." And yet self reliance is a great and very necessary virtue. It is to be noted also that in all the ages those who have most deeply realized their dependence on God have been most confident of their power to help themselves. Their certainty of divine reinforcement did not destroy their belief that there was some power in them that could be reinforced. The warning against undue reliance on self was no doubt directed against spirtual pride and designed to make men see the danger of taking to themselves the credit for every good thing done by them, and for every victory they might win. The teaching was, and is, a very effective protest against the ancient, yet very modern, doctrine that might makes right. It is needed today as much as it ever was. There is in this world a force that somehow works against vainglorious conquerors, and ultimately brings them to ruin.

There never was a more self-reliant man than Napoleon, yet he failed pitably. Even he, though he said: "Providence is always on the side of the last reserve," realized that in war moral force was almost as important as physical. So there must be reliance on something else than self — the laws by which the universe is governed, and the power that established them and operates under and in accordance with them. There is no conflict between a proper self-reliance and dependence on moral forces, on God. It is in the strongest characters that the two traits are most highly developed. Indeed, it sometimes seems as though a man could be absolutely self-reliant and at the same time absolutely dependent.

But there is danger in the doctrine which, when not rightly understood and applied, may easily have the effect of strengthening some of the most mischievous teaching of our time. There are those right here in Winchester who are greatly concerned to make it appear that man is a helpless being, wholly the victim of circumstances, a slave to heredity and environment. The plea is that of the child who says that "he could not help it." This is a widely popular theory. Against it the great and the wise have always protested. Browning, for instance, has this:

Oh, to love so, be so loved, yet so mistaken!
What on earth had I to do
With the slothful, with the mawkish, the unmanly?
Like the aimless, helpless, hopeless, did I drivel
Being—who?

And there is a proud defiance, which is not irreligious, in Henley's words:

Beyond this place of wrath and tears
Looms but the horror of the shade,
And yet the menace of the years
Finds and shall find me unafraid.

It matters not how strait the gate,
How charged with punishments the scroll,
I am the master of my fate:
I am the captain of my soul.

Man is not helpless, and it does him infinite harm to teach him that he is. "That there is much viciousness in certain interpretations of Christianity fortunately less common than they used to be can not be denied," declared a gentleman of the cloth to The Spectator with whom the latter was discussing this topic of self-reliance. "In one breath man used to be taught that he was the only being in the universe for whom God cared and in the next that he was a mere worm. We now know that he is neither the one nor the other. Whatever he is, he is conscious of possessing powers, often great powers, through the use of which he can accomplish great things either for good or evil. To say that he has no power whatever to help himself is to deny to him a power that God has given to him and that is almost equivalent to limiting and circumscribing the divine power."

During the last four and a half years we have seen such an abuse of power and such a ghastly travesty on confidence and self-reliance that we have become distrustful. Men who rightly repudiate the odious dogma, might makes right, are in danger of forgetting that right is sometimes mighty even in the physical sense. That certainly is true today. The whole problem of humanity is to clothe right with might. And so of confidence and self-reliance. These were superbly shown by the Allied Armies in the late war, fortunately for civilization. The qualities are sorely needed in civil life. They have nothing in common with the boastfulness that poured out of Germany in the early days of the war.

There must be power in the world, as we are seeing more clearly now than for many years, and the question is as to how the power is used, and for what purposes and also of the character of the men who are clothed with it. The greatest power is, of course, that of moral ideas and ideals: For in them lies the inspiration to action. Self-reliance if it means reliance on the best self, is a great and invincible quality. To rely on that self is to depend on it and so there seems to be a sort of synthesis after all. Men, as the apostle said, are often weakest when they are most strong, but there is a strength that is not weakness, as he would have been the last to deny.

As against the sentimentalizers it is necessary to hold up the great virtue of self-reliance, and against imperial Teutonism it is necessary to interpose the doctrine of dependence. Both traits are necessary, and when carefully defined do not seem to be so far apart. Perhaps it is after all less a question of helping ourselves than of helping others. For men are here to serve, and it is to service that they are specially called, and through it that they manifest any greatness that they may be fortunate enough to possess.

The Spectator.

The arch of welcome on the Common was completed last Saturday and in the evening the lights were turned on. The arch is universally admired and in the evening makes a very attractive display in the centre.

Last week Friday and Saturday were a return to winter with a vengeance. Many gardeners and farmers in this neighborhood lost young plants from the freeze-up, while those who had seats in the grandstands for the big 26th Division parade in Boston were well chilled to say the least. The boys who marched had the best of the weather without question.

Telephone Rates Increased

ADDITIONAL revenue is imperatively necessary to meet the heavily increased cost of operating the telephone service. The officials operating the property of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company have therefore recommended, and the Postmaster General has approved, changes in rate schedules which will apportion the necessary increases equitable to all classes of service.

These changes may be summarized as follows:

An increase of 50 cents a month to all flat rate or measured service business subscribers, the latter, however, being given an additional allowance of ten calls per month.

An increase of 25 cents a month to all flat rate or measured service residence subscribers, the latter, however, being given an additional allowance of five calls per month.

An increase of one cent per call on excess business measured service calls, as follows:

Annual messages in excess of minimum guarantee when the total, including the minimum, does not exceed 6,000, 4 cents each.

Messages in excess of 6,000, 3¾ cents each.

Messages in excess of 12,000, 3½ cents each.

An increase of 25 cents a month for extension sets, unlimited service, and of 17 cents a month for extension sets, measured service.

Private branch exchange switchboards charged for at a graduated scale based on size of equipment. Private branch exchange measured service calls charged for on the same basis as individual line measured service calls. Flat rate business private branch exchange stations increased 50 cents per month, each; flat rate residence private branch exchange stations increased 25 cents per month, each.

Subscribers to season service at certain summer resorts, who have service any time between July 1 and September 30, charged for a minimum of seven months.

Mileage rates increased to the standard of other telephone companies, the distance from the central office to be measured on airline basis instead of on route basis.

Charges for measured service computed on the basis of monthly contracts.

District rates abolished in a number of communities, mainly in Central and Western Massachusetts.

Unlimited business flat rates abolished in Boston (Central District), Worcester and Springfield; likewise the 2-party residence flat rate in Boston (Central District) and the 2-party business flat rate in Suburban districts.

Further information or complete schedules of new rates will be furnished on application to the Manager.

The Postmaster General has authorized the schedules containing the above changes to be effective May 1, 1919.

WINCHESTER MARINE KILLED

First Sergeant of Marines, James K. Ireland of this town, Sergeant of C Co., Separate Detachment, Military Police, was accidentally shot and killed last week Monday. Sergt. Ireland was son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh J. Erskine of Lake street. He married Miss Margaret Erskine in August, 1917.

According to reports of the accident, Sergt. Ireland, who had just received his promotion, was preparing to take part in a parade. He was at his quarters at the League Island Navy Yard. A Lieutenant, whose name is withheld, was with him and was cleaning his revolver. In some unexplained way the weapon was discharged and Ireland was shot through the groin. He was taken to the hospital and died two hours later.

Telegrams received by the family here gave no particulars and Mr. Erskine left on Wednesday for Philadelphia, returning Friday with the body. The remains were also accompanied here from Philadelphia by Sergt. W. H. C. Lynch of C Co. Besides his wife, Sergt. Ireland left no immediate relatives.

The funeral services were held from the Erskine residence, 11 Lake street, Saturday afternoon, Rev. D. Augustine Newton of Reading officiating. A detachment of Marines from the Charlestown Navy Yard attended the service, a firing squad rendering military honors at the grave at Wildwood Cemetery.

WHAT IS YOUR ANSWER?

HE'S WATCHING YOU

Short and to the point is a letter just received from a doughboy now with the Army of Occupation in Germany by his father, a business man of Boston, with a home in the suburbs. The doughboy is looking forward to his return to his home. He says:

"Dear Dad: When I get back to the States I'm going to grip you by the hand, look you in the eye and ask, 'Did you back me to the limit?' and if you can't return that grip and that look, and say, 'boy, I'm so proud of you that I busted myself on the last Victory Loan,' I'm going to feel as you would have felt if I had deserted in the face of the enemy.

"John D——."

The above letter was sent to the Metropolitan Boston Woman's Liberty Loan Committee.

WINCHESTER HIGH VS DORCHESTER HIGH

Winchester High lost to Dorchester High on Manchester Field Saturday 10 to 3. The game was only a seven inning game because the weather was so cold and the attendance was not as great as might be expected. Raynor was replaced by Vallely and Mathews in Saturday's game. Mathews is showing great ability as a pitcher and he has a lot of speed behind the ball, but his control is not as good as that of Raynor's. The feature of the game was a home run by Walsh of Dorchester in the third inning.

MUSIC MEMORY CONTESTS

Descriptive Stories About Some of the Contest Selections

Nearer and nearer comes May 27, the date of the big Winchester Music Memory Contest, and every contestant is getting more and more anxious to memorize the melodies in order to come out the winner. Each little comment about a selection is an additional aid toward recognizing it at the time of the contest. The following little stories will aid in bringing to mind the melodies they portray, just as the composer intended they should. Just as an artist paints pretty scenes with his brush and colors, so the musician presents a complete picture in each composition, but his is made up of little notes instead of lines and colors. If each child will think of these stories, while he listens to the music, there will quickly come to his mind a complete picture of what the composer intended to bring forth.

"Anitra's Dance," the third part of "Peer Gynt's Suite" by Edward Grieg, is a charming bit of melody which portrays pretty little Anitra's attractions. Anitra was a fascinating minx whom Peer Gynt encountered one time at the very height of his success in masquerading as a prophet. Her fascination so entranced him that she got from him his ring, his horse, his apparel and his money, and capered off on his steed, while the make-believe prophet was left to pursue his inglorious way on foot. The bewitching grace of Anitra is the predominant theme in the piece. The selection is a light and graceful mazurka,—just dancing along to show Anitra's caprices and fascinating coquetries.

Another song which will readily become familiar to every child is the "Toreador Chorus" from Bizet's opera, "Carmen." This ever-popular aria has the Spanish dash and rhthym to it which sets everyone's feet marking time to it. Escamillo sings to the dangerous joys of the bull-fight before a group of gay men and women who are singing and dancing in a cafe. Among this jolly company is the fascinating Carmen and her gypsy friends. In a rollicking, catchy melody, Escamillo describes to them the joys and dangers of the bull-fight.

"The Soldiers Chorus" from Gounod's opera "Faust" can be recognized by its martial melody. The song indicates the return of the soldiers from the war and the music has the rousing air of a march. Gay parts are put in to represent the wives and sweethearts flocking to greet their loved ones. The soldiers then resume their rousing refrain, "Glory and Love," and finally the troop disperses to go to its homes.

The next time you hear any of these selections, think of these little stories, and the name of the piece will quickly come to mind. It is like attaching a title to a picture, and this comes very easily with a little concentration and practice.

Our Arch of Welcome has been finished and makes a very acceptable symbol of appreciation to our sons and daughters who have aided in the Triumph of Democracy. In fact with its lights on it is really a very attractive adornment to our centre. It was a little slow in reaching completion, but this was due to the inclement weather conditions. The carpenter's strike rather than proving a hinderance was if anything beneficial, for it gave our master builders a chance to show that they can still handle the saw and hammer with old time skill, and as they all took a hand in the erection of the arch, it truly becomes a part of the spirit of our townspeople.

The location of the arch is very fortunate. It makes a fitting entrance to our common with its handsome flag and staff. It is to be regretted that our big flag was torn in the heavy gale of Friday. While it was the intention to do every honor to our boys by flying it on that day, the wind was really too strong for such a big piece of bunting, and our present day bunting does not come of the same quality as the old homespun. We trust the flag will soon be repaired and again ready for use, for its bright, clean folds when spread against the deep blue of the sky truly make an inspiring sight; one that should stir the heart of every Winchesterite, and make him glad he is a dweller in our Country and our Town.

Besides the wind we have with us this Spring our schools. Of course we always have them in our midst, either individually or collectively, but at present they are very much in the forefront of things generally. The School Committee have taken the bull by the horns and decided to abolish the secret societies. It now remains to be seen if those of us whose offspring are privileged to wear the symbol of the mystic circle or triangle are strong enough to out-vote those of us whose offsprings are left out in the cold. Meanwhile the scholars who have entered the magic circle have voiced their disapproval by handing in their resignations from all school activities. The outsiders as yet have said nothing, having nothing to say. It looks to us as though the outsiders have the chance of their lives with everything in their own hands they can show us what they can do. Meanwhile we hear that the studying will continue.

The attitude of the scholars does not in a large way differ from that of some hundred of our thrifty residents who attended the "pig and horse" hearing at the Town Hall last week. Primed to the chin with arguments for the juicy bacon and tender ham, some of them were really deeply offended when they were allowed to depart without saying a word. Still, how can you have a debate with one side absent. It may not have been intentional that the Board of Health opened its hearing on the negative side, but it disappointed a lot of pig growers, even though they got their licenses.

And now the way is clear for our own celebration for our own heroes who took part in the Great Struggle. Perhaps those who went to the big show at Boston last week are now glad that we decided to wait a little for our own display. No one could say that April 25 would be a winter day—still it was written in the book. The only really comfortable ones were the boys themselves, who kept their blood circulating by marching over the five mile route. There was a good excuse for red noses anyway, and we know of one man who didn't get his back to normal color for three days after.

The date of our own celebration is awaiting the information relative to when a majority of our boys will be home. Everything is in readiness and when this question is determined the date will be announced. If your boy is home, or if you know when he is coming, notify the committee at the Town Hall.

And with the coming of the boys comes base ball. Our local organization has made two attempts to start things rolling but so far has met with little success, only about four members attending the meetings arranged for. We understand that another attempt is to be made to start the lagging interest within a few days, and this probably will meet with larger response, for with the finest ball field in the State it is not possible that we will pass through a season with no ball team to use it. Last year the Association gave it up and we were dependent on "Connie Mack" for our ball, and we have really got to "hand it to him," to put it in his own words, for giving us our exhibition of the national game. He took things as they were, got what players he could find in or out of the army and navy and on what was probably one of the leanest collection seasons the town has ever known, produced a very present [illegible] article of ball. All praise to "Connie Mack." More than one of us was glad to visit the field of a Saturday afternoon and forget the drags for a few hours. "Connie" is one of our true base ball enthusiasts and a thorough sportsman. He won't be a good [illegible] to handle our ball the coming season. We really would like to see what he can do with real backing and under peace time conditions. Why not try him.

THE SCHOOL BOARD'S AUTOCRATIC ORDER REGARDING WINCHESTER BOYS' AND GIRLS' SOCIETIES

As Viewed by a Former Chairman of the Winchester School Committee

Winchester, May 1, 1919.

To the Editor of the STAR:

Sir:—Mr. Chapman of the School Committee is wrong when in his letter in last week's STAR, written to excuse an unjust method of trying to kill the present societies enjoyed by Winchester young people, he says: "To my knowledge every committee for at least ten years has been agreed that the existence of secret, self-perpetuative fraternities were detrimental both to the efficiency and morale of the High School." I had the pleasure of serving on the school committee within that period and, therefore, know that that statement is absolutely incorrect.

Mr. Chapman also says: "Nowhere do school authorities approve or even look with indifference on the existence of secret societies." Incorrect again. The superintendent of the Somerville schools states this week in one of the Boston papers, commenting on the Winchester School Committee action, that these societies have existed there for years "and so far, there has been no reason for action concerning them on the part of the school authorities." And he adds, "they have never come into any conflict, so far as I know, with the administration of the school." The superintendent of the Malden schools also declares this week that the societies are not forbidden there, although they are not encouraged. He adds: "It is my personal opinion that in Malden the situation balances. The fraternities and sororities furnish a lot of fun for the pupils and as yet they have not gone too far."

As it is more than likely that other school authorities feel the same way, Mr. Chapman's blanket statements cannot be accepted in any particular.

The Good Work of the Societies

In Winchester this question of the societies has twice been threshed out very thoroughly within recent years, with all the pros and cons taken up before the school committee, in the STAR, and in town organizations—and those societies are still here! That indicates pretty clearly the views of the townspeople as a whole.

It is rather a broad statement to be made when a member of our school committee intimates that the boys and girls of Winchester by carrying on their societies exert "a harmful influence in the school." I, for one do not believe it. Nor do I believe that our townspeople will accept the intimation that their children's social organizations exert a "harmful influence." There are societies and societies. In some towns there may be cause for complaint; but not so here. The societies here have been conducted carefully and with high regard for the interests of the town. It is certainly a good record of work, aside from the pleasure obtained in the societies that we older people can recall to their credit when we think of the hundreds of dollars they have raised through their concerted action for the Winchester Hospital; the contributions they have raised for the Red Cross; the Liberty Loan Bonds they have caused to be bought; the Christmas dinners and the Thanksgiving dinners they have collected and supplied to the poor; and the work they are today doing in supporting a poor war orphan child in France officially "adopted" by one of these same societies.

Is this exerting a "harmful influence"? If it is, then let's have more of it.

Education Means More Than Book Learning

Then, on the social side, the societies have brought glee clubs, and kindred organizations to Winchester, and—(is this what an austere critic would find fault with?) have enjoyed—yes, actually enjoyed—parties, dances, and picnics.

Well, why not?

What do we want our children to be—mere pedants? The old idea that a boy (or girl) should have routine studies hammered into his brain day after day, to the exclusion of all else, has long since been exploded. Education is not simply the storing up of Latin idioms, or English quotations, or algebraic formulas. It is,—or should be—the development and broadening out of the boy in all ways, making a man of him physically, mentally, and I will add socially. In a country like our boys and girls should be encouraged to develop their social life, should have their dances and their picnics, their parties and their music and their social reunions. There is one member of the school committee, whom I am proud to call my friend, who certainly is making a success in life through his combination of all these broader qualities of general good fellowship in addition to his school acquired knowledge.

To my mind therefore, it is nonsense to say, as last week's communication says, "there are already too many distractions" and "we regard school fraternities as another distraction from the work of the school." Many of these so-called distractions, such as athletics, music, social activities, boy scout work for younger children and "grown-up boy scout work" for older—all these are part of life's real "school-work", part of the development of the whole boy, or the whole girl, for his or her future work in life, for their association with the coming social and business life of their home town and their home state as well as their individual business work.

We don't want the next generation to be mere book worms, cold storage houses of frozen facts. We want them to real human, red-blooded, members of society, interested in doings outside of books as well as records inside of books.

Distractions? Nonsense! For the cloister yes. But not for Life with the capital L.

Then, too, it is a bugaboo often raised to declare as last week's communication does, that "the societies are an undemocratic influence." Possibly so, in some places. But we need concern ourselves here only with the societies of Winchester; and those societies here have never kept any boy or girl from associating with any and all members of the school whether in or out of that particular society; there is no snobishness in their influence; there is simply a grand good feeling of working together, and playing together, for things that naturally do not fall into the school routine. Until their influence can be proved as bad there is no reason for abolishing them.

This Method of Attacking the Societies is Questionable

Now, on the other hand, the action of the committee is absolutely the reverse of democratic. It is not even an open and frank action against the societies. It is autocratic and it is subtle; for the communication to the STAR admits that they have deliberately taken this roundabout way in order to kill the organizations, by forbidding any future members of the societies "from representing the school on its athletic teams, from editing the school paper, from belonging to other semi-official school activities, and from holding class offices."

"It is excellent to have a giant's strength but tyrannous to use it like a giant." We all know that quotation. Isn't it applicable to this case when the committee autocratically makes this display of assumed power. I say, "assumed power" because I doubt the right of the committee to take such action—any more than it would have the right to say that if a scholar joins such-and-such a Church or Sunday School or such-and-such a musical club or business employment after school hours, then he cannot play on the Winchester baseball team or help edit the Winchester Recorder, no matter even if he is the most brilliant and most conscientious scholar in his class. I question if the committee has the legal right to do this. I know it has not the moral right. These societies are not High School societies; they are social organizations outside of the school organization; and it is for the parents, not the committee, to say whether their children shall join them. The fact that the children do join them, that the societies continue and flourish, shows that the parents do not agree with the committee. Membership on the athletic team or school paper can be limited by scholarship or behaviour but not by outside activities. The committee in trying to kill the societies, by the high-handed method employed in their recent order, is taking an unfair advantage of power. It would be much fairer to rescind such a rule and then, if it is thought necessary in this town to thresh out this question again, to call in committees from the societies and also discuss it with the parents and settle it by "democratic" methods.

I fear that Mr. Chapman has not investigated thoroughly, but has jumped at the conclusion that he wanted to find and that the committee has acted too hastily. And that fact makes such autocratic action all the more unjust.

We don't like "Kaiserism" in this country.

Americans believe in playing the game fair and not hitting below the belt.

Individually the high-minded gentlemen who constitute the committee would never use such roundabout ways in their private work in life to carry out any personal desires. I cannot believe that, on their second thought, they will wish to embody such a method into their official committee work.

Charles E. L. Wingate.

KERRIGAN—FLAHERTY

Miss Ethel Marguerite Flaherty, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Eugene H. Flaherty of Cedar street, was united in marriage on Sunday afternoon at four o'clock at St. Mary's Rectory, to Mr. Francis James Kerrigan of New York City, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Kerrigan of Woburn. The double ring service was used and the ceremony was performed by Rev. John W. H. Corbett of St. Mary's Church.

The bride was attired in a dress of champagne colored georgette crepe and carried a bouquet of bride's roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Alice M. Flaherty, who wore pale blue georgette crepe and carried pink sweet peas. Mr. Daniel Garvey of Woburn was groomsman.

There were four little flower girls, all dressed in white and carrying bouquets of pink sweet peas. They were the Misses Ethel and Margaret Kerrigan, sisters of the groom, and Margaret and Evelyn Rooney.

Following the ceremony there was a reception at the home of the bride's parents until eleven, the residence being decorated for the occasion with ferns, potted plants and cut flowers. There was a large attendance, friends and relatives being present from Brookline, Dorchester, Woburn, Peabody and other surrounding places. The couple were assisted in receiving by their parents and by Mr and Mrs. Daniel Kelley of Holland street and Mrs. John Rooney and Miss May McCarthy. The ushers for the reception were Mr. Charles Flaherty, brother of the bride, and Mr Daniel Hanlon, both recently returned from overseas duty with the A. E. F., Mr. Henry Maguire and Mr Charles Roach of Woburn.

The couple were most generously remembered by their numerous friends by gifts of cut glass, silver, linen and other useful remembrances. The groom's gift to the bride was a pendant of rubies and diamonds.

Mr. and Mrs. Kerrigan will make their home in Philadelphia.

SPECIAL AID NOTES

Members of the Special Aid of Winchester and their friends, spent a most enjoyable afternoon Wednesday at the Town Hall when Rev. William Dewart of the Old North Church, Boston, gave an illustrated talk on "Devastated France and the Work of the Society for Devastated France." He left no doubt, if any existed, in the minds of his audience as to the great need of our help in the reconstruction work now being done.

Mrs. Charles Woolley then gave an illuminating report of the work of the Special Aid, emphasizing the need of it which exists and will continue to exist indefinitely.

Refreshments and a social hour followed, during which many new members joined the ranks. Not the least enjoyable feature of the afternoon was the orchestra of three pieces, drum, saxaphone and piano—which, under the skilful handling of Messrs. Prescott Taylor, Lincoln Russell, and John Watters, "discovered sweet music" while the audience gathered and during the social hour.

Altogether a red-letter afternoon in the annals of the Winchester Special Aid. Let us carry on with renewed vigor.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICE

There was a deeply impressive Vesper Service at the First Congregational Church, Sunday afternoon, for the Demobilization of the Service Flag. About fifteen men of the 61 in service from the church were present and responded to the Roll Call of Discharged Men. Mrs. William F. Emerson, as Columbia, pinned the silver bars across the stars. Taps were sounded for Joseph H. Hefflon, Frank Dana Kendall and Captain Fred W Grant.

Mr. Henry S. Chapman, representing the church spoke of the significance of the service flag as follows:

We all remember the day when this service flag was first raised upon its staff—a beautiful day in autumn when the sun shone brightly and the aspect of all nature spoke of peace and tranquility. There was something poignant about the contrast between the beauty of the day and the grim meaning that lay behind this bit of bunting. The day seemed perfectly symbolic of life and peace: there clustering stars stood for the young men out of our number who had offered themselves for the final sacrifice if need be in the greatest and most terrible of wars. But there was a sense too, in which the quiet beauty of the day was not inappropriate. As all felt that our nation was fighting in a righteous cause; that it fought not for self-aggrandizement or self-interest; that our young men were offering themselves in the defense of those who were in peril from the oppressor, and in defense of every moral and political ideal that we held sacred. It was a war for democracy against imperialism, for justice against aggression, for humanity against brutality. The brightness and the calm of the day seemed like a blessing on one cause; like a promise that through the dangers and sacrifices of the innocent we should win to peace and to victory.

If it were now fitting that a Church of Christ should recognize and approve the enlistment of its sons in war, it was fitting in this war. We have never had a moments doubt that these boys were engaged in Christ's battle against the kingdoms of this world and against the powers of darkness. We are proud of the part that they took in that battle. Every one of them in the place where he was called to serve whether it was in the field, on the sea or in one of the less conspicuous but not less necessary services of supply, acquitted himself with honor. Three of them made the supreme sacrifice. Our grief for the loss of those splendid young lives is profound, but it is tempered by the knowledge that since no great thing is gained without its price, our boys were courageous enough and thoughtless enough of self to pay gladly our share of that price. Very truly they gave their lives that us at home might live safely and in peace. May the day never come when any of us shall forget the three gold stars on this flag and the men for whom they stand.

The human spirit rebounds quickly from the most crushing burdens and anxieties. Already those long months of doubt and apprehension that we suffered last year are beginning to seem like a black dream from which we have awakened to the cheerful and hopeful activities of normal life. But we shall find that that dream has left its indelible mark upon us as individuals and as a people. It was more than a dream; it was a vision. There was terror in it and pain, but there was understanding too, and a glimpse of things to which we had hitherto been blind. We have learned at last that the human race is one; that a wrong done to one part of mankind touches nearly all the other parts; that every nation must be its brother's keeper, and that the greater and stronger the nation the greater and deeper are its responsibilities. America can no longer live to itself alone [illegible] The men who took up arms [illegible] war, and the women too who in their [illegible] of mankind. We have made a [illegible] ful beginning in the [illegible] of that task, but it is only a beginning. There are years of toil and sacrifice before us; years it may be of disappointment and of discouragement before the goal is reached. Let it be our prayer that we shall not fail in following where these young men have led the way; that it may be America's pride in the future to be the faithful and devoted servant of humanity. So shall it deserve the promise of our Lord, and become the chiefest among the nations of the earth.

One by one the boys are returning from the army to their homes. When they have all come back we shall furl our service flag and lay it away among the records of our church. It will always be preserved as one of the most sacred memorials of our past. But it would be wrong to do this without at least an attempt to express the depth of our feeling. To the young men who have gone forth from among us to serve under the banners of our country and of Christ himself, we desire to speak a word of gratitude and of congratulation—of gratitude for the honor their conduct has done to the church in which they were raised and to which they gave the affection of their young manhood—of congratulation that when the moment of testing came they were not found wanting. To God we offer thanksgiving and praise that he permitted our nation to be of service in bringing in the victory of righteousness and that this church through its 61 sons, whose devotion we commemorate, was found worthy to have a share in the warfare and in the victory.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

Work for the children of Belgium and France will occupy the time of the members of the Winchester Union at its all day meeting, Friday, May 9, under the direction of the committee on Flower Mission and Allied Relief, of which Mrs. J. C. Adams is chairman. The state superintendent of this department, Mrs. Samuel Wright Simpson, is also a resident of Winchester and has a record for the state second to none of the many relief organizations in the number and quality of garments supplied for this purpose.

At the noon hour a co-operative luncheon will be served in charge of Mrs. Robert W. Dover and those who are in doubt as to what to bring are asked to communicate with her. Tel. 997-M, with regard to it. The necessary business will also be transacted during the luncheon period in order to give as much time as possible to the sewing.

The most important item of business will be the consideration of a change in the day of meeting, notice of such change having been given at the last meeting. It is proposed to hold the meetings on the third instead of the second Friday of each month.

Although this meeting is the regular anniversary meeting of the union it was decided that no better way to observe it could be found than helping to relieve the distress of the children over seas. The W. C. T. U. has been called "organized mother love", and this shows that love in a concrete form.

Thursday, May 8, at 2:30, the meeting in honor of Mrs. Stevenson is to be held at the state headquarters, Boston, as that is her birthday anniversary. It is hoped that the full amount necessary to establish a Katharine Lent Stevenson scholarship at Simmons College will be guaranteed at that time. Among the speakers will be Dean Arnold of Simmons, Alice Stone Blackwell, Rev. M. D. Kneeland and T. H. Raymond. Each union is asked to send its pledge or contribution at that time.

SEARCHLIGHT SHOW

Through the courtesy of Lieut. Dwight B. Hill, who has charge of the anti-aircraft battery of searchlights sent to Boston to give shows during the Liberty Loan subscription period, Winchester was treated to a show of its own last Saturday night. Learning that Lieut. Hill was in town at the home of his wife, (Miss Margaret Briggs), Mr. Cutler B. Downer of the local Liberty Loan Publicity Committee confered with him and arranged for the show.

One of the big lights came to Winchester Saturday afternoon and was exhibited by Lieut. Hill, on the playground during the base ball game. Flyers announcing the show for the evening were distributed about town, and at 8:30, when the show began, there was a big crowd out to see it.

The complete battery of lights is at Macon, Ga., the detachment which is under Lieut. Hill being at Newark, N. J., when he was ordered to bring it to Boston. Six lights were brought here, and nightly one light is detached and sent into the [illegible] Boston Common. [illegible]

The show Saturday [illegible] was very interesting. It took but a few seconds to establish communication with the Boston battery, and from then on signals were flashed back and forth. The powerful beam was played on various parts of the town, lighting them up brighter than in the middle of the day. Lieut. Hill was assisted in giving the show by Sergt. T. H. H. Webber. Both are members of the 188th Engineers.

The battery is scheduled to leave Boston at the end of this week.

CONGREGATIONAL MEN'S CLUB

Notwithstanding the stormy weather of last Thursday evening there was an attendance of over 100 members of the Congregational Men's Club at the church vestry to greet Mr. Charles T. Main on the occasion of his talk on his experiences in France in connection with the delegation of American engineers.

Mr. Alfred S. Hall presided and fittingly introduced the speaker. Mr. Main gave a very broad and open illustration of the contrast between the French idea of doing things and our own. His trip to France was in connection with the reconstruction of the devastated areas of that country. The French people had considered the situation and desired the American view. Mr. Main spoke of the French idea of reconstruction and the results of the opinion formed by the American engineers, giving some interesting sidelights on the characteristics of the two peoples. Refreshments followed his talk.

ANTI-BOLSHEVIST MEETING POSTPONED

At Tremont Temple on Monday evening May 12th at 8 p. m., will be held the Anti-Bolshevist mass meeting scheduled for Friday evening, May 2nd, at Symphony Hall. This change of date is made at the request of the Liberty Loan Committee in the midst of the drive.

THE CORN BORER

Editor of the STAR:

From the earliest days of American history, in fact long before the Colonial Fathers inhabited the shores of Massachusetts Bay, in that bleak December month in the year 1620, the red man better known, perhaps, as the sturdy American Indian, raised corn—not cain. It was that same corn that helped to tide the passengers who braved the elements in the Mayflower through the severe winters of 1620 and 1621, thus proving that corn contains nutrious qualities so essential for the preservation of good health, when it is ground into meal and not emptied into stills.

Now, Mr. Editor, the few words that I am about to write are relative to that garden pest, the destructive European corn borer, that has very recently invaded our shores. As I understand the situation the chair warmers who sit under the gilded dome upon yonder Beacon Hill, have recently appropriated a vast sum of the tax payers' currency for the extermination of the corn borer. It is my humble opinion that the legislators should not vote to spend the innocent sufferer's money, namely the man or woman who never planted corn, but who have to pay his or her proportional part.

In my opinion the remedy is to have the great general court enact some legislation designating it an offence for any person allowing his or her corn fodder to remain on the ground through the winter months. As you know the corn borer hibernates in the butts, stalks, weeds and old decayed fences.

I cannot adequately express in words the depths of my feelings in regard to those careless gardeners who were warned last fall through the columns of the STAR to destroy their corn stalks. The result of that carelessness is that corn that is harvested in Winchester cannot be transported to any town or city in this Commonwealth or in other words the corn that is raised in Winchester must be sold in Winchester, according to a ruling of some folks connected with the state house who are elected and appointed by the people and are sworn to spend the tax payers revenue judiciously.

Consider what an urgent handicap that ruling is for the struggling farmer who helped to purchase the seats that are warmed by our legislators upon Beacon Hill. It seems to me that some of our high priced United States inspectors ought to have been keen enough to detect the corn borer who immigrated to this country in baled hemp. Of course, Germany don't raise hemp—she raised hell and received more tire than he bargained for. I for one, shall plant no corn this year, as I believe in giving the scientific farmer the opportunity to cope successfully with this European pest. As you can very readily understand, the American farmer was a factor in eliminating that other pest, namely the German menace.

Now then, let every person who plants corn destroy the stalks and butts at his own expense and not ask his neighbor who is innocent to help bear the expense. As you know, with unwilling hounds it is hard to hunt hares as Shakespeare well said: "the hand of little labor hath the daintier sense."

In conclusion, some years ago an undesirable visitor immigrated to our shores, namely the gypsy and brown tail moth. The tax payers of Massachusetts have expended hundreds of thousands of dollars to exterminate that pest, but up to the present time they have failed to accomplish their purpose. It costs the town of Winchester $5,500.00 annually to help suppress the descendants of the caterpillars who escaped from a house in Medford.

It can thus be very readily ascertained that we must combat this pest along intelligent lines, that is if we wish to purchase liberty bonds and help pay the national debt. In my opinion one of the reasons for our high taxation is that there are too many salaried men in the various municipalities. Why, even laborers are classified as salaried men in order that they may receive their compensation when they are sick. But the other laborers, when they are sick, receive no compensation but have to pay their proportional part to maintain the laborer that is sick. Is that the American square deal? Your humble servant, like several other native-born Americans was ushered into this country without any clothes. We receive no compensation when we have a sick spell. But I am well acquainted with men here and elsewhere who had a suit of clothes on their back when they were ushered into this great country. They are the men who receive their wages when they have a tooth that growls, or a corn that aches.

Now let us have no more favorites or pets but treat all the laborers like the laborers who labored in the vineyard of old were treated. If we do that it will prove that we show no favoritism to a certain group of men. I realize and understand that lemons are very high but men will go on picking them just the same. I remain

Patrick H. Craughwell

HONOR TO WINCHESTER MAN

John Kearns Presented With a Gold Medal at the Navy Yard

Editor of the STAR:

Of the many Winchester men who served their country during the war, none has a higher record for skill, ability and devotion to duty, than John P. Kearns of 2 Holton street. For many years he has served as machinist in the Boston Navy Yard and time and again has been commended by the commander of the Yard, and the commanders of war ships, for his skill and devotion to duty. He foiled the Germans in their attempt to disable permanently, the interned ships, Kronprincessin Cecilie, Amerika and the Cincinnati. His name has been placed upon the Merit Roll of the Boston Navy Yard War Service, and a gold medal given him. The testimonial reads:

"The name of John Patrick Kearns, Quarterman Machinists Special, is hereby placed on the Merit Roll of the Boston Navy Yard. His claim to distinction is:—Served at this yard with fidelity, zeal and devotion to duty for more than seventeen years. His work has been earnest, has met all requirements, has merited full approval of his chiefs and has been marked by skill and ability of the highest order. During this war his personal interest, ingenuity, and ability has more than once uncovered enemy treachery, and invented ingenious and successful means to meet the requirements of the moment. He merits and receives the highest approval of all in this command. A gold button of appropriate design is presented to him in recognition of this service, as a badge of merit and honor in time of war."

(Signed) C. W. R. Rush,
Capt. Commandant.

I. F. Bass, Head of Dept.

More than seventeen years of the most arduous and difficult service during which time he was repeatedly commended in the highest terms for ability and industry by his superior officers, is a record to be proud of and one that should be cited as an inspiration to others. Such examples are needed today in a world that is suffering from the plots of slackers and the intrigues of the I. W. W. and the Bolsheviki. We hear too much of the dark side and not enough of the bright.

Last fall the U. S. S. Woolsey was set on fire by an oil explosion. Quarterman Keans and others risked their lives to save the ship in throwing overboard the ammunition towards which the flames were rapidly extending. The following communication was sent to Mr. Kearns, by the commanding officer of the navy yard:

"Subject: Performance of duty.

"The Commandant desires to convey to you his thanks and congratulations for promptly and efficiently assisting in removal of ammunition during the fire on the U. S. S. Woolsey, on Oct. 18. Such acts as were demonstrated by you on this occasion again is evidence of the promptness, alertness and zeal of the men attached to the Boston Navy Yard, in the performance of duty in an emergency."

(Signed) C. W. R. Rush,
Commandant.

When one of the great interned German ships had been repaired and was ready to be started on her trial trip, Kearns discovered a diabolical device that would have ruined her machinery had her engines been started. The device was removed and the trial trip was successfully made. On the return trip the ship passed some of the interned German crew and it was observed that a few who had come to the water's edge, were weeping, doubtless with chargin at theh Yankee's success in so speedily making the great ship fit for sea. The Germans had boasted that they had fixed their ships so the "damned Yanks" could never sail them. It was John Kearns and the like of John Kearns who were the men behind the men who worked the guns, who deserve no less than any other, to have their names moulded in bronze on the honor roll. Quietly, faithfully diligently they worked seven days a week and part of the time at night, for their country.

Every American is proud of them, and the thought of such men, makes every patriot feel, with rapture in his heart, that after all, his own country is the best ever lighted by the sun or soothed by the starry night.

D. C. Dennett.

MAY PARTY

Annual Festival of Ladies' Friendly Society at Town Hall

The annual May Party, given under the auspices of the Ladies' Friendly Society, was held in the town hall on Saturday afternoon. This year's festival was favored by some of the finest spring weather in years, a decided exception to the conditions of recent seasons, and as a result the attendance of children was probably the largest for many years.

The hall was decorated with the same scheme used for the recent Pop Concert, and the dainty pink and white effect made a most fitting setting for the festival, called this year a "Pageant of Rejoicing." Over 150 children in costume took part in the various dances, and these were augmented by a group of out-of-town solo dancers brought expressly for the afternoon by Miss Florence Baker, who personally directed and conducted the festival. The music and costumes were in charge of Miss Edith P. Baker.

The program of dancing was as follows:

RED CROSS

The Red Cross room will be closed for the summer from May 29 to Sept. 15. It is hoped that as many people as possible will take knitting (children's sweaters and stockings) and infants layettes to make at home during these months. Will those willing to make a layette during the summer please send their names to Mrs. Hazeltine (telephone 807-M) or to the Red Cross Room before May 19, in order that a sufficient number may be obtained from Boston for distribution? There is a great demand for these layettes and also for the children's sweaters and stockings. In order that Winchester may have a good quota to send in when the room opens in September, it is hoped that many people will take this work home to do during the summer. Wool for the knitting may be obtained at the room now, and the layettes will soon be there to be given out.

CELEBRATION PROBABLY JULY FOURTH

It is reported that Winchester's celebration to her boys in service will probably be held on July 4th. A meeting of the committee in charge is to be held next week, at which time the date will be definitely decided upon.

The sub-committee in charge, has reported that about 60 per cent of the men in service are home, and that it appears that 80 per cent. will be back by July 4th. If the celebration is held on that date, it will combine with the usual July 4th celebration to make one of the biggest times this town has ever seen.

PLUMBERS STRIKE

Following the recent strike of the carpenters, the plumbers of this section struck last week for an increase of a dollar a day. The men were receiving $5.50 and asked $6.50. The master plumbers, it is reported, offered the men $6, but refused the $6.50. The plumbers desired to continue work at $6 and refer their complaint to the board of arbitration, but this the master plumbers refused to do. The plumbers of Winchester, Woburn and Stoneham are affected, numbering it is said, some eleven concerns.

HOME FOR AGED PEOPLE

Election of Officers and Reports at Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the corporation of the Home for Aged People, was held on Monday evening, May 5, at the Home No. 2 Kendall street.

The directors submitted their annual report which was as follows:

Winchester, May 5, 1919.

To the Members of the Home for Aged People in Winchester:

Pursuant to the by-laws of the corporation, the directors herewith submit their annual report for the year ending April 30, 1919.

A year ago, there were eight occupants of the home. Since then, one of them, Mrs. Mary Caroline Butler, has passed away, and two persons have been admitted, making the present number nine.

They are: Mrs. Janet Lytton, Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Hemingway, Mr. Hiram W. Folson, Miss Augusta W. Peach, Mrs. Ida M. Hayes, Mrs. Elizabeth D. Davies Mrs. Mary W. Page, Mrs. Helen F. Rivers, tadmitted August 9, 1918s and Miss Ella C. Abbott (admitted December 2, 1918).

In recent years, some meritorious cases have been brought to the attention of the directors where the applicants were ineligible because they fauld to show a continuous residence in Winchester for five years, immediately preceding their application for admission, although, at an earlier period, they had lived here longer than that time.

The by-laws give the directors a guarded discretion to waive the limit of age in certain cases, and, in one instance it was exercised where, had they not possessed such authority, the case would have been one of great hardship.

The desirability of giving them a like discretion as to waiving the requirement of length of residence is suggested, and an amendment of the by-laws to that effect has been prepared and will be proposed at this meeting.

During the year, Mrs. Sarah F. Cutter, Mrs. Mary M. Foster, Mrs. George N. P. Mead, Mrs. George F. Parker and Mrs. Allen H. Wood have become Life Members of the corporation.

In the autumn of 1918, the matron, Mrs. Frances E. Whitford, was compelled by illness to relinquish her duties for the time being; and later, finding her strength inadequate to the task of resuming her duties, she was obliged, to the great regret of the directors and of the occupants of the Home, to tender her resignation.

It is difficult indeed to find any person at all to fill such a position. How much more difficult it was to find a worthy successor to Mrs. Whitford can be easily realized by those who have known her.

The directors, however, with rare good fortune, were able to secure the services of Miss Harriett E. Richards, who came to us equipped with a valuable experience as matron for 10 years of a similar but larger Home at Roxbury.

In the interim, Mrs. Rogers, the assistant matron, ably administered the affairs of the Home.

Although the Home has not been the recipient of any bequests during the year last past, it is expected that the legacy under the will of Joseph Monlton, to which reference was made in the last annual report, will soon become available.

The Home has, however, been generously remembered from time to time by living benefactors through gifts of food, fruit, milk, vegetables, reading matter, as well as by articles of apparel from the Needle Work Guild of America and others, by

WELCOME HOME PARTY

Reception to Chaplain Murray W. Dewart Largely Attended

Winchester people turned out in large numbers on Tuesday evening to welcome Rev. Murray W. Dewart, rector of the Church of the Epiphany and Chaplain of the 101st Field Artillery, on the occasion of the reception tendered him by his church. Chaplain Dewart served at the Mexican border and was one of the first Winchester men to leave for active service in France, where he took an active and most creditable part during our fighting "over there." He has just received his discharge.

The reception was given by his church and was open to all Winchester friends, a host of whom availed themselves of the opportunity to greet the rector and his wife and extend their congratulations and pleasure at again seeing him in his home church.

REV. MURRAY W. DEWART

The reception was held in the parish house. Rev. and Mrs. Dewart were to have received with Rev. and Mrs. William S. Packer, but through the unavoidable absence of Mr. Packer, who has filled Mr. Dewart's place during his absence, they received alone, standing in front of the fireplace.

Decoration of cut flowers, potted pink geraniums, pink snap dragons and an abundance of apple and cherry blossoms, made a charming setting for the various rooms, while many lighted candles and some very fine United States flags made a most appropriate background for the many blossoms.

The evening was in charge of a committee headed by Mrs. Addison R. Utley who was assisted in invitations and publicity by Mrs. W. Eugene Wilde, Mrs. Chester Kelley and Mrs. Raymond H. Merrill; music by Mr. J. Albert Wilson, organist of the church; refreshments, Mrs. Seymour B. Willett and Mrs. William H. Cole; decorations, Mrs. Rexford Chadwick and Mrs. Herbert S. Fiederwood.

The ushers were Mr. Henry G. Davy, Mr. Horatio C. Rohrman, Mr. Everett D. Chadwick, Mr. Roland H. Sherman, Mr. Addison R. Pike, Mr. Robert W. Hart and Mr. William E. Stearns.

The coffee urns were set in the Guild hall, and the ladies at the tables were Mrs. William C. Sache, president of the Women's Guild; Mrs. George W. Fitch, chairman of the Hospitality Committee; Mrs. Arthur E. Pecker and Mrs. Alexander Macdonald.

The refreshments were served in the parish hall, and among the young ladies who assisted the committee were Miss Elizabeth and Miss Mary Fitch, Miss Florence Murphy, Miss Ann Zuehlin, Miss Madeline Eastwick, Miss Katharine Pike, Miss Agnes Macdonald, Miss Nancy Pendleton and Miss Elizabeth Stearns.

On Wednesday afternoon the children and young people of the Parish of the Epiphany, had a chance to greet Mr. Dewart, and welcome him home. The party was attended by nearly two hundred children who enjoyed the wonderful feats performed by the well known prestidigitater, Mr. Baril. Ice cream was served by the older girls of the Church School and the children of the kindergarten and primary departments presented Mr. Dewart with a wonderful cake, which bore the emblem of crossed flags and "Welcome Home, Mr. Dewart," in the frosting.

Herbert Wadsworth reports the sale of the premises 26 Lakeview road consisting of 9-room Colonial house, 2 baths, garage and over 14000 feet of land. Mrs. Ella M. Abbott is the grantor and Mr. Albert Minot Chandler of Brookline the grantee.

It has been my privilege to have the onportunity to devote considerable time to the interests of the town during the nine years I have been a member of this Board, and I regret that the demands upon my time make it impossible for me to continue further.

SPECIAL AID

At the meeting of the Special Aid held on April 30 donations amounting to $41 were received toward "pre-chickenizing" France. Every 50 cents puts a chicken in France.

There was an interesting display of little garments to be made for the children in the devastated area and many offers of assistance were given and many more are still needed to carry on all that the Special Aid plans to do in this line. The little garments may be obtained from the Special Aid, all cut out and ready to be made and they will make interesting and worth-while summer sewing.

The bag committee report 248 bags sent to various hospitals last month and 136 additional sent to Hampton Roads this week. Miss Gould will be very glad to hear from anyone willing to help make these much needed comforts.

For those who knit, the wool committee have directions and yarn for children's stockings and little bonnets made from bright yarn for the children of Flanders. One hundred pairs of socks, 7 shawls and 18 little bonnets have been sent from the Winchester branch this week.

SIBLEY AT CALUMET

Noted Correspondent Spoke Before Large Audience Tuesday Night

Frank P. Sibley, the noted war correspondent of the Boston Globe, spoke at the Calumet Club on Tuesday evening before an audience of over 500. The evening was the last ladies' night entertainment of the Club for this season.

Owing to the big demand for tickets for the evening, the affair was limited in attendance to members of the Club and their families only, and even at that the large hall at the club house was taxed to its capacity to accommodate them.

President George E. Willey, retiring from executive office of the Club this spring, presided and previous to his introduction of Mr. Sibley, introduced President-elect William S. Olmstead, who made a short address. Mr. Willey introduced Mr. Sibley as a boyhood friend, and opened the address of the guest with a touch of humor by reference to old nicknames which still cling, appropriate or otherwise.

Mr. Sibley gave one of the most interesting talks on the War yet heard in this town. Omitting detailed descriptions of the fighting and conditions so much spoken of and read of, he confined himself chiefly to telling of the sidelights now coming into the public eye, incident to our part in the struggle. He told of the working of the censorship and interesting facts concerning the conditions connected with the ending of the War, as well as giving a critieism of some of our shortcomings in battle tactics; not failing to voice unstinted praise of our boys who fought so well and our officers and departments who met the almost impossible calls upon them by prompt and praiseworthy action. His talk was full of dry humor which held interest and kept his hearers full of attention and his description of numerous little incidents were most entertaining. He spoke for almost an hour and a half, following his own talk by a period given to replying to questions suggested by members of his audience.

This evening closes the entertainment program of the Club for the winter season.

RESIGNS FROM BOARD OF HEALTH

Mr. Danforth W. Comins, chairman of the Board of Health, has tenedered his resignation as a member of that board to the Selectmen and it has been accepted. Mr. Comins has served on the board for nine years. He recently took the office of chairman during the serious illness of Dr. Clarence J. Allen, who has been chairman for a number of years. A joint meeting of the Selectmen and Board of Health will be held to fill the vacancy.

25 AUTO ARRESTS HERE

No less than 25 auto drivers will be in the Woburn court this Friday morning to answer for various offenses while driving through this town last Sunday and Monday. Three or four of the cases are local. The police had officers out at two places on the days mentioned, one being stationed on Main street near Lake and on Washington street between Lebanon and Swanton streets. The drivers were arrested for not slowing down, overspeeding, passing electric cars which were discharging passengers, not sounding their horns and not having licenses with them.

THE SPIRIT OF FRANCE

At the Unitarian Church Sunday morning, Dr. Metcalf will speak of the spirit of France as found in its history and institutions and as he found it undaunted and facing the foe after five years of warfare. A proper insight into the genius of the great nations who are our real allies in the spread of democracy and civilization is most important for America.

On Sunday, May 25th, the Rev. Frederic Kent will speak on the spirit of Great Britain, our great natural ally.

The public is cordially invited to both of these services as Dr. Metcalf spent a year in France, living with the French people most of the time, and Mr. Kent has spent the last year in England.

TALK BY WINCHESTER SOLDIER

At the regular meeting of the Winchester Board of Trade, held in White's hall Tuesday evening, Priv. J. Leslie Johnston, a member of the 102d Machine Gun Battalion of the 26th Division, gave an interesting talk on his war experiences during 18 months' service in France. His talk was considered by many to be one of the best they have heard. Given in an informal way, and including many personal incidents and experiences, it brought home to many an intimate connection with the War not previously experienced.

At the business meeting of the Board of Trade, which preceded the talk by Private Johnston, credit matters were discussed by the members at some length. The announcement was made of the appointment of the outing committee arranged for at a previous meeting. This committee, which will have charge of the annual outing this summer, has been appointed as follows:—

Everett A. Smith
Franklin E. Barnes
J. Chris. Sullivan
T. Price Wilson
John L. Sherman
Edward T. Wolloff
Albert B. Seller
J. A. Laraway
Sewall E. Newman
Perley E. Randall.

MAIN—HALL

Winchester Soldier Married at Winter Hill, Tuesday Night

Sergt. Theodore Main of this town, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Main of Herrick street, a well known Winchester boy who has served eighteen months with the 26th Division in France, was married on Tuesday evening to Miss Marion Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Davis Hall of Winter Hill. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Howard J. Chidley of the First Congregational Church of this town. There was a large attendance of friends and relatives both at the ceremony and the following reception.

The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's parents, 26 Dartmouth street. Decorations of cut flowers were used throughout, the wedding being performed beneath an arch of white roses in the drawing room. The library was decorated with yellow marguerites and the dining room with pink roses, while an arch of cut flowers was used as an entrance in the hall.

The young couple were married at eight o'clock, the double ring service being used, and a reception was held immediately after, with Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Main and Mr. and Mrs. Hall assisting in receiving.

The bride wore for her wedding dress a gown of ivory satin combined with georgette crepe, with train heavily embroidered in silver and pearls. Her veil was of tulle, held in place by a wreath of graduated orange blossoms and her bouquet was of orchids and lillies of the valley. She wore only one ornament, a diamond and pearl pin set in platinum, in the shape of the "YD" of the 26th Division.

Miss Eleanor Hall, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore orchid pink satin charmeuse with cream net over silver cloth, and carried a bouquet of Aphelia roses. Mr. Edwin Appleton Barnard of North Adams, a cousin of the groom, was best man.

The ushers for the ceremony and reception were Mr. Charles Reed Main, brother of the groom; Mr. John Appleton Tarbell, the groom's cousin; Mr. Walter Irving P. Badger, and Dr. Fletcher Hatch Colby of Boston.

Mr. Main, who graduated from Dartmouth in 1914 and was attending M. I. T. at the outbreak of the war, enlisted in the Coast Artillery, later being transferred to the 26th Division. He has recently received his discharge after eighteen months' service in France.

The couple were the recipients of many handsome gifts from their large circle of friends, both being very popular in their respective towns. They will make their home in Webster, where Mr. Main is connected with the Slater Mills.

THE WINCHESTER STAR DEMONSTRATION HOME GARDEN

Conducted by

MRS. ALONZO F. WOODSIDE, 30 Lebanon Street

Co-operating with the

Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture and Home Economics

Because of the fact that on May 1st the State Department of Agriculture placed a quarantine upon the district infested with the European corn borer, we thought it advisable to call attention of this quarantine to the home gardeners at this time.

No doubt, you have heard a lot about the European corn borer. The pest is in your community, very likely in your own garden. It is just these little flesh-colored worms with the flat, dark brown heads that promise to become a most serious menace to the corn crop of this country.

It is so serious, in fact, that it is regarded by the agricultural authorities at Washington as being the most destructive insect that this country has ever known. Everything is being done at present to prevent the spread of this borer from the infested area which includes many cities and towns within a few miles of Boston.

The State Department of Agriculture is now waging war upon the borer. Perhaps, during the past few weeks, you have noticed their employees in your neighborhood burning corn stalks and other plants having hollow stems in which the borers hibernate during the winter.

This method of destroying the insect is the most effective one known at the present time. Poisonous sprays are useless as the borer feeds on the inside of the plant stalks and, therefore, cannot be reached.

The European corn borer has a great affinity for corn. However, in the absence of this crop, it will attack other plants having hollow stems such as celery, tomatoes, potatoes, beans, weeds and large grasses.

The quarantine prohibits the movement from any points within the infested area to any points outside of the same, of any corn fodder or corn stalks whether used for packing or otherwise, or any green sweet corn or roasting corn, corn on the cob or corn cobs.

In enforcing the quarantine and in destroying infested crops, the following rules will be observed. Farmers in the infested area should make a careful study of these rules, and plan their planting accordingly. Note that the Quarantine Order refers only to corn, but other crops will be destroyed if found actually infested.

1. If you grow corn within the quarantined area, you may ship it to any of the cities or towns named in the area, except as provided in the following section, but not to other cities or towns.

2. Where corn, or other crops, is found to be infested with the European Corn Borer, the owner will be directed to destroy the crop within ten days and in case of failure to comply with this order, the crop will be destroyed by agents of the State Department of Agriculture, and the owner charged for the work as required by the statute.

3. Where one or more borers are found in corn or other crops, the crop will be considered infested.

4. Burning or steaming the infested crop or using it for feeding purposes when ground or steamed, will be considered destruction of the crop.

5. A crop which has been destroyed will not be allowed to leave the premises where it is grown unless permission is secured from the State Nursery Inspector.

6. Crops of corn grown within the area may be sold in Boston, unless an order has been issued to the owner as in section 2 of these rules.

7. No corn sold in the Boston market, whether coming from within or without the quarantined area, can be moved out of the quarantined area. The following example will make this clear:

Corn shipped from Worcester (outside the area) to Boston, may be sold in Boston to go to Woburn (inside the area) but not to go to Brockton(outside the area.)

Corn shipped from Lexington (inside the area) to Boston may be sold in Boston to go to Woburn (inside the area) but not to go to Brockton (outside the area.)

In other words, after corn reaches the Boston market as Boston is one of the quarantined cities, it cannot be shipped out of the quarantined area, regardless of where the shipment originates.

The success of the quarantine will depend on the cooperation given the Department by the growers and shippers within the area. If the quarantine is not successfully conducted, the Federal Government will undoubtedly forbid the shipment outside of the state from any part thereof of any herbaceous plants.

A fire started in a fireplace in the residence of Elmer J. Twombly, 17 Stevens street, without opening the damper, caused the house to fill with smoke Tuesday forenoon and resulted in a call to the fire department. Outside of the smoke, there was no damage.

A transformer on a pole at the Unitarian church took fire Monday night at 8.45, it being extinguished by chemicals from Chief DeCourcy's car. The Edison Company was notified and the trouble repaired by ten, although until that time a considerable portion of the southern end of the town was in darkness.

At 9.25 Friday evening, Chief DeCourcy of the fire department was called to the residence of Charles R. Greco on Everett avenue. Trouble was experienced by the breaking of a hot water boiler, allowing the water to run down into the fire. There was no damage other than that caused by steam.

A menacing fire at the head of Hancock street on the estate formerly occupied by Mr. Herman Poole called the fire department out in answer to an alarm from box 7-63 Saturday noon. The fire was the result of a bonfire which got beyond control, and surrounding property was theatened. The firemen quickly extinguished the blaze.

Winchester had its first thunder storm of the season Sunday night when there was a heavy shower accompanied by much sharp lightning and heavy thunder. Monday was the warmest day thus far, the thermometer going up to 87. It was said to have been the warmest day of the season in 47 years, and as a result most of the furnace fires about town went out.

The paper chase in the Fells last Sunday proved a great success, some 16 horses being entered. The chase was very fast, being over a course of some six miles, which were covered in less than 25 minutes. Hugh McDonald led off at a fast pace, but later lost the trail, failing to pick it up in time to finish. The event was won by Mrs. Partington of Medford, who beat out Miss Esther Cutting by a neck. Mrs. Hans Von Vittinghoff was third.

The funeral occurred on Saturday morning at St. Mary's Church of Miss Charlotte D. O'Melia of Sheridan circle. Miss O'Melia was only twenty-three years old and passed away Wednesday evening after a long illness. She suffered from influenza last fall and while she appeared to be recovering, the death of her father, in February caused a steady decline. She was the daughter of the late John O'Melia and Catharine O'Melia. She was a sweet and lovable girl and had a large circle of young friends. Besides her mother she leaves one sister, Mary, and four brothers, Philip, Joseph, John and Edward.

THE FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

The next regular meeting of The Fortnightly will occur Monday, May 12th. The treasurer calls the attention of club members to the fact that the last chance for the payment of dues is presented at this meeting. As there is little business to come before the club the program for the afternoon will probably begin about three o'clock. Mrs. Kidder, announced in the year book, is unable to be present, and Mr. Charles T. Grilley, author of songs and dialect verse, assisted by Virginia Allen Grilley, will give the entertainment. "During the past fifteen years Mr. Gilley has been appearing on the leading Lyceum courses and for the largest colleges, school and clubs in the United States and Canada. He is one of the best known and most successful interpreters of dramatic and humorous literature on the American platform. His recitals consist of one act plays, 'The Bishop's Candlesticks,' arranged from Hugo's 'Les Miserables'; Conan Doyle's 'Story of Waterloo' from 'A Straggler of '15'; comedy scenes from Shakespeare; Dickens' monologues, introducing Sidney Carton, Uriah Heep, Old Miser Smallweed, Fagin and Wilkins Micawber; each a play in itself. Arrangements of stories from F. Hopkinson Smith, John Fox, Jr., and many other selections of the above character interspersed with sufficient humor- our sketches and short stories, with the assistance of Virginia Allen Grilley in solos on the Irish Harp and with musical settings for many of Mr. Grilley's numbers, furnish a program that is a blending of literature and music in a unique and thoroughly delightful manner." Refreshments will be served at the close of the program.

Mrs. Woolman of the Massachusetts Agricultural College Extension Service, will give a free course of five lectures commencing Monday, May 19th. These lectures deal with the important subject of clothing in its relation to the home. Present conditions make it imperative that women know how to choose wisely in the selection of clothing for themselves and their families. Mrs. Woolman is not only a very interesting speaker, but is an authority upon textiles. It is hoped that manw will avail themselves of this opportunity of hearing her. The lectures will be given in the High School Assembly Hall. Further notices will be given. Mrs. Woolman's subjects are:

1. Thrift in Clothing.

TWO POINTS OF VIEW

Editor of the Star:

In view of the mass meeting in Tremont Temple, Monday evening, May 12, I think many of your readers would be interested in two letters written one by a New York suffrage leader, Mrs. Wm. H. Blauvelt, the other by Mrs. James W. Wadsworth, Jr., President of the National Anti-Suffrage Association.

The subject of Mrs. Blauvelt's letter is an appeal to Mrs. Wadsworth to withdraw her opposition to woman suffrage, "for the good," as the writer says, "of the Republican party, and of the country." and also to influence Senator Wadsworth to support the Federal Woman Suffrage Amendment. And in her letter is this remarkable passage:—"Such an action would be sure to bring him the grateful and appreciative votes of millions of American women, and would be a splendid card for him in 1920."

Mrs. Wadsworth's dignified reply was worthy the daughter of John Hay. She tells Mrs. Blauvelt that she should be a traitor to her own sense of patriotism, should she change her attitude without changing her conviction; and that the country needs men who can neither be bribed, coaxed, nor terrified into voting contrary to the dictates of their consciences; that she has no political ambition for her husband other than that he serve his country to the best of his ability; and she adds that if the women of New York do not wish to be represented by such a man as Senator Wadsworth, they will have an opportunity to help remove him from office.

And now the New York suffragists having tried in vain threats, cajolery and bribes, are planning to defeat Senator Wadsworth in 1920—the man who is to be the chief speaker at the mass meeting in the interest of good government, next Monday evening, May 12.

MUSIC MEMORY CONTEST

The Music Memory Contest is attracting attention to a new educational theory which is beginning to take root in this country,—that of self-expressive, organic education. A good part of these principles were evolved and given their first application by Madame Maria Montessori,—an Italian educator of the first rank. Her ideas and experiments in general are of great interest to parents, and her theories and the execution of them with regard to the musical education of the child are of timely interest to Winchester parents who are following the progress of the Music Memory Contest.

Her methods followed during the kindergarten age have produced natural, self-reliant and absolute individual children, and therefore, whatever ideas she follows in music are worthy of earnest attention. In general each child is permitted to follow his natural impulse and to translate all of his energies into whatever action or creation he chooses. In this way each child's individuality is carefully nurtured and developed. These theories worked out in the initial musical training bring about splendid results.

From the very early age of two years, the child is placed in an atmosphere of good music and is permitted to interpret what he hears in any form of dance or rhythmic steps he chooses. The basic theory is that once a child is interested and encouraged, absorption automatically follows, and that, as a rule, the creative or emotional activities—music for example,—are the first to absorb the child. The children find that they can think in music. The actual quality and form of music becomes a part of their true consciousness.

It is directly along these lines that the Winchester Music Memory Contest is working,—surrounding the child with the best music which has come down to us through the decades, and causing to be gradually absorbed the refinement it automatically generates. The importance of any early musical training is emphasized over and over again by the most prominent educators whose ideas all progressive parents respect and agree with.

BASEBALL AT WOBURN

Winchester High played a good fielding game behind Raynor Saturday at Woburn and hitting where hits counted, managed to secure a 4 to 1 victory over the Woburn team. The game was a good one to watch with Raynor never in danger of losing. The Woburn team got seven hits off the Winchester pitcher, but were scattered through as many innings. Mathews filled in at short and put up a great game, getting one runner at the plate in regular Maranville style.

Hatch played third and with French and Flaherty in the outfield it seemed the strongest combination the High School has put on this season.

W. H. S. NOTES

The Freshmen boys have organized a baseball team with Harold Gray as captain, Roger Sherman, manager and Mr. Butters as coach. Mr. Curtis is arranging a schedule with the Arlington, Concord and Lexington High Freshmen teams.

Mr. Curtis presented the Winchester girls' basketball team with the cup for the championship of the Triangular League in Assembly Hall, Tuesday. This is the third year running that Winchester has won the championship. As the league has only been running for three years this is a great feat. Also the team has nominally the State championship. Capt. Morse made a speech in which she thanked the school for their support. The names engraved on the cup are: Kathleen Morse, captain, Katharine Fairfield, Ada Erickson, Mabel Gray, Brenda Bond, Alice Freeman, Katharine Glover, coach, Elizabeth Cannliffe, manager. Katharine Fairfield the right forward has the State record for the number of baskets in a single game, the record being 32 baskets.

ALFRED H. MORTON

Mr. Alfred H. Morton, a well known Springfield banker, died suddenly at the home of his son, Alfred H. Morton, Jr., at 11 Edgehill road Monday morning of heart failure. He leaves a widow besides his son. The remains were taken to the home at Springfield, where the funeral services were held Wednesday. Mr. Morton was 62 years of age and was a native of South Hadley Falls.

GIRL SCOUTS

On Saturday, May 10, one of the biggest affairs of the year from the point of view of the Girl Scouts is to take place in Boston. Then the most famous scout in the world, Maj-Gen. Sir Baden-Powell, with Lady Baden-Powell and his sister, Miss Agnes Baden-Powell, the founder of the Girl Guides of England, will be in Boston to review all of the Massachusetts Girl Scouts.

Those who intend to march should be at the South Armory on Irvington street by 12 o'clock, where hot soup will be served to accompany the lunch brought by the Scouts. It is suggested that two sandwiches and a cake of chocolate be brought by each girl and that it be wrapped in paper only and not packed in a box.

The parade will leave the armory following the route through Irvington street to Exeter to Commonwealth to Berkeley and back again to the armory where Sir Robert Baden-Powell will speak.

There will be reserved seats on the grand stand at Commonwealth avenue for members of the Scout Council and since the stand will seat 1600 people, those in charge of the affair are confident there will be seats for all the mothers who attend.

Winchester people who wish to attend may let information from the Scout Councilor, Mrs. Addison R. Pike.

Thrift Stamps from the Girl Scouts, and as the result of an energetic canvass, last May, the funds of the Home were increased by the sum of $1484.33. For all these, the directors make grateful acknowledgement.

Unfortunately, however, the endowment of the Home is not sufficient to make it self-supporting. Nor is the Home exempt from the consequences of the high cost of living. Fuel and provisions cost it as much as any other purchaser, and the directors view with concern the constantly dwindling monthly balance of the treasury.

They are confident however that the many friends of the Home, who have so loyally supported it during the years that are past, and who are so well aware of the beneficient work it has done and is doing, will not suffer it at this time of financial strain to fall short.

We therefore appeal to them with all confidence, among the many calls of the present time, not to be unmindful of this most worthy charity at our very doors.

For the directors,
Preston Pond, President
Charles N. Harris, Secretary.

The report of the treasurer showed:

Balance of income May 1, 1918	$ 163.31
Receipts of income during the year	4608.80
Total	$4772.11
Expenditures	4174.13
Balance of income on hand May 1, 1919	$ 597.98

Receipts on account of principal as follows:

Arthur E. Whitney Estate	$100.00
Harrison Parker Estate	500.00
Charles E. Corey Estate (Balance)	200.00
Total	$1700.00
Permanent fund:
Personal Estate	$26,373.01
Real Estate	10,000.00
Total	$36,373.01

An amendment to Article XI of the by-laws was proposed giving a limited discretion to the directors to make exceptions to the length of residence required of applicants for admission to the Home.

Amended as proposed, the first two sentences of the by-law read as follows:

Any applicant for admission to the Home shall have resided in Winchester five years immediately preceding his or her application for admittance, or have a settlement there, shall be not less than sixty years of age, and furnish satisfactory testimony of good character. Such exceptions may be made to the regulation in respect to limit of age or length of residence as, in the judgement of the Board of Directors, may seem expedient, but only by a vote of a majority of the Board.

The proposed amendment was laid on the table, to be taken up for adoption at the special meeting of the corporation which has been called for May 19th, next.

The following officers were chosen for the ensuing year:

President, Preston Pond.
Vice Presidents: Marshall W. Jones, Mrs. E. Florence Kelley, Stillman P. Williams.
Secretary, Charles N. Harris.
Treasurer, F. Nelson Hawley.
Auditor, George H. Carter.
Directors for two years: Mrs. Grace L. Thompson, Mrs. Lenore P. Cummings, Miss Alice F. Symmes, Mrs. Edith E. Wood.

MR. CHAPMAN REPLIES TO SECRET SOCIETY DEFENSE

Winchester, May 6.

To the Editor of the Star,

Sir: I do not want to occupy too much of your valuable space, but perhaps it will be expected that I should say something in reply to Mr. Wingate's letter, published last week. The School Committee was not so sanguine as to suppose that everyone in town would agree with its action in regard to the school societies, but it it is not content to rest unprotesting under the charge of "autocracy" or kaiserism." Autocracy, according to our useful friend the dictionary, is "independent, self-derived authority," "uncontrolled or irresponsible authority." It is absurd to say that the school committee exercises any such authority or tries to. In the exercise of authority delegated to it by the citizens of the town, it has made a regulation which it honestly thinks is in the interests of the school system; but its members know, as well as Mr. Wingate knows, that they are wholly responsible to the voters of Winchester, and that if the action they take does not meet the approval of the voters, those voters will take the first oportunity to put the management of the schools in other hands.

Perhaps Mr. Wingate meant simply that he thought the committee had exercised its lawful authority in passing the recent ruling. That may be open to discussion; but the committee acted on the opinion of a recent Town Counsel, Mr. Dutch, who advised a previous committee that it apparently had the right to do so; and on the fact that other school committees in Massachusetts had taken precisely the same action without finding their right to do so denied.

I am still convinced of the truth of my remark that school authorities everywhere oppose secret societies in the high schools. I don't want to press the superintendents of neighboring towns into a discussion that they may prefer to keep out of, but I am sure that both in Somerville and in Malden, the school authorities, while they may consider it inexpedient to interfere with existing institutions, would prefer a school system in which the societies had not taken root. That is certainly the judgment of the teaching body in general throughout the country. In twelve states of the Union, including the neighboring state of Vermont, I believe, membership in a school secret society is prohibited by law, under penalty of expulsion from school; and in a good many cities in other states local ordinances prescribe the same penalty. Why should that be the case, if it was not believed that there were fundamental objections to the existence of the socities?

But Mr. Wingate says with some reason that our problem after all is the existence of societies in this town and he argues that the societies in Winchester have none of the characteristics that have led to their exclusion elsewhere. I can't agree to that, for it seems to me that the objections to them lie in the essential nature of them, and that those objections are not met by saying that they have incidentally done much useful charitable work and provided much innocent amusement for their members. I am sure that the town is grateful to the young ladies for everything they have done for the hospital or for our worthy poor. But surely it is not necessary in order to do that work, to organize a secret society. If the girls are sincerely interested in doing good, as I am very sure they are, they can accomplish just as much through direct action in a club formed for that purpose, as they can by means of the by-products of a secret social organization.

And I am very much in earnest in saying that the societies do inevitably cause a considerable amount of unhappiness,—not because the members are either snobbish or cruel, but because they do necessarily take some and leave others, and because they do draw a quite unnecessary line within the school between the members and the non-members. I know directly and indirectly of too many such cases to be willing to dismiss that side of the matter as unimportant. There are those who say that since social distinctions and discriminations in after life are inevitable it is a good plan to accustom our children to them in school. I don't agree to that either. Our boys and girls get all the education of that sort they need right at home. I firmly believe that the school should not give or encourage that branch of learning. Our public schools are at once the offspring and the nurse of democracy, and they cannot afford to forget that fact. The school committee does not want to deprive the children of recreation or social diversion, but, joining a secret society is not the only way of getting those good things. The committee will gladly encourage every effort to increase the opportunity for clean and cheerful recreation in which the individual class or the school at large serves as the basis, instead of the secret society. It will be glad to talk over plans looking to that end with the boys and girls, if they will accept its cooperation. But it does feel that the influence of the societies, in substituting a fraternity loyalty for a school loyalty, and in introducing an unfortunate line of cleavage between pupil and pupil is detrimental to the morale of the school—which at present is not as high as it should be. Really, Mr. Editor, the members of the committee here are not autocrats. We are doing what we do, because we were put by the town in charge of the schools, and we are unanimous in thinking that this is a good thing to do in the interests of a better, more efficient school system. We hope and believe we have the support of a majority of our fellow citizens; but if we are mistaken we shall in due course be succeeded by others—who, whatever they may do in office, will be no more autocrats than we are, but merely citizens trying to the best of their judgment to serve the community in the place where they have been put.

I am,
Very truly yours.
Henry S. Chapman.

NO JOBS FOR SERVICE MEN

Editor of the Star:

Enclosed find a letter that has been sent to The Boston Herald by Walter Gilman Page:

"Fine Words Butter No Parsnips"

To the Editor of the Herald:

Your leading editorial, "Y.D," is a finely expressed tribute and well deserved, but "Fine words butter no parsnips." The boys who want their jobs back should have them. No injustice to these boys should be tolerated. Last evening, at Liberty Hall, Boston Common, I heard one story of an employer's refusal to keep his word, and I expect to hear more of a similar tenor.

Now is the time to nip this attitude on the part of employers. A subcommittee of the mayor's reception committee should be appointed to take care of this sort of thing, and the names of employers who refuse to take back their former employes should be publicly known. Our duty does not cease with demobilization.

Walter Gilman Page.

Boston, May 1.

Well, Mr. Editor, that letter seems to hit the right spot. Let me tell a little story as it applies to Winchester. Two young men, one with 21 months' service and another with 16, were recently discharged from service and applied fo their old jobs back, right here in Winchester. Did they get them back? Well, not so that you would notice it. Each one was referred from one official to another until they got sick of it. They met the writer the other day and told me the story and asked if I would lay the case before the citizens-at-large and see what public opinion could or would do. Let me say that both were doing satisfactory work for this corporation when they joined the Colors.

Now if these young men were good enough to fight for the corporation, they are good enough to work for it. I will give any one who is interested all the particulars in the case.

Edward McKenzie.

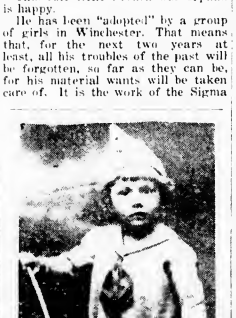
A LITTLE FRENCH ORPHAN ADOPTED BY SIGMA BETA GIRLS IN WINCHESTER

This cute little French war orphan is happy.

He has been "adopted" by a group of girls in Winchester. That means that, for the next two years at least, all his troubles of the past will be forgotten, so far as they can be, for his material wants will be taken care of. It is the work of the Sigma



Beta Society, an organization of young girls in Winchester who take this means of "doing their bit" in the work after the war as they did their bit in Red Cross and Liberty Bond work during the war.

The lad's name is Marcel Breussin, familiarly called by his former parents "Charlot" as a pet nickname. He was just four years old the 28th of last January and lives at St. Denis Hors, in the district of Indre and Loire, France.

TRAINOR—McKEE

Raymond Leo Trainor of 7 Eaton street, son of John Trainor, and Miss Mary Frances McKee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McKee of 615 Main street, were married on Sunday evening, May 4th, by Rev. Francis E. Rogers at St. Mary's rectory. The ceremony was performed at seven-thirty and the couple were attended by Miss Lillian Moynihan, maid of honor, and Mr. William McMullen groomsman. After a short wedding trip the couple will make their home at 7 Eaton street.

The professor regarded, with an eye of suspicion, the small, yellow cube the waiter had brought him. "I take thee," he murmured, "for butter—or worse."—Boston Transcript.

"THE BOOKING OFFICE"

Last Friday evening in the vestry of the First Congregational Church, a "ful house" witnessed the performance of the "The Booking Office," given under the auspices of the Progress Club. Local hits and well acted comedy skits provoked an evening of laughter.

The scene was laid in the office of a booking agent, (Mr. George Willey) who was very ably assisted by his stenographer (Miss Ruth Phippen), with her noisy typewriter and equally loud chew of gum, and his office boy (Mr. Robert Barr.) Mr. Willey lived up to his reputation and his assistants took their parts as if previous experience at these various occupations, made them perfectly at home.

The various vaudeville acts, applying to the agent for contracts or "one night stands," displayed their talent before the booking agent and consequently before the audience.

All skits were equally well gotten up and acted. The following comprised the very acceptable bill:

Scene—Booking office of O'Keefe's Circuit.
Mr. O'Keefe, manager Mr. Willey
Stenographer Miss Ruth Phippen
Office Boy Mr. Robert Barr

PART I

"Me and Pershing" Colored Dialogue
Mr. John Adams Lowe and Mr. Harry Bigelow
"Theresa Patricia Clarke"—Premiere Panseuse of the Metropolitan Park Commission Mr. T. Parker Clarke
Conscientious Objector Mr. Warren Healey
Indian Interpretation Mrs. Herbert West
Helen Starr; Dramatic Soprano. Mrs. Helen Barr
Mrs. Richard Grant, accompanying
Dicky Birds, Songs and local hits, Mr. Richard Grant

Intermission

PART II

The Rosetti Sisters, Baby Stunt,
The Misses Wilhemina Ross, Rebecca Rowe, Clarice Barnard, Charlene Dean, Cathleen Case, Frances Barnes, Virginia Farmer, and Hazel Paine.
The Six Drown Bros.
Leader, Mr. Wm. Lefavour; Mr. Robert Boone, Mr. Robert Fay, Mr. Wayne Thompson, Mr. Kenneth Caldwell, Mr. T. Grafton Abbott, assisted by Mr. Frank E. Rowe.
Carmenator Mrs. Carleton Nason
Mrs. Richard Grant, accompanying
Sheet Music, "Try this on your piano." Miss Helen Cabot, Miss Edith Johnson, Miss Evelyn Prime, Mrs. Harold Borkey, Mrs. John Adams Lowe, Mr. Charles Greene, Mrs. Harold Dorley, Mrs. John Ker Clarke.

The appearance of two "rubes" in the audience added to the hilarity of the evening. Mr. Edward Wolff and Mr. Guy Howe evidently came from the farm.

It is hoped that from the sale of tickets and candy, well over $100 will be cleared. The proceeds are to be set aside for a Parish House Building Fund.

Much credit is due Mrs. William Gilpatric for the outline of the entire performance and to Miss Gladys Folts upon whose shoulders rested the burden of the work.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING

purpose of appointing some one to fill the vacancy was laid over one week.

Memorial Day—A. D. Weld Post G. A. R. A letter was received from the A. D. Weld Post, G. A. R. extending to the board an invitation to participate in the exercises of Memorial Day. The clerk was instructed to write the A. D. Weld Post, G. A. R., and to state that the board will be glad to accept its kind invitation.

Mystic Avenue and Mystic Valley Parkway: Mr. Newman reported that he thought something should be done in regard to obtaining permission to remove the hedge at the corner of Mystic Avenue and Mystic Valley Parkway. This matter was referred to Mr. Newman to take up with the owner of the hedge.

Hancock Street: Mr. J. Waldo Bond who lives at the corner of Hancock street and Highland avenue, appeared before the board in regard to having something done to better the condition of Hancock street. Mr. Bond stated that the abutters would appreciate very much if some repairs could be made on this street and especially to the gutters and grass plot. A letter was received from Mr. Cummings of Hancock street in regard to the matter. The board decided to have Hancock street fixed its entire length and that cobble stone gutters be laid as far as the eateh basins. It was also decided to have some sort of macadam sidewalk constructed on Hancock street, side of Mr. Bond's property. This matter was referred to Mr. Emerson to take up with the superintendent of streets.

Traffic Rules: The matter of the revision of the traffic rules was laid over one week.

Building Lines, Spruce Street: A report was received from the town engineer in regard to the establishment of a building line on each side of Spruce street. This matter was laid over for the present.

Outside Work, Hancock Street: An application was received from Mr. W. L. Cummings of 22 Hancock street for permission to build a cement runway entering the driveway to his property, said runway to project into the street even with the proposed green, which may sometime be built. The board voted to grant the petition of Mr. Cummings provided the cement apron is laid in accordance with lines and grades to be given by the town engineer and the work done under the supervision of the superintendent of street, according to town specifications.

The meeting adjourned at 11.20 p. m.

George S. F. Bartlett,
Clerk of Selectmen.

BOY SCOUT ENTERTAINMENT

The entertainment and dance given by the Winchester Boy Scouts of troop 1, in Metcalf hall last Friday evening was a great success both financially and otherwise. The entertainment was under the direction of Scoutmaster Francis E. Smith. Monologues by James Fitch and Benjamin Priest received great applause. Music was furnished by the Scout orchestra. An exhibition of signalling was also given and dancing lasted until 11 p. m.

THE BETHANY SOCIETY

On Tuesday, May 6th the Ladies' Bethany Society met in the Second Congregational Church for an all day meeting with a goodly number present. A basket lunch was greatly enjoyed at noon.

During the business session the sum of $15.00 was voted again this year as in past years to be sent for the Children's Work of the Morgan Memorial.

There will be a special meeting of the society in the church Tuesday, May 20th which is called for the purpose of completing preparation for a sale to be held sometime in June at the home of Mrs. J. A. Laraway, Forest street, who has most kindly offered her grounds for this annual affair.

CHAPIN SCHOOL MAY FESTIVAL

There was a May day festival at the Chapin School, Tuesday, May 6th at 2 p. m. It was under the direction of Miss Jackson who was assisted by the teachers of the Chapin School. Martha Rogers was the queen and Daniel Beaton the king.

The smaller grades came out first, followed by the sixth grade. The king and queen led, followed by the eight fairies who were all dressed in white. The eight fairies were: Alice Lundgren, Mary Giglliotte, Constance Barbaro, Eva Vollinger, Barbara Carroll, Susie DeLuca, Ethel Knowlton and Helen McNulty.

The first and second grades had little dances, the third and fourth grades had a May pole dance. The two fifth grades had the Lady Dainty dance. The boys of the fifth grade had a relay race, the sixth grade boys had a race also. The king and queen were put on their thrones and robes put on by the eight fairies. The fairies then danced around them.

They also, with all the children saluted the flag and sang the Star Spangled Banner.

"Hello Girls" in France.

Two little paragraphs taken from Hamilton Holt's study in the Independent (New York) concerning the vast activities behind the American front in France convey volumes of information to those who would realize the scope of the organization at a certain American base port.

"Not the least American thing in this Franco-American city," writes Mr. Holt, "was a completely equipped American tire engine house with a crew imported from as far distant a city as Portland, Ore. And you should have seen the boys slide down the polished brass pole, just as they do at home, when the captain sounded the gong.

"I forget how many hundreds of telephone wire we had installed in our special American telephone circuit. But, best of all, you could say 'Hello,' just as you do at home—and back would come the response from a real American exported hello girl: 'Number, please?'"

Origin of "Yankee."

It is singular there should be any question concerning the origin of the well-known sobriquet of "Yankee." Nearly all the old writers who spoke of the Indians first known to the colonists make them pronounce the word "English" as "Yengeese." Even at this day it is a provincialism of New England to say "English" instead of "English," and there is a close conformity of sound between the "English" and "Yengeese," more especially if the latter word, as was probably the case, be pronounced short.

The transition from "Yengeese," thus pronounced, to "Yankees," is quite easy. If the former is pronounced "Yangis," is is almost identical with "Yankees," and Indian words have seldom been spelt as they are pronounced. The liquids of the Indian would easily convert "En" into "Yen"—From a Footnote in Cooper's "The Deerslayer."

Precarious Situation.

"How about a jury for this automobile colliding case?"

"We're up a tree," said the lawyer on the other side.

"How so?"

"Well, a jury of motor owners will be as wise as all get out about an affair of this kind."

"True."

"While a jury of nonmotorists may sink the pair of us."

DICKENS FELLOWSHIP

That the writings of Charles Dickens have not yet waned in public favor is attested by the fact that a Dickens Fellowship exists in Boston, patterned after the one in London, the object being to knit together in a common bond of friendship, lovers of that great master of humor and pathos; to spread the love of humanity, which is the keynote of all his works; to take such measures as may be expedient to remedy or ameliorate those existing social evils which would have appealed so strongly to the heart of Charles Dickens and to help in every possible direction the cause of the poor and the oppressed; to assist in the preservation and purchase of buildings and the objects associated with his name and mentioned in his works.

At the next meeting, May 12, at the Franklin Square House a play, "Dickens Remonstrants," written by Mrs. Alice Bates will be given.

TEACHERS FOR THE TIMES

Another opportunity is afforded the people of Winchester to hear a man well qualified to speak on educational matters. On Monday evening, May 12, the Winchester Teachers' Club will hold a public meeting in the High School Assembly Hall. The speaker will be Mr. Frank W. Wright, Deputy Commissioner of Education for this state who will talk on "Teachers for the Times." Everyone who is interested in our schools is invited and urged to attend this meeting. Mr. Wright's position on the State Board of Education gives authority to his words and his subject should be of vital interest to the public. He is an interesting speaker and a pleasant and profitable evening is assured all who attend.

RED CROSS

At the recent meeting at Arlington Street Church, Mr. F. C. Munroe, the General Manager of the National Red Cross said in part as follows:

The question of Chapter Production is the most important thing for the immediate future that we have to decide. No praise can be too great to express the gratitude of National Headquarters of the country, and the whole world for the signal services that have been given by the women of our Chapters. When we consider that from July 1, 1917 to January 1, 1919, the Chapters of the country produced over 300,000,000 surgical dressings, 29,000,000 hospital garments and supplies, over 4,000,000 refugee garments and more than 20,000,000 articles of different kinds for soldiers and sailors, and that the total estimated value of this great mass of production was over $80,000,000, we can get some faint realization of the immensity of the work performed.

Since the signing of the armistice National Headquarters realizes that its instructions in regard to production work have changed greatly from time to time, but it should be understood that all these varying instructions were due to circumstances over which we had no control. We have acted wholly on cabled advices from our Commissioner to Europe, whose action obviously has been subject to the many conflicting conditions that exist. While a few weeks ago we believed that the production work now going on would probably be the last the Red Cross would be called upon to undertake, nevertheless instructions from abroad have changed so many times that we believed we ought not to take any final action without first cabling to Europe and asking our Commissioner there whether it was safe now to assume that no further production would be called for and that Chapter workrooms might be dismantled and production forces disbanded. Our reply to this cable came a short time ago and confirmed our judgment in cabling by stating that conditions all over the world were so appalling, the distress was so great, that in all probability the American Red Cross would be called on, again to enter upon a production program. The cable suggested that it would be very unwise to dismantle workrooms and allow Chapter forces to disband and suggested that workrooms should be kept intact and when the present production work was finished, that an announcement should be made that production was temporarily suspended and would probably be revived in the fall.

The last Bulletin from the New England Division says: "To give employment to thousands of refugee women in France, Belgium, Italy, Rumania, Servia, Greece, Montenegro, Palestine, Albania, and other war-swept countries, and thereby help them to help themselves, the American Red Cross has just shipped to its commission for France more than 900,000 pounds of yarn and 822,459 sets of knitting needles, the whole valued at $2,316,445. The distribution of this material will be made as equitably as possible by the Commission for France, which is acquainted with the needs of the various countries.

Red Cross authorities at national headquarters are particularly anxious that this large shipment of yarn and needles be not interpreted as justifying the slightest cessation of Red Cross knitting activity in America.

The Washington Bulletin of April 21 says editorially:—"Since the Spirit of those who have labored so earnestly during the war is one of the most telling resources of the American Red Cross in its desire to relieve the suffering abroad in the world, every chapter and every individual in the Chapter should maintain the resolve to be ever ready for duty and to that end, interest must not be allowed to lag or organization suffer impairment of efficiency because of a temporary lull in the actual production activity."

The important fact which everyone should clearly understand is that June or July 1st is not to see the end of the work for the refugees of Europe. That we may, if we so desire, regard July and August as our summer holiday, but always with a definite idea that it is only a holiday and that more work will be ready for us all to do in September as surely as the school child finds his work ready after his summer vacation. Also, it seems to me very certain that we shall all enjoy our summer more if we take our knitting with us and pledge ourselves to do a certain number of socks or sweaters to be ready for the needs of the European winter. There are also 72,000 layettes ready now at the Division to be made and in very great demand on the other side, and we hope as many workers as possible will take one or more to make at home during the summer.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE

Laurette Taylor enters upon the fourth week of her engagement in "Happiness" at the Hollis Street Theatre, Boston, on Monday night. With her winning personality, her archness of manner, her sureness in the human quality of her impersonation she has captured New England.

The play, "Happiness", presents her at her best. It was written by her author-husband, J. Hartley Manners, who wrote "Peg O' My Heart", and it unfolds a story of a little errand girl to a fashionable dressmaker, unlettered, but possessed of a native wit and boundless ambition. The play is not wishy-washy or mushy as many of the so-called uplife plays are. It is a study in character and is true to the best traditions of life. Everything in it is natural and events happen because they do happen just that way in real life. The laughter provoked by Miss Taylor and "Happiness" is incessant. She is supported by a splendid company of comedians including Percy Ames, Lynn Fontanne, Beatrice Terry, J. M. Kerrigan, Thomas Coffin Cooke, Opal Euard, Alice Euden and John Davenport Seymour.

AN INTERESTING LECTURE

Under the Home Economics Department of The Fortnightly a lecture was given some weeks ago by Mrs. Howard K. Hilton of the Bureau of Household Occupations of Providence. This lecture was heard by only about forty members of the club, but so much interest was aroused that an effort was made to have Mrs. Hilton speak at a regular meeting of The Fortnightly. She was, however, unable to accept the invitation, but has given the outline giving the substance of her lecture on "Housework on a Business Basis." Hoping to give an opportunity to all to learn the details of the plan as developed in Providence, this outline is being printed in the Star.

"Housework on a Business Basis"

The Housewives League seeks through its Bureau of Household Occupations to furnish housewives with efficient helpers as they are needed and at a fair wage. It seeks to interest capable women in domestic service, and to make the position of the household worker as dignified as that of the stenographer, the nurse, the saleswoman, or the factory hand. It seeks to put housework on a business basis.

Women have been repelled from domestic service by the long hours of labor; by the undefined limits of their task, which have made their hours of recreation uncertain; by the lack of opportunity for growth and progress; by the feeling that servants have no proper social standing. At the present moment, girls who have experienced the freedom of work in munition factories will not willingly accept the conditions that have hitherto governed household work. But given the same working-day, the same independence as to their recreation hours and their places of living and eating, that factory girls have, women should find a stronger appeal in housework than in work at a bench, as being less monotonous and more interesting labor. By standardizing domestic service and regulating it more or less by the customs and usages that prevail in business, it is believed that workers of the right type may be attracted to the necessary work in homes, and that women who naturally enjoy house work above other kinds of labor will come to feel that it is not beneath them.

Such an idea will not work itself out by chance. There must be organized effort to put it into practical effect, and there must be some definite means for bringing employers and workers together, for making their respective needs known, and for insuring (as far as possible) a fair return for competent service. For these reasons the Housewives League has established a Bureau of Household Occupations and stated conditions under which it will offer its services to those who need them. Its plan gives the household worker the independence of other business women, and makes work in another woman's household—such as cleaning, laundering, cooking, waiting on table, sewing and mending, caring for children or elderly persons or invalids, reading aloud, answering the telephone, addressing envelopes, stenography and typewriting, shopping, driving an automobile, and the like—occupation that is well worth while.

Housewives are asked to consider that after adding to the wage paid a living-in maid the cost of her food, upkeep of her room, heat, light, and laundry materials, it will in many cases be found that the same amount of work can be done by household assistants at the same or less cost. While there are drawbacks to the new way, many of the objections to the old system are removed.

The Bureau has made the first step toward a much desired training school for workers by starting classes for waitresses, under the direction of an expert teacher from a well-known cooking-school.

Regulations

Each employer or worker using the Bureau is required to pay a fee of $1.00, which entitles the applicant to the use of the Bureau for one month from the date of payment; or by paying a fee of $5.00 one may have the use of the Bureau for six months from the date of payment.

At present all work is to be paid for at a uniform rate of 30 cents an hour.

The employer will pay the worker's carfare (if it is necessary for the worker to take a car) if the worker is employed for less than four hours a day; if employed for four hours or more a day the worker pays her own fare. If a worker must go beyond the first zone limit, the employer pays the extra fare in all cases.

No meals are furnished to workers. If one stays over the period of a meal, she either takes her meal with her and has half an hour or more in which to eat it and rest, or she has time to go out for it; the time off for lunch not being paid for, in either case, by the employer.

It is suggested to workers that their lunch include soup or something that may be heated, for, as we have all learned in the past few years, proper feeding makes for good health and good work. Employers are asked to provide comfortable places for the workers to eat lunch and rest and also means of heating food.

A worker's tardiness or failure to keep an engagement without giving due notice to the employer should be reported to the Bureau. A worker who has once been reprimanded by the Bureau for such a failure will be dropped from the Bureau's list for a second offence.

Both employers and workers are asked and expected to notify the Bureau of any engagements for further work not made through the Bureau.

Employers are asked, in fairness to the Bureau, to see to it that persons hearing of its registered workers shall receive the workers' services through the Bureau.

By telephone inquiries and otherwise the Bureau is trying to keep in touch with both employers and workers. It would be a favor if any dissatisfaction or failure to observe regulations on either side were reported to the office.

In order that the Bureau may give the best service possible it is desirable that employers make their applications twenty-four hours in advance.

Checks should be made payable to Bureau of Household Occupations.

The Bureau asks the earnest co-operation of all employers and workers in the strict observance of its necessary regulations. The Bureau is for the use of those only who will keep its rules.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

Members of the Winchester Union as well as her many other friends will sympathize with the president, Mrs. Grace M. Hamilton, who is still confined to her home and last week received word of the death of her father, William F. Milton of Hampton Falls, N. H., at the advanced aged of eighty seven. Although his health had been somewhat impaired for the past year or so he had been planning to visit his daughter this month, and looked forward to the meeting after an unusually long separation, owing to her illness, but a sudden attack ended his life after a few days. He had made many friends in Winchester during his frequent visits and they will mourn his passing.

Massachusetts is now added to the list of states where the liquor forces are making a desperate effort to save something from the wreck of their traffic. Here it is a petition purporting to be signed by 12,000 returned soldiers asking that 4 per cent. beer be considered non-intoxicating. It is probable that their experience with camouflaging over-seas has led them to think that facts are susceptible to the same kind of treatment. There are, to be sure, many ex-saloon men among the returning soldiers, not necessarily drinkers, because the most efficient bar-tenders do not drink, and would be most likely to be accepted by the recruiting officers. These fear for their jobs and must be considered. Others have heard the often repeated statement that the people did not have a chance to vote on prohibition, and fear for their personal liberty. Advocates of prohibition should be ready to reply to all such by saying that only five of the forty-five states that ratified did not do so by the direct mandate of the people with prohibition a definite issue. Only thirty-six states were necessary and nine more than three quarters of all the states ratified, so the five whose legislatures ratified without a direct vote were not really needed. Of these five, Massachusetts was one, but there has been no general uprising, although a lot of people did parade in Boston, carrying banners of protest. Yet Massachusetts people are not wont to submit tamely when they feel they are misrepresented Kentucky, Louisiana, Delaware and Maryland are the other four states and they are all submitting without murmurs.

COLONIAL THEATRE

"La, La, Lucille," which begins a two weeks engagement at the Colonial Theatre, Boston, next Monday night, is attracting considerable attention from the fact that its contributors, both as regards author, composer and producers, have been identified with only the very best musical comedy.

"La, La, Lucille" promises to be one of the fastest and most sparkling musical comedies presented in recent years. It is a departure from the usual present day offerings being more pretentious as to plot which, while leaning to the farcial, carries an interesting story through its two acts.

The staging of the piece is in the capable hands of Herbert Gresham who has been identified with most of the Klaw and Erlanger successes including "The Pink Lady" "Oh, Oh, Delphine," "Miss Springtime," "The Rainbow Girl" and "The Velvet Lady."

Included in the company are such well known players as Jack Hazzard, Grace Walsh, Helen Clark, Lorin Raker, Sager Midgley, Eleanor Daniels, George W. Callahan, Maurice Cass, Stanley Ford, Fred Hall, Cordelia Macdonald, Ester Banks, Marjorie Bentley, Charles Meyers and an exceptionally attractive chorus.

Matinees will be given Wednesdays and Saturdays.

GORDON'S CENTRAL SQUARE THEATRE

Cecil B. DeMille's latest production "For Better, For Worse" is to be shown at Gordon's Cambridge Central Square Theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The usual five big all-star vaudeville acts include Smith & Austin comedy singing and dancing, chockfull of "pep"; Harry & Anna Scranton, in "1919 Capers"; Grindell & Esther in a comedy sketch "A Study in Thinology"; El Cleve in "A Little Bit of Scotch"; and Ritchie & St. Onge, a variety of fun.

Pathe News, screen magazine, the latest Mack Sennett Comedy, "When Love is Blind", and an organ recital by A. J. Martel complete this most remarkable bill of entertainment.

The big Sunday night concert will include an entire change of vaudeville and photoplays.

Next Saturday a Movie Cut-Out will represent the delightful star Anita Stewart, who is presenting to every child, under 12 years of age, attending the performance at Gordon's Cambridge Central Square Theatre.

There will be an entire change of program Thursday, Friday and Saturday and on those days Ernest Truex and Louise Huff will appear in "Oh, You Women!"

DOUGHBOYS ARE GRATEFUL TO HOME SERVICE WORKERS

"When I get back to the States", said a doughboy to the Home Service man at Tours the other day, "I'll certainly be a booster for the Red Cross."

He had just been fitted out with a warm sweater, knitted by some loyal American mother or sister, given socks and muffler, and provided with one of those popular "comfort kits" the A. R. C. is dispensing to the soldiers.

"I'll certainly give my money to the Red Cross", said another, "for you've treated us boys fine over here."

These expressions of gratitude are common to the thousands of American soldiers who call here, and pretty well reflect the sentiments of officers and men of the army towards this great agency of mercy and help.

Lieut. W. T. Beck, in charge of the Home Service work at the Zone Headquarters at Tours, relates that he has had some interesting cases to handle for the boys, that show the intensely human side of this phase of the Red Cross activities.

Private A—— called the other day to express his gratitude to the Red Cross for a good deed done for him. With beaming face he said, "Lieutenant, just a week ago I asked you to trace my mail for me. I hadn't had a word from home for four months. Yesterday I got fifty-four letters and a telegram. I started in reading at nine o'clock that night and finished the next day at noon."

Here is a letter from a doughboy who was pierced by a dart from Cupid's bow: "I hope to marry a French girl whom I have known for the past year, and with this end in view I am very anxious to obtain reliable information as to what procedure I have to go through in the way of obtaining the necessary papers. I understand it is very complicated." The Home Service man stops at nothing in attempting to alleviate human ills, and he prescribed for this soldier a formula which will enable him to carry out his heart's desire.

The Home Service is all that the name implies—a connecting link between the soldier and his family—and the scope of its good works is almost without limitations. Officers and men call daily with varied troubles and problems. Such tasks as tracing lost friends and relatives in the hospitals and on the front, calling to wives and parents, tracing mail and service records, communicating with neutral and enemy countries, aiding men over financial difficulties—these are a few of the multitudinous ways in which the Red Cross, through its Home Service, ministers to the needs of the soldiers; and justly earns the title of "The greatest mother in the world."

MAXIMUM SENTENCE BILL

Claiming that men who are the brains of criminal conspiracies are let off with too light sentences, District Attorney Nathan A Tufts of Middlesex County has filed a bill which provides for a maximum sentence of 20 years in State's Prison for conspiracy.

Dist. Atty. Tufts cites the cases of Samuel C. Harris and Louis "Poco" Bennett, both of whom received sentences of two and a half years in the House of Correction at East Cambridge for conspiracy.

At present, the maximum sentence that can be imposed upon a man convicted of conspiracy is three years in the House of Correction. This has been further complicated by a recent act, passed by the legislature which reduces that time to two and a half years and which takes effect on January 1, 1920.

This recent act is being followed by superior court judges in imposing sentence, who prefer to give a man two and a half years than to sentence him for three years and to run the risk of habeas corpus preceedings which might result in the release of the prisoner.

Deputy District Attorney F. W. Fosdick of Middlesex County prepared the bill for Dist. Atty. Tufts which has been filed. The bill provides a maximum penalty of 20 years in State's Prison as a punishment for conspiracy to commit a felony. The bill also has a leniency clause which provides that a sentence of not more than two and a half years in the House of Correction or a fine of $4000 may be imposed. The fine limit at present is $1000.

Harris was the head of a notorious gang of auto thieves. Thousands of automobiles were stolen. The thieves were daring and the cars cleverly disposed of. Bennett was one of the planners of the robbery at Everett on December 20 last when paymaster Frank R. Brown of the Lynn General Electric company was held up and robbed of the payroll, amounting to nearly $13,000. Brown was shot by one of the robbers and for a long time lingered between life and death. The auto bandits who figured in the robbery, got long terms in State's Prison.

"I believe that a man who lights the match is as bad as the man who sets the fire," said Dist. Atty. Tufts, and further believe that he should be severly punished."

Both Bennett and Harris received sentences that are much too light for the crime they were connected with. These men were the brains of conspiracies that did great harm to the public. If my bill goes through, we shall be able to take care of this kind of men and see to it that they receive severe punishment for their schemes."

WINCHESTER TEACHERS' CLUB

The second public, educational meeting of the Winchester Teachers' Club was held in the High School Assembly Hall on Monday evening, May 12.

Miss Mary Lyons, president of the club welcomed the guests in a few well chosen words and introduced as the speaker of the evening Mr. Frank W. Wright, Deputy Commission of Education, whose subject was "Teachers for the Times." This was one of the most forceful and inspiring addresses that the citizens of Winchester have been privileged to hear.

The speaker traced in a logical and interesting manner the development of the German ideals through their public school system, proving that Germany today is the result of what she has been teaching her school children in history and morals. He declared that the United States, fifty years from now, would be in the same deplorable state in which Germany is now should the American school child be taught to believe that might makes right and that pity is a form of disease—two fundamental doctrines in the former German school teaching.

The teachers for the times must be men and women of broad vision, must receive a salary commensurate with the dignity and importance of their profession and must be supported by community thinking. They will teach in such a way that the boys and girls will feel at the close of the day that they know more, they will have a different belief as to their duty to the world and will be eager to carry this belief into action. School is a place where children are gaining the power to form worth while opinions about worth-while things.

The whole address was an inspiration to greater service and brought home to teacher and parent a keener realization of the most important part the public school plays in shaping the destiny of the nation.

Of equal pleasure to the audience was the singing of Mrs. John R. Fausey of this town. She has a charming manner and a well trained voice of wide range and great beauty. Variety of selections distinct enunciation and intelligent interpretation proved her a soloist well worthy of the great appluase which greeted her first appearance before a Winchester audience. She was most ably accompanied by Miss Fleming.

Miss Frances Doherty of this town was the pianist for the community singing which was conducted by Mr. Edward E. Thompson of the High School staff.

LIBERTY LOAN COMMITTEE EXPRESSES APPRECIATION

May 14, 1919.

To the Editor of the Star
Winchester, Massachusetts.

Winchester has more than filled its quota in the Victory Loan Campaign and the Winchester Liberty Loan Committee desire to express its appreciation of the assistance rendered to it by the Women's Liberty Loan Committee, headed by Mrs. D. C. Dennett, by the Boy and Girl Scouts and by many others including particularly those subscribers who increased their previous subscriptions and those who voluntarily agreed to make additional subscriptions at a time when it seemed possible that the amount subscribed would not be sufficient to fill the quota.

Bearing in mind that Winchester's quota in the last two campaigns has been proportionally fifty per cent higher than all of the other cities and towns in the State, with one exception, our patriotic citizens have a right to take pride in the fact that the town has exceeded its assigned quota in every one of the five campaigns.

The exact amount subscribed and credited to Winchester during the fifth campaign will not be known until all of the banks have completed their returns. When this amount is ascertained it will be published as the last word in the history of this novel way of offering a Nation's securities to popular subscription.

Winchester Liberty Loan Committee,
By Ralph E. Joslin, Chairman.

AUTO TURNED OVER IN CRASH

A Buick coupe, driven by Edmund P. Rondini of 121 Highland avenue was overturned at the junction of Mt. Vernon and Washington streets, Saturday afternoon at about four o'clock when it was in a collision with a Studebaker touring car owned by James F. Canfield of 8 Ellis avenue, Medford, and driven by Frank C. Mitton of 14 Flint street, Somerville.

According to reports the touring car was travelling down Washington street and the Buick going up Mt. Vernon. As the two drivers seemed unable to pass each other they came together, the touring car striking the rear wheel of the coupe, tipping it over. Both cars were damaged, the coupe having its top and wheel smashed and the touring car its front springs and fenders damaged.

No one was hurt and both cars were able to depart under their own power.

CITIZENS OF WINCHESTER

Having been asked to take charge of the Campaign for the Home Service Work of the Salvation Army, I beg to call your attention to the fact that the week beginning May 19th and ending May 26th is the time set apart for it.

Let us all get together and contribute freely and generously to this most worthy cause, so that they may be enabled to continue the wonderful work they have done both here and abroad.

Ask any of the boys who have been in the service, what they think of "SALLY".

The allotment for the Town of Winchester is comparatively small and I feel that this amount should not only be raised but considerably oversubscribed.

It is desired that contributions be secured without the customary house-to-house canvas, hence you are urgently requested to hand or send to one of the following a generous contribution:

The Winchester National Bank.
The Winchester Trust Co.
The Treasurer of the Calumet Club.
The Winchester Star.
Mr. William S. Olmstead, Chairman, 3 Fletcher street.

Your prompt response to this appeal will be greatly appreciated

William S. Olmstead,
Chairman.

ANGELS OF THE BATTLEFIELD

The drama "The Angels of the Battlefield" was presented in the town hall last evening before a large audience for the benefit of the summer festival of St. Mary's Church. The festival this year will be held on the afternoon and evening of June 28th at St. Mary's rectory. Last night's play was in charge of Rev. John W. H. Corbett. The drama was written by Rev. P. J. McCormack of St. Joseph's Parish, Boston, and was recently presented on three occasions at Woburn, the same company, the St. Charles Notre Dame Alumnae of Woburn, giving it here. Dancing was held at the close of the performance.

The plot is historical and is based upon the services and sacrifices by Catholic nuns during the Civil War in caring for the sick and wounded and diseased. In acknowledgment of these efforts a monument has been erected in the National Cemetery at Arlington, D. C., to the nuns.

The committee of the Holy Name Society assisting Fr. Corbett comprised Messrs Thomas Macksey, Clarence Macksey, Michael Drohan, Edward Fitzgerald John O'Brien, Robert Le Compte, John MacDonald, John Cullen, Hugh McDonnell, Patrick Kenneally, Timothy Murphy, John Cassidy, Daniel Sullivan, Patrick Kenney and Jeremiah Breen.

HILTON—LOVEJOY

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen A. Lovejoy of West Andover, announce the marriage of their daughter, Georgianna, to Mr Kenneth Hilton, on Wednesday, May 14th.

Miss Lovejoy was a member of the class 1918, Smith College.

Mr. Hilton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Hilton of this town and has just returned from France, having served the past year with the 77th Division.

THE FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

The last regular meeting of The Fortnightly for this season was held on Monday, May 12th. During the business meeting several announcements and notices were given. The chairman of the Home Economics Committee announced a course of four free lectures by Mrs. Woolman of the Massachusetts Agricultural College Extension Service, commencing Monday, May 19th, in the High School Assembly Hall. The subjects are:

1. Clothing Efficiency.
2. Wool and Worsteds.
3. Cotton Industry.
4. Clothing and Health.

The subject matter of the "Intelligent Shopping" fifth lecture, mentioned in previous notices, will be embodied in these four in order that the course may close early in June. The chairman of the Education committee, announced that the Italian class in sight-reading would continue through the spring and early summer, and that the classes will meet at the home of Miss Clara Hill, Winthrop street, on Fridays at 2.30 p. m. A notice was read from the Red Cross rooms that all members of the club are urged to provide themselves with layettes and with wool for knitting children's socks and sweaters for summer work at once, as the rooms will soon close for the summer. A request was also made that any member of The Fortnightly who has changed her address or telephone number since remitting her dues, communicate as soon as possible that the year book may be correct when it appears.

Several sums of money were also appropriated for various purposes—$20 to be taken from the Philanthropy fund for the maintenance of The Fortnightly room at the Winchester hospital; $100 to be set aside from the same fund for emergency use during the summer, and a sum not exceeding $100 to be taken from the General fund for the entertainment of boys in the service and of those who have returned.

Mr. Aborn of Boston, who led the club in community singing spoke enthusiastically of his work in Marblehead. Starting with thirty-five people, he now leads a chorus of fifteen hundred every Monday evening, assisted by a volunteer band of fourteen pieces. He said that there is great work being done in helping to make life a little brighter for our wounded soldiers in the hospitals in and about Boston. People of talent are glad to be of service but auto transportation to and from the hospitals is much needed. He urged the ladies of the club to help solve this problem.

Mr. Charles T. Grilley, interpreter of dramatic and humorous literature, assisted by Virginia Allen Grilley, afforded a most entertaining afternoon. He opened his program with a poem entitled "John Smith, U. S. A." (Eugene Field) which was at once humorous and touching and well suited to the reader's versatile ability. "A Happy Citizen" by Joel Chandler Harris put one in a particularly happy frame of mind and "Preachin' on Kingdom Come," (John Fox, Jr.,) showed yet another phase of the artist's ability. Interspersed with these longer selection, were many humorous anecdotes and short stories. A parody on "In the Gloaming," called "On the Steamer" was most amusing. Mr. Grilley closed with a poem "Comfort" by Robert Service, a choice selection.

His daughter Miss Virginia Grilley, who played the Irish harn and gave two or three well selected recitations accompanying herself upon that instrument or the piano, charmed her audience.

At the close of this delightful program ice cream and cake were served in the rear of the hall under the able direction of the new Social Committee.

Number 11 of the Standing Rules of The Fortnightly reads as follows: "Members wishing to sever their connection with the club are expected to send a written resignation to the secretary." It would greatly aid in the effort to retain upon the membership list the names of all who desire to continue in the work of the club for the coming year, if those who do not wish to do so, would observe this rule.

A part of Section 3, Article IX of the By-Laws reads: "Bills shall be sent to all members, and if not paid at or before the first meeting in May membership shall be forfeited, except by vote of the Executive Committee." The officers of the club realize the ease and the frequency with which small matters often escape the memory and wish to exercise the greatest leniency in fulfilling the demands of this section of the by-laws. They earnestly desire that not one member of the club shall be dropped who wishes to retain her membership there. If anyone has not given attention to this matter, will she not aid those in charge by doing so at her earliest convenience.

The Program committee for the ensuing year is having frequent sessions and will greatly appreciate suggestions from members of the club. This is an excellent opportunity to help make the coming meetings interesting and profitable.

NOTICE OF SPECIAL MEETING

A special meeting of the corporation of the Winchester Home for Aged People will be held at the Home on Monday evening, May 19, at 8 o'clock.

1. To see if the corporation will adopt any amendments to Article XI of the by-laws which may have been proposed at the annual meeting.
2. To transact such other business as may properly come before the meeting.

Charles N. Harris, Secretary.

SIR THOMAS LIPTON ENTERTAINED BY WINCHESTER MAN

At a complimentary dinner tendered to Sir Thomas J. Lipton at Murray's Roman Gardens, N. Y. last week Thursday night by Mr. Michael Hayward Cox of Cabot street, this town, a decidedly representative gathering of prominent men, all former friends and acquaintances, paid their respects to the famous yachtsman. Sir Thomas is making a short stay here in the States, and the dinner was a purely informal affair and in the nature of an "Auld Lang Syne" reunion after a separation of several years due to the war. Toastmaster and speeches were dispensed with, but during the course of the dinner the party was entertained by hidden soloists and a string quartette who sang and played favorite romantic ballads and selections of the past and present. By the time cafe noir, cigars and liquors were passed around anecdotes and reminiscenses were being freely exchanged, wits matching wits in brilliant repartee.

Guests attending were: Sir Thomas J. Lipton and Mr. John Westwood of Ireland; Michael Hayward Cox of Winchester, Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, ex-mayor of Boston; Dr. Simon F. Cox, Yale University, New Haven, Conn.; Hon. John McGlyn, Troy, N. Y.; Wm. R. Roach, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Hon. Thomas Z. Lee, Providence, R. I.; Hon. Martin W Littleton, New York; James T. Sullivan, Boston, Mass.; Edward M. Tierney, Mortimer M. Kelly, John J. Cavanagh, Charles E. Gehring, Col. Ned Alden Flood, of New York.

The dinner was given in the Gothic Room of Murrays which had been transformed into a veritable floral bower with fresh dogwood and apple blossoms. The entire center of table (round) was filled with red roses and ferns (flat decoration). The soloists and string quartette sang behind an arbor covered with flowers, and this proved very effective.

MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION

The regular meeting of the Mothers' Association will be held in High School Assembly Hall, Wednesday, May 21 at 3 o'clock. This is the last indoor meeting of the year as the June meeting will be in the form of a lawn party.

Mrs. Herbert V. Neal of Tufts College will tell of some of the wonders of nature. Members may bring their children. The talk will be of particular interest to children between the third and eighth grades. Mrs. Neal is connected with the Gulick Camp for girls in New Hampshire and is accustomed to speaking to children.

The High School Orchestra will play and the Boys' Glee Club will sing. Make this a full meeting.

A WELCOME HOME PARTY

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore W. Hartley, 3 Kendall street, a welcome home reception was held on Tuesday evening for their son Ralph, who has seen nineteen months' service in France with the 101st U. S. Engineers.

A feature event of the evening was the announcement of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mina Blanche Hartley, to Mr. George Livingstone Ralston, formerly of Boston, who has just returned after three and a half years' service with the Canadian Army in France.

A musical entertainment and refreshments were enjoyed by all. The guests were relatives and intimate friends from Dorchester, Cambridge, Arlington and Winchester.

BASEBALL

On Saturday of this week, the High School baseball team will play its old rival, Arlington in their first league clash. At present, by defeating Melrose 8 to 5, our team is at the head of the Mystic Valley League, tie with Watertown. The team showed up well in the Melrose game and proved a surprise, as Melrose was rated as a strong team. Wednesday, here, we defeated Stoneham 9 to 3. Raynor's hitting two triples and two singles showed that Babe Ruth has got to hustle to keep his reputation. From all viewpoints it looks like a fine game Saturday. The battery will surely be Raynor and Meskell, with Gray or Viano in the box for Arlington. It is about time that some of the business men and baseball fans of the town wake up and come down to the field. So be there Saturday.

WOMAN STRUCK BY TRAIN

Winchester came near having another fatality on its railway through the centre Friday afternoon when Mrs. Edward J. Cusick, 70 years of age, of 162 Swanton street, was struck by one of the northern express trains as she was walking on the tracks near the switch tower. Fortunately the locomotive barely touched her, and she was thrown to one side with no injuries other than bad bruises and the shock.

Mrs. Cusick was walking toward the centre, so the report was made, and when about 150 feet above the tower was on the inward track in front of the express. The engineer whistled and she stepped off the tracks, only to step back again. She started to step off and had gotten outside the rail when the locomotive reached her. It is thought the cylinder of the locomotive just touched her, for she was thrown to the ground as it passed.

The train was stopped and she was taken on a stretcher to the centre, although able to stand. Dr. Sheehy was called, who treated her, and she was taken in the automobile of Mr. Freeman Nickerson of Cabot street to the Winchester Hospital. Examination at the hospital found no bones broken, but several bad bruises, and she was kept there until this week under observation.

AN ANNOUNCEMENT

To the women of Winchester, through the Home Economics Committee of The Fortnightly, the State of Massachusetts offers a valuable course of four free lectures which deal with clothing in its relation to the home. These will be given by Mrs. Woolman of the Massachusetts Agricultural College Extention Service, in the High School Assembly Hall at three o'clock on Monday afternoons, May 19th, May 26th, June 2nd, and June 9th. This course consists usually of five lectures, but owing to the season Mrs. Woolman will condense her subject matter into four lectures that they may close early in June. Those who have heard Mrs. Woolman can not recommend her too highly. She is, a ready speaker knows her subject thoroughly, and has something of real practical value to give her hearers. The subject of her first lecture will be "Clothing Efficiency." Surely with present prices nothing could be more opportune. All are cordially invited to hear her on Monday afternoon.

CART WENT OVER DUMP

When John Nowell was driving a tip-cart load of rubbish over the dump on Black Ball Pond Tuesday evening shortly before seven, he tried to take a short cut, going over a portion which had not been filled in. As a result the horse and cart went down in the mud and water. It was necessary to call on the fire department to get the horse out, which was done at the expense of a bath by Nowell, when he slipped off the animal's back into the water. The "jitney" at the fire department ran a rope around the horse and pulled it to firm ground, afterwards pulling the cart out in a similar manner. No one was injured.

CHAPIN SCHOOL EXHIBIT

The Chapin School is holding their exhibition at the Boy Scout rooms on Main street this week. The exhibition is one of the best that the lower grades have done. The school has laid quite a lot of emphasis on writing this year and they have several examples in the window to show their improvement through the year. There are also exhibitions in drawing spelling and arithmetic. Several very pretty sewing bags have been made by the pupils and some of the maps that they have drawn are of the best. The school has its report on thrift stamps and liberty bonds in the window. The school has $1017.25 in thrift stamps and $500 in liberty bonds, making a total of $1517.25 in all.

THE WINCHESTER STAR DEMONSTRATION HOME GARDEN

Conducted by

MRS. ALONZO F. WOODSIDE, 30 Lebanon Street

Co-operating with the

Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture and Home Economics

There are two distinct types of tomato plants that are usually on sale by the dozen lots about this time of the year. During the next few weeks one may see these displayed for sale in the various hardware, grocery and seed stores.

The observing gardener will notice that one type is of a stocky, dark green growth about 6 inches tall that stand up well in the box. Perhaps the adjoining store may have some that are light green in color and of a more slender growth. These seem to lack the vitality of the short, dark green type. It is not a question of vigor, however, for if the two types were set out side by side in a garden it is very likely that one would grow as well as the other.

The difference in type is due to the variety of the tomatoes. The stocky, upright plants are usually one of the dwarf varieties. These are a late tomato that make a bushy growth but are far inferior to the other type in regard to yield.

The tall, light green plants are the ones the home gradener should select for planting. These are the early or main crop varieties and the big yielders.

The mistaken idea about tomato plants is now so wide-spread that the majority of tomato plants grown to sell are of the dwarf type—the Dwarf Champion being the variety generally raised.

The market gardeners, however, are raising for the home gardener more and more of the earlier varieties each year as the demand increases. People are becoming more familiar with vegetable varieties and as the sterling qualities of the early type of tomato become known they are planting this early, light green type.

Tomato plants should be set out about the last week in May. Plant them about 4 inches deep. If the stem is quite long it is an excellent plan to lay a portion of it in the bottom of a trench dug 4 inches deep leaving 6 to 8 inches of the plant showing above the ground. A long, vigorous root system will develop from the buried stem. A shovel full of well-rotted manure should be spaded into the arear in which the tomato plant is to be set.

As a precaution against cutworms wrap a band of newspaper 8 inches wide around the roots and stem of the plant. Let the band extend into the ground 1 inches. After a few weeks the paper will rot away and become ineffective but the ravages of the cutworm will be over by this time.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE

Men and women shop differently. The average man, according to an advertising friend of the Spectator's, "waits till the last minute when he needs clothes, then rushes into the store he is used to and buys. Women look about and shop carefully. They are on the lookout for values. Shoppers who are "on the look out for values" are the very ones the Winchester merchant is most desirous of reaching. It is because his goods can well stand comparison with his competitors' wares that he advertises them. It is therefore important to him to get his announcements into the homes, where they will be read and considered by women. The Star is essentially a home newspaper The advertising in its columns gets the attention of those who "look about and shop carefully." It is indispensible to the success of any advertising campaign which aims to cover Winchester thoroughly and to win the favor of those who direct almost all of the family buying.

Conceding that the phrase "a high old time" is not elegant it is generally understood, and was certainly in common use long before the melody "There'll be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight." Naturally the expression suggests noise and more or less disturbance. Collegians who march along the street upsetting signs, breaking windows and fighting policemen are said to have had "a high old time." A street row, a mandolin performance, almost everything foolish and excitable passes under the description.

Whether for the love of talking nonsense or whether it was his peculiar notion a Winchester gentleman among a group of others on a veranda expressed the opinion that the phrase should be written "a hi old time." His argument may not have any substantial basis but it had a little ingenuity.

Somewhere about 2100 B. C., so the Chinese historians declare, Hi and Ho were the astronomers royal. It was part of their duty to predict eclipses, and on such occasions there were formal rites, to ward off the anger of various Oriental deities But instead of making observations Hi and Ho got intoxicated, the eclipse came on, the terror of the people was extreme, and the Emperor ordered that the alcoholic astronomers be put to death. Therefore, so the Winchesterite in question viewed the matter, the real origin of the phrase was Oriental However the spelling "a high old time" is likely to continue.

From time to time a novel theory as to the meaning of a name or the origin of a custom is put forth. It is sometimes ingeniously supported but "possession is nine points of the law," and the received opinion generally holds its own.

In a Winchester factory some accident happened to a machine, an expert mechanic was sent for and he repaired the damage so quickly that men of years' standing in the place were surprised. The speed suggested juggerly, but it was not. From a boy he had possessed what we may call a sixth sense, he was unusually prompt in estimating what the matter was, and he liked such work he would far rather adjust the apparatus that was out of gear than suggest an improvement. Whether he had often dealt with the kind of machine then before him nobody knew, but for over twenty years he had been fond of repair work. After working hours he would go to ask other men about repairs. If anything happened to an industrial plant he had a feeling like that of a nurse who wants to know all about the first aid to the injured. "The speed was the natural result of long and patient effort."

Suppose that a hundred Winchester school boys write on Alexander Hamilton it is probable that everyone will say that after five months of study he was admitted to the bar. Without doubt, this is an unusually brief course of preparation, but what does it mean? In boyhood, Alexander Hamilton grew weary of the commercial side of life and wanted to go to college. The law had peculiar attractions for a youth of his ambition, and in 1774 he was studying the questions that led up to the Revolution, writing and speaking on the Colonial side. He had to attend to a large part of the correspondence of George Washington he learned something about court martials, he observed that there was continual friction between the Continental Congress and the army, he had the opportunity to learn a great deal about the governments of France and Great Britain. Besides all this, as bright a young fellow as Alexander Hamilton knew that the young Republic was too poor to maintain a large army, he had to look forward to some plan for self-support—medicine had moderate attraction for him but not enough to lead him to make it his chief object. He was not disposed to be a student of divinity—the law was the most natural of all callings for him, and must have been constantly in his thoughts. Granting that his formal preparation for the bar may have lasted only five months, he may have been fitting himself, though somewhat irregularly, for a decade. The man who goes into the service of a government so poor that it cannot pay its soldiers must be dull indeed, if he does not form plans as to what he is going to do after the war, and we cannot suppose that Alexander Hamilton was below the average of young soldiers of his days

If anything is done with remarkable speed and excellence this may be due to special fitness or it may be due to long practice. To this day, although the man has been dead for many years there are persons who speak of the short time in which a man from a little village prepared himself to enter a medical college. He was a pharmacist, a medical career had long been his desire, he kept it in view, and when the time came he was more than half ready. We talk of kinships in the human family, of allied species of plants and bushes, and forget that in certain occupations men learn much that is of use in other occupations. England has memories of Cornishmen, long used to working in mines, who went to sea and were soon able to climb the rigging as they had climed underground. All this is sometimes overlooked, and we hear a man's rapid progress spoken of as if it was a sort of juggerly instead of being, perhaps, the result of training from his babyhood.

It is reported that in view of the fact that the school committee thought that the fraternities of the High School were taking in pupils that were too young, each of the societies have appointed a committee to act on this. This does not apply to those who are not members of the school.

Miss Springer, a senior in Boston Latin School, and president of the Massachusetts Student League visited Winchester High School last Friday. She gave a very interesting talk in which she urged Winchester to join the league. The Winchester students were very much in doubt as to joining it, for it will come during school hours and they did not want a white elephant on their hands which would be no good to them. Miss Springer answered all questions and soon convinced the students that the league would be a benefit to them. She received much applause at the end of her speech

To sew all day for the children of the devastated regions of Europe the members of the Winchester Union met last Friday, occupying the noon hour with a cooperative luncheon followed by a brief business session, and then going back to work with renewed energy. A large number of garments were finished and many more partly so to be completed later.

Mrs. Grace M. Hamilton, the president, was able to be present for the first time in three months, although unable to remain during the entire day. The special business was to decide upon the day of meeting, notice of the desired change having been given in April. It was voted to hold the regular meetings hereafter on the third instead of the second Friday, as heretofore, thus avoiding conflict with other societies in which the members are interested.

Members who have not already contributed to the Katharine Lent Stevenson Memorial Scholarship are asked to do so at their earliest convenience as the union advanced the minimum quota, twenty cents for each members feeling sure that every one would wish to have a share in this memorial of the woman who served the state so long and well as president. At the meeting at headquarters on her birthday anniversary, May 3, it was reported that half the amount was already subscribed. It should be understood that no one needs limit herself to twenty cents, as larger gifts will be needed to make the amount required, the minimum sum set being made small enough to enable everyone to do something.

At the meeting Mrs. Ella A. Gleason presided and Alice Stone Blackwell, Miss Marion Park of Simmons College, Rev. M D. Kneeland, T H. Raymond and others paid tribute to Mrs Stevenson. There were representatives from all over the State, as far west as Pittsfield, also from Nantucket and other distant places.

The treasurer Miss Eugenia Elliott, will be glad to receive all unpaid dues as soon as possible.

The spring meeting of the Middlesex County Union will be held Wednesday, May 21, in the Presbyterian Church, Warren avenue, Union Square, Somerville, 10 a. m to 4 p. m. It is hoped there may be a large delegation.

BUGS

Editor of the Star:—

I note in last week's issue that you have "crawling bugs" at the Star office. I write to you for information Why do you advertise this fact? Are crawling bugs more to be desired than running bugs or hopping bugs? Personally, outside of no bugs at all, I prefer dead bugs. While I know that since the War started bugs are now a topic spoken of in the best society, I was equally under the impression that they were more than ever classed among the undesirable things. To say the least, I am surprised at your advertising them at your place of business. I have heard of people who have had them at their homes, but all were very desirous of concealing the fact. Does the location affect the desirability? I pray you enlighten me upon this interesting and complex question.

Crawlingly yours,
Jumping Jehosaphat.

Dear Jumping Jehosaphat:—

Your letter concerning "crawling bugs" is a mean and underhand piece of work. You know that we did not mean what you mean which makes your letter doubly mean. We admit that we should have said that our bugs were "for sale," and had we added this important information we would not have said "for sail." They are rightly entitled "crawling bugs" for we can show you the box cover with their name on it to prove our words. We know nothing at all of the kind of bugs which your mean insinuations refer to. Our "crawling bugs" are welcomed in the home and furnish pleasure and fun for the whole family. They neither bite, hop or run. Furthermore they can always be found where they are put and cannot be carried except in one's pocket. We refuse to be drawn into this controversy further, and feel assured that none of our real friends will construe our meaning as you have been mean enough to do.

REPRESENTATIVE ANSWERS HIS LETTERS

Congressman Frederick W. Dallinger has received several complaints from constituents that they have not received any replies from letters addressed to him, and for fear that there are others who have experienced the same results, but who have not called his attention to them, the Congressman issues the following statement:

"Every letter that has been received by me, or at any one of my offices, either here or at Washington, has been immediately answered, and anyone who has written to me and received no reply may rest assured that either his letter never reached me or my reply miscarried.

"Ever since I have first held office as Congressman I have made it a point to reply at once to every letter acknowledging receipt and answering as far as possible. In many cases I have stated that I would take up the matter with the proper department and have done so. In the latter cases I many times have been unable to ascertain whether or not the department to which I appealed complied with the request except upon learning from the person who queried me.

"I would therefore like to suggest to those who write to me and receive a reply that I have taken up the matter with a department that if the [illegible] ... were."

GARDEN SEEDS

Editor of the Star:

You will recall last year, as the publisher of one of the papers in my district I sent you a supply of garden seeds for distribution to the readers of your paper and the people in your community who desired them and who, through misunderstanding or neglect have failed to send me a request for the same.

This year I have already sent out to the several thousand people in the district as well as to the schools, clubs and Public Service Committees who have made requests, my full assortment of garden seeds and find that I still have some left I am therefore again taking the liberty of sending you a supply for distribution to the readers of your paper and the people in your community.

Thanking you for your courtesy in this matter and assuring you of my desire to be of service whenever possible, I remain, with kind regards,

Very sincerely yours,
Fred'k W. Dallinger.

MUSIC MEMORY CONTEST

Details of the Contest to be Held on Tuesday, May 27th at 8 P. M. in the Town Hall

Just a little more than one week before the long-heralded music memory contest will be held in Winchester. There are still eleven days left to go at the work, hammer and tongs, full of energy and vigor to memorize the melodies of the selections listed for the contest.

On Tuesday evening, May 27th, at 8.00 o'clock, in the Town Hall the contest will take place. Arrangements are to be made whereby each child who is to be a contestant will have reigstered his or her name and upon entering the hall a blank card will be issued them, suitable for writing down the names of the selections as played. Only those children are eligible for prizes who have registered before the beginning of the contest.

In response to numerous requests, it has been decided to permit any adult resident of Winchester so desiring, to receive a blank card also, upon which to record, as a matter of interest to himself, his guess at the end of each selection. It will be strictly a children's evening however, and the competition will be limited to them. Admission will be by ticket which can be procured from any child in the sixth, seventh or eighth grades or the high school.

The further details of the contest as relates to the music itself, are as follows: Parts of about twenty of the fifty selections listed below, will be played or hummed, according to whether they are instrumental or vocal. Each child is to record the name of the composition together with its composer. The arrangement is that one full count will be given for each selection where both the name of the composition and the composer are correctly indentified; one-half a count will be allowed for identifying the correct name of the composition without the composer. No credit, however, will be allowed for the name of the composer without the correct name of the composition.

In case of a tie,—that is, if two or any additional number of children total the same number of counts at the end of the contest, the elimination will take place immediately after the credits have been added up. The way of doing this will be to have additional selections of the original fifty played for those who are tied and they are to record their answers after each piece until the tie is broken.

Announcements of Awards to be Made On Contest Night

Everyone will be interested to know that the announcement of awards will be made on the evening of the contest, as soon after the cards have been handed in as possible. Excitement is running high, as each child is hoping to come out one of the winners of the prizes, which will be as follows:

The first prize will be three (3) War Saving Stamps for identifying the greatest number of selections correctly. This is offered by The Fortnightly.

The second prize will be two (2) War Saving Stamps for identifying the second greatest number of selections correctly: This is offered by the National Bureau for the Advancement of Music.

The third prize will be one (1) War Saving Stamp for identifying the third greatest number of selections correctly. This is offered by Mrs. William J. Breen.

The next ten highest will each be given four (4) Thrift Stamps. These prizes are offered by the Mother's Association. The plans and details of the contest are all under the direction of Mr. Richard W. Grant, supervisor of music.

THE BIRDS ARE HERE

The nesting season for the wild birds has arrived, and the commissioners on fisheries and game once more call attention to the necessity of keeping the family cat in control during the time the eggs are being hatched and the fledgings are helpless, either in the nest or when first on the ground.

It is a matter of common knowledge that on the activities of the insect-eating birds depends in a large measure, the success of the crops and the preservation of the forests.

It is not so well known how enormous are the inroads on the wild birds by the family cat and the abandoned, hunting house cat. Often the owners honestly believe their cats to be innocent of the practice of killing birds, because the work is not done where they can see it.

Careful studies on this subject have been made, and the results are surprising. One cat, which was watched carefully, was seen to kill 58 birds in a single season.

The commissioners appeal to every person who owns a cat, to make it a personal matter to see that the family pet is not permitted to roam at large in the day or night during this crucial period when the success of the hatch of birds depends on the freedom they have from molestation. The season extends from May 15 to August 15. Every bird lover is asked to see that homeless and wild hunting house cats are humanely killed.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE

Laurette Taylor begins on Monday the second month of her extraordinarily successful engagement at the Hollis Street Theatre in "Happiness", a character comedy by J. Hartley Manners. It was written by her playwright husband, J. Hartley Manners.

Since she electrified the theatrical world with her performance of "Peg" in Mr. Manners' "Peg O' My Heart", he has written only for her. It has been said that it is Miss Taylor's perfect concealment of every means by which she reaches a desired effect that accounts for the peculiar power she holds over the sympathies of an audience.

In "Happiness" Miss Taylor plays a poor girl apprenticed to a dressmaker who though devoid of the world's goods is blessed with a fund of good cheer and optimism that assists her to rise in the business world. She is supported by practically the same company that helped to make "Happiness" such a success at the Criterion Theatre, New York.

BASEBALL FOR 1919

The Winchester Town Team will open the season May 30th on Manchester Field. The team will be handled as it was last season, but a much stronger outfit will be placed on the field. Mr. George T. Davidson has kindly consented to act as treasurer of the organization, and all money and checks will be handled by him.

This is going to be a great year for baseball and some fine teams are in the making. It all depends on the support we receive here in Winchester whether we stand in the front rank as we have in the past. With the finest playing field in the state to play on we should be able to keep a team here that will make the rest of the towns in Greater Boston sit up and take notice.

We are sending out circulars asking for subscriptions and hope for a generous response. Do not feel slighted if you are not asked for a subscription, as we may not be able to reach all the good sports. The writer will take what is offered him and turn it over to Mr. Davidson, so between the treasurer and the manager there should be enough collected to start the season with a bang.

Edward McKenzie,
Manager of Winchester Town Team.

HIGH SCHOOL BASEBALL

The baseball team to date has won and lost 3 games giving an average of .500 in the last two games the team has shown great form. Batting averages have boomed for all. There are five three hundred hitters on the team. Raynor the pitcher leads with .379, then comes Vallely, Tansey, Riddle and Hatch. More boys are just under the three hundred mark. The fielding average is .895 but most of the errors were made in the first games. McCartney the first baseman is doing great, having a fielding average of 1000. The team plays Arlington Saturday in their second league game. Their league average is now 1000 and they are tied with Watertown for first place. Let us all come out and support our team and make some noise.

WON FROM MELROSE

By winning from Melrose last Friday afternoon, Winchester High went into a tie with Watertown for first place in the Mystic Valley League. W. H. S. NOTES

In assembly Tuesday the students unanimously voted not to enter the Massachusetts Student League. Miss Bond and Miss Begg made speeches to the effect that since the school committee said the fraternities took too much time and since this would take as much, it would be best not to enter the league, although it looked like a good proposition, but the students cannot spare the time.

The Freshmen beat the Wadleigh in a baseball game Tuesday 9 to 0. The batteries were Phelps, Bowe and Brown, Curley and Ryerson.

Board of Health: Action in regard to the appointment of a successor to Mr. Danforth Comins who recently resigned from the Board of Health was laid over for another week. Three persons were named for the position but it was decided to take no definite action in regard to calling the joint meeting until the matter had been thoroughly discussed with all members of the board of health.

Cambridge Street: A letter was received from the superintendent of streets enclosing a resolution passed by the Woburn City Council in relation to having the State Highway Commission resurface Cambridge street. In his letter the superintendent of streets suggests that should the town care to take any action in regard to the matter, that the Mass. Highway Commission be written to and requested to consider the advisability of resurfacing Cambridge street, where necessary, after the proposed widening near Pond street is finished. The clerk was instructed to draft a letter which will be sent to the Highway commission asking that Cambridge street, be resurfaced where necessary.

The meeting adjourned at 11.29 p. m.

NEEDLES

Needles go through many operations in the course of their manufacture. They are first cut in suitable lengths from coils of steel wire. After a bath of such bits as have been cut out, they are placed in a furnace, then rolled until perfectly straight. Next, the needle-pointer takes up a dozen or so of the wires and rolls them between his thumb and finger, with their ends on a turning grindstone, first one and then the other being ground. The little steel bobbins are next fed into a machine, which flattens and gutters the heads, after which the eyes are punched. They are now complete needles, but rough and easily bent. Careful heating and sudden cooling give them the necessary temper, and nothing remains but to give them their final polish. On a coarse cloth needles are spread to the number of 40,000 or 50,000. Emery dust is spread over them, oil is sprinkled on, and soft soap daubed over the cloth, which rolled tightly, is thrown into a pot with others, where it rolls about for twelve hours or more. When taken from this friction bath the needles require only a rinsing in clean hot water, when they are ready to be sorted and packed.

FORMER SCHOOL COMMITTEE CHAIRMAN URGES SQUARE DEAL FOR SOCIETIES

Help Develop the Young People's Organizations Along the Best Lines Rather Than Arbitrarily Killing Them

Winchester, Mass.,
May 12, 1919.

To the Editor of the Star:

Sir: To answer rightly,—as we all want to answer,—one of the questions in the recent Questionnaire sent to parents and relating to so-called "secret societies" of the boys and girls, we need to get out of our minds a misconception of the word "secret" as applied here in Winchester.

And if any of us have answered under a misunderstanding, it seems only right for us to correct the misunderstanding now.

Somehow or other the first natural thought of a secret society pictures a cabalistic affair of the Huckleberry Finn order,—a very mysterious organization, meeting in spider-walled hay-lofts, where bats are flying around most recklessly (winged bats, I mean) while two owls, stuffed or otherwise, perch solemnly on the shoulders of the presiding officer and weird white-robed black-masked members, amid a glow of red fire, hold the initiate with red hot pincers over a blazing fire! *

Now I can assure my friends in Winchester that the meetings of our Winchester boys and girls are really not of this awe-inspiring, although highly interesting, order. And I can speak by the card for, although this must not be mentioned to any members of the societies as they do not know I am writing about them nor have I talked with any of them regarding this communication or the previous communication)—but, as I said, I can speak by the card for I have actually attended some of those meetings. And as a result I have enjoyed myself hugely.

A "secret society" held some of its meetings in my house, and naturally my wife and I reported to the second story. Yet we couldn't help hearing what went on, for there were no muffled hoarse whispers or mystic remarks behind double barred doors, I assure you, in those wholesome merry meetings.

They discussed various subjects of real interest to this town and they expressed their minds frankly and freely; and out of that it seemed to me they learned how to take part in active affairs of today, how to avoid becoming silent wall-flowers in public gatherings, and also how to respect the opinions of others as well as to express clearly their own views.

Then at the end of their discussion, —horrible to relate! for this is all a part of that meeting which, as you know, is called by the present chairman of the school committee a "distraction" from school work,—they actually had a jolly "sing" with plenty of piano music, and also, more terrible to relate! they seemed to have a mighty pleasant evening all through.

And I am willing to wager a big round rosy apple that they did better school work the next week by reason of this very diversion,—or must I continue to use the word that belongs in the moth-eaten antiquated Dictionary of Old Fogyism,—"distraction."

Yet this took only two hours of one evening in a week.

Don't we really think that we can allow our children two hours a week for a gathering of this kind without regarding it as a serious "distraction" from school work? Isn't it about as good training as some (at least) school recitations for real life work?

What These Societies Do

I should have added that many of these discussions led to those good works of helping the poor and needy to which I alluded two weeks ago as among the many fine deeds accomplished by these societies in Winchester.

And it is useless to say that these good works would be carried on if these societies did not exist. We have all learned from the war work, if we didn't realize it before,—that it needs organization to accomplish good work successfully. As a fact we do not find these things accomplished by school bodies as a whole or by unorganized groups of boys and girls in schools. But the inspiration, the mutual help, the enthusiasm passed on by one society member to another pushes forward all these commendable movements to accomplishment.

So let's frankly recognize that these societies of young people here in Winchester are not to be classed with any secret organizations that are rightfully taboo in other cities or other states where entirely different conditions exist and where there have been complaints.

Ought we, under those circumstances, to endorse the effort, exercised without consultation with parents of children, to kill arbitrarily these organizations by an indirect method of attack? Is it not fairer to let the societies continue until they have acutally been proved as harmful —if that ever can be done.

They Are Not Undemocratic

Now, there is only one other point worthy of consideration, and that is the charge that these societies are "undemocratic".

I maintain that that is not the case here in Winchester,—and, as we are all agreed, we need in this town consider Winchester alone.

No one is taken into the societies, or refused admission because of outside affiliation, positions, or association. As I understand it, it is solely a question of congenial good fellowship and united interest in the especial work or pleasure of the society. Isn't that very condition a stimulus to a boy or girl to pull him out of any possible shell of exclusiveness or selfishness, to make him cultivate the ability to become congenial with others, and to help him try to acquire those fellowship traits that will stand him in tremendous stead in after life?

Of course some do not get into the societies; and naturally they may feel grieved. But is that to be laid up against the societies? Isn't that exactly the same situation that holds among unsuccessful candidates for the baseball team of whom only nine can be selected to play in the game? And with the hockey team, for which only seven can be selected? And on the school paper with its limited number of editors? And, in fact, with every school institution which the committee and teachers are glad to see continued?

Don't men who have to get out into the world and hustle—and women, too, in these progressive days—regard the training of the young person in cultivating ability to mingle with his fellows in after life, and be a part of the life community, as ranking side by side with his training in athletics if he has the skill, in music if he has the talent, in literary work if he has the gift, and in kindred recognized "distractions"?

And the boy (or girl) who does not make the society rightfully regarded by those who do, in this town, as just as fine a fellow and just as good a friend as the others; he simply has different traits, equally good but not happening to jibe into that society's work. The same group will exist anyway, with or without the name of a fraternity attached but an unorganized group would not be able to do so much united community work for good.

The Societies Urge Good Scholarship

Let us not, also accept any unfair statement that these societies keep students back in their studies. That is incorrect.

One might with equal justice say that playing on the athletic teams, or working on the school paper, take up so much time as to keep the student back in his studies. As a fact the societies take a real pride in urging their members to maintain their rank in scholarship and they actually exert a helpful influence in the school in this respect.

And, after all, wouldn't the parents of Winchester rather have their boy (or girl) get 70 per cent. in his studies and be active also in these other "distractions" that play such a big part in after life, than to be a mere grind, a book-worm with no time for outside duties but revelling only in a paper record of 100 per cent. in text book recitations.

Try Working With the Societies, Instead of Against Them

Isn't it really the best plan, if the school authorities do not fully understand these societies and want to have changes made, for these same authorities to get in closer touch with the boys and girls in the societies—and keep in touch with them;—become their friends instead of their enemies; suggest to them how they can remedy any defects; help them broaden out their organization and extend their good work,—and then maintain the rule that scholarship and behavior shall be the requisites for membership on school teams and institutions?

Isn't that fairer, and better, than arbitrarily declaring, in effect "now we know we can't legally order your societies abolished, we know that membership in those societies is really governed only by the parents of the scholars, but yet in order to obtain our own particular way we make a ruling that if anybody dares join your societies in the future he (or she) shall not be allowed to play on baseball team or the school paper or any other school organization"! This suddenly adopted rule overturns, without any previous consultations, the established system that has long been recognized by Winchester parents and pupils which there has been absolutely nothing proved.

Boys are not unthinking, unreasoning machines. They are human; intensely, buoyantly human. Meet them half way and they will warm-heartedly come the other half. But don't run steam rollers over them. It isn't fair. And it isn't wise.

There is, of course, nothing personal in what I write; it is simply that I disbelieve thoroughly in the manner of this indirect attack, and disbelieve in the principle involved.

So long as the Winchester societies continue doing good work and enjoying a good reputation is it just to kill them, contrary to the wishes of the members of the societies, contrary to the wishes of the many past members who have grown up in Winchester, contrary to the wishes of the parents of those boys and girls and contrary to the wishes of those who have benefitted, and will in the future benefit, from their good works, as well as the many men and women who wish children to get the most out of life.

TWO YEARS IN SCHOOL TO JOIN SECRET SOCIETIES

May 14, 1919.

The Editor of the Winchester Star:
Winchester, Mass.

My dear Mr. Wilson: Inasmuch as the following has a more or less direct bearing upon a question now in the public eye, we are sending you the result of some joint meetings held by four of the so-called "secret societies" of the town.

These societies; namely the Eu Ka, Sigma Beta, Gamma Eta Kappa, and Phi Delta societies, have decided that, as the average age of the scholars in the Winchester High School seems to be somewhat younger than has been the case in the past, in the future no pupil in said school shall be considered eligible for membership in any of the above societies until he or she shall have been a student in school for two years or shall be a junior in class standing.

Feeling that this announcement will prove of interest to the parents of children now in high school and those who, in the future, are to study there, we hope that you may find room for it in the columns of your valuable paper.

Very truly yours,
Inter-Society Council.
Louis E. Goddu, Chairman.

PURCHASE OF SUPPLIES FOR THE TOWN OF WINCHESTER

Editor of the Star:

The Board of Selectmen have endeavored this year to have all the departments of the town cooperate together for the purchase of coal to be used by the town from April 1st, 1919 to April 1st, 1920. The selectmen, the school committee, the sewer and water board and the overseers of the poor asked for bids for these different departments and bids were received from George W. Blanchard & Co., J. F. Winn & Co., and Parker & Lane.

These bids were publicly opened and read on the evening of April 14, at 8 o'clock, in the selectmen's room at the Town Hall as advertised in the Winchester Star. There were present at that time, the board of selectmen, Mr. Chapman and Mr. Guild of the School Committee and Mr. Sydney C. Blanchard. George W. Blanchard & Co., were the lowest bidders and the selectmen, the school committee and the sewer and water board awarded the contract for their departments to this firm.

The overseers of the poor did not give the selectmen any decision on the coal bids until Monday evening, May 5th, three weeks after the bids were opened. They then said they had decided not to give the order to Blanchard & Co., who were the lowest bidders, but to buy the coal as wanted.

Blanchard & Co's bid for their department was as follows: "If ordered as wanted through the year and paid for at that time, they would give 25 cents per ton discount from the prevailing price at the time of delivery; that, if paid for at the time the bill was rendered they would store the coal free of charge and deliver as ordered through the year for $10.45 per ton."

The overseers of the poor are now ordering coal from time to time and paying $11.00 per ton for it, which is 55 cents a ton more than they could have contracted for to be delivered during the entire year, and how much more than this they will have to pay next winter is anybody's guess. It is difficult to account for the manner in which the overseers of the poor have transacted this coal business. Possibly it may be because there are only two active members on the board at the present time. Most of the citizens of the town suppose that we have three members on the board of overseers of the poor, but as a matter of fact Miss Bernice W. Billings has left town and gone to Utica, N. Y., under a contract for one year and possibly for a much longer time. It is a little peculiar that she did not hand in her resignation before she left town. I do not think the voters of Winchester intend to have the board of overseers of the poor consist of two members as it virtually does today and has for several weeks.

Henry A. Emerson.

THANKS S'NT TO A WINCHESTER GIRLS' SECRET SOCIETY

A soldier's widow in France has written a heartfelt letter of thanks to the Sigma Beta Society of young girls who are pupils of the High School.

It relates to the little orphan boy whose picture was printed in the Star last week.

The Sigma Beta Society, wishing to do its share in helping sufferers in France, ascertained from the authorities the name of a child whose father was killed in the war and who was in need of assistance. Then the Society agreed to support the boy for two years and has already started in the work.

This week the following letter was received from the widowed mother of the little boy:

I am writing to thank you in the name of my little boy for the (money) order you have so generously sent.

For the last three months my son has been ill, and as soon as he recovers I hope to send you his photograph, as a pledge of gratitude toward his generous benefactors.

I pray you to accept with all my thanks my most earnest salutations.

ANTS AND BOLSHEVISM

"Though anyone who has read Henri Fabre must be aware of the comedy and romance and tragedy to be found without stirring from the birds, plants and insects of his own back yard, yet it would seem a far cry to peer into an ant hill to see why the communistic state is not adapted to man," says a bulletin from the National Georgraphic Society.

"Yet William Wheeler, a noted zoologist, in a communication to The Society, seems to touch upon what might be termed the 'Biology of Bolshevism'."

The Bulletin quotes the writer as follows:

"Though in most respects man and the insect differ enormously, both nevertheless display some remarkable convergent similarities. They are the only two successful and dominant animal types of the present age, and, so far as they are social, not only have had to encounter the same obstacles, but have learned to overcome many of them in the same manner.

"The social insects, however, have been more successful than man in organizing stable communities, because they have frankly trusted and followed their instincts and have therefore carried their social organization to its logical, or perhaps we had better say instinctive, conclusion, whereas man's intellectual processes and the ideals and dessentions to which they give birth forever prevent a definite solution of economic problems and keep him in a state of active and useless evolution.

"Ants are to be found everywhere from the arctic regions to the tropics, from timberline on the loftiest mountains to the shifting sands of the dunes and seashores, and from the dampest forests to the driest deserts. Not only do they outnumber individuals all other terrestial animals, but their colonies even in very circumscribed localities often defy enumeration.

"Their colonies are, moreover, remarkably stable, sometimes outlasting a generation of men. Such stability is, of course, due to the longevity of the individual ants, since worker ants are know to live from 1 to 7 years and queens from 13 to 15 years.

"The ant colony or society may be regarded as an organism which, like the individual insects of which it consists, grows and develops to a fixed adult size, and the size to which it grows is characteristic of the species, just as is the size of any individual. Some ants always form diminutive colonies of only a few dozen individuals, whereas the colonies of other species, when mature, may comprise thousands or hundreds of thousands. The growth of these colonies obviously depends on the quantity and quality of the available food supply and on its distribution for immediate consumption, or its storage for the future use of the colony.

"The ethnic history of ants parallels that of man to the extent that these insects were originally flesh-eating hunters, then shepherds of food producing herds, and finally agriculturists, and that they have been compelled to pass through these stages or forfeit the advantages of living in populous and stationary communities.

"Ants feed on a great variety of substances but in all cases only the liquid portions of the food are taken into the alimentary tract. If the food is solid, minute particles of it are rasped off by means of the tongue and pressed into a small pocket in the floor of the mouth. The juices expressed from the mass are then sucked back through the gullet into a dilated portion of the alimentary tract, the crop, and the useless pellet is spit out.

"The crop is closed behind by a complicated valve, which separates it from a short, tubelike stomach, the walls of which have a permeable lining, so that it and the succeeding portion of the alimentary tract, the intestine, are able to digest and absorb any food which may be permitted to enter them through the valve.

"The crop and the true stomach have been called respectively the 'social' and 'individual' stomachs, because the liquid food stored in the former is in great part distributed by regurgitation to other ants, whenever they signify their hunger by protruding their tongues and making supplicatory gestures with their feelers, and because none of the food in this receptacle can be used by the individual unless it passes through the valve into the true stomach."

I BELIEVE IN THE PLACE WHERE I LIVE.

(From the National Real Estate Journal)

THE real man is not always to be weighed in the balance of what he is, but what he believes.

Here is a creed

An apostle's creed of the apostles of civic growth and pride—the reading and memorizing of which will help the place you live in:

I believe in the place where I live!

I believe in her people, in her girls, in her boys. I will make myself a committee of one to make this a good place in which to live, and a mighty hard place to leave.

I believe in the place where I live!

I believe in its institutions. I believe in the street broom, the street sweeper and the paint pot.

I believe in never an empty can on vacant lot, but many a full one in the larder. Never again will I throw waste paper or rubbish in the street or alley.

I believe in the place where I live!

I believe in the trees, God's first temples, grass instead of ash heaps, and flowers instead of weeds. May God bless the tongue that gives honest praise and commendation and may he doubly bless the ear that is deaf to scandal and gossip.

If I cannot speak a good word of my neighbor, I will hold my peace.

When it costs me nothing, at least

I will spend my money here, and by so doing leave a part of the purchase price to circulate in the channels where its equivalent in wealth was originally created, to do good among the people who are a part of the place of which I am a part, in the place I call my home.

I believe in the place where I live!

Winchester should be well represented at the sacred concert, given by the Ladies' Auxilliary to soldiers and sailors in the Woburn Theatre next Sunday evening. These kind women have worked unceasingly and untiringly for Woburn and Winchester boys who were members of Co. G and Co. WRONG IDEA OF CHEMISTRY

Writer Humorously Describes What Many Suppose It to Be, and Points Out What It Is.

"If I had been real bright," says Eugene Wood in his humorous sketch called "Missed It 'the Big Idea,'" in Boys' Life, "I would have seen that the thing to do, when there isn't the substance that you want, is to go ahead and invent it. Other people do that, so why not you? Make it out of other substances not a bit like what you want. That's what you call chemistry.

"I knew there was such a thing as chemistry because I had been in a chemical laboratory. WINCHESTER MACHINE-GUN COMPANY NOTES

The Machine-Gun Company Association, composed of present and ex-members of the Winchester Machine-Gun Company (12th Regiment Mass. State Guard) held its third and final smoker for the season Tuesday evening, May 13th, at the Calumet Club.

The speaker was the Rev. Murray Dewart of Winchester, who has just returned from service as chaplain of the 101st Field Artillery Regiment of the 26th Division. Mr. Dewart talked for an hour and a half in extremely interesting fashion, telling of his experiences and side-lights on the war. At the conclusion of his address he was unanimously elected an honorary member of the association.

Other features of the program were the announcement of the association's annual outing, told about below, and a report of Treasurer Hight showing membership in the association of 64, with more in sight.

The smoker was very well attended, among those present being Winthrop Barta, who resigned from the company a year ago to enter Y. M. C. A. work at the front and who has just returned, and Lt. LeRoyer, who left the company to go into the United States Air Service, in which he soon won his commission.

The members of the Winchester Machine-Gun Company Association are looking forward with much pleasure to the first annual outing of the association, to be held at the Villa Napoli, Nantasket, Saturday, June 7. Just enough of the plans have been revealed by Chairman Flanders of the entertainment committee of the association to make sure that the day will be one full of real pleasure. The following committees for the occasion have been announced by President Harry Norton:

Transportation—Stable Sgt. Woods, Chairman.
Dinner—Ex-Pvt. Flanders, chairman.
Military Police—Lt. Shurtleff chairman, Sgt. Rivinius, Pvts Gourley, Smith, Whitney and Ex-Pvts. Bottger and Huntress.
Outpost—Pvt. Chadwick chairman.
Canteen—Sergt.-Major Willett, chairman.
Guardhouse—Sergt. Fitch, chairman, Pvt. Gleason.
Kitchen Police—Lance-Corp. Abbott Ex-Pvt. Kinsley.
Baseball—Capt. of the old 1st Platoon, Capt.-Adjt. Smalley, Capt. of the old 2nd Platoon, Corp Johnson.
Tug of War—Sergts. Fitch, Barr, Dearborn, Rivinius.
Potato Race—Pvt Holbrook.
Three-legged Race—Ex-Sgt. Wiggin, Pvt. Dow.
Quoits—Ex-Sergt. Sanborn, Ex-Pvt. Lutes.
First Aid and Hospital—Surgeon Olmstead, Major Healey, Drum-Major Bidwell.
Advertising—Corp. Bird.
Arrangement of Events—Capt. Tompkins.
Officer of the Day—Lt. Hinds.
Orderly to Capt Tompkins—Pvt Brown.
Orderly to President Norton—Pvt Kellogg.

Discussion as to the probable future of the Winchester Machine-Gun Company was ended by an official announcement made at a recent gathering of the company, by Col. Harry Ballard, commanding officer of the 12th Regiment, M. S. G., of which the Winchester Company as a part. Col. Ballard made the statement that it had been officially decided to reduce the State Guard from its present strength to six regiments of infantry, of which the 12th Regiment will be one. Certain changes will be made in the assignation of companies to these regiments, some companies being disbanded. Those companies retained will be either those who have armory accommodations or those who have set an unusually high standard for efficiency. The colonel complimented the Winchester company on the fact that it would be retained for the second reason, despite the fact that Winchester has no armory. He spoke very enthusiastically of the work of the company during the past two years and hoped that the same standards would be maintained. This means that Winchester will have a militia company for another year at least.

The original term of enlistment of two years expires in June, and undoubtedly many of the present members will not re-enlist, feeling that it is only right that the younger men who are now available should take the places of men of more years and greater responsibility who entered the military service of the State two years ago because it seemed to be their duty to do so.

Anticipating this action, Captain Tompkins has been actively recruiting the company recently, but there is still room for able-bodied young men 17½ years of age or older who feel like serving the State and benefitting themselves by the kind of physical and mental training they will get in this company. Men who have had military experience will be especially welcome, as there will undoubtedly be some vacancies to fill in the non-commissioned and possibly the commissioned staff of the company when the re-organization takes place in June.

The following young men have joined the company within the last three weeks. An invitation is hereby extended to all others to come forward and do likewise.

Shooting on the outdoor range will soon be taken up by members of the company. Only those who have qualified on the indoor range at the Stoneham Armory during the Winter will be permitted to take part. The company has its own range in Winchester for pistol and machine-gun practice, and the Wakefield Range is open to its members for qualification with the rifle.

Orders recently issued by General Clarence R Edwards, in command of the Northeastern Department of the U. S. Army, contained warm praise for the conduct of the Massachusetts State Guard in handling the crowds which viewed the recent parade of the 26th Division. During this parade the Winchester Company handled the territory immediately East of Huntington Avenue.

There are rumors of the company forming a baseball nine this summer. It is perfectly possible that the town nine may have occasion to look to its laurels before long.

PLANT HOME GARDENS.

When Made a Family Affair They Yield Good Returns and Provide Money for Investment.

Home gardens are needed as much this year as last for their contribution to the world's food supply, says Rufus W. Stimson, agent in charge of agricultural education for the State Board of Education of Massachusetts. In addition, he points out they should be made to assist materially in the purchase of Thrift and War Savings Stamps. Thus the gardens will serve in a four-fold capacity. On the patriotic side they will help feed the world, and they will put money at the disposal of the United States Government with which to carry out its world policies and ideals as well as meet the obligations imposed by the war. On the other side, they will provide the family table with an abundance of fresh vegetables and fruits, and they will enable the family to make financial investments that will bring good and sure returns.

Mr. Stimson thoroughly believes in the home garden. He would make it a family affair, parents and children working in partnership in the gardening enterprise. He has no sympathy with any plan which arrays the child against the parent, as is done by programs which call upon the boy to show how much he can outdo his father.

Where parents and children work together the waste that occurs when the children alone have the garden is eliminated. Children often weary of a thing and drop it. When a garden is neglected there is waste of labor, material and money. But when their elders are interested, the children are steadied, neglect is prevented, and the garden enterprise is carried through to the harvest.

Whether for home consumption or public sale the fruits of the garden should put money in the purse and open a productive channel for the purchase of War Savings Stamps.

SUGGESTED THOUGHTS.

Germany said "Americans are extravagant; they can't save." Americans have not only proved that they can save, but the saving habit has become fixed. Watch them buy War Savings stamps!

"Straight lines have come to stay." Straight lines are in vogue in other things than dress. The straight line to independence is investment in War Savings stamps.

"Great hearts that gave and counted not
Their youth, but gloriously fought
And died that Freedom shall not die."

Shall we hesitate to invest our small savings in Thrift and War Savings stamps to maintain that for which they gave all.

"Hard work is the only remedy for present ills." True, but of what avail is hard work if the money received therefor is squandered? Why not buy War Savings stamps, and thus combat both present and future ills.

"Spring models are becoming more numerous every day." Even the 1919 War Savings stamps appear in new design and color.

"Remain patriotic and put an end to old-time conditions." To show your patriotism and up-to-dateness buy War Savings stamps.

The man who really "knows it all" usually has a goodly collection of Thrift and War Savings stamps.

Having won for ourselves and others the right to "pursue life, liberty and happiness," we must pay for its maintenance. Do your share by buying War Savings stamps.

Never Take Your Troubles to Bed.

I know a man who is aging very rapidly from his business and family worries. I frequently travel morning and evening to and from the city with him, and instead of looking fresh and rejuvenated in the morning he actually looks older and more careworn than he did the night before. This is because he takes his troubles to bed with him and falls asleep worried and depressed. Instead of practicing mental chemistry and neutralizing or driving them out by the peace thought, the harmony and love thoughts, he lets these vicious mental devils, which are playing such havoc in his life, work all night in his brain. And, of course, they poison his blood, deplete his vitality and cut wrinkles deeper and deeper every night."—From "Love's Way," by Orison Swett Marden.

NO EXPRESSION IN THE EYES

Quite as Much in Those of Glass as in the Natural Ones, Is Recent Assertion.

A writer in the London Chronicle asserts that the human eye never changes its expression, and no doubt he is correct in that assertion. We may take it for granted, if he is just a writer, that he never discovered this for himself, but is merely recording a fact that has been demonstrated by scientific deceivers. The eye apparently expresses a variety of emotions, and writers as a class are continually recording these changing expressions with all the adjectival wealth they can command. The heroes, heroines and villains of fiction are always registering emotions with their eyes, and when you read the convincing descriptions you simply have to believe them. What is more, any day at the movies you can see the heroes, heroines and villains actually performing these stunts with their eyes. You don't have to take the words of authors for it; the movie actors furnish the Q. E. D.

So what is the use of contradicting facts that are universally recognized? Most of us meet and talk with several dozen persons every day, and we pass hundreds of others in the streets. If you observe the eyes of any of those persons you cannot fail to note that they reveal one or another mental or emotional state. The eyes are cold, indifferent, questioning, melancholy, petulant, mirthful, mildly amused or what not, as the case may be. They also reflect boldness, timidity, self-assurance, diffidence, cupidity, and a variety of [illegible] attributes.

However, we are told that the eyes never behave in any such fashion, and we are forced to believe it. The eyes themselves are incapable of emotional change. Novelists are always having eyes "flash with rage" and all that sort of thing, and most of us are convinced that we have frequently seen eyes flash. But no rage or emotion of any sort can change the glistening of the eye. The flashing or glistening of the eye depends wholly upon reflected light. That light is reflected from two places, the pupil and the white, and neither of these brightnesses is governed by the mental or emotional state. The effect of the changing expressions of the eye is really given by the various flexing of the muscles in the flesh surrounding the eye and by the eyelids. The flashing effect is undoubtedly produced by a wider opening of the lids, which exposes more of the white for light reflection. In a "twinkling" eye it is not the eye but the lids and the surrounding muscles that really twinkle. As a matter of fact, a first-class glass eye would appear to be just as expressive emotionally as a natural eye.—F. H. Young, in Providence Journal.

JULY 4TH CELEBRATION

Biggest Time in History of Town Planned to Welcome Boys

A full meeting of the committee appointed by the Town to arrange for the celebration to the Winchester boys in service was held in the general committee room at the Town Hall last evening. Plans have now matured so that the various details were turned over to the sub-committees with full power to act. Mr. George T. Davidson was appointed a member of the committee to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. George Willey.

If the program as outlined is carried through, Winchester will have the biggest celebration in its history. The event will take place July 4th, opening on the night of the 3rd with a ball in the Town Hall, given by The Fortnightly ladies, cooperating with the committee.

On the 4th a baseball game between Winchester Army and Navy men will probably be held during the forenoon, this to be followed by a ball game between the Town Team and some attractive nine, possibly Woburn. Following this there will be the parade at 1:30, a banquet in the Town Hall at seven and the largest and most stupendous exhibition of fireworks the Town has yet held.

Among the minor details are several bands, among which may be the crack Army and Navy organizations, public and private decorations all over town, and an illuminated canoe parade on the river during the band concert previous to the fireworks.

All men who have been or are in the service will be invited by the Town to be its guests, and the ball and banquet will require tickets. It is important therefore, that all Winchester men who have been, or are, in service, notify the Town Clerk's office at the Town Hall of their arrival home.

SILVER ANNIVERSARY NUMBER

The STAR office has [illegible] this week the Silver Anniversary number of the High School Recorder, the school paper being first issued just 25 years ago. Since that time it has appeared regularly every year, although the present season has excelled all previous years in the size and excellence of its appearance. The anniversary number follows two other exceptionally fine issues, one of which was a "service number." It has included in its contents a reproduction of the first page of the original issue of May, 1894.

The Recorder has climbed from an average of four to thirty-four pages to date, with 102 per cent of the High school members subscribers, and a circulation of five hundred copies of each issue. It has been considered for some time one of the best high school publications in this vicinity.

HAROLD P. HUNTSESS
First Editor of the High School Recorder

Harold Poole Huntress of the class of 1894, Winchester High School, was the founder and first editor of the High School Recorder.

Almost from the time when he first entered the school, he agitated the need of a school publication, but until his senior year his efforts were unavailing. When, however, he reached his senior year, he saw his opportunity and upon his own initiative he determined the form the publication should take, the name it should bear, the kind of type that should be used and how it should be set up, selected his assistants, solicited subscriptions, and launched the first number of the High School Recorder, which was printed then, as it has been ever since, at the STAR office.

This is a brief history of the origin of the publication. It is probably safe to say that but for him the issue of a school paper might have been delayed for years. It was one of the first high school publications of its kind. He contributed very largely until his graduation, and all his life took a great interest in the paper and its progress.

His inclinations turned toward books and writing. After he entered college he became, in his freshman year, one of the editors of the Harvard Lampoon, and so remained until he graduated. In his senior year he was the acting chairman of the board. After graduation, following this obvious tendency, he associated himself with the publishing house of L. C. Page & Co. and remained with that house until his death in October, 1907.

Much of the credit for this years' [illegible] is due to Theodore F. Clark, editor-in-chief, and to Hollis Riddle, business manager. Others who have contributed to its success by their work on the staff are Alston Noyes, associate editor; Anne Zueblin, local editor; Dana M. Freeman, boys' athletic editor; Katherine Fairfield, girls' athletic editor; Thelma Trott, exchange editor; Brenda Bond, society editor; Hester Bradford, artistic editor; Flora Locke, alumni editor; Gordon Wheeler, advertising manager and Reginald Kibbe, assistant advertising manager.

The class editors are David Skinner '19, Elizabeth Anderson '20, Everett Ginn '21, and Elizabeth Bird '22. Assistant class editors are Dorothy Riddle '21, Madeline Eastwick '21 and Leland Clifton '22.

As a result, it is said that the losers will again challenge the winners, and another match will soon be rolled.

MEMORIAL DAY

All in Service Asked to Join in Program this Year

A. D. Weld Post, G. A. R., issues an invitation to all the veterans of the great war to be their guests on Memorial Day this year and assist them in decorating the graves of the veterans of all wars who are at rest in this town. The Post extends hearty greetings to all who are or have been in the service,—army, navy or any other branch, to join with it in its observances of the day.

This year's program will not differ from that of former years. The annual attendance at church will occur next Sunday evening, May 25th, at the First Congregational Church, and Rev. Howard J. Chidley will preach the sermon. The comrades will assemble at G. A. R. hall at 7 o'clock and march to the church, where services will be held at 7.30. All veterans and sons of veterans residing in town or visiting here are invited to attend church with the post.

The regular exercises on Memorial Day will take place as usual. Members of the Post are asked to assemble at headquarters at 1.45, and at 2 o'clock the order of procession will be formed on Mt. Vernon street at G. A. R. hall, and under escort of the Winchester Machine Gun Company, Capt. Maurice C. Tompkins, will receive the officials at the town hall.

The order of procession will be through Washington, Main, Church, Fletcher and Wildwood streets to the cemetery. The Sons of Veterans of Winchester have kindly volunteered to assist the Post in the decoration of graves. The music will be by the Woburn National Band.

At three o'clock the exercises will be held at the Soldiers' Monument in Wildwood Cemetery, the program including selections by the band, reading of orders, roll of honor and Lincoln's Gettysburg Speech; prayer by Rev. S. Winchester Adriance singing of "Star Spangled Banner" and "America" by the audience, and an address by Rev. Mr. Adriance.

WINCHESTER BOAT CLUB

The Board of Directors of the Winchester Boat Club at their meeting last Friday night, passed a vote making it possible for boys between the age of sixteen and twenty one to become members of the Club, without paying the usual initiation fee of $5.00.

A very attractive program has been presented for club activities this summer and it is hoped that many of the high school boys will take advantage of this ruling and become members.

This opportunity remains open until July first. Application blanks may be procured through the Secretary of the Winchester Boat Club or the Steward at the club house. In presenting an application it must be accompanied by $10.00 covering annual dues.

MOTHERS' MEETING AT THE RUMFORD SCHOOL

Thursday afternoon, about fifty mothers of the Rumford School District came at the invitation of Miss Mary A. Lyons, Misses Mary Doherty, Elizabeth Naven and Helena Doherty, to enjoy a social hour with them. Miss Lyons welcomed them and introduced each number on the program.

Community singing was enjoyed under the leadership of Mrs. Lefavour and Mrs. Barnes. Mrs. Barnes contributed two vocal solos in a very pleasing manner.

Mrs. George Root entertained by readings from James Whitcomb Riley.

A short address was given by Mrs. Sewall E. Newman, president of the Mothers' Association. She gave a very interesting history of the Mothers' Club from its foundation to the present day. She urged the mothers to join if they did not already belong.

Mr. Fauncey the superintendent of schools, spoke at length on modern education. He explained very clearly what "Motivation and Project" meant in our schools. Mr. Williams represented the school committee and spoke very briefly.

Refreshments were served by the teachers.

Friends who are interested in the memorial are invited to leave their subscription either at the STAR Office or with Miss Davis at the Wadleigh School.

MRS. ROBERT C. EVANS

Mrs. Laura A. (Milton) Evans, wife of Mr. Robert C. Evans, formerly a well known resident of this town, died at her home at Beach Bluffs, Saturday of heart trouble after a short illness. Her death came as a shock to her family and friends, she being ill but two days.

Mrs. Evans was 63 years of age and was a native of New Brunswick, her parents being Mr. and Mrs. William F. Milton. She made her home here for a period of ten years, during which time she was active in the Baptist Church and the W. C. T. U., being secretary for a time of the latter. During their residence here Mr. Evans conducted a drug store, located first in the Miller block on Mt. Vernon street and later in the Lyceum building in the square.

Besides her husband she leaves three daughters, Mrs. Alvin Grout of Saco, Maine, Mrs. James Marshall and Miss Marion Evans of Beach Bluffs. She also leaves four sisters, Mrs. George H. Hamilton of this town, Mrs. Porter Brown of Hampton Falls, N. H., Mrs. Walter Tobson of Nelson, N. B. and Mrs. John P. West of Moncton, N. B. One brother, Mr. W. S. Milton of Minnesota City, Minn., also survives.

The funeral services were held at the residence on Monday afternoon and were largely attended by Winchester friends and also by many Newburyport people, the deceased having made her home there previous to her residence at Beach Bluffs. The remains were brought to Winchester and interred in the family lot in Wildwood Cemetery.

THE WINCHESTER CIRCLE FLORENCE CRITTENDEN LEAGUE

The Winchester Circle of the Florence Crittenden League held its annual meeting at Oakledge, the home of Mrs. W. I. Palmer on Myopia Hill, Mrs. Horace Ash, the president presiding. Reports from the secretary and treasurer were read and further business delayed until the end of the meeting to accommodate Miss Driscoll, the speaker. It gave great pleasure as always to Winchester people to hear Mrs. Barr sing and selections on the violin by Miss Wingate. Miss Driscoll, one of the government patrol workers gave an intensely interesting description of her work last summer for the moral welfare of the soldiers and sailors. Revere Beach, Franklin Park and Boston Common were patrolled each night by herself and fellow social workers. She is striving now to have at least twenty women appointed to patrol Boston for the protection, not only of soldiers and sailors, but all the young people of the city. She was asked what Winchester could do along the lines which she spoke, and she made a stirring appeal for more recreational opportunities, in order that boys and girls might meet morally and have wholesome amusements. She said the greater per cent of girls brought before her were from outlying towns who had come to Boston in search of a good time. Mr. Chelley, the vice-president of the League, read a few telling facts from the annual report of the Home. The meeting ended with the election of officers for next year:

President, Mrs. William Lefavour
Vice-President, Mrs. Newton Shultis
Treasurer, Mrs. John Abbott
Secretary, Mrs. Ralph S. Vinal
Cor. Secretary, Mrs. Maurice Brown
Directors: Mrs. Chester Kelley, Mrs. W. I. Palmer, Mrs. William Ash.

Ice cream and cake was served by the hostess after the election.

AUTOS COLLIDE IN CENTRE

An auto accident occured at Knight's corner in the centre during the heavy rain Saturday evening when an Overland touring car and a Ford car came together at 8.25. The Overland was driven by Joseph C. Weiss of 101 Baldwin street, North Woburn. It was travelling around the corner towards Woburn. The Ford was crossing the tracks towards the west side. Both cars were about equally damaged, the Overland receiving somewhat the worst of it. Both lost a front tire and had their road guards bent, and the Overland had its front axle badly bent. Neither driver was injured.

SUBURBAN LEAGUE BASKETBALL MEETING

Mr. Curtis attended the Suburban League basketball meeting as Winchester's representative last Saturday. A few changes have been made in the rules and Mr. Curtis explained them to the school. The second teams will have a regular schedule and a cup will be given to the winning first team and the winning second team. The dues will be $1.00 for each school, in lead of $3.00. The players will wear numbers that the referee and spectators may pick out the players easily. More games will be played in the afternoon than before. Winchester will put five men from this year's varsity team, making a whole varsity team, in the field and expect to win the championship of the state.

W. H. S. READING H. S.

Winchester High defeated Reading High, 5 to 1 on Manchester Field Wednesday afternoon. The game was stopped twice by the Reading coach, the first time in the fourth inning on account of rain and again in the seventh, objecting to the use of soil by catcher Meskell of Winchester in handling the ball, which was very wet.

Reading scored the initial run in the first inning on a bunch of three singles by Lary, Quimby and Quillen, Lary scoring. But one other hit was made by Reading during the balance of the game, Godfrey getting a safe one in the seventh.

In the sixth, three singles scored McCartney. The game was won in the seventh by Winchester.

Catcher Lary of Reading suffered a split finger in the third inning and Briggs took his place. Raynor of Winchester fanned 12. The score:

THE WINCHESTER STAR DEMONSTRATION HOME GARDEN

Conducted by

MRS. ALONZO F. WOODSIDE, 30 Lebanon Street

Co-operating with the

Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture and Home Economics

One day last summer a back-to-the-lander came in to our office greatly excited over a new insect he had discovered that was doing much damage to his crops. The county agent was summoned to inspect the crops in order to ascertain the nature of the strange pest. He appeared on the scene just in time to see the insect disappear in its burrow. The insect (?) was a woodchuck.

There is no cause for the home gardener to become alarmed over insect pests, for there is a preventative for each one. The right remedy applied at the proper time will keep any pest under control.

The first insect visitors are the cutworms. These pests attack nearly all vegetable crops and do a great deal of damage, especially to plants that have been transplanted to the garden.

The common cutworms are soft-bodied, smooth, cylindrical caterpillars. They vary in color from a pale gray to a dark dirty gray and are sometimes spotted or striped. They live over winter in the soil and appear in the garden about this time of the year. From now on the home gardener should be on the lookout for these worms as they frequently do severe injury before they are noticed.

Cutworms do their feeding at night. In the daytime they are in hiding in the soil. There are two sure methods of control. One method is to wrap a band of newspaper about the stem of newly transplanted plants. Place the paper band around the stems in such a way that a portion of it will be beneath the surface of the ground when the plant is set.

By this method the cutworm is kept away from the stem of the plant. In a few weeks the newspaper will rot and become ineffective but the ravages of the cutworm will be over by this time.

Another successful practice to combat cutworms is to kill them by means of poison bait. The bait should be sprinkled around the young plant in the evening. Just a little of the poison is all that is required. Poison bait is made by mixing together 1 quart of bran, 1 ounce of white arsenic or Paris green, 3 pints of water and 1 pint of molasses.

There is another insect that the home gardener should look out for when setting out cabbage plants. It is the cabbage root maggot. A practical method to prevent these troublesome insects from getting on the cabbage plants is to place a tarred paper disc around the stem close to the ground. An ounce of prevention in the garden is worth a pound of spray materials.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE

The U. S. Department of Labor gives good advice in this official message to the business world:

"If you are not advertising, then advertise; because it saves money for you and it reduces the price to the consumer. Advertising prevents profiteering. It insures honest profits and makes them permanent. Tell the public about your goods. The consumer has plenty of money. He is willing to spend it. The easiest, quickest and most economical way in which this can be accomplished is by advertising."

The advice of the Department of Labor is disinterested. It has no axe to grind for the advertising mediums; its sole aim is to promote prosperity, and thereby insure employment for the worker. Prosperity is based on confidence, and confidence is begotten by systematic publicity. The Star reaches the people who need and can afford to buy your goods. The Spectator invites you to get acquainted with them; for by so doing you will advance your own and the general welfare.

A gentleman on a Winchester-bound train had just read a newspaper account of a Boston street fight. Missiles had alarmed a number of person, and a death resulted. The gentleman who spoke of the case had never lived in that part of Boston, but had often visited it. When he was in his teens he knew several residents, varying from double to quadruple his age. All these were persons of quiet dignity, whose regard a youth would naturally prize. Six were such patriarchal looking characters that he can recall them now with ease, although they are with the long gone. An old soldier was so dignified a character that the wildest boys felt a sense of deference as he passed. There was a quiet old butcher, who seemed to do a number of little acts of philanthropy. He also thought of two energetic business men, who could be in a great hurry and yet be polite to everybody. A mention of the old neighborhood, though he had rarely seen it for more than thirty years, brought up such bygone faces, and there were memories of honored matrons. It so happened that he had known scarcely any of his own age in that locality. Circumstances had brought him closer to his seniors. The news of a street riot, and a gang of young hoodlums making unsafe for anyone to tread those pavements was a change, not at all a pleasant one.

However, the gentleman went on to say that his youthful picture may have rested largely on imagination. Only half a mile away there was a neighborhood which he had occasionally visited in childhood and it had quite as much boyish mischief and rowdyism per acre as most regions—perhaps more. The street in which he had grown up seemed to him a fair average, no better and no worse than most spots on the planet. But a nook in a great city in which he had never seen an arrest, never heard of boyish mischief, never looked on at a fight, in which nearly all the memories were of adults, and adults to whom he looked up as superiors, still had a power over him. Many can understand this feeling.

"In our little country town," said a Winchester man, "there were the same kind of folks to be found everywhere. But my parents never spoke before their children of any fault committed by a neighbor, so we grew up fancying that our little place was almost perfect. After I was married I used to visit the home-town once a year or so, and it was much like the rest of the world. Still there is a great deal of the old fanciful beauty about it."

An Englishman here in Winchester tells the Spectator that he came over here young, and that to this day his native burg is a land of romance to him. He left it before the light of common day shone, and has never seen it since.

The Spectator.

A. M. Bond of the Winchester Country Club reached the finals in the second division at the three-day open tournament at Woodland last week, playing E. Lowery, Woodland (6), 8 and 7. He was defeated in the final round by J. A. Travers, Albemarle (15), 3 and 2. H. E. Merrill of the Country Club took first honors in the third division. He beat A. J. MacKay, Scarboro (16), 1 up in the semi-finals, and H. S. Gould, Woodland (12), 2 up in the finals.

A girl's Columbia bicyle was stolen from the piazza of Dr. W. Holbrook Lowell's residence on Lakeview road Saturday evening at 5.20. The thief was seen by a neighbor to go onto the piazza and take the wheel but by the time Dr. Lowell and the police were notified he made his escape. He is described as a short man or a boy of about 18 years, dressed in a gray overcoat. He is thought to be the person wanted for several thefts of bicycles here.

At Miss O'Brion's studio in Brookline last Saturday afternoon, Miss Delia Whitney of Winchester gave a most interesting piano recital, admirably playing selections by Debussy, Arensky, Rachmaninoff, Chopin and Brahms. She was assisted by Miss Mabel Winnrate, violinist of Winchester, who played with Miss Whitney, the Violin Sonata in D by Handel.

At the meeting of the Florence Crittenden Circle, held at the home of Mrs. William I. Palmer on Myopia road, Friday evening, Miss Mabel Wingate, the well-known violinist of Winchester, played selections by Drdla, Saint Saens and Arensky. Mrs. Helen Ellefson Barr, sang.

An alarm of fire on Monday evening at 8.40 was rung in for a blaze in the attic of the house at No. 10 Chester street, owned and occupied by A. Lucas. The fire was caused by an oil stove, which either exploded or tipped over. There was considerable smoke, but little fire damage, the blaze being extinguished by hand chemicals upon the arrival of the department.

MUST AID TO ENRICH THE SOIL

Editor of the Star:

After conversing with several of the inhabitants of this town on the biggest question that is facing mankind at the present time, namely the food problem, I have been able to ascertain definitely the cause why so many of our fertility and industrious residents have decided after careful consideration to abandon the gardens that would help sustain devastated Europe and one hundred and six millions of people in America. The answer is that barn-yard manure is so expensive that the average man can not afford to smell of it.

I would like to make a suggestion to the town Fathers who are possessed with extraordinary powers, and I trust that they will deem it expedient to give my suggestion careful consideration. We expend hundreds of dollars annually removing the dead leaves that litter our streets in the fall of the year. We cart them here, there and everywhere in town. We receive no compensation for the work rendered.

My plan is to haul the leaves to the Stone property, which by the way is ours, and erect a huge heap; remove some of the manure from the town stable, purchase a few barrels of lime and make a compost heap.

We will then next spring something that the soil craves for—namely, humus. It can be easily sold so I am told, and it can all be removed prior to that innocent little creature's appearance, the stable fly.

For years to come we must curtail on our extravagance and practice economy; we must aim at a lower tax rate and thus encourage the struggling farmer who feeds the world. We must exercise the greatest thrift and industry to make our lands productive and we from the soil every commodity of life that it affords.

Although the war has been won its effects are yet open us.

While we are confronted by the problems of feeding European people and thus toning them over this trouble some period, we have at home a serious food situation. Prices are abnormally high; the laboring man is obliged to spend practically his entire wages to sustain himself and his family decently. To reduce the cause of the high cost of living is that we are an extravagant people; we spend our own and other peoples money lavishly; we don't seem to comprehend the value of a dollar.

We always thought prior to the war that money was an asset, but this has proved beyond doubt that it was a blessing; as Benjamin Franklin well said, the sun of liberty has set, Americans must now light the lamps of industry and economy.

Before the war the average income of the American farmer was $600 a year, now it is said to be $1200 a year. Think of a farmer working from daylight until dark for that small stipend! A conductor on an ash cart receives $1192 a year for eight hours a day; a bench warmer on the Red Sox and coacher at third base who exercises his throat muscles, receives double that figure for posing to the grand-stand for six months of the year.

I for one believe that we need reclassification right here in America.

Very truly yours,
Patrick H. Cranchwell.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

Likewise Lodge, the Rest Home for women under the management of the Frances E. Willard Settlement, is planning for the home coming of all its former guests who are able to come, Saturday, May 24, and the afternoon entertainment is to be given by them, embodying a number of novel features. The entertainment will be given on the Lodge grounds, on the Old Billerica road in Bedford, and will begin at three o'clock. A reception with brief addresses will be a feature of the morning, at 11 o'clock, and all day the grounds and buildings will be open for inspection, including the camp for girls open during the vacation season, and the various industries, the products of which will be on exhibition.

The Lodge has been opened nine years and the demand for places has so increased that it is often necessary to limit the stay of those enjoying its comforts. During the summer many girls go out for a week or a fortnight besides those who are there all the year round.

Bedford may be reached by train or trolley and conveyances to the grounds may be obtained at the station, the Lodge being out in the real country, although not too far for good walkers.

AMERICAN WOMEN'S HOSPITALS

The American Women's Hospitals of the American Red Cross has been maintaining a hospital at Monastir, Serbia, and it is to aid that famine-swept and diseased country that the women physicians of the United States are campaigning to raise funds to send medical aid. The Serbian Government has sent an official call to the executive committee of the American Women's Hospitals to send as soon as possible two mobile hospitals, with a staff of doctors, nurses, tents, ambulances and supplies.

These hospitals will move from town to town to combat epidemics stopping long enough in each district to gain control of the diseases and going on to other districts as conditions may demand.

All the women physicians of this country are at work doing all in their power to raise the amount needed to make this plan possible. This is a piece of constructive work that should have the endorsement and active help of every woman in the country.

Checks should be made to The American Women's Hospitals and sent to Dr. Frederika Moore.

No Need to Be Too Hasty.

MUSIC MEMORY CONTEST

Details of the Contest to be Held on Tuesday, May 27th at 8 P. M. in the Town Hall

On Tuesday evening, May 27th, at 8.00 o'clock, in the Town Hall the Music Memory contest will take place. Arrangements are to be made whereby each child who is to be a contestant will have registered his or her name and upon entering the hall a blank card will be issued them, suitable for writing down the names of the selections as played. Only those children are eligible for prizes who have registered before the beginning of the contest.

In response to numerous requests it has been decided to permit any adult resident of Winchester so desiring, to receive a blank card also, upon which to record, as a matter of interest to himself, his guess at the end of each selection. It will be strictly a children's evening however, and the competition will be limited to them. Admission will be by ticket which can be procured from any child in the sixth, seventh or eighth grades or the high school. A seat will be reserved for the ticket holder until 7.15 p. m., when all unoccupied chairs will be filled. As required by law no one else will thereafter be admitted.

The further details of the contest as relates to the music itself, are as follows: Parts of about twenty of the fifty selections listed below, will be played or hummed, according to whether they are instrumental or vocal. Each child is to record the name of the composition together with its composer. The arrangement is that one full count will be given for each selection where both the name of the composition and the composer are correctly identified; one half a count will be allowed for identifying the correct name of the composition without the composer. No credit, however, will be allowed for the name of the composer without the correct name of the composition.

In case of a tie,—that is, if two or any additional number of children total the same number of counts at the end of the contest,—the elimination will take place immediately after the credits have been added up. The way of doing this will be to have additional selections of the original fifty placed for those who are tied and they are to record their answers after each piece until the tie is broken.

Announcements of Awards to be Made On Contest Night

Everyone will be interested to know that the announcement of awards will be made on the evening of the contest, as soon after the cards have been handed in as possible.

A committee of five judges will immediately correct the papers at the conclusion of the contest. This committee consists of Mr. C. W. Thompson, chairman; Miss Mary French, Dr. J. Churchill Hindes and Mrs. Sewall E. Newman.

A most artistic program has been arranged to present the numbers to the children: an orchestra of fifteen pieces composed of prominent musicians in the town will play several selections; Mrs. Hildegarde Brandagee Livingstone, a violinist of national reputation will play; the Duo-Art Piano-Player connected with M. Steinert & Sons Co., along with the Victor Victrola will play several numbers in whole or in part. Mr. Grant has also secured the services of three local soloists, Mrs. Anna M. Mason, Miss Constance Park and Miss Brenda Bond who will each sing one number. These ladies are each the possessor of a splendid voice and will add materially to the artistic value of the program. There will be community singing led by Mr. Grant while the papers are being corrected. As previously stated every child under eighteen years of age, whether a student in the public schools or not, can be a contestant provided he registers to that effect on or before Friday, May 23rd.

Excitement is running high, as each child is hoping to come out one of the winners of the prizes, which will be as follows:

The first prize will be three (3) War Saving Stamps for identifying the greatest number of selections correctly. This is offered by The Fortnightly.

The second prize will be two (2) War Savings Stamps for identifying the second greatest number of selections correctly: This is offered by the National Bureau for the Advancement of Music.

The third prize will be one (1) War Saving Stamp for identifying the third greatest number of selections correctly. This is offered by Mrs. William J. Breen.

The next 15 highest will each be given four (4) Thrift Stamps. These prizes are offered by the Mother's Association. The plans and details of the contest are all under the direction of Mr. Richard W. Grant, supervisor of music.

BASEBALL NEWS

(By Mack)

The season here in town will open May 30th, but in order to get a line on the players who are going to appear here this season we will have a practice game with the High School team, Saturday (tomorrow) on Manchester Field. The two teams will exchange batteries. The High School using the two pitchers of the Town team and we taking theirs. This will give us a better chance to size up what material we have and try and pick out what looks the best in the way of players. There will be a number of players here for a tryout and most of them will get in the game.

The town team will have Charlie Flaherty for catcher with McKenzie and Press for pitchers. For the infield we have Press, Hatch, Hillis, Gilmore, Hevey and one other man who is coming with one of the players. In the outfield we are going to try Tom ("Nig") Flaherty, McCarthy, Butler of Colby College and who proved one of the best hitters on the Converse Rubber Company team last season, and two or three other players in all, probably 12 or 14 men will be out for the team if they all show up.

This is going to be a great season from all appearances and some strong teams are already in the field. The Watertown Arsenal, United Drug Co. Carr Fastener Co., Pen Marquette, Malden Athletics, Norfolk Club of Weymouth, Danforth Club of Roxbury, St. Patrick's C. C., of Cambridge and also the St. John of the same city, St. Ambrose, South Boston, A. A., Jamaica Plain and Revere Town Team are some of the crack outfits already in the field. Wakefield A. A. has been playing for two weeks and Fore River has yet to start. So with any of these teams appearing here in Winchester you are bound to see some lively baseball.

Of course, later in the season, when the High, Prep., and Colleges close you will see still faster ball playing. We have always had good ball here in town, and this year we hope to keep up the standard of former seasons. I will do my part to bring the best there is here for a game but expect the support of the town in doing so.

Woburn is going to get started right away, and Lexington is already to open the season. Arlington will be represented by the K. of C. in that town and will have all the strong players of other seasons on the team. Reading and Stoneham the two best towns in the state for semi-pro ball in other years do not seem to get started.

The High School lost a hard luck game to Arlington last Saturday. They had it all won, but a couple of misjudged flies and a rare decision by Mr. Scott, the umpire, put the damper on whatever chance Winchester had for winning.

I do not very often have anything to say about an umpire, for that gentleman is out there to do the best he can, but for a league umpire, Mr. Scott stood entirely too much argument from the players and coaches. The captain of the team should do the protesting and the coaches and players should sit on the bench where they belong. Another thing I failed to notice and that was any cheering or "rooting" on the part of the High School. The Arlington crowd more than held their own and it was funny to hear the feeble attempts of the Winchesters rooters. Come, get busy.

The Machine Gun Company said last week that they were going to start a ball team. Of course I would not care to challenge a team from my own town, but any time they want a game I'll give them one, the only stipulation I make is, that they play only members of the company. There are some good players of former days in that company, but some of them will require considerable training to get in shape, so Capt. Tompkins had better start early if he expects to get them in shape before Labor Day.

The Starr will go to press on Thursday, so full particulars of the game May 30 with lineup and probable battery order of the Winchester team will be given then.

ARLINGTON H. S. WON FROM WINCHESTER H. S., 4 TO 3

Arlington High defeated Winchester High, 4 to 3, Saturday afternoon on Manchester Field in the Mystic Valley League. The visitors won on timely hitting, combined with errors by Winchester.

Winchester made two runs in the third on a hit by French, scoring McDell, who had been hit by a pitched ball, and Flaherty, who had been passed. In the same inning, Viano of Arlington walked, stole second and scored on Lowe's hit.

Arlington tied in the seventh, when Burtt got to first on an error and scored on Coolidge's hit.

Winchester made one run in the eighth when French's single scored Mathews, who had walked and stole second.

Arlington won in the eighth. Geary reached first through an error and Murphy was passed. Both scored on a hit by Burtt. The score:

The universality of the phonograph is much in evidence in India, especially in the centers of population. Talking machines are very largely used in Madras among those who have means to buy, beyond the bare necessaries, certain luxuries which cost only a moderate amount.

ANNIVERSARY SERMON

Rev. Joel H. Metcalf Preached to Unitarians Sunday

The Unitarian anniversary week program opened Sunday night with a service in the Arlington Street Church, at which the Rev. Joel H. Metcalf of the Winchester Unitarian Church preached the anniversary sermon. Devotional service was conducted by the Rev. Dr. Samuel A. Eliot, president of the American Unitarian Association.

Rev. Mr. Metcalf, recently returned from a year with the American forces in France, took for his subject "The Heroic Church." He compared the church to the American army in France, telling how the soldiers disregarded the comparative safety of the trenches in driving the Germans back. He declared that their example should be emulated by the church, because "it is fatal for the church to hold safe positions in a merely defensive campaign."

"The church's first duty in its campaign against evil is to broaden its fellowship and sympathies, to recognize its true friends, to organize on a larger scale, to forget its exclusive attitude and to become an organization of what all right-minded men really believe. A new kind of church is necessary and it must be heroic and unselfish.

"Our boys have learned the exaltation of self-sacrifice. In the supreme test they have taken their lives in their hands, with set teeth and unflinching eyes, have faced death. They have lived deeply and dangerously and accomplished a great work. They will have contempt for a church that offers only safety and security when they have learned what it means to lose life to save the world. They demand that the church shall practice the same virtues that their country has demanded of them, which was, indeed, the spirit of Jesus of Nazareth.

"Many churches have enough energy to keep alive, but not enough to render any service. They are like the motor transport, the engine of which would run idle, but stalled as soon as the driver threw in the clutch.

"The Christian Church has been warped by the common scepticism that truth is a delicate, perishable thing. They have been afflicted with fear that the heavenly treasure, like a precious vase, may be destroyed by some madman. They never had the courage of their convictions. It seems even worse nowadays, for to hear many of our modern theological discussions one might think that God was a patient, and we the doctors, and that after a thorough diagnosis we do not know whether we can save him or not. In the same way, in a broader sense, the church is over solicitous and timid about its religion. Too much of it is built on the economy of the thermos bottle and the fireless cooker, in an assumed poverty of spiritual life in a distrust of the soul and not in a faith in its superabounding richness.

"In one of our battles last summer a soldier was left wounded in 'no man's land'. His faint cries reached the ears of his comrades, but they could not rescue him. That night a chaplain, thinking he was dying, crawled out to that inferno to give him the last rites of the church. When, after great difficulty and danger he reached him, he asked the boy if he wanted the consolation of religion, but the poor fellow only moaned 'water! water!' The chaplain gave him a drink out of his canteen and said, 'Now shall I read to you of Christ?' and the wounded youth shouted, 'Oh, I am so hungry, so hungry.' The chaplain took some reserve rations from his pack and he ate them ravenously. Again the chaplain inquired, 'Now shall I pray for you?' but the boy could only murmur, 'Oh, father, I am so tired!' And out there in the hell of war, with the heavens pouring down its shrieking death, the broken, exhausted youth slept on the shoulder of the man of God as a child on its mother's bosom. Then when he awoke refreshed, without being asked again, he said, 'Now father, pray for me and tell me of God, for I want to know about that which has brought you out here to save me.' It was not the book he carried, nor the cross upon his shoulder that commended his religion, but his self-forgetting faith—the cross written in his heart expressed in the spirit that took him out into 'no man's land.'

"All other propaganda, the book, the sermon, the prayer may be of no avail; but the spirit of true, friendly service will never fail because it is the real presence of God. This is the word I bring to you at the opening meeting of our annual pilgrimage to this centre of our liberal gospel. Thank God the war is over, with its call to universal courage and sacrifices. But the need of these virtues will be as great in times of peace with the coming years of re-construction.

"We are still in perilous times, perilous for good or ill. Who dares to build the universal church, 'as lofty as the love of God as ample as the needs of man.' This church as the expression of man's deepening spiritual nature must grow and expand with him if it is to fulfil the ideal of the city of God."

WELCOME HOME PARTY

A welcome home party was given to Arvid Nelson of the 305th F. A., 77th Division, A. E. F., who recently returned from France, on Saturday evening at 53 Loring avenue. About 40 of his friends were present to bid him welcome. The evening was enjoyed in a general social way. Mr. Nelson told of his many experiences at the front. Later refreshments and luncheon were served.

"Connie Mack" promises us our first ball game Memorial Day. He is very busy these times and mysterious as well. Let us all hope he will sign up the players he is after and don't forget the financial support.

We notice last week that the bathing season has opened in Mystic Lake, and we will undoubtedly soon find that swimming is "ripe" in Wedge as well. This brings to mind our last town meeting and the thought whether the matter of bathing is still under consideration by our Park Board. The matter of bathing appears to have dropped out of the public mind, that is the adult mind, but we will find that the problem is still with us unless we miss our guess.

We learn with joy and satisfaction that our reservoirs are again full to the brim and running over, likewise our river at the Converse bridge. While the rainy season, which seems to be really becoming an established portion of our cycle of seasons, causes many of our older residents to lament by gone days, we all may rejoice over the addition it adds to our water supply. With the clearing of the shores of our reservoirs, which we may perhaps consider a war blessing, our future water supply appears very promising as regards pure and abundant water. We have not heard much lately of impure water due to lack of fishing; possibly because our younger generation of fishermen prefer the exciting sport of hooking sizeable fish amid the fragrance of the Maine pines to the prosaic pastime of pulling in minnows in their back yard. When the thousands of young pines and evergreens which have been planted about the cleared shores of our reservoirs have grown up, we will get even better water, for the theory is that the pine needles will not pollute the water the way the dead leaves have. In this connection it is interesting too, to know that all through this valley in which Winchester lays, there is an abundance of fine drinking water a short depth below the surface.

We now find there is some criticism of our Arch of Welcome. After considering the matter for the past month some of us find that we are able to offer numerous and valuable suggestions for its improvement. The rest of us, after looking it over some weeks ago, arrived at the opinion that it is very satisfactory and a credit to us all. Of course without criticism Winchester would probably stop, stand still and never advance. Constructive criticism is needed in every community; without it we would never have arrived at our present position in suburban standing; and this is the sort of criticism that appears to be dispensed about town in connection with our arch. No one really thinks he could design a better arch; he just has that little artistic touch which enables him to point out the necessary improvement. Plaster would be better than paint, and marble better than plaster; therefore we have, in order, our paint, plaster and marble critics. Likewise there are those who know the color schemes, the proper location for our kind of an arch, the exact height a certain design should have, and so on indefinitely. Those who have inflicted their criticisms on us have all been good natured and in no wise fault finding. They have all admitted they will go on living just the same if our arch never receives their individual improvement, and its purpose will be in no way impaired by allowing it to stand as it now is. We may, therefore, conclude that our arch is in general, satisfactory. Had we spent a larger sum of money we would probably have had a better one; with what we had to spend we got a very fair return. With sufficient and unlimited funds we could, of course, conduct a series of experiments in architecture, paint, plaster, color and location, all of which might have a value of possible doubt to posterity and our neighbors. Lacking this necessary evil, we may as well conclude that the top is not too heavy and does not resemble a coffin, that it would not be improved by a large shield on either side; that the blue and white make a good color scheme without red, and that all in all we are all satisfied and that the arch is accomplishing just what it was intended for anyway—to show our appreciation and welcome to the rest of us who did their part under Uncle Sam's direction.

SECRET SOCIETIES IN HIGH SCHOOL

Editor of the Winchester Star,
Winchester, Mass.
My dear Mr. Wilson:

There have already appeared in the Star several articles dealing with the recent decision of the school committee to prohibit future members of all so-called "secret societies" from any participation in the activities of the high school excepting the right to study and graduate.

The committee's announcement came as a distinct surprise to the society members who were unaware that such a project was even under consideration. Four of the societies, namely, En Ka, Sigma Beta, Gamma Eta Kappa, and Phi Delta, believing that the school committee's action was hasty and made without much of any first-hand information at least about conditions, immediately took steps to get in touch with them hoping that they might reconsider their ruling or be willing to compromise so that the society movement which has been in operation since 1900 and has done much good in the community might not be summarily wiped out of existence.

To this end an inter-society council, representing the four above mentioned organizations was elected to confer with the school committee for the express purpose of bringing the societies arguments for existing to the attention of the committee, and at the same time to learn the motives that had led the board to take such a radical step. In other words, just what harm had the societies ever done?

The conference was held, but was most unsatisfactory. The school committee admitted that the society representatives had some rather strong arguments, but would not in any way allow them to interfere with their ruling. On the other hand the council, after listening to what few arguments the committee cared to vouchsafe, were by no means convinced that the board had sufficient grounds for discontinuing the societies as they intended.

The conference voted a failure, it was decided by the inter-society council to ask for a public hearing with the school committee in order that the societies might have an opportunity to present their side of the case in question to the townspeople, whom they consider to be insufficiently informed in the matter.

To this purpose the council communicated with the school committee and the result is clearly shown by the following letters.

The following is the council's letter to the committee:

Mr. Henry S. Chapman,
Chairman of School Committee.

Dear Sir: As you will remember, I have been elected chairman of a joint committee of the boys' and girls' societies of Winchester for the purpose of considering the action of the Winchester School committee in forbidding participation in any school activities to future members of the societies.

It naturally seems to us, and also to the members of the Societies, that in so doing the school committee has taken a very radical step, and while agreeing fully with the commitee that the ultimate welfare of the school is the paramount question to be considered, we do not feel that the end which it is desired to obtain can in any way be furthered by the action which it has taken.

We believe that inasmuch as this question has already taken on the character of a public controversy by exchanges of letters in the Winchester Star, and in view of the large number of people involved, that you would undoubtedly welcome an intelligent public discussion of the questions involved just as the members of the boys' and girls' societies are always glad to invite constructive and helpful criticisms tending towards improvement of school conditions.

We would, therefore suggest that you hold an open session of the school committee some suitable evening between May 12 and May 28 in the town hall, giving the general public advance notice of your intention to do so, so that this serious question can be given the publicity it is entitled to, and so that we may all receive a true sense of the desires of the people of Winchester in this matter.

Awaiting your reply and an expression of your opinion on this suggestion, believe me to be,

Yours very truly,
Louis E. Goddu,
Chairman Inter-Society Council.

The committee replied as follows:

May 13, 1919.

My dear Mr. Goddu:

I laid your letter of May 11 before the school committee last night. It was the unanimous judgment of the committee that a "public session" was inadvisable. The committee has reached its decision after full deliberation and voted to adhere to it after a long meeting with representatives of the societies. It is advised of all the arguments that can be advanced and it is of the opinion that such a meeting as you suggest would contribute more heat than light to the situation. We believe it would exacerbate public feeling without any chance of altering the committees' decision and better likelihood of helping parents to a calm view of that decision. As a matter of fact the people of Winchester are already well informed on the question which is at bottom, extremely simple. Fortunately, if we are in seach of their opinions thereon, we have the questionnaire of the Committee of Fifteen. The school committee would regard the carefully considered replies of the parents to the nineteenth question on that paper as a more valuable indication of public sentiment than any open meeting would be likely to afford. I am,

Very sincerely yours,
Henry S. Chapman,
Chairman School Committee.

In closing this communication which is for the express purpose of showing just what has been done by their representatives to date, the societies wish to ask the townspeople whether or not they have been given fair consideration in a matter that deals with them in so vital a way.

The Inter-Society Council.

A COMPARISON OF SCHOOL COMMITTEE METHODS

Winchester, Mass., May 21, 1919.
Editor of the Star:

While not seeking to publicly enter the discussion between the Chairman of the School Committee and the members of the boys' and girls' societies of Winchester I feel there is a point which should be cleared up in regard to a statement of Mr. Capman, both in justice to the societies and as an illustration of what seems to be an arbitrary and uncompromising attitude adopted by the School Committee. In one of his public letters Mr. Chapman states that few people knew of the attempt made several years ago by Mr. Redfern—then a member of the School Commitee—to abolish these societies.

Mr. Chapman's statement appears to carry the meaning that Mr. Redfern had made an unsuccessful attempt and was disappointed in not being able to carry through a much desired abolition.

In this connection I would say that I believe I am as well qualified as anyone in town to throw light on Mr. Redfern's actions in this matter, and it is my purpose to do this; at the same time showing the very great difference in the manner and spirit of Mr. Redfern's action in contrast to Mr Chapman's attitude.

Mr. Redfern being in doubt as to the merits of these societies, instead of arbitrarily decreeing the abolition, went at the matter in the broadminded way of one seeking information before acting, and invited a number of society members to his house one evening for the purpose of a quiet, friendly talk on the subject.

After a most frank and temperate exchange of views, and the serving of an agreeable collation, his guests departed, leaving with him an invitation to attend a meeting of one of the societies for the purpose of becoming better asquainted with its members, seeing its quarters, and having a first hand opportunity of making up his mind about the merits in the case.

Mr. Redfern soon afterwards spent an evening at the room of this society, met both the younger members, some of whom were in school, and a number of the older ones, some college men and others business men. He explained to them his ideas on the subject and listened courteously while the members laid before him their story of long continued interest in the welfare of the school, the past accomplishments, in and out of the school, of the society members and their ideas in general for the benefit of present and future members of the society.

I believe I am safe in saying that that which most appealed to Mr. Redfern was the earnest and long-continued interest of the older members in the work and welfare of the younger ones; this being a side of the question which he had not previously appreciated.

What was the result?

Mr. Redfern left that night with an expression of appreciation for the way in which his suggestions were received and adopted, and, apparently, was satisfied that the societies were neither a detriment to the boys and girls of Winchester, nor a menace to the schools.

The proof of this is that none of the older members of the society to whom Mr. Redfern made his original appeal ever heard further from him in the matter of abolishing the societies.

I submit that this furnishes an excellent example of how deliberation over a serious question is invaluable in saving hasty and ill-timed action which later may be regretted, and supplies a startling contrast to the methods of the present school committee.

Thanking you for your consideration in printing the above statement with which I trouble you only because I believe it to be of interest to many Winchester people, I remain,

Yours very truly,
Shepard Pond.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING

As this was approved by the Chief of Police the Board voted to grant Mr. Hurley a license of this class, same to be effective to May 1, 1920 and subject to the usual fee of $1.00.

Arlington Gas Light Company. Mr. William J. Stevenson appeared before the Board with a petition signed by himself and seven others all property owners on Hemingway street. This petition requests that the Board of Selectmen ask the Arlington Gas Light Company to lay gas pipes on Hemingway street, from the Gurney property as far as the petitioners call for. The Chairman told Mr. Stevenson that he had talked with Mr. Woodhead, Manager of the Arlington Gas Light Co. and that Mr. Woodhead stated that something would probably be done in regard to the matter about July. This matter was ordered put on the docket for the first meeting in July.

Arlington Gas Light Company. A notice was received from the State Board of Gas and Electric Light Commissioners giving notice of a hearing to be held at 15 Ashburton place, (603 Ford Bldg.), Boston, on Wednesday, May 28, 1919, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon. This hearing is in regard to allowing the Arlington Gas Light Company to continue their charge ($1.25) net a thousand cubic feet) for gas. By order of the Board of Gas & Electric Light Commissioners dated on May 14, 1918, the Gas Company was allowed to make this charge for the duration of the war unless othewise ordered upon complaint or petition as provided by law or upon the Board's own motion. At the hearing held May 14, 1918, at which the order was issued Mr. Ogden of last year's Board appeared for the Selectmen. This matter was referred to the Committee on Corporations, they to appear at the hearing.

Sidewalks 1919 Stone Avenue. A petition signed by Mr. John M. Cullen and four others, all residents and real estate tax payers of Stone avenue, was received. This petition requests that a sidewalk of the ordinary type be made on the north side of said avenue. The matter was referred to the Superintendent of Streets for report.

Curbing 1919 Hemingway Street. A report and an estimate were received from the Superintendent of Streets in regard to the petition of Mr William J. Stevenson for the laying of curbing at the corner of Hemingway and Main streets. The Board decided to lay this matter over until such time as the budget for next year is being considered.

The meeting adjourned at 11.45 p. m.

WHEN WOMEN TAKE CHARGE

Bit of Ancient Chinese History That Is Decidedly Interesting Coming Just at This Time.

In the World Outlook Weltly B. Hersher gave this entertaining bit of ancient Chinese history. It only goes to prove, once again, that "there is nothing new under the sun."

In olden times, when, as Barrie tells us, "the world was so young that pieces of the original eggshell still adhered to it," long before the Tai Pings or long haired rebels ravaged this part of China, the two provinces of Kiangsi and Fukien were quarreling. The men went out to fight and left the women at home, even as we do today. The women did not know anything about planting crops or paddling rice fields. At first they just let things slide, hoping the men would soon return.

But the feuds grew fiercer and more men were called out. The fighting reached the Kan and Hsia Kiang. Finally all the strong men disappeared from their ancestral halls. In the swift years that followed the women found, to their surprise, that they could make the rice shops prosper. More junks were sailing up the river than in former days and clean little houses lined the shore for long distances.

But although everything was going beautifully and the women were making more money than they ever had before, the feeling gradually grew that no town could be complete without husbands.

A vote was accordingly taken and the majority decided that husbands should be imported.

Enter husbands from a neighboring clan. The women having conceived the scheme, worked it out logically. Husbands were soon given to understand that they were husbands only, and imported at that.

"We shall still be managers of our lands and rice shops. We will run this town and see that no harm befalls the province. You are to look after the children." So the dictum ran and the men subsided into mere men and became useful to the community.

So the women managed with a high hand in Hsia Kiang, just as our men did in the Flint age. And the women in Hsia Kiang have kept on managing just as our men liked to manage a man-made world even to the present day.

Maine Producing Flour.

Flour mills, once fairly numerous in Maine, but largely eliminated by Western competition, are being restored through the operation of the war, the shortage of transportation facilities, the conservation of wheat flour and consequent food regulations, and the increased acreage of wheat in this state, says the Lewiston (Me.) Journal. Maine people will once again have the opportunity of eating bread made of Maine flour ground in a Maine mill from Maine raised wheat. The increased wheat acreage in Maine this year has been simply astonishing. And there is a big demand for ... that can be ... from the wheat raised in Maine this year. It is estimated that in normal years ... 170,000 barrels of flour ... shipped into the state from the West. The saving of cars for transportation for other necessities ... a very large ... of the flour used could be raised and ground in Maine. Bangor, for instance, has an uptodate flour mill which is turning out 40 barrels of flour in 24 hours. The mill, up to a year ago, was a sawmill. The wheat storage capacity is 5,000 bushels.

The Committee of Fifteen on Public Schools wishes to bring to the notice of the citizens the Questionnaire to Parents sent out a month ago. Copies were sent to parents of children in public schools of this town and other towns, of children in private schools and of students in colleges, as far as the lists of such pupils were available to the Secretary. Copies were also sent on request to any who expressed an interest to see them. Already a large number of replies has been received but it is earnestly hoped by the Committee that many more of these Questionnaires will be filled out and returned to the Secretary so that the data for the Committee's report to the Town Meeting may be as full and complete as possible. It is inevitable that some parents have been omitted in these mailing lists, and the Committee hopes that any such, or indeed any citizens who have constructive ideas about the town schools and their improvement will send a request by mail or telephone to the Secretary, 15 Pine street, telephone 547-M.

REPRESENTATIVE KNEELAND'S PARKWAY PROJECT ASSURED

On Tuesday of this week Governor Coolidge signed the bill to furnish the construction of various Parkways in the Metropolitan District upon which work had already been commenced, thus furnishing a considerable employment for the unemployed.

Among these projects is included the automobile parkway first advocated by Representative Kneeland who fought it through the Legislature, which follows the line of the southwest border road between Winchester and Medford.

As already explained in this paper this Parkway will save several miles of distance in going between Winchester and the points north and west of it to Medford, Revere Beach and points south and east. It is a continuation of the Mystic Valley Parkway in Winchester, and follows a beautiful route through the Fells, coming out on the Fellsway Parkway in Medford at Forest Street near the Police Station. Some work has already been done upon the widening and straightening of the border road for automobile traffic, so that the $25,000 which is included in the lump sum appropriation, made by the bill just passed, will enable the completion of it to be made this year.

It is understood that the Metropolitan Park Commission will start work shortly upon this Parkway, as they regard it as an opportunity to afford a most valuable connecting link between two important districts at a very small expense to the state. It is very interesting that the Parkway connects Winchester and Ward 3 Medford by a short route, which together comprise the district which Mr. Kneeland represents in the Legislature.

The [illegible] $25,000 will be spent to help out labor conditions, as there will be no necessity of spending any money for land damages. This is a notable and rapid consummation of a very desirable public improvement for Winchester and Medford.

"FLO-FLO" DELIGHTS BOSTON AUDIENCES

The present Boston theatrical season's greatest musical comedy success is the honor won by John Cort's musical sensation, "Flo-Flo", which has been crowding the Tremont Theatre for the past six weeks and has now outlasted all its rivals in the field. The reason for this is because it dispenses such fun and music delights coupled with such a costume display as has never before been exhibited in the hub of New England.

It is the most humorous and best played of musical plays with real plot and merry situations. Its story deals with incidents in the life of "Flo-Flo" the model in a smart women's wear shop to whom come various characters, and she is the central figure of a love romance.

The role of Flo-Flo is played by Rena Parker, whose beauty and voice stamp her as a real prima donna. The comedians include Andrew Tombes, James B. Carson, Thomas Handers and Arthur Millis. Other leaders are Edna Morn, Bert Bardner, Louise Beaudet, Marjorie McClintock, Armand Robie and Wm. Hugh Mack.

Out-of-town patrons are assured of special attention to mail orders. Matinees are given on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Special Matinee Decoration Day.

DESERVED COMPLIMENT

Lowell newspapers very recently commented most favorably upon an exceptionally high compliment which Judge Hugo Dubuque of the Superior Court paid District Attorney Nathan A. Tufts upon the conclusion of a murder trial at the Lowell Superior Court, at which the jury returned a verdict of guilty in the first degree.

Commendations of this nature have become quite common in Middlesex County since the Hon. Nathan A. Tufts of Waltham became district attorney some two years ago last January—wholly because of the manner in which the Waltham gentleman has conducted the office. Judge Dubuque's reference to the ability displayed by Mr. Tufts simply emphasized the good things which were predicted of Nathan A. Tufts when he was a candidate for district attorney three years ago this fall.

So impressed was Judge Dubuque, that he unhesitatingly declared that the argument of District Attorney Tufts and his handling of the case were exceptionally able and quite in line with the excellent work which has been done by the district attorney's office during the year that the judge has been assigned to that court.

That District Attorney Tufts has made good, is the opinion of all who have come in contact with him. The unravelling and successful prosecution of the Wakelin case after it had been dropped for practically a year as an unsolved mystery, the prosecution and imprisonment of Samuel Harris, the leader of a crowd of automobile thieves, the capture of nine out of ten of the Everett hold-up bandits, and the breaking up of an epidemic of robbery cases which took place last winter by the apprehension, conviction and sentencing of twenty-four desperadoes are examples of the work which has been done by District Attorney Tufts' offices with particular effectiveness. These are only a few instances of the activity of this official, but they are characteristic of his determination to make good in whatever position of trust he holds.

BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA

Scout Edgar Taylor of troop 6, has been awarded an Ace Medal and three palms by the Treasury Department for the sale of War Savings Stamps.

There will be an inter-troop meet at the Winchester High School Friday evening, May 23, between troop 3, A. E. Batter, acting scoutmaster, and Francis F. Smith scoutmaster.

The following is a list of competitive events taken part in by troops of the Mystic Valley Council at the field day held in Woburn last Saturday: Morse signalling, wall scaling, 50-yard dash, tug of war, water boiling, and relay race. Woburn scouts won the greatest number of events with a total score of 28 points, Winchester came second with 15 points and Stoneham third with a total of 13 points.

WINCHESTER INCLUDED IN RELIGIOUS SCHOOL DISTRICT

To meet the urgent demand for educated Sunday School Teachers, plans for the establishment of a School of Religious Education are well under way by the Federated Council of Religious Education of Stoneham.

The school, which will open next fall, will be located in Stoneham, and represents the districts of Woburn, Winchester, Wakefield, Reading, Wilmington and Burlington, cities and towns that have heartily co-operated with the movement.

Rev. Daniel W. Stafield of Stoneham is the Chairman of the Council and is largely responsible for the educational movement. Other members are leaders of Protestant Sunday Schools in the vicinity.

The week of June 1 to 8 has been set aside for the drive for both pupils and funds. All Protestant churches of these districts are requested to co-operate.

Such a school has been very successfully conducted in Malden under the leadeship of Dr. Walter S. Athern of that city.

THE FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

The second in the series of lectures on "clothing" to be given by Mrs. Woolman, as announced in the last issue of the STAR will occur Monday afternoon, May 26th, at 3 o'clock in the High School Assembly Hall. Mrs. Woolman will speak upon "Wool and Worsteds." Too much cannot be said in commendation of Mrs. Woolman's work. She is one of the best authorities upon textiles in the state, and presents her subject with readiness and enthusiasm that makes her lectures pleasurable as well as instructive. The other two lectures of the course will occur Monday afternoons, June 2nd and June 9th.

This is an opportunity that no woman who desires to be thoroughly efficient in purchasing clothing for herself and family can afford to miss. These lectures are free and the public is cordially invited to attend.

It is requested that any member of The Fortnightly who has changed her address or telephone number since remitting her dues, communicate as soon as possible that the year book may be correct when it appears.

JOSEPH E. BELVILLE

Joseph Edward Belville, aged 63 years, died at his home No. 4 Brookside place, on Wednesday. He was a native of Fairfield, Vt., and was the son of Frank and Theresa (Baskaw) Belville.

He leaves a widow and one son, Arthur E.

The funeral services will be conducted by Rev. Mr. Taylor and will be held at the residence on Saturday, May 24th. The burial will be in Wildwood Cemetery.

Flags for Memorial Day at Wilson's.

MACHINE GUN COMPANY NOTES

No drill Monday the 26th. Instead, those members of the company who have qualified on the indoor rifle range will go to Stoneham, to shoot in competition with teams of the other companies in the 12th Regiment. Thirty men may participate. The highest 20 scores will be counted in the competition.

The Machine Gun Company will parade on Memorial Day in honor of the G. A. R. living and dead. First call 1.30, assembly 1.45.

Men who can play baseball are asked to report to Sergeant Barr at Manchester Field Saturday afternoon. The company has a standing challenge from Co. E of Melrose, and if the material shows up as well as it promises, this and other games will be played during the season.

Plans for the annual outing of the Machine Gun Company association at Villa Napoli, Nantasket, on June 7th, are well in hand. A good attendance is expected of past and present officers and enlisted men of the company. The burning question just now is where to find a partner for Stable Sergeant Woods in the three-legged race.

Still room in the ranks for several live young men interested in securing a thorough training in infantry and machine gun tactics. Because of its excellent officers and unusually complete equipment, the Winchester company offers especially good opportunities. A number of corporals and sergeants will be chosen from the ranks in June, when the terms of many of the present members expire. Applicants should get in touch with Captain Tompkins at his home or at the Town Hall on Monday nights. Enlistment for one year only. No expense involved.

Stringent Roman Land Laws.

The papyri of the Roman period have conclusively proved that registration of land already existed in a highly elaborate form, and that it was instituted not only in the interests of the state, but also—some think even primarily—in the interests of private individuals. That point comes out clearly in an important edict of a first century prefect, who ordains that contracts affecting real property were not to be drawn up without due authorization from the keepers of the public archives. These officials had to keep the registers up to date, entering in them all mortgages and other charges, as well as changes of ownership, and they were thus enabled to protect an intending purchaser from oversights and frauds.

"POLITICAL MOVE" SAYS W. C. T. U. HEAD

Mrs. Ella A. Gleason of Winchester, president of the Massachusetts branch of the W. C. T. U., Wednesday night declared that President Wilson is making a political move in advising that the wartime prohibition law be repealed.

"We read in the newspapers," said she "that the President is disregarding the extreme prohibitionists and favors the moderate. To my mind there is no middle ground; you are in favor of the liquor traffic or opposed to it.

"We cannot understand President Wilson's desire in this matter, but suppose there is some political measure at stake. It seems as if he is trying to please both factions.

"If we have to wait until 1920 for prohibition the liquor dealers will simply roll up greater condemnation for themselves. And I don't want to stand in the place of any liquor seller when he stands at the judgment bar of God."

Old Style Soap.

To prove how little the present generation knows about things that cut a figure in the past, a Missouri editor recently asked if any of his readers could tell him what an ash hopper was. Strange to say, scores informed him that an ash hopper was a utensil in which the housewife formerly deposited her wood ashes. At regular periods the housewife poured water into the hopper, and the water, after seeping through, was strongly impregnated with lye. This, collected in a bucket or kettle, she employed in the making of soap from the fats which also she had collected. No boy or girl who was ever called upon to help while mother was making soft soap could possibly forget anything connected with the process, from the hopper to the boiler.—Christian Science Monitor.

MEMORIAL DAY EXERCISES

Town Will Join Veterans of Three Wars in Tomorrow's Program

A. D. Weld Post, G. A. R., issues an invitation to all the veterans of the great war to be their guests on Memorial Day this year and assist them in decorating the graves of the veterans of all wars who are at rest in this town. The Post extends hearty greetings to all who are or have been in the service, army, navy or any other branch, to join with it in its observances of the day.

A. D. Weld Post, G. A. R., now has but nine living members as follows:

Samuel B. Brookings, Commander
Henry Smalley, Adjutant
Charles Thurston, Senior Vice-Commander
James Dunnell, Junior Vice-Commander
Henry Richburg, Officer of the Guard
Peter Walling
Philip Maher
Jeremiah Boles
Frank Murphy

According to orders from headquarters the flag this year will be lowered at 12 o'clock noon, and for five minutes the bell on the Congregational Church will be tolled in memory of those who fell in the great war now closing. The flag will be raised at the conclusion of the exercises of the afternoon.

The regular exercises on Memorial Day will take place as usual. Members of the Post are asked to assemble at headquarters at 1.15, and at 2 o'clock the order of procession will be formed on Mt. Vernon street at G. A. R. hall, with the under escort of the Winchester Machine Gun Company. Capt. Maurice C. Tompkins, will receive the officials at the town hall.

The order of procession will be through Washington, Main, Church, Fletcher and Wildwood streets to the cemetery. The Sons of Veterans of Winchester have kindly volunteered to assist the Post in the decoration of graves. The music will be by the Woburn National Band.

At three o'clock the exercises will be held at the Soldiers' Monument in Wildwood Cemetery, the program including selections by the band, reading of orders, roll of honor and Lincoln's Gettysburg Speech; prayer by Rev. S. Winchester Adriance; singing of "Star Spangled Banner" and "America" by the audience, and an address by Rev. Mr. Adriance.

Last Sunday evening the Post, together with the Sons of Veterans, turned out in a body and attended divine service at the First Congregational Church. Rev. Howard J. Chidley, pastor of the church, delivered the address and there was special music by the Webster quartette. The whole service was of a patriotic nature, in keeping with the visitation of the Post.

Rev. S. Winchester Adriance offered prayer, Rev. A. B. Gifford, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church delivered the invocation and pronounced the benediction. A male quartet sang. Rev. Martin D. Kneeland of the town spoke on reconstruction work in France based on his year's experience in the foyer de soldat work in France in the early days of the war.

Rev. Dr Chidley's memorial address was devoted to the cross between of the subject, "The Black Cross of Peace." He said that "the people of the world have felt that we must demand either an equitable assertion or the commercial development of the 18th century to secure the true basis of world peace. The inventions and the geographical discoveries of the 19th century have made the Nations of the world neighbors. It is a task of the 20th century to make the peoples and Nations of the world brothers in a brotherhood of justice and peace."

Flags have been placed on 125 graves of Grand Army veterans at Wildwood Cemetery under the direction of Comrade Mackesy of A. D. Weld Post G. A. R. Flags were also placed on the graves of 16 veterans at St. Joseph's Cemetery, Montvale, East Woburn.

THE TORCH—LIGHTLY NOTES

Mrs. Woolman gave her second lecture of the series on Clothing about the Cotton Industry. She told how the United States grows 60 per cent. of the world's cotton, and although exporting some also imports large quantities of Egyptian, South Sea Island and Peruvian cotton, each variety have distinction and useful qualities.

The wholesale price of many grades of cotton cloth has doubled and trebled in the last few years, owing in part to the increase in the price of labor and to the war which took vast quantities of cotton for explosives, medical supplies such as gauze, and khaki for soldiers' clothes, tents, etc.

She described how to tell the best wearing qualities of knitted underwear, turkish towels and hose, and how the process of mercerizing tends to weaken the cloth, although giving a silky finish and attractive shades of coloring. She advised the buying of gingahms, kindergarten cloth and like fabrics because of the fact that the thread is dyed before the cloth is woven, making faster colors and because of their good wearing and laundering qualities.

She also spoke of the disadvantages of cotton, how easily it soils because of the oil in its texture, is easily crushed and it's unsuitability of taking the place of linen or wool for many uses.

Her next lecture will occur Monday, June 2nd, at three o'clock in the High School Assembly Hall. Under this subject of "Clothing and Health" Mrs. Woolman gives one of her most interesting and helpful lectures. The following topics will be discussed:

Clothing and Health: What the body needs to conserve energy. Maintaining the body at a constant temperature. The chemical and physical regulation. Clothing as a means of saving energy. Keeping the body warm, dry, clean, well ventilated and unhampered. Men's and women's clothing as related to health.

Textiles in relation to health—outer and underwear. The properties of wool, cotton, silk and linen in relation to health; influence of the weave. Ideals for outer clothing. Ideals for under clothing.

Pressure and weight. The effect of tight clothing. The effect of heavy clothing and drawing down. The unrestricted body.

Shoes and corsets. Shoes and efficiency. Corsets and health.

Dangers to be avoided. Soiled clothing and the laundry. Sweatshop workrooms. Colored clothing next to the skin.

This lecture is free and all are invited to attend.

It is requested that any member of "The Fortnightly who has changed her address, or telephone number, since remitting her dues, send a written notice of the change to the treasurer, Mrs. Florence R. Scales, 20 Parkway, as soon as possible, that the year book may be correct when it appears.

On the evening of June 9th from eight o'clock until twelve, The Fortnightly will give an informal dance in the Town Hall to "our boys" who have served in the war. Every man who is, or has been in the service, is invited to be present with a partner as his guest. This will be the opening event of Winchester's celebration of welcome.

REMARKABLE RESULTS OF THE MUSIC MEMORY CONTEST

Splendid Success of Contest Concert Due to Excellent Musicianship and Management of Mr. Grant, Supervisor of Music—Eighteen Prize Winners.

Last Tuesday evening the Winchester children reversed the commonly accepted theory: "The older they come, the wiser they are." The music memory contest made all of Winchester take notice of the fact that the boys and girls of the town put their parents out of the running when it came to identifying the names and composer of each selection as it was played.

The splendid results of this difficult contest are a fine tribute to the capabilities of the Winchester children. Over 150 participated in the contest. The fact that eighteen of these came out as prize winners with almost perfect scores was incessantly marvelled at by the large audience which came to witness the event.

Seventeen of these children named every one of the fifteen numbers played correctly. It was necessary to play additional numbers to get first, second and third prize winners and after considerable difficulty, they were awarded as follows:

First prize: Marion Jones, 3 War Saving Stamps, ($15.00).

Second prize: Jean Ryan, 2 War Saving Stamps, ($10.00).

Third Prize: Ruth Gates, 1 War Saving Stamp, ($5.00).

Owing to an error on the part of one of the judges the paper of Lois Stone was incorrectly marked and she should have had the privilege of competing for a prize. It was the decision of the judges who are in a position to know, that inasmuch as she had shown marked ability in identifying numbers in all preliminary contests, and was always ranked among the highest, that a special prize should be awarded her.

The remaining fifteen each received four thrift stamps: Cornelia Smith, Pearl Dearborn, Mary Howe, Joseph Ryan, Rosamond Lefavour, Gertrude Felber, Dorothy Lewis, Sylvia Parker, Cathleen Cave, Caroline Drisko, Jeannette Smith, Elizabeth Jacobs, Ellen Cloutman, Eleanor Gordon and Constance Williams.

The Wadleigh School had twelve prize winners, the High School six, and the Prince one.

The capacity of the town hall, which seats over 800 was taxed Tuesday evening. On the main floor were seated all the contestants, one seat apart and on the sides and balcony parents and friends, many of whom made a test of their own ability to recall the name and composer of familiar selections.

Audience Hears Fine Concert

The contest began at 8 o'clock and for one hour the audience enjoyed a splendid concert. The numbers were presented to the children in five different ways, for Dr. Carl M. Plumer, Director of the Victrola, and one of the 25 concert pieces, vocal selections and a violinist. The artist who so generously contributed to the audience enjoyment are certainly to be thanked by the people of Winchester. The piano solos were played by Mr. Forbe Smith of 21 Steinert & Sons Co., of Boston, who interpreted Handel's Largo on the Victrola.

RICHARD W. GRANT
Who Planned and Carried Out the Music Memory Contest

Art Piano-Player in a most skilful and artistic manner, Mrs. Hildegarde Brandageee Livingstone, a pupil of Auer played two numbers Meditation from Thais by Massanet and Air for G string by Bach. Mrs. Livingstone played these two beautiful melodies in such a way as to merit spontaneous applause from the audience. She is an artist of national reputation. The orchestra played well together under the excellent leadership of Mr. Grant. The vocal selections were sung in a most pleasing manner by Mrs. Anna Mason, Miss Constance Park and Miss Breda Bond.

Great excitement reigned when the contest cards were collected and passed to the judges for correction during the interval while the papers were in the workers hands, Mr. Grant led the audience in a community sing which was one of the most enjoyable features of the evening. Shouts of joy went up when Mr. Grant made known the results and applause of the names of those who had obtained all fifteen numbers correct. Then once more the contest was on as the records were played off immediately after these announcements were made. Five more numbers were played and the contest was narrowed down to two and it was a race and to put them to a much

22 STITCHES IN WOMAN'S HEAD

When the automobile in which she was riding struck a pole on the corner of Cambridge and Wildwood streets Sunday evening, Mrs. Ada Seller of Medford was thrown through the windshield. She and her husband who was driving the car, were taken to the Winchester hospital in a passing car, where it was found necessary to take 22 stitches to close wounds about her face and head. Her husband was badly shaken up and received a wrenched knee. He was allowed to leave after treatment, but Mrs. Seller was detained until into the week. The auto was badly wrecked, its front axle being bent into the shape of a letter E about the tree.

MAN KILLED BY TRAIN AT WEDGEMERE

The engineer of an in-bound train early Monday morning found the body of an unkown man laying beside the tracks on the curve below Wedgemere station. He stopped his train and the body was taken to West Medford, where it was turned over to a local undertaker.

It is thought that the man either fell from or was killed by the first section of the special train carrying the Sells-Floto Circus. The first section of this train passed through Winchester at 9.30 and made a stop of several minutes below Wedgemere.

THE WINCHESTER STAR DEMONSTRATION HOME GARDEN

Conducted by

MRS. ALONZO F. WOODSIDE, 30 Lebanon Street

Co-operating with the

Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture and Home Economics

Now that the peas and root crops are up and growing in good shape and the early plantings of beans are poking through the ground, it is time to think about the subject of cultivation.

You will find that the weeds are trying their hardest to let you know of their presense. These should be "nipped in the bud," so to speak. Perhaps the most practical method of taking the weeds in hand is to rake the soil thoroughly between the rows with a garden rake having long, pointed teeth. The soil between the narrow rows can be chopped up with a hoe. A scuffle hoe is a most useful cultivating tool with which to work between the rows.

All plants need moisture, air and warmth for a proper development. The soil should be loosened up by cultivating so that the warm air can penetrate the ground.

Another season for cultivating is to conserve the soil moisture. When a crust forms on the surface of the garden the soil moisture is rapidly evaporated. The surface should never be allowed to get in this condition.

Is is especially important to cultivate the garden after every heavy rain as the soil is always packed hard. Cultivation of the garden also helps to make the plant food in the soil available.

Several inquiries have come to the office during the past week in regard to the control and eradication of ants. Where there are a few small ant hills in the garden the ants may be destroyed by pouring scalding hot water down the holes. If this method is not successful purchase a small can of carbon bisulphide. Punch holes a foot deep among the infested area and pour 3 or 4 teaspoonfuls of the liquid into each one. Plug up the holes. The fumes from the liquid will penetrate the soil in all directions and kill the ants.

Tomato, eggplants, and pepper plants may be set out any time now. Beans, corn, cucumbers, squashes and melons may be planted with safety.

Thinning may be started in many gardens at this time. Beets, carrots, parsnips, lettuce and radishes should not be neglected until their growth is checked by crowding. If beets are not planted too thickly, they may be allowed to grow about 6 inches high before thinning and then used for greens.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE

A thinking Winchester gentleman advances the theory that Christ's words about children, "of such is the Kingdom of heaven," are not simply beautiful, not true in a merely general way, but are scientifically correct, and in accordance with "a theory of evolution just beginning to find expression which confirms them in a surprising way. There is something positive, pure, sacred even in life itself. It is infinite promise and its task is to master matter as a medium of expression for itself, to mould circumstance, not to be moulded by it. Man, in particular, has advanced more and more consciously by the removal of obstructions to his own life, his own spirit, and it becomes more intensely life and spirit the more the obstructions are removed. Believe this and you will believe that life, as it enters the world, is a sacred thing, is of the Kingdom of Heaven. You will see a child, not as a piece of raw material to be moulded by circumstance, parents and educators being among the most powerful circumstances, but as a spirit not yet thwarted or marred by its struggle with circumstance, a fresh, pure flame, that will, you hope, keep its power and purity all through that struggle, will master its material as never before.

That is, one may see in the child the soul of man before it has been brought into contact with the hardships, the sin and wickedness of the world. In the later effort "to master matter as a medium of expression for itself", it is also to some extent mastered by matter. Shakespeare anticipated the evolutionists, for in attempting to explain the shameful—as he thought—effects of the actor's calling on his life, he said:

Thence comes it that my name receives a brand,
And almost thence my nature is subdued
To what it works in, like the dyer's hand.

So in later years the child's "nature is subdued to what it works in," and no matter how many triumphs it may win, or how high it may rise, the consequences of the work and struggle abide, and one of those consequences is that life is stained as is "the dyer's hand." The child is of "the Kingdom of Heaven" because it has never had any experience with evil. Though the life has been improved, its sacredness has not been corrupted. What charm is, not innocence but the unconsciousness of evil or its existence.

The idea was a favorite with Shakespeare—that of virginal purity exposed to defilement. This purity was associated by him with youth, and often it is pictured, not as something that had been won by conquest, but rather as something that had not been lost, perhaps had never been subjected to temptation. In "The Merchant of Venice", to give one illustration, is this:

There's not the smallest orb which thou beholdest
But in his motion like an angel sings,
Still giving to the young-eyed cherubins,
Such harmony is in immortal souls;
But whilst this muddy vesture of decay
Doth grossly close it in, we can not hear it.

The harmony that was inaudible to man, was plainly heard by the "cherubins," who were "young eyed," and not swathed in "this muddy vesture of decay." The thought is also preeminently Christian, since Christianity teaches that life comes fresh, clean and beautiful from the hand of God, and also that it is impossible for it wholly to escape the touch of pollution. People were told that they could not enter into the Kingdom of Heaven unless they became like little children that is, reverted, or fought their way back to their primal innocence. And the prayer for the parting soul is that "whatever defilements it may have contracted in this miserable and wicked world * * * being purged and done away with, it may be presented pure and without spot." But it is not claimed that the theory is new but only that the evolutionists just seem to have discovered it. But, as has so often been the case, they are in danger of drawing wrong influences from it. It is suggested, for instance that, as life is spoiled by being thwarted, therefore it ought not to be thwarted. But, the world being what it is, there is no way of avoiding this. Men every day have to break through restraints that would keep them back. Evil is ever present, and temptations abound on every hand. There can be no "peace without victory," and no victory without wounds. Man's nature, too, as it develops, becomes in many ways self-thwarting, as St. Paul found.

Cycling for the Hawk.

Everett Colburn, a Los Angeles taxidermist, has evolved a new method of hunting hawks and other birds of prey which is spectacular and hazardous, but nevertheless efficient. Popular Science says. Mr. Colburn, who is also a motorcyclist, noticed that often when he was touring over the country highways, hawks would quietly sit on telegraph or fence posts at the side of the road and allow him to pass on his machine. They had come to regard the machine as a harmless thing. So, by the way of experiment, he constructed a bracket on the top of the gasoline tank of his machine for carrying a shotgun. Then he set out over the highways to see what results could be obtained. The first bird sighted was a fine red tailed hawk that sat on a fence post. As the bird flew from the post, Colburn, speeding at 45 miles an hour, grabbed his gun and killed the hawk.

Tales of John Redmond.

John Redmond, the late Irish leader, is said to have acquired his oratorical power by following a queer precept of his biographer, L. G. Redmond-Howard. In his schooldays John studied under Bell, a distinguished elocutionist. "Listen to all Bell has to say, John," advised Redmond-Howard, "but don't do anything he says. You do it better yourself." A good story is told by Alfred Waynell of John Redmond's literary efforts, which brought a modest five dollars a week. The late Lord Russell exclaimed: "You don't mean to say that that fellow took it?" "Better men have taken less," answered Waynell, and worse have taken more."

The Winchester police had seven auto cases in the Woburn court Monday morning as a result of observation last week Thursday at the corner of Main and Lake street. All were found guilty and fined $5. Winchester high has a crew out and Medford high is also in training. Other schools are expected to participate, although it is not yet known just who will enter. It is thought very probable that the Medford Boat Club will run a regatta on this day.

Plans are now going ahead rapidly for the celebration to returned men in service. Winchester was visited by a snappy thunder storm Sunday evening after a day of varying weather. The thunder and lightning was sharp and brilliant, there evidently being an unusual amount of electricity in the air. Two feed wires came down on Main street near the Whitney mill during the storm, and the electric lights were out for a time. A transformer on a pole at the STAR building was put out of commission, necessitating a new one, while the switches and fuses on the motors in the office were all burned out. The lightning struck on Linden street, stripping the bark off four trees.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

Again Winchester Union has lost a long time member in the death of Mrs. John M. Enman, who passed away last week after a long, lingering illness. During the years when members of the Union in Winchester were far less numerous than they are today, she was always faithful and dependable ready ever to do what she could to help and doing it with a quiet steadiness that was always a comfort to those in charge of the general work. Such members of any organization are usually few and their worth is appreciated and makes even deeper the regret when they pass on to the new life that awaits them.

Ellesaac Lodge Open House Day, Saturday, May 24, was an ideal day so far as the weather was concerned and many took advantage of the opportunity to visit the house on the heights of Bedford. Mrs. Gleason, Mrs. Hodge and Mrs. Shultis were among those from Winchester who motored over. The morning program included an address by Mrs. Joseph T. Tracy of New York, acting field secretary of the Woman's Home Mission Board of the Presbyterian Church, who has traveled extensively in the south and west and spoke entertainly of some phases of reconstruction as she had seen it elsewhere.

In the afternoon there was an entertainment under the direction of guests of the Lodge, past and present, and all day groups of visitors were inspecting the various points of interest, the camp and farm and other industries. The weaving room is again open, having been closed for a time because of the difficulty in getting materials. Articles from which rugs may be made will be gladly received and will be of great help in furnishing employment for those who wish to earn a portion of their board.

A number of the members of the Union have been busy this week in finishing the garments begun at the last meeting and which are needed as soon as possible to send to the Belgian children for whom they were intended.

TREMONT THEATRE

The tremendous success which has been met by "Flo-Flo" at the Tremont Theatre, Boston, has stamped this production as one of the best musical comedy productions ever shown at this most popular of New England theatres. The reason for this is not hard to seek, for its qualities are exactly those which go to make up the ideal musical entertainment. And moreover, it is attuned in tunefulness of music, sprightliness of dancing and colorfulness of dressing in scenery and costumes to the season of the year, the late spring when nature itself inspires only gayety and liveliness.

But even though this is the most sensational portion of entertainment offered in "Flo-Flo," the wealth of song, fun and dancing delights contained in it is amazing in extent. With such leading comedians as Andrew Tombes, James B. Carson, and that funny pair of remarkable dancers, Handers & Millis laughter is ever on tap, and Rena Parker, who so ably plays Flo-Flo leads such gifted feminine artists as Edna Morn, Louise Beaudet, and Marjorie McClintock there is always full delight.

Matinees are given on Wednesdays and Saturdays, and out of town patrons are assured of strict attention to all mail orders.

CITY'S HIGH TITLE

Cuban Capital Given Long Name, by Royal Decree.

Has Been Considerately Shortened to Habana, but That Was Not Its Appellation in 1634—Place Had Remarkable Growth.

The full name of the capital of Cuba is San Cristobal de la Habana. In 1634 a royal decree conferred upon the city the sounding title, "Llave del Nuevo Mundo y Antemural de las Indias Occidentales" which signifies "Key of the New World and Bulwark of the West Indies." In emphasis, the coat of arms of the municipality bears a symbolic key and representations of the fortresses of Morro, Punto and Fuerza.

Habana is one of the several towns founded by the governor, Diego Velasquez. He placed it upon the south coast, where the town of Batabano now stands. It was shortly removed to its present position and rapidly it grew to be the chief center of the island and one of the most important places in the new world. La Fuerza, the oldest fortification in the city, was erected near the close of the sixteenth century. Shortly afterward, Philip the Second of Spain ordered the construction of the Punta and Morro forts, for the protection of the harbor, and at about the same time the official residence of the governor of the island was transferred from Santiago de Cuba to Habana.

In 1650, the population of Habana was hardly more than three thousand, but in the following two or three decades it doubled, owing to a large immigration of Spaniards from Jamaica. During this period, the city rose to be the commercial center of the Spanish-American possessions, and the principal rendezvous of the royal fleets that carried on the trade monopoly between Spain and America. The walls inclosing the city were commenced in 1671 and finished 30 years later.

A map of the city at the beginning of the nineteenth century strikingly illustrates its rapid growth. Then the residences were almost all intramural, or within the walls. Large estancias and hiertas occupied ground which is now intersected by paved streets and covered with substantial buildings.

The first impression made upon the visitor is of the massive character of the architecture. This characteristic is more pronounced than in any other Latin American city. The building material generally used is a conglomerate of marine material, which hardens on exposure to the air. It is hewn into great blocks, and so used in construction. Walls are usually covered with stucco or plaster, and colored in a variety of tints. Roofs are either flat, or built of the old Spanish tiles. The effect, which is enhanced by the presence almost everywhere of trees and shrubs, is pleasing in the extreme.

The most interesting portion of Habana is that which formerly lay within the walls. The houses here have for the most part been converted into business purposes, but a few persons still cling to their old homes.—Forbes Lindsay, in "Cuba and Her People of Today."

General Townshend's Triumphs.

Like a palm tree in the arid stretches through which he fought stands out the selection of Gen. Charles V. F. Townshend to bear to the agents of the allies the Turkish offer of surrender, observed the New York Herald recently. Two years and a half ago, almost to a day, General Townshend and 8,000 men, the remnant of his army of 30,000, ran up the white flag in Kut-el-Amara after a siege of 143 days and surrendered to the Turks, while 40,000 other British soldiers 16 miles away battled ineffectually to break through the Turkish ring to the beleaguered force.

Now General Townshend has obtained his satisfaction. That he, a prisoner of war, should have been selected to carry this fateful message, fateful to all Christendom, as well as to what remains of the Turkish empire, is a unique tribute to a gallant soldier from the government he and those under his command served so faithfully.

New Soldier.

Gen. Leonard Wood said at a dinner in Washington:

"A new soldier is apt to be nervous, apt to make mistakes, but this is no sign of cowardice. It soon wears off.

"A new soldier was having his first experience of night duty. The password was 'discount.'

"As the soldier paced back and forth in the darkness, a black figure suddenly bounced up before him.

"'Halt! Who goes there?' he challenged.

"'A friend,' was the reply.

"'Advance friend,' said the new soldier. Advance and give the discount.'"

Spot to Be Avoided.

It happened in Paris. He was black, a Yank soldier, and from New Orleans. He was heading toward the Seine, when an oncoming comrade, same color, halted him. Said the comrade: "I'd be advisin' you, Lestah, not to go too neah that river; they's likely to be lookin' foh a molasses detail."

A Good Catch.

"You ask for my daughter? What are your prospects, young man? Do you own the house you live in?"

"No, I rent it, but I have five tons of coal in the cellar."

"Take her."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

FROM A WINCHESTER ITALIAN RESIDENT

To the Editor of the Star:

I hope you will publish this letter and the answer in your newspaper, because I know that many people of Winchester love our country and believe in our Holy's aspiration.

I beg you to accept my thanks for all you made, by means of your newspaper in behalf of Italy. We have Said in any time and in any country, our sympathizer, but only among the goodness and intellectual people loving our beautiful land because they know our civility and our glorious story. In this critical hour for our country, we need that the voice of the intellectual people raise loud over the politics' ambitions, that are working against Italy.

If the treaty of peace fails in any particular to satisfy Italy, the fact is deeply to be regretted. The debt of the Allies to Italy is beyond computation. For the sake of her allies, and for the security of the world, Italy made supreme sacrifice.

The Italian's sons were represented in all fronts: From the Alps to the Venice plateau, from the Champagne to the Argonne and in Macedonia. Their blood made red the waters of the Tronzo and Piave, and beside the other Allies blood of the Marne and Verdun.

Before our war we have spent our tears for the inhumanity of the Lusitania, and for the horror of the Belgium and France.

After that we have saw the Teutonic allies invade our land and their atrocities over the Italian people is too fearful for any imagination.

We have seen burning our towns, and sinking our ships, but the light of resistance have burning in our hearts.

Italy gave for the cause of humanity her better blood, and all her money, and now our allies have forgotten this great sacrifice. Over all nations, small and big, come soon the new prosperity, but not for Italy. They have not mines of coal, iron and gold like England and France.

She has not large colonies like Belgium and other allies. She has only the great people with generous hearts, always ready to fight against the oppressor and barbarism.

We have also the sea; the sea that belongs to us, and where our people will find their prosperity; and if the Allies cut us this way, then we see the big ingratitude.

Our hearts bled for that monstrous inhumanity, and our voice of protest cries loud, because it is the voice of justice.

My dear Mr. Rolli:

Your letter is much appreciated, and we share your admiration of and best wishes for Italy. She made a glorious contribution to the common victory, and I hope that the Italian people do not question that the American people are their friends.

Yours very truly,
James T. Williams, Jr.

RINGLING BROS. AND BARNUM & BAILEY

The world's biggest amusement institution, Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Shows Combined, is to exhibit afternoon and night at Boston, week of June 9th.

The consolidation of the "World's Greatest Shows" and the "Greatest Show on Earth" in one circus of collosal size, constitute the amusement surprise of the country. Nothing to approach this gigantic, new circus has ever before toured America. Some idea of the enormous scale upon which features are presented may be had when it is stated that a quarter of a million pounds of elephants take part in a single act. In other words—six times as many of the big eared giants than have ever before been seen in one main-tent exhibition. The menagerie is far the most collossal ever travelled. For instance—a herd of eight giraffes are exhibited in place of the two or three shown in the past. The great tournament which opens the main-tent program, is the most magnificent thing in pageantry every produced in America. Hundreds upon hundreds of gorgeously costumed characters and beautiful horses take part in it. The morning street parade is the longest and most brilliant ever given anywhere. It is a stupendous, super-circus that baffles description.

TOWN TEAM WIN PRACTICE GAME

The Town Team or part of it, had a practice game with the High School Saturday on Manchester Field, the Town Team winning 2 to 1. Several of the players expected on the field failed to put in an appearance and we had to fill in with a couple of local boys. Hevey umpired the game as he felt too weak to play after a bad cold he has had during the week. Hillis who was to fill in at second could not get away as expected, but will be here for the game Friday. Press called up at 1 o'clock saying he could not get here until late and then was not sure of arriving in time to take his turn in the box. Of the team on the field, Charlie Flaherty showed what a good catcher is to a team, while "Mack" in the box, held the High School boys in check at all times, only one real hit being made off him by Matthews, the hit by French being a fluke as either shortstop, second baseman or right fielder could have taken it. Hatch on first base seems to me and a good many others as about as good a first baseman as we can dig up and it looks as though he will stay there. Tom (Nig) Flaherty, accepted eight out of nine chances on second base and while he may be able to fill that bag with a little more experience and confidence I think the outfield will be a better place for him and let some experienced infielder fill in at second. At short we had Joe Gilmore, a fine player, covering lots of ground and at the same time a good hitter. Hevey will probably fill in at third base and there is no doubt but he can fill the bill. In the left field was a player named Lynch, but I failed to see him. He was recommended by McCarthy, but he looked woefully weak at the bat and did not seem any too sure in the outfield. In centre was Jack McCarthy and he is well known as a speedy outfielder with an arm that can throw them out at the plate with accuracy. In right was Siney an experienced outfielder with Southern league and New England league experience. Of course, as the season advances, changes for the better will be made in the team, but at the same time, if I strike a winning combination I am going to stick to it. I will bring the best semi-pro teams in this section here, as I have letters from every team of any standing, seeking games at Winchester.

BASEBALL NOTES

The game did not attract as large a crowd as expected, but the High School boys added a few needed dollars to their treasury.

The High School played the best game of ball that they have put up this season, and with the same sort of baseball against the other high schools in the Mystic Valley League, they should be able to walk away with the championship. While they did not hit as was to be expected, they put up a fine game in the field, and that is the one spot where they have fallen down all season.

Another fault which Mr. Schuster can correct is their hurry to get away from first base when they reach that bag when no one is down. Worrying a pitcher on that bag helps more than a stolen base sometimes.

Rayner pitched a steady game and it shows he can do it, with the proper backing, while hit hard he had good support.

McCartney makes a good man on first for the High School and he looks like a comer. If he stands up well at the bat and if he can overcome the tendency to hit under the ball he will be a great hitter.

"Davey" Miskell decided he wanted to steal second in the eighth, after being passed, but when he got partways down and found Charlie Flaherty's throw waiting for him, he said, "safety first" and got a great laugh from the crowd.

In the outfield Frank Vallely is the only shining light. He is a sure catch and a mighty fast fielder. He would be able to hit a lot better if he did not let so many good ones go past him. He hits hard enough but fails to get the good one. He can overcome that easily enough. All these boys are young, and all they need is experience.

Joe Gilmour at short was the bright particular star of our team. He was with Macon in the South league and had a tryout with Connie Mack last fall at Fenway park. He played in the game at Woburn with us last season when we beat Woburn and that afternoon got a couple of two-base hits.

"Tom" Flaherty as second base is one of the YD boys, being at Chateau Thierry, St. Mihel and the Argonne, so hot shots from a bat won't phase him any. He is thinking of a good player and should be encouraged, and he is going to get every opportunity from the team to do it.

URGENT CALL FROM SIBERIA

American Women's Hospitals, Representing National Association of Women Physicians, Will Answer Appeal but Public Must Help Raise $250,000

United in a National effort at this time to raise $250,000 is the aim of the American Women's Hospitals for medical aid to Serbia and the Near East. The Serbian Government has officialy informed the executive committee of the American Women's Hospitals of Serbia's terrible need for immediate medical aid. The personnel and equipment is already assembled, but $250,000 must be raised in order to send those who stand ready to go and to maintain the work over seas.

The American Women's Hospitals represents the war activities of the National Association of Women Physicians of America. The work of the British Women physicians and surgeons, organized under the name of the Scottish Women's Hospitals, is already of world fame. The purpose of this movement is to enable the women physicians of America through organization to follow in the footsteps of their British sisters, and do their full share towards lessening the suffering caused by the war.

The scope of the women physicians' service extends from the care of old people, babies and mothers in the devastated towns to the care of wounded, the inspection of civic sanitary hospitals, the care of refugee children and of expectant mothers.

Too much cannot be said for the work done by the American Women's Hospitals during the war. The organization has established a hospital at Luzaney, cooperating with the American Committee for Devasted France in work in that region. This hospital contains one hundred and fifty beds and has a perfectly equipped operating room. Connected with it is a chain of thirteen dispensaries scattered through the Aisne district. Thousands of patients have been treated. This hospital which is under the French Service de Sante, was instrumental in stamping out typhoid and influenza epidemics, and four of the staff have been decorated by the French Government, in recognition of that service. A similar hospital has been established to the north in the Chateau-Thierry sector.

Through the American Red Cross, the American Women's Hospitals has also established a children's hospital at Blois. The work began as a clinic, but soon grew to such proportions as to demand a hospital which is now made a permanent institution. The records show 2000 patients. A dispensary is maintained at Levallois, France, through the American Red Cross. They have established a unit of six doctors to work with the American Committee for Relief in the Near East.

One of the American Women's Hospitals most noted pieces of work is that accomplished in Serbia. With the recovery of its territory held by the enemy, the American Women's Hospitals of the American Red Cross at Vodena, Greece, was moved to Monister, Serbia. This hospital has one hundred and fifty beds. Seventy to eighty dispensary patients are treated daily and three days a week are devoted to surgical operations. More than 3000 refugee families have been visited and given treatment and medical aid by the doctors. The Serbian Government, in appreciation, has expressed its desire to decorate the medical women in charge for their skilful and tireless work.

Now comes this urgent call from the Serbian Government to send as soon as possible two mobile hospitals, each surrounded by a number of automobile dispensaries, with doctors, nurses and full tenting equipment to check the fearful epidemics which that stricken country is helpless to combat. America has a doctor to each thousand people; Serbia with its war-time disease and famine conditions has one to about 21,000.

The above statements of what this organization is, and the details of what it has already accomplished, and what, if it is to answer the call from Serbia, it must accomplish immediately, is sufficient reason for its appeal to the people throughout this country.

It should not be forgotten that Serbia not only bore the brunt of the struggle from the beginning of the world war, but had been fighting to preserve her freedom in two wars immediately preceding; no less than Belgium, Serbia was ravaged by the enemy; the Serbians endured all with stoic fortitude, asking and receiving little of the generous help given to others. The present desperate call for medical aid demands immediate response. The Massachusetts quota in the campaign is $40,000.

Concrete Rotted by Coal.

In the summer of 1915 a concrete floor was laid in the storage bins of a Massachusetts coal yard. On most of this floor anthracite has been stored continuously since the date mentioned, and this part of the floor is in first-class condition today. But on a small section of the floor bituminous was stored; and in the spring of 1914, after being so used for nine months, this part of the concrete was found to be so decomposed as to be worthless. It was as soft as clay for a considerable depth. This phenomenon was attributed by the owners to chemical action set up by the soft coal or some of its constituents; and they have brought it to our attention in view of its very direct bearing upon the subject of concrete ships.—Scientific American.

TELEPHONE NUMBER 29.

June weddings are again in season.

Winchester again flies its flags—over the top of the town.

Memorial Day promises this year to take on an added significance. Following the Spanish War the annual exercises received an added interest all over the country, and while it is yet too early for our latest veterans to participate actively in the program of the day, there is hardly a family but what feels anew the significance and solemnity of its conception.

MR. REDEERN' REPLY IN SECRET SOCIETY CONTROVERSY

Yarmouth, Maine, May 27th, 1919
Editor of the Star:

I am always interested in the problem presented by the existence of societies in our public schools. Mr. Shepard Pond is entirely correct in his account of my endeavor to persuade the members of the societies of your schools to bring about their abolishment from within, rather than from without.

His conclusions, however, are incorrect.

I was impressed with the interest and care given the undergraduate members by the graduate members. However, my reply was, our public schools are the product of a pure Democracy. This care and interest in a select few is nothing else than special privilege, and therefore, has no place in a purely democratic institution. All my suggestions can be gathered into one, viz., that the society members should recognize that their organizations were misplaced and should, through loyalty to their school, discontinue to exist. Circumstances only show that these suggestions were "received" but not "adopted."

I am not surprised that Mr. Pond draws the conclusion he does, viz., that no further action meant I was satisfied" that societies were not harmful. My answer is: I was a minority member of your school committee on this subject.

Our next logical step should have been the one your present committee have just taken. Chairman Chapman and his committee are handling this problem in an excellent manner and the greatest good to the greatest number will be the reward for their efforts.

Yours very truly,
R. B. Redfern.

EDUCATIONAL SURVEY AND SECRET SOCIETIES

Editor of the Winchester Star,
Winchester, Mass.
My dear Mr. Wilson:

In connection with the investigation now going on to ascertain the causes of the present unsatisfactory school conditions in Winchester it has been widely rumored that the chief trouble in the high school is a lack of application to study.

In its attack on local societies the school committee lays the principle part of this lack of application to the "distraction" furnished by these organizations.

It should be remembered that as a whole society members are taking what is commonly understood to be the hardest course in high school; namely, that which is preparatory to college entrance.

As we understand it 70 per cent. is necessary for work to be of passing grade.

A compilation of society members' averages, as shown by the most recent issue of report cards, shows a grand average of 81½ per cent for all members now in high school.

In view of this more-than-satisfactory standing of society members, can the statement that societies form an appreciable distraction from the regular curriculum of school work be said to be correct? If so, the inter-society council whose membership includes many high school graduates, fails to see it, and believes that the townspeople as a whole will also fail to get the connection.

Furthermore, the council firmly believes that the above figures will completely shatter any fallacies of the responsibility of the societies for poor scholarship in the high school.

The Inter-Society Council,
by James H. Penaligan, Secretary.

LIBAU: WHERE GERMANS AND RUSSIANS CLASH

"Early in the war Libau paid the penalty for its advantageous location on the Baltic by being shelled and taken by the German warships, and now it is a fighting center of Letts, Germans and Bol-heviki, because of the immense hinterland served through its ice-free harbor," says a bulletin from the National Geographic Society, in connection with the recent fighting about Libau.

"With a population comparable with that of such thriving American cities as San Diego, Cal., or Dallas, Texas, and flourishing factories of its own to swell the volume of its exports, garnered through its railway connection radiating to Kharkov, Orel and Moscow, Libau was a Baltic port of prime importance before the war.

"The city is situated on a low-lying, sandy peninsula which separates the nearly tideless Baltic from the Lake of Libau. It is in a high latitude, fewer than 250 miles south of Petrograd.

"A somewhat angular architecture betokened Libau's divergence from the prevailing type of Russian cities. Other evidences, ranging from its non-Slavic population, including many Jews, to its street signs in Russian, German and Lettish, gave testimony that it was Russian by adoption.

"At first only a fishing village, Libau later became a possession of the Livonian Brothers of the Sword, whose members wore white mantles embroidered with red cross-es. In a very literal sense the Germans who made up the order came 'not to bring peace but a sword', and the only choice of the Baltic peoples was to accept death or the perverted Christianity of the conquerors. Gradually they learned that 'conversion' meant perpetual slavery. Whereupon many of the more spirited bathed again in the Dvina to undo their forced baptism and returned to their pagan worship.

"Early in the fifteenth century Libau was burned by the Lithuanians and 150 years later was given in pawn to a Prussian duke.

"Concerned in Libau's history were two of Europe's most kingly monarchs, Peter the Great, of Russia and Charles XII. of Sweden. The latter, intensively trained for statesmanship and precocious, as was Gustavus Adolphus, but destined to be a soldier, captured Libau in 1701 and assessed its citizens to help fortify it.

"Peter the Great, while traveling about Europe to acquire such useful, even if un-kingly, arts as ship building, engraving, physiology, and gunnery, stopped at Libau. The house where he stayed was pointed out to the pre-war visitors to Libau.

"In 1795 Libau became a Russian town. Seventeen years later Macdonald, who had won Marschall's baton at Wagram by piercing the Austrian center and saving the day for the French, occupied the city with the Prussian Allies of Napoleon in the disastrous Moscow campaign.

"A channel connecting the sea and lake was dug in 1703 and the modern town grew on both banks of this artificial waterway. On the left bank, before the world war began, were factories engaged in the manufacture of munitions, soap, furniture, farm implements, rope and matches. There also were numerous grain elevators and saw mills, for Libau had railway connection with Russia's most productive wheat regions and forest lands."

Elephants Valuable Workers.

Elephants in India are used as animals of burden, because of their enormous strength. They can lift many hundreds of pounds at a time, without realizing the great weight. Their mighty trunks, day by day, will lift timbers and logs that are tremendously heavy. These great elephants earn daily large quantities of fodder, doing lumbering of all kinds. Some pull down small trees, others pile them systematically, and still others carry them on their beautiful tusks to wherever they are to be chopped into boards or planks of various sizes. The greater percentage of this work is done in what is known as the Lenkwood Lumber yards, located in various parts of Ceylon.

FOUND HIS PLACE

Youngster Who Made Good as Food Producer.

Factory Hand Lost, but a Massachusetts Community Is Richer Because Boy Decided That He Would Take to Gardening.

Four years ago a gardener in a town in Massachusetts found what was, to him, a second crop in an adult's body. Born in Italy, but thoroughly inoculated with American ideas of the necessity of education, James was told by his father while in the eighth grade that no boy could be kept in school. His future path was to lead toward the nearest factory.

In leaving home at his graduation the father had left the family in charge of the local leader for the Liberty Loan, the department of agriculture, that he could earn as much by potato raising outside of school hours as he could in a factory by devoting his whole time. He finally obtained permission from his father to try it. So successful was he that his father was willing he should enter the ninth grade in the fall.

The boy's spring-time superintendent let him have land to use for a larger garden. To ten boys he had selected from the upper grammar grades he made the proposition to pay so much an hour and to give each a garden plot. The following excellent advice he offered them in addition: "If you are going to quit, quit now while it is cool and not when it is hot next August."

By fall he had decided that enough could be earned in the summers to enable him to finish high school and the engineering course later. Now a junior in high school, he has a good-sized hothouse under lease, where he raises cabbages, cauliflower and tomato plants; he owns an auto truck to handle his produce; has a bank account and pays his bills by check, and owns at least one government bond.

With all the school and business cares, he still has time to look after the school welfare of his younger brothers and sisters, visiting their teachers and watching their progress.

A factory hand, probably only a machine one, has been lost, but a good food producer has been gained through the vision given James by his boy's agricultural club leader.

Powerful Explosive.

The liquid oxygen explosive appears, from notices in the German technical press, to have been developed as a military substitute for nitric explosives, which had been all taken for military purposes. It was discovered a score of years ago that carbonaceous porous material is saturated with liquid oxygen and ignited by a fuse or electricity, the carbon and oxygen combine violently, and successful trials were made in blasting. This explosive, called "oxyliquit," is now doing duty quite extensively in breaking up coal and potash. In seeking a combustible, experiments were made with a mixture of gasoline and infusorial earth, pulverized cork, dry wood pulp and dried peat, but the best results were obtained with lampblack. This is placed in a suitable cartridge. In the preferred method the filled cartridge is immersed for half an hour in liquid oxygen in a special container, and then, with an ignition system quickly attached, is placed in the borehole, tamped and exploded. The effects are nearly equal to those from the same weight of dynamite. The serious disadvantage of the method is the necessity of liquefying the oxygen at the place where used; but a very great advantage is safety in transportation, and especially complete lack of danger from unexploded cartridges. The oxygen evaporates in about ten minutes, leaving simply inert lampblack.

Monster Devil Fish.

The announcement is made that a monster devil fish weighing 1,700 pounds, and measuring 12 feet from tip to tip, has been captured three miles out from Deer Island, near Biloxi, Miss., by local fishermen, who brought the fish to Biloxi and placed it on exhibition. The fish, a species which is seldom seen so close to shore, was caught in a trawl net by Pat Moran, and it took three power boats to haul the fish into port. It had a mouth measuring four feet across, and in order to pass a rope through it, fishermen had to use an immense oar.

When one vessel attempted to bring the fish ashore it played with the boat as with a toy, and two other power boats came to its assistance. Many people viewed the monster.

Blank Check in Bird's Nest.

A bird's nest that had fallen from a tree in a park near Baltimore, Md., after it had weathered many a hard wind, has just been placed in the North Carolina hall of history in Raleigh alongside war relics and other things because the bird used local building material. In the form of a blank check of a Raleigh bank, in making its home safe and snug. The distance between Raleigh and Baltimore is about 325 miles by rail, but it is much shorter as the crow flies. Ornithologists says the nest is either that of a robin or a thrush.

The Real Treasure.

"Pa, there's a burglar in the dining room."

"That's all right. So long as he takes nothing but the silverware I'm not going to bother him. Wake me again though if you hear him going to the basement. I'll die before I'll let him get away with our hard coal."

harmonic test such as playing the beginning notes, middle, or end of a composition.

Mr. Grant's Efforts Bring Success.

The contest's fine success is to be mainly attributed to the splendid work of Mr. Richard Grant, supervisor of music. All his energy and enthusiasm went into the work for over two months and after the contest he said he felt himself amply rewarded for all the time and thought that went into it. Mr. Grant also collected in a free-will offering over $55.00 towards purchasing a new victrola for the high school.

Remarks of Parents.

Some of the remarks made during and after the contest are very good indicators of the sentiment of the school authorities and of the parents of the town. The fact that one prominent resident found most worthy of comment was that the unexpectedly good results of the contest proved that the eighteen who came out so high, not only knew the fifteen selections played that evening, but also must have known all fifty of the listed selection. "Such a vast store of musical knowledge," he said "will make a solid foundation for the enjoyment of music in later years." Many parents encouraged their children to win prizes by offering to double any prize they would win, and there was many a consolation prize given at the conclusion of the evening for a conscientious effort.

Everywhere were heard such exclamations from the adults: "What is the name of that piece? I know it as well as my own name and I can't fasten its name to it." "I've heard that piece so many times and I even used to play it myself now I can't for the life of me place it."

Effect of the Contest

The contest accomplished what it set out to do—namely, to prove the value and the advisability of bringing music into the lives of the children, while their minds are in the formative period and ready to receive all impressions. The contest was based on the theory that the impressions conveyed to the children should therefore be as refining and beautiful as possible. If music is brought into their young lives, its effect is everlasting.

Benefits of Babel.

It was a native assumption of the internationalist—or, as he now prefers to be called, the mondialist—that the more people knew of one another the more they would like one another. Let us have a common language, they said, and love will reign throughout the world, the Independent (New York) says. Now this is dead against all experience. People can't begin to quarrel until they talk the same tongue. We do not know how well Esperanto is provided with "cuss words," but if it lacks them they will have to be invented, for they will be more needed than ever when all races get to talking together and about each other. A tourist can get along very happily in China or India unless he understands what the natives are saying about him.

GLOUCESTER HABOR MAY COME BACK

"As Uncle Sam's merchant marine expands, many an historic port where ships from every clime once rode at anchor is likely to be restored to its one time maritime glory," says a bulletin from the National Geographic Society.

Gloucester, long a fishing city of world importance which once had a thriving international trade, is described in a bulletin which is the first of a series dealing with those harbors which may recover the trade of bygone days.

"Almost as conspicuous as Cape Cod, the gaunt, half clenched fist to the south, is the knob protruding from the northeast corner of Massachusetts, known as Cape Ann, where Gloucester grew. Though the latter furnished a bleaker and more barren haven for adventurous explorers, a temporary settlement was made there only three years after the Mayflower arrived at Plymouth.

"Some evidence indicates that Thorwald's 'Cape of the Cross', which he thought to be a projection of Greenland, was the bleak Cape Ann. Gosnold, Pring, and Weymouth, to mention only a few, voyaged about the region, and Capt. John Smith explored the coast within two decades before the Pilgrims came. Smith landed on what now is Cape Ann and called it Tragabigzanda, in honor of a Turkish Pocahontas who did not risk her head, but who fed him while he was a prisoner.

"Whether the dozen or so sailors dropped off at Cape Ann in 1623 by an English fishing vessel all moved on later to Salem, or whether a few remained, is in dispute. Within fifteen years Gloucester's authenticated history begins. In 1642 a township was formed which, in 1675 raised, by draft, its quota for the Indian war. In 1688 six acres of land were allotted to every able bodied male and in that same year the sturdy pioneers evinced that spirit which gave birth a century later to a free nation by declining to pay certain taxes levied by the royal governor, Sir Edwin Andros.

"Though reports like that of Capt. John Smith of 'angling with a hook, and crossing the sweet air, from isle to isle', attracted many English fishing vessels, early settlers seem to have sought subsistence largely from the barren soil. Not until about 1700 was Gloucester identified particularly with fishing. From that time the story of Gloucester's fisher folk would fill books—and has, in fact—such books as those of James B. Connolly, Mrs. Ward's 'Old Maid's Paradise' and Kipling's 'Captains Courageous'.

"Farther and farther asea went the doughty fishermen, discovering the Cape Sable Grounds, of Nova Scotia; the Grand Bank, off Newfoundland; and St. George's Bank, 120 miles to the southeast of the headland. It was off the St. George's Bank that the 'big storm' of 1862 carried 13 schooners and 168 men to the bottom.

"Epic of numerous deep sea tragedies of this sort is Longfellow's 'Wreck of the Hesperus', of which Norman's Woe, off Gloucester, is the scene, though that particular story is only traditional. Thacher's Woe marks the wreck of a vessel from Ipswich bound for Marblehead, carrying a clergyman and his six children, a son in-law, and his four children. When the vessel was battered to pieces on a rock the only survivors were this son in-law, Anthony Thacher, and his wife.

"The fishing banks lie between the Atlantic shores and the Gulf Stream. The theory of their formation is that ice masses float southward until they encounter the stream's warm current. As they melt the earth and sand they carry is deposited to form the banks and hollows where the fish are spawn.

"Schooners are said to have originated in Gloucester and to have been so named by a Gloucester ship-wright who, when he launched a vessel, heard a spectator exclaim, 'Oh, how she scoons.' That expression was used to describe the bounding of a pebble thrown sidewise into the water.

"The cooperative arrangements of the fishermen, making each voyage a partnership enterprise, has interested students of economics. Except for such authority as the commander needs to direct the vessel the crews are as democratic as the town meetings. Hence the fishing industry of Gloucester is almost unique for its record of nearly three centuries without labor troubles.

"Quaint town and family records of Gloucester afford priceless records of early Colonial customs. Abstemious for their time, some said squeamish, it merely proves that times change to note that at an all day session of the Gloucester selectmen in 1740 the municipal expense account was more than three English pounds for 'Licker at the house of Mr. James Stevens'. Intoxicants were served freely at funerals, and gloves were presented to the bearers.

"Many facts about Gloucester, as of other early New England communities, are derived from such naive verses as those left by Thomas Fuller, an early settler, who wrote:

"'In thirty-eight, I set my foot
I'pon New England's shore:
My thoughts were then to stay one year,
And here to stay no more.
But, by the preaching of God's word
By famous Shepard he,
In what a woful state I was
I then began to see."

"Tax records, too, have their historic sidelights, especially biographical, such as the lists of exemptions with items like these:

"'Capt. Haskell hath been sick almost this half-year and still remains.

"'Richard Dike being distempered in ye head.

"'Mr. Henry Walker, very aged; not able to do nothing.

"'Thomas Riggs, Senior, is decrepit in his lims.'

"In 1770 a book by the Rev. James Relly, found among the effects of an English sailor, fell in the hands of Gloucester citizens. They agreed with the views therein expressed, and in order that they might be preached regularly the first Universalist church in the new world was founded.

BROUGHT TOGETHER BY WAR

Pleasing Incident on the Western Front in Which Sectarianism Played Small Part.

An army chaplain of the Episcopal persuasion tells of some experiences he had on the western front when his regiment was quartered in a little town. The Huns had destroyed everything there, not even leaving a building to hold services in. A part of his story is as follows:

"Finally I went to see the Roman Catholic chaplain, a fine, broad, big-hearted Irishman from Boston. 'Why not use the church?' he said at once. 'But I thought it was destroyed, and, anyway, I didn't suppose you'd let me.' I answered. Well, they had put a roof on in place of the original one, and the altar hadn't been hurt, so at eight o'clock in the morning he said mass in the church, and at 8:45 I had my Protestant communion service, and at 9:30 there was another mass."

In this little narrative we can see the beautiful logic of the war. The sacrifice on the awful battle line is not far different from that of Calvary, for in each case the blood is shed for all. We are not going to be so hidebound in our religious views and practices when the battles for freedom and civilization have been won. There will doubtless be Catholics, Methodists and Jews after the war is over, but they will love one another.—Ohio State Journal.

TRIBUTE TO FRENCH WOMAN

American Traveler Tells of Her Good Qualities and the Great Debt the Nation Owes Her.

The French woman is brought up to neglect none of the arts that attract men. Even in munition plants the woman worker knows where the mirror hangs, often has her powder puff at hand, and gives unconsciously the deft touch to the hair, writes Lyman Powell in the Designer. If it has sometimes seemed to us that the French wife overlooks too easily the unconsciousness of a husband, it is because we have failed to understand that French women are expected to keep themselves so attractive to the mate after marriage as well as before that he will not want to wander over fields.

If it be asked what woman is sufficient all through life for the double duty of being a good wife and a good mother, I name you France, and add that French women are in this regard the marvel of their sex and the strongest bulwarks of monogamy.

And all talk about the lower birth rate in France is beside the mark. The child is held so precious in the French mind that he usually remains a dream child till the right conditions are in sight for his upbringing. If allowance be made for that fringe of the unproductive found in every land, it is doubtful whether the birth rate among the high-minded and responsible is lower over there than over here.

The French woman cannot be summed up in a phrase. Contrary to the general opinion, she is simple, practical, sensible, tenacious, deliberate, cautious, farsighted and affectionate. She is sensitive but not sentimental. She is talkative but not superficial. She is ebullient but enduring. She is a compound of heart and head, which explains Joffre, Petain, Foch and the Poilu, who have fought these four years past our battle as well as their own and have been the surprise of every friend as well as the exasperation of the foe.

If Waterloo was won on the playing fields of Eton, Rugby, Harrow, certainly the Marne, Verdun, the Somme were won in the French house where the French woman lives and manages, smiles and plans, suffers and "carries on."

Fish Trapped in Tomato Can.

Early in November Allen Wiffin of Blairsville, N. Y., filled a tomato can nearly full of worms and went to the lake to fish for pike. He anchored his rowboat near Lone Bar and proceeded to fish.

Late in the afternoon Wiffin placed his catch in a bag, picked up the can, which has half-full of angleworms, and threw it into the water. He says that when the can struck the water a large fish jumped out, hit the can with its tail, and the can filled with water and sank.

A few days later Wiffin again went to the lake to fish. He anchored his boat 50 rods from shore and had fished for nearly an hour when he discovered a tin can floating on the water. The peculiar motion of the can attracted his attention, he says, and he rowed the boat to it, and with a landing net scooped the can into the boat. Great was his surprise, he says, when he raised the can from the water to see a large fish with its head in the can.

DOMESTIC SERVICE COURSES PLANNED

Trained Home-Maker Is to Have an Eight Hour Day and Standard Minimum Wage.

Courses for training home assistants, who will go into the home by the day, hour or week and work on a schedule of hours and fixed wages, have been inaugurated by the Young Women's Christian Association as a means for meeting the problem of domestic service.

The object of this course, now being tried out in New York City, is to place domestic service on the same dignified basis as clerical work, trained nursing or other professions open to women.

The home assistant will work eight hours a day for a salary of $15 a week. She will not live in the home of her employer or take her meals there. She will have an hour for luncheon, when she can go to a restaurant or eat a lunch which she has brought with her just as she would were she employed in a factory. The employer will not address the home worker by her first name. She will be Miss Smith or Mrs. Brown, as the case may be.

Applicants for the course are carefully selected, and registrants are appearing in large numbers. With the same independence as to recreation hours, places of eating and living as the factory girl, house-work has a greater appeal, as being a less monotonous and more interesting work to the average woman.

The course is a thorough one in plain cooking, waiting on table and door, chamber work, plain sewing, care of children, making of menus and the washing and ironing of light things. Heavy work is to be done by outside workers. On graduation the student receives a certificate which proves her qualification as a dependable home worker capable of attending to all ordinary duties in a home.

The Young Women's Christian Association has been interested in the problem of domestic service both from the standpoint of the employee and from that of the employer for some years. The first commission on Household Employment made its report at the fifth national convention of the Young Women's Christian Association held in Los Angeles, Cal., in May, 1915.

The difficulties of attracting capable women to this field of work were laid to the long hours, lack of independence in arranging recreation hours, lack of opportunities for growth and progress and lack of social standing.

Girls have acquired a distaste for the conditions which govern household work since the freedom they have experienced in working in munition factories. By standardizing domestic service it is believed by the Young Women's Christian Association that a higher type of worker may be attracted to the necessary work in homes.

The American Y. W. C. A. has opened a Hostess House in Germany, which will serve as a residence house and social center for American women war workers who have advanced to do canteen Red Cross and Signal Corps work with the Army of Occupation.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS.

The Young Ladies' Sodality held a whist party in St. Mary's Hall on Tuesday evening for the benefit of the coming festival.

Mr. and Mrs. William R. Marshall and Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Lane left yesterday by auto for Keezar Lake, Maine, where they will remain until Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Mills, of Garden City, New York, announce the engagement of their daughter, Hazel, to Mr. Winthrop M. Foster of Winchester.

Box 37 was rung in this morning at 5.15 for a fire in the house at 35 Irving street occupied by Ersamo Piccolo. The fire was caused by leaving an electric iron on the dining room table through the night. The table top was burned, but there was no other damage, although the house was filled with smoke.

Knight Errantry.

Knight errantry is as much a part of a wholesome human being as falling in love or self-assertion, and therein lies one's hope for mankind. Nearly everyone, I believe—I've detected the tendency in odd cheats even and disreputable people of all sorts—is ready to put in a little time and effort in dragon-slaying now and then, and if anyone wants a creditable dragon to write against, talk against, study against, subscribe against, work against, I am convinced they can find no better one—than race prejudice. I am convinced myself that there is no more evil thing in the present world than race prejudice; none at all. I write deliberately—it is the worst single thing in life now.—H. G. Wells.

TIME TO APPLY IMPORTANT APPLE SPRAY

The largest share of the apple growers have found from experience that spraying as soon as petals fall from the blossoms is one of the most profitable orchard practices.

There are many tree- in Middlesex County which are to be found in backyards and on farms still remaining unsprayed. Let's see to it that this year, our apples are protected from codling moth, red bug, scab, gypsy moth, brown tail moth and countless other insects and diseases.

The spray is composed of 6 pounds of arsenate lead paste or 3 pounds of arsenate lead powder, 4 or 5 quarts of concentrated lime sulphur and three quarters of a pint of 40 per cent nicotine sulphate (Black Leaf 40), all to 50 gallons of water. It is well to add 2 to 3 gallons of lime water in the solution, thus doing away with russeting the fruit and burning the foliage.

The sooner this mixture is applied to the trees after the petals fall the better. It should be applied in the form of a fine mist. All parts of the foliage and blossoms especially the calyx end of the blossoms should be reached.

Control Brown Rot on Peaches, Sweet Cherries and Japanese Plums

Year after year we lose a big percentage of our sweet cherries, Japanese plums and peaches from rotting. This is due to brown rot. Indications point to a good peach crop this year and every effort should be made to protect the crop from possible ravages from disease.

Both brown rot and scab on the stone fruit are largely dependent upon seasonable conditions. One or both of these diseases may be so serious this year as to nearly ruin the crop that is not sprayed; or they may not make their appearance at all, or only to a limited extent. One never can tell at the beginning of a season, therefore the only safe thing to do is to spray and thus prevent possible trouble.

Self-boiled lime sulphur will control these diseases, on peaches, plums and cherries. It is made from 8 pounds of caustic lime, 8 pounds flour sulphur, 50 gallons water. A smaller amount or a larger amount can be made but the same formula should be used. Materials should be applied first, just as the husks are falling from the small blossoms which will be very shortly. It is well to add 3 pounds of arsenate lead paste to this same mixture in order to kill plum curculio and other leaf cutting insects.

If one has the time, it will be well to apply this self-boiled lime sulphur, but without the asenate, three weeks later and a third application three weeks after the second one. These three applications if properly applied and the material made properly will almost entirely do away with the trouble.

The mixture can best be prepared by placing the lime in a barrel and adding enough water to start a vigorous slaking. The sulphur should previously have been moistened with water, breaking up all lumps and stirring it so as to form a paste. The moistened sulphur is added as soon as the lime starts slaking. The mixture should be constantly agitated, enough water should be added to keep a thin paste and keep the lime constantly slaking. The mixture should be constantly agitated, enough water should be added to keep a thin paste and keep the lime constantly slaking.

When all active slaking of the lime has ceased, add cold water enough to bring it up to the formula. Obtain best lime possible, if it does not slake readily use warm water. If a cherry colored solution appears when slaking is under way add water to stop slaking as any cherry colored solution will injure foliage.

It is best to apply the mixture as soon as possible after it has been prepared. It should be thoroughly stirred and well strained at the time it is trans-ferred from the barrel to the spraying tank.

Let's see to it that all of us whether we have one tree or 100 trees spray this year to guard against trouble from brown rot and scab.

Adam and Eve "Tarheels?"

Everybody knows that many things and much trouble have originated in North Carolina, but few thought Adam and Eve natives of that state. Yet it is stated on good authority that Adam and Eve not only lived but died there. Fielding Fry avers that on a recent trip to Wadesboro he read on a tombstone in a cemetery in that town inscriptions to that effect. He insists that he made no mistake; that the tombstone is in a fine state of preservation, and that recorded thereon is the interesting fact that beneath it lie the mortal remains of the distinguished pair. A CLEVER GYMNAST

Some Exploits of the Lebra Spider—A Noted Hunter

Most of us are acquainted with the tiny red spider that careers about the herbage with such amazing ability. He is a hanter par excellence, and quite puts to the blush his long-legged cousin that wambles over the dry moorland floor, his legs always as it were, in his way, and ever aimlessly seeking for the land of nowhere. Doubtless his eyes being fixed in the middle of his back accounts for his inepitude. He is also more noticeable for the fact that he himself is a veritable quarry, the hunter in this instance being secure in his immobility. The brillian scarlet dots on him are not part of his own autogeny; they are six-legged parasites which even his immense legs are unable to brush of. One virtue accredited to him deserves mention, for more than one local weather-prophet swears by the "ettercap." And they are rarely far out either.

My favorite of the spider tribe, however, is one that has given me much cogitation. He seems quite too clever, for he apparently eludes the force of gravitation. This is the zebra spider, a famous jumper. His gymnastic feats are not limited to solid earth, but take place on walls and ceilings, or, indeed, anywhere upside down or vertical. Having caught one the other day, I took the opportunity to find out if his wonderful powers were understandable to us, so I put him under a bell glass, and gave him a fairly long fast. In the interval I had good look at him. He is "spotted like a pard," the greyish marking resolving themselves under a lens to aggregations of oblong scales on his black body.

Over all he has a "birsy" hairness that is quite fearsome; and the manner in which he clashes his pedipalps, or hands, together must prove very annoying to his enemies. Later he finds those appendages of great use, for after a meal he continually touches up his whiskers with them. Indeed, they are so flexible and gristly and so well furnished with brushes that it might well be supposed that that is their primary purpose, for they are of no military use whatever, fearsome they may look. The time appearing propitious for my experiment of spider versus gravitation, I placed a fly on the ceiling of the bell-jar. Very soon he saw her; approaching nearer and nearer with movements that vividly recalled the stalking of a bird by a cat. Both being upside down I was quite sure he would never manage it.

However, I was so intent on watching the attitude of the hunter and hunted that I omitted to observe a very important happening, indeed, the very thing that would explain what I wanted to know. In due time, doubtless when his fixed focus eyes—he has four by-the-by—synochronised with his leaping powers, he made his terrible leap. Instantly both were struggling in the air, suspended by a thread. This then, was the secret. He was—and this was what I did not notice—anchoring himself safely with a lifeline before the attack. This holding firm, all the rest of the struggle took place in mid-air. Then, with his fangs in the fly's neck, he regained the firm foothold.

It was only then that I saw how, every few paces, the spinnerets attached the invisible thread to the glass so that no risks might be run. I could see the spinnerets perform the action; the thread I could not see, even under a powerful lens, so fine was it, yet so efficient, that it bore the weight of the struggling combatants immediately it was spun. On a horizontal surface this anchoring line would only be a hindrance, so that he might exercise a certain judgment in his procedure, meaning, as it were, all the risks involved in the audacious leap into the air. He rarely misses once he gets into striking distance. This, however, is always just his difficulty.—The Scotsman.

SAN SALVADOR SHAKEN BY EARTHQUAKE

San Salvador, scene of another earthquake, is described in a bulletin from the National Geographic Society as follows:

"San Salvador, capital of the smallest and most populous of Central American republics, is no stranger to the twin terrors of earthquake and volcano.

"Within ten seconds an earthquake all but destroyed the city in 1854, another laid it low in 1873, and that of 1917, when millions of dollars worth of property was destroyed, is still remembered.

"In spite of these fateful blows from nature, and devastating waves of man-made revolutions, San Salvador today is reckoned among the important cities of the mid-continent. It has a population of 60 000; its manufactured products include soap, cigars, candles, cotton cloth and spirits; and its compulsory education laws, university, theatres and scientific institutions attest its regard for culture.

"Izalco, perhaps the most famous volcano of the San Salvador republic, belched forth from a fine old hacienda in 1770, and ever since has tirelessly thrown aloft its mighty volume of ashes and gases. With the regularity of a mammoth natural time piece it is said not to have missed a rumbling, luminous explosion within any half hour for a century and a half; hence its nickname, the 'Light-house of Salvador.'

"Of San Miguel, occasionally active, one writer said, after seeing the eruption of 1848: 'It is difficult to conceive a grander natural object than this volcano. Its base is shrouded in dense green, blending with the lighter hues of the grasses which succeed the forest. Above these the various colors melt imperceptibly into each other. First comes the rich umber of the scoriae, and then the silver tint of the newly-fallen ashes at the summit; and still above all, floating in heavy opalescent volumes, or rising like a plume to heaven, is the smoke, which rolls on eternally from its incandescent depths.'

"There is a lake in the republic, Ilopango, supposed to lie in the bed of an old volcanic crater. Out of this lake a volcanic island across to a height of 150 odd feet thirty years ago.

"Though in no single instance, perhaps, was a great city buried, the constant exhalations of Salvador volcanoes and unfolding processes of its earthquakes submerged remains of a pre-Columbian civilization. These traces just now are beginning to reveal to patient students fascinating facts about this ancient New World.

"Curious pyramids and ramparts betoken a civilization, known as Mayan, even before the region was settled by the Pipiles, an early Mexican speaking people. From such slender threads as the fact that steps of these pre-historic temples are higher than they are wide, must science piece out the relations of the various ancient states and cities that flourished on this continent during the halycon days of Egypt, Phoenicia and China, on the other side of the globe.

"San Salvador city was founded by George Alvarado, whose brother Pedro, was second in command of Cortez' conquering expedition in Mexico. Alvardo named the city to commemorate a victory over the Indians on the eve of the festival of San Salvador.

"When central American states organized the Republic of the United States of Central America in 1823 San Salvador was made the capital city, and a Federal District was established about it after the manner of the District of Columbia. The Plaza Morazan, in the modern San Salvador, is a memorial to the last president of the confederation who subsequently was shot in an effort to restore the union.

"San Salvador became the capital of the republic of that name. It is about 30 miles inland from the Pacific coast. It has rail connections with Santa Ana, to the northwest, and with two coastal cities of La Libertad and Acajutea, to the south.

First Submarine Boat.

The first submarine boat of which history makes any record was built by a Dutchman named Van Drebel, in 1640. The boat was built in England, with money said to have been advanced by King James I. According to reports, the vessel had a unique ballasting system. There was a number of goatskin bags placed under the deck, between two large planks. These bags, when filled with water, caused the vessel to sink. To cause it to rise again, the bags were pressed together again with a windlass arrangement, forcing the water out, and thus giving the boat reserve buoyancy.—The Engineer.

VOL XXXVIII. NO 50 WINCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, JUNE 6 1919 PRICE FIVE CENTS

SEVEN G. A. R. MEN MARCHED

A. D. Weld Post Honored Deceased Members

Seven veterans of the 9 surviving members of A. D. Weld Post 148, G. A. R., headed by Commander Samuel H. Brookings, marched to Wildwood Cemetery Friday afternoon, decorated the graves of 125 of their comrades and held memorial exercises at the Soldiers' Monument in the cemetery.

The procession was formed on Mt. Vernon street, at G. A. R. hall, and was headed by a platoon of eight policemen in charge of Sergt. John Harrold. The Machine Gun Company of the 12th Regiment, State Guard, commanded by Capt. Maurice C. Tompkins, escorted the Grand Army Veterans, who were preceded by the Woburn band. Those in line with Commander Brookings of A. D. Weld Post, G. A. R., were Adjt. Henry Smalley, Senior vice-commander James Dunnell, Officer of the Guard Henry Richburg, Henry Wind and Peter Walling.

The members of John T. Wilson Camp, S. of V., Maynard Johnson commander, marched with the veterans and were accompanied by Past Commanders Frank Mason and W. W. Stone of Gen. S. C. Lawrence Camp 54, S. of V., from Medford. The Selectmen, headed by Chairman Arthur A. Kidder, were also in the line. The local Boy Scouts, in charge of Commissioner Robert F. Guild and Scout Executive W. E. Smith, with their drum and bugle corps, completed the escort to the veterans of '61.

The exercises at the Soldiers' Monument at Wildwood Cemetery were in charge of Commander Brookings, Rev. S. Winchester Adriance offered the prayer and delivered the address. "Lincoln's Gettysburg Address" was recited and "The Star Spangled Banner" and "America" were sung by the assemblage, accompanied by the band.

The parade returned via Wildwood, Fletcher and Church streets to the Town Hall, where a supper cooked by the members of the John T. Wilson Auxiliary of the Sons of Veterans was served to the paraders, Miss Edna M. Johnson, president of the auxiliary and about 25 women asisted in serving the supper.

The graves of 10 Grand Army veterans at St. Joseph's Cemetery in Montvale were also decorated with flowers by the A. D. Weld Post, assisted by the Sons of Veterans. The graves of eight of the 17 Winchester World's War service men who died and were buried in this country, were also decorated by the Grand Army veterans at Wildwood Cemetery. None of the World's War veterans paraded or took part in the exercises in uniform.

AN APPEAL TO PARENTS

The help of parents is needed to make the work of the committee of Fifteen on Public Schools of value to the town Of the 949 Questionnaires to Parents sent out, only 270 have been answered and returned. That valuable conclusions may be drawn from these answers, a much larger number is needed. Will those parents who have not responded, kindly give the matter their immediate attention and mail their replies at once? It is believed that those who are really desirous of bettering our school conditions will help in this matter.

Committee of Fifteen on Public Schools.

WINCHESTER'S CELEBRATION

Welcome to Returned Soldiers and Sailors Will be Hearty

Through suggestions made by a number of the returned men in service it is very possible that the program for the celebration to be given the men by the town may be slightly changed. Some of the men desired that the dinner and the dance be held on the same night instead of the dance on July 3, and the dinner on the evening of the 4th. If these two features are combined and held on the same evening, it is very probable that they will be held on the evening of July 3, leaving the sports, ball games, parade and fireworks to be held on the 4th.

The dinner is to be given by the town and the dance will be given by The Fortnightly in cooperation with the town committee, a committee of Fortnightly ladies having it in charge.

Just at present the perplexing problem is to ascertain the number of men who will attend these functions. Both are to be wholly informal and will be carried out with the idea of giving the boys the best time the Town can provide. A group of men are now endeavoring to reach as many as possible with the idea of ascertaining just how many may be expected to attend, and from these figures make the estimate for the catering.

Indications are that the boys are entering heartily into the spirit of the affair and will all turn out to enjoy themselves and show their fellow citizens that they will cooperate. An invitation is to be sent to every man to attend the festivities, and it will be necessary to issue tickets to the dinner and to the dance. As now planned the tickets will be given out at the town hall during the week of June 21—28. The men in service only will be admitted to the dinner and the men and their partners will be admitted to the dance.

The display of fireworks for the evening of the 4th, has been ordered and is now being made up. This will eclipse any similar exhibition ever given by the Town. The arrangements for the baseball games are not yet complete, but a good game in the afternoon is assured, while the match between the soldiers and sailors will undoubtedly furnish great sport. The music has been secured, with the possible addition of another band, and is reported to be of a quality which will please everyone.

A meeting of the men in service has been called for next Tuesday night at the small town hall to take steps to form an American Legion branch here. At this meeting an effort will be made to find out how many men may be expected to attend the dinner and dance.

BASEBALL TOMORROW

Winchester will play the Watertown team here tomorrow. This team from the lineup sent us appears to be as good a team as Newton Upper Falls, and several of the Watertown players who have been playing with Newton will appear with their own team. The High School was supposed to play here June 7 and 14th, but satisfactory arrangements have been made and the Town team will have the field from now until October 1st. Game at 3.15. Mr. Howard Woodlock will umpire, and he is a first class man.

MEMORIAL EXERCISES AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

On Thursday the High School held its annual Memorial Day services. The program opened with the singing of "the Battle Hymn of the Republic," after which Miss Nina Creed of the Sophomore class read the Gettysburg Address. The two important speakers of the day were Senior Vice-Commander Thurston of the A. D. Weld Post, G. A. R., who gave a very interesting story of some of his experiences in the Civil War. The other was Priv. Alfred McKennon of the A. E. F., who told of a soldiers' life in France and gave a very stirring patriotic speech.

DENNIS F. FOLEY DEAD

Popular Post Office Employee Passed Away Sunday

A host of friends will learn with regret of the death of Mr. Dennis F. Foley, for over 20 years connected with the Winchester post office, who passed away at his home on Stone avenue Sunday after a long illness. For the past two years he had been assistant Postmaster, following 15 years' service as clerk. Previous to that he served the local department as a carrier.

Mr. Foley was 48 years of age. For a considerable time he had been in failing health, and since the first of the year had been obliged to give up his duties at the Post Office for weeks at a time. Mr. Foley was born in Stoughton, April 11, 1871, and came to Winchester when a boy. He was a member of the Finance Committee of the town in 1917. He was a past Grand Knight of Winchester Council K. of C., a member of Div. 58, A. O. H., of the Winchester Real Estate Club and was prominently identified in three years gone by with the local branch of the American Order of Foresters.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Foley of Hill street, five sisters, Misses Margaret, Mary, Katherine and Rhoda Foley and Mrs. J. Frank Davis; also by four brothers, Joseph Foley, an attorney, who resides in Cambridge, William H. Foley of Wakefield, Fred C. Foley of Beverly and Dr. George A. Foley of this town, who saw seven months' overseas service, with a Medical Corps of the 76th Division, A. E. F., and who is now stationed at the Base Hospital at Norfolk.

Solemn high mass was celebrated at St. Mary's on Tuesday morning, by Rev. Father Merritt, celebrant, Father Rogers, deacon, Father Corbett, subdeacon, and Father Ring, a cousin of the deceased was in the altar. The following gentlemen were the pall bearers: Postmaster John O'Connor, Dr. Sheehy, James H. O'Connor, Jeremiah Maloney, Thomas Barrett, Francis Rogers. A large number of friends followed the remains to Calvary Cemetery, where Rev. Father Merritt read the committal service.

FURTHER INFORMATION ON THE SECRET SOCIETIES

Editor of the Winchester Star,
Winchester, Mass.
My dear Mr. Wilson:

There have already appeared in the Star several articles dealing with the school committee's attempt to force several of the so-called secret societies of the town to discontinue active operations by forbidding members of the Winchester High School who elect to join them, from participation in all forms of school activities, except the right to study and graduate. This action on the part of the committee has brought the societies rather into the public eye, and, because of certain accusations, in no very favorable light. Rumors have begun to circulate of what the societies are, of what they are doing, of the harm they have done, are doing and will do; in short, all manner of destructive criticism has been stirred up. Much of this criticism lacks the foundation of fact. Society members are at a loss to know where certain information was ever obtained, and therefore asked for a public hearing with the school committee to find out just what grounds were existant for charges that they consider absolutely false. If the societies have been so secret in their working as to be "a menace" to the town and school, how in the world do people get so well acquainted with things that, if they actually did happen, would be hushed up most effectually? Society members believe that, because of the way their organizations have operated, most of the townspeople cannot be very well informed concerning them. Hence it has been decided by the Inter-Society Council to publish an article telling just how the societies came into existence, and something of the work they have done. The council feels that when the townspeople really know what the societies have stood for they will be a little more careful about crediting idle rumors which no one seems to be particularly anxious to back up with his or her name.

The following treats with the societies in order of their foundation. The statements are by no means a complete historic resume. They are intended only to show that the organizations so unfairly condemned were not founded secretly by groups of irresponsible children for frivolous and harmful purposes, but with the approval and assistance of older and wiser people who have never failed to show an interest in their welfare and development.

AUTO THIEF CAUGHT BY WINCHESTER OFFICER

The arrest of James E. Carney, 18, residing on Lawrence street, Charlestown, on the charge of breaking and entering the garage of Albert E. Fletcher of 12 Essex street, Charlestown, and stealing the latter's touring car Friday evening, was effected by the Charlestown Police of Station 15 through the alertness of Patrolman Edward F. Shea of this town, who took young Carney into custody Friday night on a charge of operating an auto without a license.

Carney after being fined $10 in the Woburn District Court was turned over by the Winchester police to the Charlestown officers. He was subsequently arraigned in the Charlestown Court and held in $5000 bonds on the charge of breaking and entering and the larceny of the Fletcher auto.

Officer Shea says he found Carney with the auto at the Winchester garage near Converse place Friday night. Carney could not turn on the lights and was securing the assistance of the garage man to unlock the mechanism by which to turn them on. He was unable to show any operator's license and did not tell much about the auto.

Two men in another auto, which had apparently stalled on the Waterfield bridge over the Aberjona River, attracted the attention of patrolman Shea.

There is a suspicion in the minds of the local police that the two men in the auto which stopped or was apparently stalled on the Waterfield the Waterfield Bridge were implicated in the attempt of Carney "to get away" with the Fletcher auto. Steps are being taken to ascertain their identity in the hope that it may result in the rounding up of a squad of auto thieves, who have been operating north of Boston recently.

FORM AMERICAN LEGION

Meeting of Men in Service to be Held Tuesday Night

At the meeting of the sub-committee on Publicity of the committee appointed by the Town to arrange for the welcome to returned soldiers and sailors in service, held Tuesday evening, the first steps were taken to form an American Legion in this town.

Under the auspices of the committee a meeting of all men in service of this town has been called for next Tuesday evening to be held in the small town hall at 8 o'clock. It is anticipated that there will be a large attendance and the gathering will be the first movement in the matter.

Major Edward Connelly of Wakefield has been invited to attend the meeting and speak upon the organization, and one other speaker, to be announced later, will also be present and give information. These men have been instrumental in forming Legion branches in other places.

On Tuesday evening there was an attendance of a dozen or more men who have been in service, who are lending their assistance to the committee in carrying out its plans for the coming celebration. The committee is endeavoring to ascertain the number of men who will attend the dinner and the dance in order to make adequate provision.

Theodore Lawson was appointed temporary chairman in the movement to form the Legion branch, and notices are being sent to all Winchester men whose names have been secured as having been in the service. The idea of forming the Legion, or "Dugout" as it is otherwise known, is to gather the interested men together, give them information relative to organization, and let them handle the matter as is being done all over the country.

AUTOISTS MUTILATE SHRUBS

Tree Warden Samuel S. Symmes desires to make an appeal through the STAR to all autoists passing through this town to refrain from mutilating the shrubs which have been planted along the streets. The shrubs along Highland avenue have especially suffered from auto parties breaking off the tops of young evergreens and the branches of flowering shrubs.

On Highland avenue during the past week a pink hawthorne bush which had attracted much attention was completly stripped of its branches, while young pines in large quantities have had their tops broken off. At the residence of Mr. S. S. Langley on Cambridge street the top of a blue spruce, as well as the tops of young pines, have met a like multilation. Other private estates bordering on the roads have been entered in a like manner and ornamental shrubs broken down and ruined.

Tree Warden Symmes has been setting out many pines, evergreens and flowering shrubs along the roads in an endeavor to beautify the town. If they are allowed to grow and flower unmolested they furnish pleasure and enjoyment for everyone, and they should not be ruined wantonly by a few selfish persons.

Reports are uniform in stating that the depredations are committed by autoists.

A PATRIOTIC FLAG DAY SALE

The committee having in charge the carrying out of the program decided on for welcoming our returning soldiers and sailors believes it is a very fitting thing to do to present each man with a medal or decoration of honor which will commemorate his service in the great war. To provide funds for the securing of these badges of honor, the committee has arranged for the sale on Flag Day, June 14, of buttons suitably inscribed. Each button will be sold for a minimum price of ten cents, and it is the expectation and hope of the committee that each man, woman and child in Winchester will buy at least one button, knowing that the proceeds are to be devoted to the purchase of badges for our heroes whom we all delight to honor.

The sale of the buttons will be managed and conducted by a corps of young Winchester girls who have volunteered to assist the committee in this work.

STRIKE ON ELECTRIC LINE

Winchester was without electric cars on the Stoneham—Arlington line Sunday. The absence of the cars was due to a sudden strike of the conductors on the lines entering Reading owing to their disinclination to use the so-called "gun", otherwise identified as the hand machine used to collect fares. The men also objected to the zone system in which the line is divided. They claim that under the existing conditions they are obliged to perform much unnecessary work and that it is not possible for them to collect all of the fares.

The cars began running again Sunday night after the question at issue was agreed by the union and management to be left to a committee of arbitration. Cars have been running regularly since, although the small tickets previously given out when passengers ride through more than one zone system have been discontinued.

Many people were seriously inconvenienced by the strike. Sunday was one of the best days thus far this spring, and as no warning had been given the public of the impending strike, people waited in vain during the day for the cars.

THE WINCHESTER STAR DEMONSTRATION HOME GARDEN

Conducted by

MRS. ALONZO F. WOODSIDE, 30 Lebanon Street

Co-operating with the

Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture and Home Economics

The home gardener who has been onto his job has already been out in his garden carefully scrutinizing his cabbages, peas and other vegetables for traces of plant lice. It is safe to says that these aphids can be found in any garden at this time, so it is well to be on the watch for these pests and have some spray material in preparation.

Plant lice vary in size and color but may be recognized easily on account of their soft bodies with long legs and feelers. They are a very destructive pest as they breed in large numbers. It does not take long for a number of plant lice to suck the juices from a plant and kill it.

Because they are a sucking insect they cannot be controlled by arsenical poisons or paris green. The aphid thrusts its sharp bill through the leaf of the plant and sucks the juices from within. They can be controlled by a contact spray, the purpose of which is to burn the tender body of the aphids.

The two popular contact sprays for plant lice are the 40 per cent. nicotine sulphate spray known on the market as "Black Leaf 40" and kerosene emulsion. The home gardener usually has better results with the former spray as the kerosene emulsion often causes much damage to the plant itself unless it is properly prepared.

Nicotine sulphate should be used at the rate of 1½ teaspoonfuls "Black Leaf 40" and one cubic inch of soap per gallon of water. The soap helps as a spreader and sticker for the mixture and should always be added when the "Black Leaf 40" is used alone. The above proportion is stronger than what is recommended on the package but we find that the manufacturers' proportion is not strong enough in a great many cases.

The other spray for plant lice—kerosene emulsion—can either be purchased or manufactured at home. To make this spray dissolve one cubic inch of soap in a cup of water and boil on the stove a few minutes until the soap is thoroughly dissolved. When this has been accomplished remove the solution from the stove and add to it two cupfuls of kerosene. Stir very thoroughly until the solution becomes completely emulsified. The solution must be violently agitated until a creamy mixture has been obtained. This solution must be diluted at the rate of one part to 15 parts of water before the plants are sprayed with it.

By the time this article appears the plant lice will already have begun their miserable work and the gardener who begins to spray his plants before they get so lousy that he is not able to see them is the one who will harvest something from his garden. If you don't get the bugs, the bugs will get you.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE

If life as an essence came from God —for such is the theory—so did the world as the theatre in which life's part must be played. And that world, whether considered from the physical or moral point of view, seems to be constructed on the theory that thwarting influences are, if not desirable, at least unavoidable. Brave men have, on the whole, been thankful that it is so. Such was the feeling of Browning:

—And so I live, you see,
Go through the world, try, prove, reject,
Prefer, still struggling to effect
My warfare; happy that I can
Be crossed and thwarted as a man,
Not left in God's contempt apart,
With ghastly smooth life, dead at heart,
Fame in earth's paddock as her prize.
Thank God, she still each method tries
To catch me, who may yet escape,
She knows—the fiend in angel's shape!

Whatever a Winchesterites' life may have been in his childhood, it is, when he comes to lay it down precisely what he has made of it, working under conditions from which he could not escape. If he wins in the great struggle, perhaps it may be said of him, too, though in a somewhat different sense, "of such is the Kingdom of Heaven." Conditions that seem to be unfavorable may be used in such a way as to make them favorable in the highest degree. This thought was clearly in Burke's mind when he said: "He that wrestles with us strengthens our nerves and sharpens our skill. Our antagonist is our helper." While Montaigne, the most easy-going of men, says that virtue "requires a rough and stormy passage", and that "she will have either outward difficulties to wrestle with or internal difficulties." There is a distinction between virtue, which is apparently the fruit of toil and struggle, and untried and interrupted innocence. There are beauty and power in both. And both have a place in the "Kingdom of Heaven." Yet Hosea thought that innocence itself was a thing to be won, for he said: "How long will it be ere they attain to innocency?" While the psalmist teaches that it can be preserved: "Keep innocency and take heed unto that which is right; for that shall bring a man peace at the last."

IMPATIENTLY AWAIT GREAT NEW CIRCUS

"Circus Day," the big holiday for which young and old impatiently wait at this particular season promises to eclipse all other events of the calendar year at Boston, week of June 9.

It would seem as though everybody in this locality were planning to attend. The very name of the great new circus Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Combined has been sufficient to arouse far more interest than has ever been shown in the coming of any amusement enterprize. The famous showmen have made a complete survey of both the great circuses and merged the finest and best of each into one. Hundreds upon hundreds of performers will appear in the gigantic main tent. There will be scores upon scores of the cleverest dumb actors. A gorgeously costumed pageant, of stupendous size, will open the program. Great companies of characters, representing the best-loved stories of fable and nursery lore, will appear. There will be splendid and many groups of beautiful horses in jeweled trappings. The army of clowns exceed all past records for fun and numbers. All contribute to the biggest circus in history.

A threatening brush fire in the Fells on the afternoon of Memorial Day was stopped from spreading largely through the efforts of a band of girl scouts from Boston. Special officer Marsh, who patrols the reservoirs, was notified of the fire by parties in the Fells, and he found a brisk blaze at the head of the North Reservoir. Men in the vicinity aided him in fighting it, but had it not been for the girl scouts, who were enjoying a picnic in the vicinity, the blaze could not have been checked without other assistance.

WINCHESTER COUNTRY CLUB

Many Members Compete in Holiday Events Here

There were many entries in the holiday events at the Winchester Country Club over the week-end. On Memorial Day forenoon the first 18 holes of the 36-hole medal play running through Saturday was played, together with the "never before" event, while in the afternoon there was mixed foursomes flag tournament. On Saturday the second 18-hole medal play was run off.

The Friday medal play resulted in F. L. Hunt, H. B. Wood and C. P. Whorf all turning in 75 for their best net in class A and J. N. Perry taking best net in class B with 71. The latter player also was first in the "never before" event. The mixed foursomes event in the afternoon resulted in Mr. and Mr. A. M. Bond taking best net with 73.

BASEBALL NOTES

(By Mack)

The season of 1919 opened here Memorial day before one of the largest crowds for several seasons. Newton Upper Falls was the attraction. This section of Newton has always been noted for its good ball teams and this year was no exception. The Newton team had played several games already this season and were in fine shape to put up a good article of ball, which they did, and handed Winchester a set back by the score of 6 to 3. "Mack" started the game for Winchester in the box, but owing to bad baseball behind him and a few "breaks" in the field this went all Newton's way. He had to be taken out and Press replaced him. Press held the Newton team from scoring but was backed up much better while he was in the box. Newton has a fine, fast team of clean baseball players and they are bound to give any team that faces them a good run for their money. The game was a good one to judge the Winchester players by and it showed glaring weakness in several spots on the team. Of course, one game does not make a season and there is plenty of opportunity for Winchester to come through with flying colors:

Winchester Wins Saturday Game

We had Jamaica Plain A. A. here for the game Saturday and with several changes in the Winchester team, all for the better, we had little trouble in defeating them 7 to 1. They had a fine pitcher in Hurley, the High School of Commerce star, and Morton on third base was another good man. Dolan in right field also put up a good game, but the rest of the team went to pieces behind Hurley at the important places in the game and he was unable to stop the Winchester batters. Press and Flaherty worked smoothly for Winchester and had the better of the argument at all times.

Press was well supported in the field, with the exception of short and second. These two players are capable of playing better ball than they are putting up and over anxious to make good seems to be the reason for the errors. Anyway a couple of more games will tell.

NOTES

An even break so far, for .500.

The opening game attracted a fine crowd, but as usual on a Holiday, Winchester played its worst baseball.

Supt. McDonald of the park department had the field in good shape. He and his assistants worked all the morning at it.

The umpiring in the Memorial Day game was not satisfactory to either team, and in Saturday's game Walter Kelley, who formerly played here tried to do his best. He was very satisfactory on balls and strikes, but let the other pitcher get away with a couple of bad breaks, and he called the turn on a few more, making a difference of several runs in the game. The next difference of several runs. The next time we appear on the field we will have a first class man. One who is capable of running off the game in a quick manner, and who knows the games and rules.

The cards which were passed around on the field made a hit with the "sports" but, some of these fellows would not give a dime if we brought the Red Sox here.

The grand stand (?) failed to make a hit with very many, and most of the spectators found seats on the grass. The park board is in no way responsible for this stand, and will be unable to do anything until the town gives them sufficient funds.

Did you people notice the left fielder Newton had? His name is Blue and they don't come any faster in the semi-pro rank.

Morrison behind the bat is another good man and Oates at first can hold his end up with any of them.

McGilvary in centre and Pierotti in right failed to live up to last years' performance.

On our team Memorial Day, Hatch, C. Flaherty and Press showed to their best advantage. Siney in center field had an arm like glass and failed miserably in his attempt to cut down runners.

McCarthy in left field had only one chance right in his hands and he missed that. Also he played entirely too far out for ordinary hits.

In Saturday's game, outside of Gilmore and Lipschultz, the team played good ball. They were handicapped on the bases by poor decisions, but as we had such a lead it was useless to say anything.

Smullen, who played third base is a fine player and has been seen here several times before with different teams, the last time he played here was two seasons ago with the [illegible] year Team.

Tommy Flaherty seems to get better with each game and in Saturday's game he played up to standard. Everyone is rooting hard for him to make good, and personally I think he will be able to deliver. When he gets used to this semi-pro pitching, he will hit the ball so far it won't come back. Watch him, but don't expect too much.

Ralph Hatch is going to be a fixture on first base. He may not be the best hitter in the world, but he manages to reach first as often as any of them.

Gilmore and Lipschultz will have to show something pretty quick if they expect to stick with the team.

"Mack" in left and Hevey in center will get all that goes out their way, and the basemen won't take many liberties with their throwing arms.

Hevey will play better ball in the outfield than in the nines work and as he will not have to worry over errors he is bound to hit better.

"Mack" had all the outfield work to do in Saturday's game and made four nice put-outs.

Well, let's tell you something about the other fellows you are liable to see here during the season.

On June 17 the Carr Fastener Co team will appear here. They are going good this season and Lierson who pitched such grand game in Woburn for us is doing the box work for them. Mr. E. S. Foster, A. H. Morton and George Davis of this town are connected with this firm and they will be anxious to see their team trim the town team, but you never can tell.

Another good team that will appear here is the United Drug Co., and they have not lost a game this season. They will be here June 28th.

On June 21, the Columbus Club of Dorchester, one of the strong teams in that section will appear. This team is backed by the five K. of C. Councils in Dorchester sections, and contains some star players.

The Linden Town team which put up such good ball for two seasons, has failed to register a win. They are now known as the Malden Athletics, with Wright and Ray Somerville, pitching.

Woburn has started the ball rolling by forming an association backed and officered by the leading citizens of that city. "Ferdy" Harkins will manage it as he did two seasons ago. Well, Winchester will be ready for them any time after the first of July.

And talking about Woburn, I suppose very few people on the field failed to recognize the officer in charge as "Duke" Farrell, the manager of last season's team. He did a fine afternoons work Memorial Day and had the boys well in hand during the game.

"Guns" on the Arlington electric are not wanted.

The hot season appears to have arrived at last, we thought so the first of the week.

More than the ball players were disappointed last week on Manchester Field when they went to the drinking fountain. Surely the season has advanced far enough now to turn the water on without danger of freezing.

Wedge Pond has been progressing nicely in popularity this week. Monday's report was 42 bathers, Tuesday 118, Wednesday 159 and yesterday's account of the visitation has not been received—probably because our young counter decided to go swimming himself.

A MEMORIAL DAY THOUGHT

To the Editor, Winchester Star:

Suffer me, through your columns, to make an altogether friendly protest in reference to Decoration Day. I was invited by the commander of the local post of the Grand Army of the Republic, to be one of their guests, to conduct a brief service at the cemetery and make an address there.

Four of us, who were guests, requested of the authorities, before leaving the Town Hall, permission to march with the rest in the procession. We felt that it was not quite fitting that we should ride, while the veterans of the Civil War, now well advanced in years, were marching. In reply to our insistence, it was told us that the carriage had already been engaged. Reluctantly, therefore, we submitted to the inevitable. I realize that the Grand Army veterans are a game lot of men, and could not be prevailed upon to ride, as long as they are able to march. It would have been only what was due them and the others, had the invited guests marched also. In these days we do not hold it to be very grievious to break a precedent. With the opinion here expressed, my companions are in hearty agreement.

A pleasant little incident occurred during the procession. A little girl ran up to the carriage and handed a bouquet, with the request that it be placed on the grave of some soldier. This bouquet was used in the brief devotional service at the monument. The flowers were scattered over the ground in memory of those who are buried far from home. Some are sleeping in the fields of France, others in Italy, and the other battle fields, while many noble men found graves beneath the waters of the sea.

Sincerely yours,
S. W. Adriance.

FURTHER LIGHT ON SECRET SOCIETIES

June 4 ,1919.

Editor of the Star,

Mr. Redfern, in his letter printed in the Star for May 30th, states that after his negotiations he was not satisfied with the existing conditions with respect to the societes in the High School, but that he was "a minority member of the school committee on this subject."

This remark is misleading, since the committee at that time was unanimously of the opinion that these societies were detrimental, and the only question was as to how and when they could best be abolished. Mr. Redfern had the cordial support of the committee in his effort to persuade the members of the societies that the good of the school demanded that they should voluntarily give up their organizations, and the committee was fully advised as to the progress of his negotiations and was very sorry that they failed, notwithstanding his earnest effort and the encouragement he received from many prominent members of the societies. When the effort failed none of the committee were satisfied with the existing conditions; but on the contrary were fully convinced that the only question was when the committee should take action against the societies.

About this time Mr. Wixon, principal of the high school, resigned, and Mr. Curtis began his work, and before he had gotten well settled in his position the war came on, and then Mr. Herron left for France, and Mr. Fausey came as the new superintendent.

The agitation which has followed the recent announcement of the action of the school authorities justifies what I supposed was the unanimous belief of the committee, that the matter should be handled with deliberation and at a favorable time.

Last February the committee unanimously voted to take action against the societies, so that the present committee is fully in accord with the convictions of all of the members of the school committee since the time mentioned in Mr. Redfern's letter.

I am authorized to say that the above statement met the approval of Dr. Henry C. Metcalf, who was the third member of the school committee.

Yours truly,
George Chandler Coit.

SCHOLARSHIP FOR WINCHESTER MEN IN SERVICE

The following letter from Senator Edwin T. McKnight of Medford to the Winchester Board of Selectmen is self explanatory:—

May 29, 1919.

Mr. Arthur A. Kidder, Chairman
Board of Selectmen,
Winchester, Mass.
My dear Mr. Kidder:—

Possibly you may have learned through the newspapers of my announced intention of awarding scholarships for a short course in a commercial school to certain soldiers and sailors returning from the Service. I had intended writing you before to say that it was my purpose to have three of these scholarships go to young men who were residents of Winchester at the time of entering the Service.

The scholarships cover a three months' course of instruction in the Fisher Business School in Somerville, and are to be awarded to the three men whom your board of selectmen or a majority thereof, deem to be the most deserving.

I have arranged with the Fisher school to keep open during the summer months, so that it will be possible for the boys to start the course at once. If there is a disposition on the part of any of the boys to take up the course, I would suggest that the scholarships be alloted with as little delay as possible, in order that the boys may have the benefit of the training at once.

Whenever a scholarship is awarded, if you will kindly advise me the name of the young man to whom it is given, his address and the particular branch of the army or navy—as the case may be—in which he served, I shall appreciate it.

Very truly yours,
Edwin T. McKnight.

The Selectmen desire to state through the STAR that all Winchester men interested in this scholarship should communicate with the Board.

AN EXTRA MUSIC MEMORY PRIZE

Last week Thursday certain Wadleigh School children had a very pleasant surprise. The entire school was gathered in the hall to honor those of their number who had won prizes in the Music Memory Contest, when it was announced that Mrs. George Lochman, who had shown considerable interest in the surprisingly large number of Wadleigh pupils who had worked so hard and so enthusiastically for the contest, and who had played for them a number of the compositions which were hard to get in record form, was giving a prize "not on the program" to the five from the Wadleigh whose scores were next to the regular prize winners. Accordingly the following were each presented with a crisp, new dollar bill: Eunice Brown, Grade 7a; Harry Hegal, 7a; Margaret Smart, 7a; and Dorothy Nutter, 7a; who each had a score of 14 out of a possible 15 and Ruth Bowe, 6b, who had a score of 13½.

EX-SERGEANT MULLEN DIES

Alexander J. Mullen, formerly Sergeant of the Winchester police department, died on Friday at St. Elizabeth's Hospital after an illness of several weeks. His condition had been such that for several days his death had been expected.

Mr. Mullen was 47 years of age. He was a native of Woburn and previous to taking up his residence here resided in Medway for about ten years. For a considerable time he worked for the Metropolitan Park Commission in the Middlesex Fells, and in July, 1900, he joined the Winchester police department, being appointed night sergeant May 30, 1915. Last December he resigned from the department.

Mr. Mullen's wife died in October, 1916, and he leaves one son, James, aged 10 years, his mother, Mrs. Mary F. Mullen, and one brother, Arthur Mullen. He was a member of Woburn Lodge of Elks.

Funeral services were held on Monday morning at St. Mary's Church at nine o'clock, requiem mass being celebrated by Rev. John W. H. Corbett. There was a large attendance of friends present from this and surrounding places, including a delegation from Woburn Lodge of Elks, Chief William R. McIntosh, Sergeant John A. Harrold, Patrolmen Daniel P. Kelley, James P. Donaghey and William H. Rogers of the police department, and Exalted Ruler Eugene Sullivan of the Woburn Elks.

The pall bearers were William R. McIntosh, Eugene Sullivan, former Selectman Patrick Noonan, Edward Kelley of Cincinnati, Chief David H. Decourcy of the fire department and Patrick Welch. There were many beautiful gifts of flowers. The remains were buried in Wildwood Cemetery.

There is an interestine exhibit of work in weaving and basketry at the Boy Scout headquarters on Main street. This exhibit is made by members of the industrial class at the Prince School, and reflects great credit on their work.

A daughter was born at the Winchester Hospital last week to Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Lane of 12 Park road.

Marriage intentions have been filed with the Town Clerk by Annie Anderson of 4 Lakeview road and Frances Gilday of Woburn.

Mrs. Frances G. Kingsley of Somerville announces the engagement of her daughter Gladys Anne, to Mr. Mark R. Jouett of this town.

What must be a cheerful sign to many teamsters is that displayed half-way up the Main street hill in front of the residence of Mrs. Harrison Parker. The sign reads "Water for Horses."

Among the Winchester people who spent the holiday at Falmouth were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Butler Mr. and Mrs. Ralph S. Vinal, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford O. Mason and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred D. Radley.

Sealer of Weights and Measures, Maurice Dinneen, had T. Rotunda of Prince street, Boston, in the Woburn court Wednesday charged with having in his possession with intent to use, a false scale. The man was peddling vegetables from an automobile. He was arrested on Swanton street. The court fined him $10.

A meeting of the committee of the Winchester Board of Trade having in charge the annual outing was held on Tuesday evening. Preliminary steps to arrange for the outing were taken and another meeting, at which organization will be effected, will be held next Thursday evening. From ideas presented Tuesday night it is very probable that the outing this summer will be by auto, excessive carfares on the electrics and boats eliminating that method of travel. Where the outing will be held has yet to be decided.

At the three day meet, opening yesterday at the Belmont Country Club, Herbert T. Bond took best gross and net in the first day's play, equalling Guilford's score of 81, made a year ago for gross and making a net of 74. Best net resulted in a tie between B. K. Stephenson and H. E. Merrill, who followed Bond, with 76. Winchester scores in the tournament were as follows:

Bond	81	7	74
Stephenson	83	7	76
Merrill	90	14	76
W. G. Faze	85	7	78
B. K. Elkins	96	18	78

Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Rice and Miss A. Laura Tolman of Eaton street are at their summer home at Harrison, Maine. During their absence their residence will be occupied by Mr. Carl Watson, formerly of Eaton court.

The affair is to be given under the direction of Messrs. Francis E. Smith, Robert E. Guild and W. E. Smith. Tickets may be procured at Scout headquarters and at the STAR office.

Mrs. Harrison Parker of Main street entertained the Cradle Roll of the First Church on Thursday at the Red Barn.

Mrs. John Boyce and her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Bennett, who have been her guests, left Friday for their summer home in Waterloo, Canada.

Miss Peg Reynolds and Miss Louise Dempsey, nurses at the Winchester Hospital, started on their vacation of three weeks last Tuesday. They will spend two weeks at Hampton Beach.

The annual strawberry festival of William Parkman Lodge, A. F. & A. M., will be held on Tuesday, June 10, at 6 o'clock. Following the festival Worshipful Brother Charles Bruce of Palestine Lodge, Everett and Brother William G. Upham, architect of Orient Lodge, of Norwood, will speak upon building the new Masonic temple. Stereopticon views will be used on subjects both instructive and interesting. (3) To exemplify in actual practice the noble concept of the brotherhood of man by contending that what we claim and accept as our own rights we shall admit to be the rights of others.

(4) To study sympathetically and endeavor to understand the problems that will grow out of the conflicting demands of labor and capital, particularly in the reconstruction period following the declaration of peace, and lend our influence toward a fair and just solution of these problems.

(5) To promote child welfare by opposition to child labor under improper conditions, and by supporting the most enlightened methods for the care of dependent, delinquent and defective children.

(6) To aid in affording to the soldiers and sailors returning from the war prompt resumption of the normal pursuits of life on favorable terms.

(7) To aid in the Americanization of foreign born and unnaturalized residents in the United States.

(14) To insure closer co-operation among the fellowship of liberal churches in all matters beyond the province of the individual congregations or societies.

(15) To expand and strengthen the influence and activities of Sunday Schools and broaden the field of religious instruction.

(16) To establish in New York and Boston and other large centres, from time to time and as circumstances shall require, League houses, known as such, of dignified construction, on conspicuous sites, to be used as local centres of League activities.

(17) To make widely known the devotion of the Unitarian and other liberal churches to the essential principles of Christianity and to the practical application of those principles in just efforts to improve modern society, and their heartfelt desire to unite with other organizations having like purposes in promoting human welfare.

VICTORY HOP

A "Victory Hop" and entertainment will be held tonight at Waterfield Hall under the auspices of a committee of young women of St. Mary's parish in aid of the parish Summer Festival on June 28, on the grounds off Washington street.

A short concert with costume features and dances by young folks will be held from 8 to 9.30, followed by general dancing until midnight. Besides the costume dances a prize "elimination" dance contest will be held after the concert.

Among the features of the costume dances by young girls will be a "jockey" dance in which Miss Mary Bradshaw will be the soloist; a "flower" dance in which Miss Margaret McDonald will be the flower queen; a "liberty" dance in which Misses Ruth Poland, Ruth Matthews, Aurora Rondina, Alice Brine and Rosebelle Allen will take part, accompanied by Miss Mary LeDuc as pianist. Miss Mary Benet will be the song soloist and will sing several Irish ballads.

BETHANY SEWING SOCIETY

The last meeting of the Bethany Society for the season was held on Tuesday at the Second Congregational Church. A delicious luncheon was served by Mrs. Charles Wigglesworth, Mrs. George Hartson, Mrs. Minnie Fogg and Mrs. Amy Twombley.

Through the initiative of the Bethany Society and the various organizations of the church the hearts of all were made to rejoice in the fact that new cushions have been placed in the pews throughout the church. We greatly appreciate the kindness and hearty cooperation of Mr. Edward Smalley who made this change possible.

It is anticipated that during the summer months other improvments will be made on the interior of the church—to this end the Bethany Society are to lend a helping hand.

The members extend a most cordial invitation to all friends of the work to be present at the Summer Sale to be held at the home of Mrs. J. A. Laraway, Forest street, June 13th, at 2.30.

HOT WEATHER

As far back as last Sunday the weather was about as one might expect for the first of June. The day was comfortable and just a little raw towards evening. Monday opened likewise, and more than one commuter donned his heavy suit. But at nine o'clock what a change! A hot, hazy sky, no wind and a hot sun made things begin to boil.

Monday saw a steady rise in temperature, although it cooled off a little during the night. Tuesday opened early as a scorcher, and everyone was ready for it, having had ample warning Monday.

During the day on Tuesday and Wednesday the temperature about the centre of the town was 102 for several hours in the middle of the day. Outside the centre the glass was but little lower, for almost everyone found it around 97 to 100. Coming after comparatively cool weather, the heat was felt excessively, and on Wednesday and yesterday, when the warmth had penetrated well inside the buildings, it was almost unbearable.

According to reports the two days—June 3rd and 4th—were the hottest June days on record, not even being approached since 1902—17 years ago.

The extreme heat was such as to cause the schools to close at noon on Wednesday and yesterday.

Miss Margaret Adriance is home from Mt. Holyoke.

DOWER—MELAUGH

Miss Harriett J. Melaugh of 44 Mt. Vernon street, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Melaugh, and Mr. Alfred L. Dower of Quincy, son of Mrs. John Dower, were married on Thursday evening of last week at St. Mary's parochial residence by Rev. John W. H. Corbett. The ceremony took place at eight o'clock.

The couple were attended by Miss Eleanor F. Melaugh of this town, sister of the bride, and Mr. Thomas F. Farrell of Woburn. The bride was gowned in a wedding dress of white georgette crepe with bead trimmings and veil, and she carried a bouquet of bride's roses. The bridesmaid wore buttercup crepe de chine with pearl trimmings and white fur, and carried pink sweet peas.

A reception at the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony, the young couple receiving the congratulations of a large gathering of friends until eleven, when they departed on their honeymoon.

The residence was decorated for the reception with ferns, palms and flowering plants, while many white lilac blossoms made a pleasing addition to the green background and filled the air with their fragrance. Many handsome and useful gifts were received from a host of friends by Mr. and Mrs. Dower.

Following a wedding trip to New York, the couple will take up their residence at their new home at 93 Ruggles street, Quincy.

Publicity Committee, H[illegible] Bigelow, chairman
Membership Committee, Lawrence Love, chairman

Mr. Wayne B. Thompson will be the class leader.

CHASE—LEWIS

Howard Edwin Chase of this town, son of Edwin A. Chase of 24 Clematis street, and Miss Louise Emerson Lewis of Stoneham, daughter of Mr. John S. Lewis of that town, were united in marriage on Thursday evening at the home of the bride's father. The ceremony, which was largely attended by friends and relatives, was performed at seven o'clock by Rev. Charles E. Davis, pastor of the Stoneham Congregational Church.

The bride wore a wedding dress of white silk, with lace overthrow, and her tulle veil was fastened by a head wreath of silver leaves and roses. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses. Mr. Arthur H. Lewis of Stoneham, brother of the bride, an ex-service man with nineteen months' overseas to his credit, was best man, and Miss Helen G. Lewis, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a dress of pink silk with lace overthrow and carried a bouquet of white carnations.

A reception followed the ceremony, the young couple receiving the congratulations of friends from Winchester, Stoneham, Woburn, Melrose, Wakefield and Reading until late in the evening. The ushers were all of Stoneham, and included Miss Margaret Golden, Miss Margaret Kelley, Miss Marion Kelley, Mr. John Lewis, Mr. Gordon Kelley and Mr. Walter Morrison.

The couple left after the reception for a wedding trip to New York and southern cities, and upon their return will take up their residence in Medford. They were the recipients of many handsome and useful wedding gifts.

DAVID W. GRIFFITH REPERTORY SEASON

Out of the magic crucible of David Wark Griffith, from which has flowed such artistic creations that have revolutionized the making of cinema masterpieces, there has come another lustrous example of his supreme craftsmanship in "Broken Blossoms." The creator of "The Birth of a Nation," "Intolerance," and "Hearts of the World," all epochal productions marking an advancement that elevates the producer to a lofty unapproachable eminence, has now come forth with a production that for sheer beauty of picturing, for strength of story and for acting by his chosen cast, place "Broken Blossoms" as far in advance of his previous productions as each was from its predecessor.

The public of Boston has been crowding the Colonial Theatre every matinee and evening since it was first presented in that city, and never before has there been such concerted paeons of praise bestowed upon a production as this has received

The story of "Broken Blossoms" was founded upon a tale in Thomas Burke's sensational novel, "Limehouse Nights." It forms a love story that challenges for incisive appeal and absorbing control of the emotions any of the great classics.

The performances are given twice daily, at 2.30 and 8.30 p. m. All seats are reserved and mail orders will be carefully filled.

TREMONT THEATRE

The true test of popularity for an attraction is the length of its stay in a city, and in this respect the palm for the present season in Boston must be handed to "Flo-Flo" the musical comedy which is continuing on its merry run at the Tremont Theatre. Another potent reason for the nightly crowds at the Tremont Theatre is the fact that it is the coolest auditorium during warm weather. The slogan, "the cool Tremont" has been a [illegible] attractive of exhibitions the stage has had, "the Lingerie Parade," which is now quite famous among theatregoers. The frocks, frills and furbelows are of such advance variety and bewildering plentitude that the feminine auditors gasp in amazement and the masculine members gaze in pleasured astonishment. The company is in every member capable. Matinees are given on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

MACHINE GUN CO. IN RIFLE COMPETITION

The Winchester Machine Gun Company sent a team to the Stoneham armory last week to shoot in the rifle competition of the 12th Regiment, M. S. G. In this contest each company will enter a team of not less than twenty men.

The Winchester men were in charge of Lieut. J. Churchill Hindes. They made a very good showing, and the result of their work as compared with other companies in the regiment will be interesting.

Scores of the entrants were as follows:

W. H. S. NOTES

All students will be obliged to take the final exams this year. It has been the custom for those who got over 85 per cent for a year's work to be excused, and many were disappointed.

The Freshmen defeated the Seniors 7 to 6 in a baseball game Monday. The batteries were: Freshmen—Phelps, Bowe and Brown; Seniors—Chapman, Freeman and Driscoll. The standing of the Inter-Class baseball league is as follows:

	W.	L.	P. C.
Freshmen	2	0	1,000
Seniors	0	1	.000
Sophomores	0	1	.000

Mr. Curtis presented the girls' basketball team with sweaters and letters in Assembly Tuesday. He made a few adequate remarks for the occasion. Those receiving sweaters and "W's" were: Kathleen Morse, captain, Katherine Fairfield, Mabel Gray, Ada Erickson, Brenda Bond, and Alice Freeman.

The assembly on Tuesday was devoted to a Recorder rally at which Theodore Clifton presided. The purpose was to urge the pupils to get patrons for the Recorder. A patron gives a dollar and in return receives a copy of the Recorder of each issue, with his or her name printed on the front page. This looks like a fair exchange. Music was furnished by Lincoln Russell, Prescott Taylor and Jack Watters.

ROBERT F. GUILD IN CHARGE

Robert F. Guild of this town, Scout Commissioner of the M[illegible] Valley Council, Boy Scouts, will be in charge of the big Greater Boston federation rally of Boy Scouts, to be held this Saturday at the Harvard Stadium. He will be assisted by W. E. Smith, also of this town, well known as Scout Executive of this district. The affair will be one of the greatest Boy Scout demonstrations yet held in this vicinity.

ALLAN McELHINEY HOME

Allan McElhiney of Watertown, son of Mr. Oscar McElhiney, formerly of this town, arrived home last week on the hospital ship Mercy. McElhiney, who is in the Marine Corps, was seriously wounded in the side at Coblenz, Germany, the bullet passing through his kidneys and the lower lobe of one lung. He was fourteen days between life and death at Coblenz. Later he was sent to the base hospital at Savenay, where he was nursed by a Winchester girl, Miss Hanson of Oak street. He is now at the Brooklyn Naval Hospital and expects to be moved soon to the Chelsea Hospital, nearer home.

McElhiney was previously wounded by shrapnel and spent two weeks in the hospital. He was with the Marines at St. Mihiel, Champagne and the Argonne. [illegible]

PROBATE AND OTHER COURT NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Amasa Harrington have filed a petition in the Probate Court asking permission to adopt Florence Emma Trott, aged 11, of Winchester. They ask that her name be changed to Margaret Harrington.

Ernest Linwood Davis, Jr., of Winchester is an heir-at-law to the estate of his grandmother, Mrs. Esther Olivia White of Lexington, who died May 11. No valuation of the estate was filed.

A verdict of $10,000 was awarded to Mrs. Helen McDaniel of Cambridge, as administratrix of the estate of her daughter, Katherine McDaniel of Cambridge, by a jury before Judge Raymond in the first session of the superior civil court. Monday morning. Mrs. McDaniel sued Horace E. Cummings for $30,000 in an action of tort. It was alleged that on October 20, 1917 while the deceased was crossing Massachusetts avenue near Shepard street, Cambridge, she was struck by the defendant's automobile and received injuries from which she died on January 26, 1918.

The will of Henry C. Bagley who died May 28 has been filed. It is dated September 21, 1915, and names his wife, Mrs. Theresa A. Bagley as executrix. No valuation of the estate was filed.

FURTHER INFORMATION ON SECRET SOCIETIES

ship. Although specifically not a school society, as shown by the fact that one of its first acts after organization was to elect to membership one who was not a student in Winchester, nevertheless the Phi Delta Society was formed with the knowledge and approval of the high school authorities. Sub-master Herbert W. Dutch of the high school was instrumental in the organization and encouragement of the society in its early years and continued this interest as long as he was a resident of the town. Even after removing from Winchester he has taken the trouble to keep posted on society conditions, and has on occasion visited the members and advised them on problems that called for wider experience than any of the members could furnish.

The En Ka Society

The 1902 six young ladies, juniors in the Winchester High School formed a little club among themselves. Under the influence of Mr. Herbert W. Dutch, already mentioned in connection with the Phi Delta Society, the club which had previously been the private property of the six founders became a permanent society. Although it was thought best to keep the society entirely segregated from the school, high school teachers became interested and Miss Minna B. Noyes of the teaching staff was asked to be an honorary member together with Mr. Edwin N. Lovering, now principal emeritus of the high school, but then actively engaged as the school's executive. Both these honorary members were of great assistance through its period of existence, the main idea being "to do good at all times."

The Sigma Beta Society

The Sigma Beta society was founded in 1903 by five young ladies as a social club. It was not in any way connected with the high school, one of its charter members never having attended school in this town. Shortly after its foundation, Mrs. Samuel W. McCall was invited to become a member and immediately after her acceptance, Mrs. F. E. Carpenter was asked to join. Since their election to membership both Mrs. McCall and Mrs. Carpenter have met with the girls and been deeply interested in the society. The standards upon which the activities of the society are based, and which Mrs. McCall and Mrs. Carpenter were largely instrumental in shaping out, have for their main idea, "not only to promote sociability, but to help others less fortunate than ourselves."

The Gamma Eta Kappa Society

The Gamma Eta Kappa Society was founded in Winchester, October 22, 1910, by six young men then upper classmen in the Winchester High School. The organization in Winchester is not a society in itself but is a chapter of a national society bearing the same name. The national society is not a school society nor is the local chapter in any way connected with our town high school. Like most of the other societies is has had among its members a representative of the teaching force of the high school; namely Mr. E. E. Thompson, now submaster of that institution who has been since it foundation an honorary member of the organization. Besides the purpose of promoting good fellowship among its members Gamma Eta Kappa is a literary society and at each of the meetings literary exercises are held in conjunction with the business to be transacted. Besides these literary activities of their members the society conducts a competitive literary contest for all high school pupils and awards suitable prizes to the winners.

So much for the historical facts connected with the foundation of the societies. It now remains to show what the organizations have done to vindicate their right to an existence for the past seventeen years. Have they done anything worth while, anything of a real constructive nature tending to better conditions here or elsewhere; or have conditions here or their efforts to having a good time and undermining the educational and social morale of the high school? Apparently some people incline to the latter belief. It has been often alleged that the chief excuse for the existence of these societies is the selfish interest of their members in their own affairs leading to a neglect of the general welfare of the community. How clearly false any such assumption appears in the light of the following facts which have been taken from those records of the societies now available.

It is to be regretted that no society records of public work can be found prior to 1908, but as far back as that date there is abundant evidence of the unselfish interest of societies in work of a real civic nature. In 1908, after the Chelsea fire, many of the survivors were materially benefitted by the relief work of the Winchester societies. Again in 1910 when the campaign to help the "poor-whites" of the South was in progress barrels of clothing were sent by the society members who wanted to do their share. The year 1913 found food and clothing on their way to the sufferers of the great Dayton flood from these same young people. Ever since the societies have been co-operation books, magazines, etc. have been collected at various times and distributed to shut-ins, life savers and the inmates of the Sailors' Haven. Christmas and Thanksgiving dinners have been given to the poor and needy of the town, together with boxes of toys which were used by the Visiting Nurses for the poor children's Christmas trees.

Perhaps of all things the Winchester Hospital has been most benefitted by the activities of the society members. Both of the girls' societies are maintaining rooms there besides having donated odd articles to the institution at various times. To date the money raised by the societies to make possible their work at the hospital is in excess of $650, while in the same instance a debt has been incurred which must be met sometime in the future.

The war activities of the societies were necessarily hampered by the loss of a great number of members who were actively engaged in the United States service. However, over $250 were raised and given to various war-work charities including the Red Cross, cantonment fund, Special Aid, etc. It has already been announced in the Star that one of the societies has adopted a French orphan and will be responsible for the money necessary to properly feed, clothe, and educate him. Besides this one of the other societies held weekly meetings to make surgical dressings, and in almost all the many drives held in Winchester, society members have at least done their share in bringing about the success of which we are all so proud. With but one exception, all of the societies are holders of liberty bonds, and the amount of money thus invested together with the other previously mentioned sums totals well over $1000 which the Inter-Society council considers a very fair showing for a group of young people whose only thought of pleasure is with relation to self.

Despite the showing which the members, young and old, justly consider a splendid vindication for the existence of the societies, it is only fair to state that the organizations, never contemplating the publication of their charitable acts have not kept complete records of their benefactions over a long period of years and thus a great number of their public services must necessarily remain unknown as we aim to state nothing for which we cannot furnish proof.

And now in concluding this article, the Inter-Society Council wishes to put two questions to the townspeople, to the school committee, to anyone who is in the least interested in fair play:

1. Should these societies which have served the community in which they exist so well be arbitrarily abolished? and

2. Should the younger people now in High school be barred from participation in school activities because they desire to become members of organizations that can show such splendid recommendations for their existence?

The Inter-Society Council,

by James H. Penaligan, Secretary.

CELEBRATION FOR MEN IN SERVICE

Meetings of the various committees in charge of the welcome in honor of the men in service, to be held July third and fourth, have been held throughout the week. Various social and fraternal organizations, the Board of Trade and private firms and individuals are evincing a hearty interest in the plans and are lending their cooperation to make the day the biggest this town has ever seen.

Invitations will be sent to every man in service within a few days, and should any man in service not receive one, it will be because the committee in charge has not the proper address on record (only). If any man does not receive one, he should not refrain from going to the Town Hall for his tickets, as every man is to be cared for, provided he applies for tickets before June 28th at 9 o'clock.

Tickets will be given every man in service—one for the banquet and an additional ticket admitting his partner to the dance. It is anticipated that the attendance will be so large that it will not be possible to admit other guests, but if this is possible it will be done.

The dinner will be held at six and the dance will be from 8.30 until 12. There will be good music and an entertainment which will keep everyone in good humor. The Fortnightly ladies, who are arranging for the dance, will also see that no stone is left unturned to entertain the boys and their partners. Both dinner and dance are to be wholly informal affairs.

The ball game on the morning of the 4th, between the soldiers and the sailors, will start at 10 o'clock. The afternoon game will begin at 2.15 and the big parade will start off at 4. Four bands will take part in the parade, together with three drum corps and two groups of bagpipes The men in service will be assigned a place at the head of the parade and when the Town Hall is reached they will fall out and review the parade with the town officials.

All the town organizations, churches, school children and citizens will take part. Special costume features and floats have been promised in abundance, and the town will be decorated all along the route as well as throughout the central section.

The music and fireworks in the evening have been all provided for, and this feature will be in keeping with the rest of the celebration.

FIVE FIRES IN TWO DAYS

Winchester had five alarms of fire in the two days including Friday and Saturday. Fortunately none of them proved at all serious and only two required water to extinguish them.

The first of the series of alarms was rung in at 1.40 Friday noon, box 38 being sounded for a blaze in the cellar way of the house at No. 19 Holland street owned and occupied by Joseph Marrone. The fire evidently started from spontaneous combustion and had got into the partitions when the firemen arrived. Hand chemicals however, were all that were required to extinguish it.

At 8.25 p. m. box 45 was sounded for a fire in the house of Nicholas Rosa, 24 Glenwood avenue. The fire was in a chamber on the second floor, some bedding catching. Occupants of the house threw the blazing bedding out the window and put the fire out with water before the department arrived.

At 11 p. m. box 35 was rung in for a small tool house at the rear of 100 Swanton street. This building was owned by Michale Russo. A stream of water quickly put it out with little damage.

On Saturday night at 8.45 box 31 was sounded for a burning pile of rubbish and a fence at the rear of Smitherman's store on Swanton street. Hand chemicals put this blaze out.

At 11.40 box 46 was rung in for another fire at the old Haley patent leather factory on Canal street which had previously been partly burned and is being torn down. From appearances it looked as though this fire was set. Two streams were played on the fire, and for a time flying sparks carried by the high gale, threatened the factory of the Eastern Felt Co. The damage was small, as the building was mostly torn down.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

Waterfield Lodge, I. O. O. F., will hold a memorial service at the Methodist Church on Sunday, June 15, at 10.30 a. m. At this service Rev. A. B. Gifford, pastor of the church, a member of Hudson Lodge, will preach. The members of Waterfield Lodge will meet at their hall at 10 o'clock and march in a body to the church.

POST FORMED

Winchester Men to Join The American Legion

With an attendance of 150 men of this town who have served in the army or navy it was decided at a meeting held at the Town Hall on Tuesday night to form a Post of the American Legion here. The meeting was called by the committee on publicity of the town committee on welcoming returned men in service.

On Tuesday night temporary officers were chosen and an application for the charter and affiliation with the State organization signed. When the charter is received the regular election of officers will take place.

The meeting opened at eight, Selectman Roland E. Simonds presiding until Major Irving T. Cutter was elected temporary chairman and Loring P. Gleason temporary clerk. Major Edward Connelly of Wakefield was present and was introduced by Major Cutter. Major Connelly outlined the work of organizing a Post, stating that the first formation would be a temporary Post, affiliated with and receiving a charter from the State organization.

Any man, either enlisted or drafted, who was in the service and is a citizen is entitled to join. Major Connelly suggested that an effort be made to obtain the fullest possible membership of all Winchester men in service; that as small dues as possible be made and that there be no politics or cliques included in the organization.

At the conclusion of his talk the following nominating committee was elected to present nominations:

Elmer R. Glidden
Theodore Main
Dr. Richard W. Sheehy
Charles McGourty
Joseph Blackman
Harry Donovan
Kenneth Caldwell

This committee made its nominations and the voting resulted as follows:

Post Commander—John O'Melia 52, Dr. D. C. Dennett 43, Shepard Pond 40.

Post Vice-Commander—C. N. Eaton 52, George LeDuc 39, Charles McGourty 35.

Post Adjutant—Harry Donovan 61, Lawrence Lombard 30, Elmer R. Glidden 25.

Post Financial Officer—Daniel Hanlon 42, Loring P. Gleason 41, Ernest Mathews 28.

Post Historian—James Blackham 51, Kenneth Caldwell 47, Francis Wyman 16.

Post Chaplain—Murray W. Dewart.

It is not yet known whether John O'Melia, elected Post Commander, will serve in that office, he not being present at the meeting. Word of his election has been sent to him at Brooklyn, N. Y., it is said.

It was moved and carried that this Post accept the request of the Entertainment Committee of Winchester to parade on July 4th, the arrangements to be left to a committee to be appointed later.

The meeting closed at 10.30. A second meeting will be held as soon as can be arranged for further organization.

BLANK—SHUTE

Miss Mary Turner Shute of Pottstown, Pa., Becomes Bride of Mr. Wesley Howard Blank

A wedding of great interest was solemnized at high noon, (sun time) on Wednesday, June 4th, at the residence of Dr. A. Clement Shute, 121 High street, Pottstown, Pa., when his daughter Miss Mary Turner Shute, was united in marriage to Mr. Wesley Howard Blank, of this town.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Arthur J. Simpson, Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Pottstown. The bride being given in marriage by her father.

On account of a recent death in the bride's family, the wedding was of a quiet nature and witnessed only by members of the immediate families and a few intimate friends.

Miss Shute wore a gown of white satin and georgette crepe and veil caught with orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a platinum and diamond brooch, the gift of the groom. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and sweet peas. The bride was attended by her sister, Margaret, who wore yellow organdie and carried a basket of yellow tea roses.

Mr. Walter Turner, cousin of the bride, was the best man.

The decorations carried out a color scheme of yellow, green and white.

Previous to the ceremony Miss Elizabeth Shute, a sister of the bride sang DeKoven's "Oh, Promise Me," accompanied by Miss Emma High. Miss High also played the wedding march, from Wagner's "Lohengrin." After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served.

Mr. Blank is a well known Winchester man, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Blank, of Myrtle street; graduating from the High School and later B. S. graduate in Civil Engineering at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. During the war Mr. Blank served as Lieutenant in the Anti-Air Craft Artillery. He is at present engaged with a large structural firm as a designing and contracting engineer.

SUCCESSFUL AFFAIR

The Victory Hop and entertainment given Friday evening in Waterfield Hall by a committee of young women of St. Mary's parish for the benefit of the coming summer festival proved a most successful affair. There was a large attendance of members of the parish and their friends.

The program opened with a concert with costume features by the younger members, followed by general dancing until midnight. A feature was the costume dances and also the elimination dance contest.

Among the features of the costume dances by young girls was a "jockey" dance in which Miss Mary Bradshaw was the soloist; a "flower" dance in which Miss Margaret McDonald was the flower queen; a "liberty" dance in which Misses Ruth Poland, Ruth Mathews, Aurora Rondina, Alice Brine and Rosebelle Allen all took part, accompanied by Miss Mary LeDuc as pianist. Miss Mary Benet was the song soloist and sang several Irish songs.

These young girls took part in the "jockey" and "flower" costume dances which were led by Miss Mary Bradshaw and Miss Margaret McDonald respectively; Gertrude Holland, Alice Bennett, Barbara Fitzgerald, Ruth Cleary, Winfred Connelly, Margaret Benet, Florence Ferrina, Vincentia Rello, Nellie Gigaliette, Miriam Donahue, Katherine Donnelly, Mary McDonald, Mary Quigley, Gertrude O'Connell, Amelia Dempsey, Elizabeth McCauley, Eleanor Shay, Katherine Vallely, Helen McCauley, Isabel McDonald, Mary Vayo, Frances Kane, Edna Dempsey and Geniveve O'Connell.

Miss Lillian McNiff as "Miss 1860" gave an old-fashioned before-the-Civil-War dance in costume. Miss Mary Benet sang and played "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" and several other selections. The "Liberty" dance concluded the entertainment. These five girls, attired in white, with red, white and blue headbands, took part in the dance: Ruth Poland, Ruth Mathews, Aurora Rondina, Alice Brine and Rosebelle Allen.

PAGEANT AT HOME

Members of the Women's Baptist Missionary Society held their usual meeting at the Home for Aged People on Tuesday, as is their custom. The meeting of this week took on especial interest in the presentation of a pageant by the ladies written and arranged by Mrs. Edward E. Thompson, the program affording great pleasure to the inmates of the Home.

The pageant was entitled "The Vision." It pictured the discouragement of "Missionary Zeal", (Mrs. Thompson) in her work of placing missionaries in foreign lands and over the results of their work. Missionary Zeal fell asleep, and in her dream the good work which the missionaries accomplished was portrayed, little Miss Katherine Weld, as the "Spirit of Dreams", guiding her through foreign lands as she sang. The program opened with the reading of the prologue by Mrs. George A. Weld.

Miss Katherine Weld won the hearts of everyone with her singing and proved a very charming character in the picture. As she sang, others who took part, appeared in costume representing the foreign lands where good work had been accomplished, and when finally Missionary Zeal awoke, she entered with renewed courage into her missionary work.

During Miss Weld's singing Mrs. Ollis Weld and Mrs. Lorenzo M. Crowell carried the air of the song, Nancy Clark preceded. A Flag Parade included besides Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Annie V. Dean, Mrs. James F. Tilden, Mrs. George Bigley, Mrs. A. H. Dalrymple, Miss Weld, Miss Katherine Shultis, and Miss Edna and Miss Beatrice Saunders of Woburn.

The affair proved so successful that it is to be repeated in the near future. Following the program tea was served, the committee being Mrs. George A. Weld and Mrs. Newton Shultis, who were assisted by Mrs. E. G. Wentworth and Miss Margaret Winn.

This year one of the former players on the team is manager, and he promised a fast game here, with a strong outfit.

June 17th

Coming on the holiday is the strong Carr Fasterner Co. team of Cambridge. This team only lost three games last season and is going better than that this year. THE WINCHESTER STAR DEMONSTRATION HOME GARDEN

Conducted by

MRS. ALONZO F. WOODSIDE, 30 Lebanon Street

Co-operating with the

Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture and Home Economics

This is the month when the insect pests hatched out by the warm weather begin to do so much damage. A number of them are already at work in the home gardens. Constant watch is necessary in order to control these pests for they frequently do much damage to young plants before being discovered.

Aphids or plant lice are fond of all garden vegetables but do most damage to peas, cabbages, potatoes and tomatoes.

They are a sucking insect and cannot be controlled by the use of arsenical poisons or fungicides. They must be killed by some material that causes death by suffocation or by burning by contact. Forty percent nicotine sulphate is the best spray for plant lice. It is known commercially as "Black Leaf 40." It may be used with some other spray material if desired but when used alone soap should always be added to spread the mixture. Use 1 1-2 teaspoonfuls of "Black Leaf 40" and 1 cubic inch of common laundry soap to one gallon of water. Spray the plants for lice frequently.

Cutworms are raising havoc this year where no means have been taken to combat them. When setting out a few tomato plants, cabbage plants or the like, place a small paper collar around the stem of the plant to prevent the cutworms from reaching the stem and severing it. Another successful method is to sprinkle poison bait around the plants in the evening. Poison bait is made by mixing together 1 quart of bran, 1 ounce of white arsenic of Paris green, 3 pints of water and 1 pint of molasses. A little lemon juice added to the mixture will help in attracting the cutworms.

Cabbage root maggots have been most destructive this year. The only means of control for these pests is to place a tarred paper disc around the stem of each cabbage plant when it is set out. It should fit tightly so as to prevent the cabbage maggot fly from getting down into the soil near the stem where they lay their eggs. Cabbage plants that have been destroyed by the root maggot should be pulled up and burned.

In a great many gardens this year the cabbage root maggot has attacked the raddish crop causing the radishes to wilt and die. There is no method of control worth while for these maggots on the radish crop.

Cabbage worms are another serious pest. When you find large holes eaten in the cabbage leaves, examine the plant carefully and remove the velvety green worms. Also crush the yellow egg clusters that may be found on the under side of the leaves. Any gritty material such as roadside dust, dry garden loam, finely sifted ashes or lime when sprinkled over the leaves will help to control the worm. Arsenate of lead spray can be applied with safety to the young plants as the leaves that receive the spray will be the loose outer leaves of the cabbage and will be removed before eating.

Flea beetles attack potatoes, tomatoes and egg plants principally and cause great damage to the plant by perforating the leaves thus causing entry for blight. Bean leaf beetles which are similar to the flea beetles also damage the bean crop by eating holes in the leaves. These small black beetles are not serious, however, for they can easily be controlled by an application of Bordeaux mixture and arsenate of lead which should be applied about every 10 days.

Squash bugs are controlled by trapping. Place a piece of shingle or small chip of wood near the plant. The bugs will hide underneath this covering at night and can be removed early the next morning.

Many people are having trouble this spring with the grape plume-moth. This insect is a white fuzzy caterpillar that prevents the growth of the new canes by wrapping up the leaves on the end. Open up the leaves and kill the insect. Spraying is not practical as the new leaves grow so fast it would have to be done every few days.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE

A cynical Winchester gentleman says that so long as there are three people in the world, two of them will have a subject for conversation. This is a smart generalization of the tendency of talk to drift off into personalities. But almost at the same moment a leading American journalist is taking the American people to task for their passion for ideas as manifested in their serious opinionated conversation. This journalist confesses to finding this an obstacle to good conversation, which the Spectator fancies he has too often found, although he does not say it, verging closely upon the argument. Probably he would have no desire to shut out the ideas direct exploiting at what he might consider a proper time and place, but a roomful of pleasant Winchesterites gathered to give and get enjoyment he very evidently does not consider that place. He wants to enter such a circle to amuse and invigorate himself and raise his natural spirits and learn to understand and love his fellow creatures and laugh dull care away.

In the very phraseology there is invigoration and relaxation, and this suggestion of what conversation might be reminds, by contrast, of the frequent dreary or annoying round of opinion and comment and quotation and report that passes for coversation, but that leaves one if he has contributed his share of seriousness or intensity to the occasion, with mental exhaustion or mind in turmoil. But the journalist in question is not pleading, either, for the chatter and gossip that make up talk in a larger degree than something more serious. As between the seminar and the indulgence in personalities, the vote must be in favor of the exploitation of ideas, for while it may not raise the spirits, and very likely will not increase love for one's fellows, and most surely will deepen the furrows in the brow through the harassing thought of how much there still is to be learned in the world, yet it will not tempt to the petty meannesses of personal feeling that makes gossip a step to degeneracy.

But that ideas have no place in good conversation is only a pretence. The journalist's definition that conversation is "to amuse, and to amuse by making special appeal to the imagination and sense of wit," proves that it has got to be as full of ideas as a pickle is of flavor; and just as cleverly concealed. The conversation that suggests the comparison, as full of ideas as a nut is of meat is the bald sort that hampers enjoyment. The aforementioned journalist's idea about ideas is a good one but he is likely to be misunderstood as belittling the intellect's part in good conversation. Don't mistake intellect for knowledge. The one is essential to the other, but the terms are not synonymous. Intellect can be counted on for ideas; and when it is of the clever variety that is craved for the essayist's companions, it has the faculty for bringing to the surface the results of the fusion of ideas rather than the raw materials themselves. Then we get the conversation that attracts by making appeal to the imagination and sense of wit. The bold idea projected vehemently into a company held up to see it roll to a conclusion is to much in the naure of a brickbat hurled unceremoniously through a window to be acceptable. But conversation to appeal need not be limited to an amusing aspect. This the journalist seems to concede when later on he sums up the elements involved, as affection, sympathy, hope, joy, pity; sorrow also, but in its social dress and on its good behavior. On the same terms he would let in even hatred, anger, and contempt—which might however, as well be avoided; "everything human is welcome, but must abide the rules."

The rules have never been framed. Each Winchesterite must have his own set and of his own making; but if they are to admit within the test fairly enough here established, they will bar out egotism, limit seriousness below the degree of intensity, merge ideas into wit and wisdom, employ judgment and good taste, and constant mindfulness of the rest of the company. Truly enough, the really good conversationalist does not talk of rule; but like the genius, he happens only once in a while. The rest of us have to acquire our art by meekly submitting to advice and training. The Spectator.

FREDERICK HARRINGTON

Mr. Frederick Harrington of 3 Glengarry was accidentally drowned on Friday afternoon while canoeing on the Charles river near the Riverside recreation grounds. Mr. Harrington went out alone in the canoe. He was seen by boys in the vicinity to capsize, and the police were notified, who recovered the body. Efforts to resuscitation proved fruitless.

Mr. Harrington was 53 years of age and was a native of Somerville, the son of John and Emma F. Harrington. He attended the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and entered the leather business at Cleveland, Ohio, later moving to Plainfield, N. J.

Two years ago he came to this town and took up his residence in Glengarry, opening a Boston office and dealing in sole leather. He was a member of the Church of the Epiphany.

Besides his wife, who was Miss Katie Stivers, he leaves his mother and three children, Mr. Walter Harrington of Passadena, Cal., Mrs. J. O. Murray of Plainfield, N. J., and Mr. Frederick Harrington of this town. One sister, Miss E. C. Harrington, also of this town, survives him.

Simple funeral services were conducted at the residence on Monday afternoon by Rev. Murray W. Dewart, of the Church of the Epiphany. The burial was at Cambridge Cemetery.

WINCHESTER MAN'S AUTO HIT WOMAN

While returning to Winchester from Falmouth Sunday, the auto of Mr. Herbert H. Nickerson of this town struck and killed Mrs. Georgianna Lupein, 42 years of age, of Avon. The accident occured on the State highway. The victim was crossing the road with two other women, and after waiting for the passing of Mr. J. C. Kelley's car, which was preceding that of Mr. Nickerson, she started to cross, stepping directly in front of the car.

She was instantly killed, her death being pronounced due to multiple fracture of the skull by medical examiner George V. Higgins. The two other women escaped being struck. Mr. Nickerson was held under bail for a hearing.

Mrs. Lupein, who was returning from Children's Day services at the Avon Baptist Church, leaves a husband and three children.

SCHOOL NOTES

Miss Catherine Glover, supervisor of physical education, has resigned her position. Miss Glover will be married in a few weeks.

Mrs. Lida T. Perkins, teacher of history at the High school, has resigned. She will give up teaching and will engage in work at the Peter Bent Brigham hospital, where her husband is now employed.

Edward N. Lovering, principal emeritus at the High school, has been relieved of active teaching and will take charge of the office, still retaining his position. Mr. Lovering has been teacher of Latin at the school for many years.

Miss Alice B. Campbell of the Wadleigh 7th grade has resigned.

Mrs. Dorothy Cheever of the Prince 7th grade has resigned. Mrs. Cheever will join her husband at Fortress Munroe. Mr. Cheever has been an instructor in the chemical warfare service and during the summer will instruct West Pointers in chemistry. The couple will make their home in Cleveland next fall.

In carrying out the increase in salaries to the teaching force the appropriation for this purpose will be increased about $10,000 in making increases taking effect last December and to take effect next September. This is an increase of about 14 per cent.

The principalship at the Wadleigh school will be filled within a few weeks by the appointment of a man principal. This vacancy was caused by the death of the late principal Joseph H. Hefflon.

The summer service school will open as usual this summer at the Prince building. The school is carried on with the intention of affording opportunity to pupils who have failed in their studies to make up work. It will take pupils in grades 5, 6, 7 and 8, and will open June 23d, continuing for six weeks.

Miss Mabel Ryan, formerly teacher in the Waltham schools, has been appointed to take charge of the school gardens this summer.

The school committee is sending out this week to all parents of High school pupils except those of scholars in the senior class, a circular letter calling attention to the recent vote prohibiting pupils who join secret societies from holding office in any school organization or on the staff of any school publication, or to represent the school in any intellectual or athletic contest, or in any public manner whatever.

The committee took this action because its members were convinced both from their own experience and by the virtually universal opinion of educators throughout the country that the existence of secret self-perpetuating societies in public high schools was contrary to the best interests of the pupils themselves and detrimental to the morale and efficiency of the school.

WINCHESTER DEFEATED MELROSE

Winchester High showed its metal last Friday by defeating the strong Melrose High team 3-0. Melrose has what many conceed to be the strongest team in the league. The game was the best thus far played, but one error on each side being recorded. Winchester's runs were made by Flaherty, McCartney and French. In the first inning Flaherty reached first and went to second on a sacrifice, scoring on McCartney's hit. McCartney making another run on a wild throw. French made a hit, stole second and took third on a hit by Valely, stealing home. Melrose only had one chance to score, that in the fifth with two on and two out. Matthews, pitching for Winchester, had five strike-outs and Underwood nine.

BASEBALL NEWS AND NOTES

(By Mack)

I have seen a great many games of ball in past seasons on Manchester Field, but Saturdays' exhibition by the home team was the worst I have ever seen. Weak pitching, and rotten fielding by the second baseman and shortstop, caused the entire team to look bad.

Press, our pitcher, in the three games he showed here, has failed to produce anything a winning pitcher should have, and a team of blind men with their bats full of holes could have hit him. Saturday, of course, mighty poor ball was played behind him, but that was no excuse for the noticeable showing he made.

Lipscultz, our second baseman, is credited with five errors, while Gilmore is credited with four, all in all the team made 12 errors, which in the course of events is bound to lose several games of ball.

Both the shortstop and second baseman are capable of putting up a much better game than they showed here, but as they failed to produce the goods I have decided to look for a couple of new ones to fill in at the keystone position.

While Winchester looked bad, Watertown looked just the opposite. They hit the ball hard of course, and made only a couple of errors in the field, while our batters were helpless before Shanahan's curves.

I will get this team back here again later in the season and show them they were lucky to get us when the going was rough. Some of the spectators thought they were a heavy hitting team, but Saturday's game was nothing to go by.

Well, with several changes for the better in our lineup, I look for improved play on the part of our team. The hard games are now coming along and we have got to get started on the winning way.

The score:

Notes

1 won; 2 lost—percentage .333.

It was a wild day and a wild game but the crowd stuck it out pretty well.

When it comes to a dyed-in-the-wool "fan" you have got to hand it to Frank Nowell. He sticks till the last man is out, no matter what the score.

Howard Woodlock, our new umpire handled the game well, and will stay for the season. Charlie Flaherty used to play against his team when he went to the Allen School.

One of the boys was hit by a thrown ball, but not seriously injured. People should always watch the ball while in play.

Another thing I want to warn the boys of and some of the older ones as well, and that is the loss of balls. At the present time baseballs cost double what they did a year ago, and Saturday the police had to go after a new one that one of the boys had made off with. It will probably cost in the neighborhood of $90 for balls this season and every one counts. A word to the wise, etc.

The season is still young and no team of any standing really gets a good start before the first of July. The schools and colleges from which we get the best material for a team will soon close and then we will be able to strengthen the weak spots on our team. I have said before it is a long ways off to October 1st, and we are going to see some good games here with a winning combination for Winchester.

I do not consider myself able to pick out a world beating team for a start, neither do some of the big league managers. I have not the funds necessary to carry 12 or 15 players and must develop from week to week, replacing a weak player by a strong one and playing no favorites. Every player on the Winchester team has got to show something to stay with the team and I think what local boys we have are trying to.

Hevey will probably play short Saturday and a hard hitting outfielder will be put in his place. We are lacking in batting strength, and I want to secure some.

The catcher Watertown had was Cousineau, the former Watertown High player. He caused the team considerable trouble last winter while playing basketball, as he played a number of games which had to be thrown out on account of his age. He was beyond the prescribed limit of 20 years. He is a fine player and a gentleman at all times. The entire team for that matter played clean ball. The only player to show bad was Butters, but he was a new man at first base which caused him to look as if he was playing a rough game.

The pitcher and shortstop were brothers. The shortstop is the regular Newton Upper Falls shortstop.

Wilson, who played second base is the Boston College High pitcher and infielder.

Shanahan, on third is one of the best school-boy players in Greater Boston, and covers third for Watertown High. His brother played with the Minute Boys, Saturday.

I expect to use "Dick" Comerford the old Exeter and Yale pitcher, in Saturday's game. He went to France from college and has just returned. He says he is in pretty good shape just now.

Well, it seems we were not the only team to get a good beating on Saturday. The Minute Boys were beaten by the Naval Base 10 to 1, but made a lot of errors behind Matthews.

There are a great many semi-pro teams in the field this season, but from the records so far there seems to be only five or six notchers. They are the United Shoe, Marblehead, Fore River, St. Ambrose, Danvers and the W. L. Douglas team of Brockton. The Fore River team seems to have the class of all of them.

St. Ambrose were after us to go out there for June 14, but I want to be sure of my team before I play any of these high-class ones.

Wakefield, with McMahon pitching, turned the tables on St. Roses' team, beating them 15 to 3 and getting 18 hits off Mayo, the St. Rose pitcher.

Woburn opened the season Saturday with a win, beating the Reserve Town Team, 5 to 1. They did not have as strong a team as expected, as several of their players were compelled to play with their college teams. Walsh, a Naval Reserve man did the pitching and reports say he pitched good ball. "Kiko" Weafer will be on the mound this Saturday, when the Woburn team face the Watertown Arsenal nine.

Pere Marquette faced Marblehead and was beaten. Ray Somerville pitched for Pere Marquette and was hit hard.

The Lawley nine and the Butelson & Peterson Engineering Co's team are two crack semi-pro teams I want to see here during the season.

TELEPHONE NUMBER 29.

Flag Day tomorrow.

Our weather still proves an interesting topic for conversation—as variable as a woman's mind.

Little question for today—which side does the bout leave the traffic post in the centre?

Estimate sets the increased pay of our school teachers at 14 per cent. Does any one know what the per cent. is in the increased cost of living?

Success to our coming celebration in honor of our boys in service. We are glad to see that they are entering into the spirit of the occasion heartily. It will be a double celebration, with the boys glad to get back and the town glad to have them home.

The appeal of Tree Warden Symmes to autoists to refrain from breaking off the tops of evergreen and stripping the shrubs which he has had planted along-side the roads about the town should be heeded. If it is not, residents who observe such depredation should make it their business to inform the police. The mere fact that an attractive pine or blossoming bush stnds growing at the roadside does not make it the individual property of one passing in a car.

It is reported that Chairman Kidder of the Selectmen has interested himself enough in the bathing problem here to communicate with the Metropolitan Park Commission in an endeavor to provide bathing facilities for the children at Mystic Lake. He has been successful in the matter, it is said, and the Commission has agreed to allow Winchester children to bath at Sandy Beach if the Town will provide a suitable person to supervise the swimming. The matter, we understand, has not gone beyond Mr. Kidder, other than to bring the facts before the Park Commission, but it would seem to provide a suitable solution for the bathing problem if the latter board deems it advisable to accept the proposition.

Reports from the Treasury Department show that the Boy Scouts of America sold $300,000,000 worth of Liberty Bonds and $50,000,000 worth of War Saving Stamps during the national emergency. As the membership of this organization now includes 400,000 boys, or one twenty-fifth of the 10,000,000 young Americans of scout age in this country today, the following potent hypothesis deserves consideration: If all the boys between the ages of twelve and twenty-one were scouts when the nation called for their services, they would have been able to have multiplied their remarkable record 25 times, which means that their Liberty Loans sales alone would have amounted to $7,500,000,000 or more than the first two issues combined. Truly, the scouts may be said to be an organization of national service!

GOOD WORK

High Standing of the Winchester Boys' and Girls' Societies

June 11, 1919.

Editor of the Winchester Star,

Sir:—The various communications in the Star relating to the Societies of the young people of Winchester have helped to clear away misconceptions regarding those organizations. We have learned:—

(1) That they are not at all "secret" in the old objectionable sense of the word but that they are open in their work and hold many of their meetings openly and that they have absolutely nothing to conceal from parents or from the public.

(2) That their original formation and later organization were made with the knowledge and assistance of men and women of Winchester whom we all highly esteem, including the present Principal Emeritus of the High School, Edwin N. Lovering, one of the best loved teachers Winchester ever had; former sub-master, Herbert W. Dutch, a most successful teacher and loyal citizen, and one who has shown his belief in societies of this kind by helping establish them in the other schools to which he has gone; Miss Minna B. Noyes, for a number of years on the teaching staff; Mrs. Samuel W. McCall, wife of the ex-Governor; Mrs. Frank F. Carpenter, now on the Committee of Fifteen on educational matters; Mr. E. E. Thompson, sub-master of the high school and an honorary member of one of the Societies since its foundation; and others whose knowledge of school matters is certainly very extended.

(3) That the societies have accomplished a tremendous amount of good work for the town from the days of the Chelsea fire down to the very latest drive for the Salvation Army when, as the committee in charge of that drive publicly announced, the organized work of the societies assisted materially in carrying Winchester "over the top". They have established rooms at the Winchester Hospital which they still maintain; they worked unceasingly for the Red Cross, for Liberty Bonds, for every drive, and for the Special Aid. They have collected toys and books for the poor children and have given Christmas dinners and Thanksgiving dinners to the needy. They have obtained and sent books to the shut-ins and lifesavers. They secured clothing for the southern sufferers, and food and essentinls for those afflicted in the great Dayton flood. They have adopted a poor little French war orphan and have agreed to care for him for two years. In fact, they have always been ready to take the lead in good work.

(4) That the members of the societies are not little children but include only the oldest scholars of the high school (seniors and juniors) together with others who are not even members of the school at all.

(5) That membership in the societies instead of injuring scholarship has very materially helped it, as the members take a pride in spurring associates to high rank. And, as the chairman of their committee announced, they have averaged 81 per cent in studies, a remarkably high record.

(6) That, after twenty years of unbroken existence, they now have a large number of graduate members, men and women who are deeply interested in the societies and whom it is helpful to the school thus to keep in touch with present members.

(7) That the societies have told fully in the Star everything about their organizations, and have asked the school committee to hold a public hearing where they could answer all questions completely,—but that the committee has refused to meet them in any public hearing at all.

(8) That the present method of seeking to abolish them is so indirect and questionable as to appear unjust to fair-minded people—in that it does not consider fully the boys' and girls' side of the case, but, as there is no legal right for abolishing the societies, arbitrarily forbids future members of those societies from engaging in any athletic or literary activities of the school,—bars them in fact from all the teams and the school paper,—no matter how able or how high in scholarship rank and deportment they may be and no matter what the parents wish.

(9) That not one adequate reason has been substantiated for abolishing these societies while a score of good reasons have been made public for continuing them.

(10) That it would be a very simple and proper thing for committee, members and parents to get together and change any features that may be proved objectionable but still allow for the continuance of these organizations and their work.

Charles E. L. Wingate.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL

About 80 members of William Parkman Lodge attended the regular meeting and annual strawberry festival on Tuesday evening in the Masonic apartments. Three applications for degrees were acted upon and the Fellow Craft degree conferred upon a class of three candidates. At the festival strawberries and cream and ice cream was enjoyed, and following the feast Worshipful Master George B. Hayward introduced the topic of a new temple and introduced as speakers Worshipful Brother Charles Bruce of Palestine Lodge, Everett, and Brother William G. Upham of Orient Lodge, Norwood, both of whom gave interesting accounts of the erection of temples in their cities. Brother Upham illustrated many points and buildings with aid of a stereopticon. Upon the close of the talk the work was resumed and the completion of the organization for the undertaking of the work of erecting a temple here carried out.

GORDON'S CAMBRIDGE THEATRE

When Dorothy Gish was making "I'll Get Him Yet," her new Paramount picture which will be shown at Gordon's Cambridge Central Square Theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, her director sought Riviera for location purposes. He explained to the city fathers that they wanted to take certain night scenes in the village. He was received with open arms by the authorities.

"Why, yes, Mr. Clifton, anything you want for Miss Gish you can have. But if its nights, you'll have to lay off Tuesdays and Saturdays."

"Why?" asked the director.

"Well, you know the folks like to watch the moving picture people work and Tuesday night's lodge night. If you work that night there won't be any attendance. And Saturday night everybody goes to Los Angeles and there won't be any chance to see you. But any other night you can have the whole town."

Mr. Clifton met the situation smilingly.

There will also be five all-star acts of vaudeville, headed by Susan Tompkins, one of the foremost American violinists, who was soloist with John Philip Sousa's Band and resigned to enter vaudeville, where her success is further proof that music knows no levels and no heights; O'Donnell and Blair; comedy acrobats; Edna Bennett, vaudeville's leading lady; Fern and Davis in a comedy sketch entitled "Nightmare Reviews"; and Fred and Anita Brad, comedy contortionists.

Fatty Arbuckle will appear in his latest production "A Desert Hero."

Screen Magazine and Pathe News will be shown.

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday, there will be a return engagement by request, of the "Heart of Humanity" and an entire change of vaudeville.

Grand Sacred Concert, with new photoplays and vaudeville, every Sunday evening.

During the summer months this theatre is always thirty degrees cooler than outside.

TEACHERS' CLUB OUTING AT NANTASKET BEACH

Thursday afternoon about fifty-five members and friends of the Winchester Teachers' Club went by boat to Nantasket for a picnic.

It has been the custom of the club to have an outdoor affair every June, but this was discontinued during war times. The resuming of it this year was looked forward to with a great deal of pleasure.

Mr. Nichols with a corps of assistants went ahead of the party by auto and had everything in readiness when the crowd arrived. Clams were steamed and bacon broiled over a fire built on the beach. These with sandwiches, frankforts, ice-cream, cake and candy made a lunch "fit for the Queen's taste."

Mr. and Mrs. Chapman, Mr. Guild and Mrs. Herron were guests of the club. Community singing was led by Mr. Chapman, after which three cheers were given for Mr. Nichols for his wonderful success as a chef.

Much credit is also due Miss Dodge, chairman of the committee, together with Misses Murphy, Hopkins and Talpey.

BOY SCOUT DRIVE

The drive for adult associate memberships in the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America is not meeting with the success it should thus far in town. The committee in charge has made an earnest appeal to our citizens to support this movement which means so much to the youth of the country.

The sum asked for each adult is only one dollar, and the results which this dollar will achieve in encouraging the boys in their work and efforts is much greater than can be enumerated.

Membership applications, with the fee for annual dues, should be sent to Mr. Vincent Farnsworth, 8 Wedgemere avenue.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING

June 9, 1919

The board met at 7.30. Present, Messrs. Kidder, Emerson, Newman and Simonds.

Fire Department, Unclassified: The board voted to have both the chief of the fire department and the senior captain of the fire department appear before the board at 9 o'clock p. m. The chief and the captain were then notified by telephone to appear and did so. They were told that the board had voted at a previous meeting to send both the chief and the senior captain of the department to an officers' training school, which will be held in Boston under the auspices of the fire commissioner. Both Chief DeCourcy and Captain Eugene S. Flaherty expressed their appreciation of this opportunity offered by the board.

Hackney Carriages: An opinion was expressed by a member of the board that the hackney carriages should have some sort of a sign showing that they are public carriages. This matter was referred to Mr. Simonds to take up with the chief of police.

Police Department, Special Officers: Under suspension of its rules the board appointed Mr. Roland E. Simonds a special police officer for the town of Winchester for the year ending April 1, 1920.

Board of Health: The board held a joint meeting with the board of health to appoint a successor to Mr. Danforth W. Comins who recently resigned.

Licenses 1919 Explosives and Inflammables: A letter was received from Mr W. A. Blaisdell, asking permission to install a gasolene tank near his garage on Wedge Pond Road. The board voted to hold a hearing on June 30, in the Selectmen's room at 8 o'clock, p. m.

Boston & Maine R. R.: A letter was received from the Boston & Maine R R. acknowledging the board's letter of May 19 in regard to oiling the road-bed not only in the centre of the town but in front of all stations in the town of Winchester. The letter stated that the railroad company expected to be able to advise the board in regard to the outcome of the matter in a few days.

Town Land: A letter was received from the town counsel stating that he has obtained the deed of lands of the Metropolitan Park Commission to the town of Winchester from Mr. Rogers, the clerk of the commission, and has sent the deed to record this day, (June 4, 1919).

RAINBOW WEDDING

A very attractive "Rainbow Wedding" took place on Monday, June the ninth, in the Baptist Church at Hampton Falls, N. H. Miss Harriett Dodge White of Brooklyn, N. Y., a niece of the Misses White of Forest street, was united in marriage to Mr. Walter Lloyd Blackadar of Pittsburg, Penn.

The ceremony was performed by the bride's father, Dr. Charles L. White, Executive Secretary of the Baptist Home Mission Society, and was followed by a reception at the summer home of the family.

The groom was attended by Mr. Dwight Walker of New York City, and the bride by her four sisters and a cousin, Miss Frances Healey.

Miss Jessie White was maid of honor and the other young ladies were the bride's maids.

Dealing With the Selfish Child.

Just how far we check the child's impulses and just how far allow him to be natural? It does not seem to me difficult to draw the line. Most of the details and niceties of etiquette may safely be left to a later time, but the child should be given from the very beginning a training in the big fundamentals of good manners, namely, in self-control and unselfishness. The child who flies into a temper, who "answers back," who shows his dislike for others, is simply a child who is exhibiting a lack of self-control. The child who pushes ahead, disregarding others, who speaks his mind when to do so adds to the discomfort of someone present, who takes benefits without gratitude or thanks, who usurps the conversation among others older and more experienced than himself, is "bad mannered." If you like to speak of it in that way, but he is the child who is fundamentally selfish, who has no regard for others, and prefers his own pleasure and comfort to those of anyone else.

TAKE PRIDE IN UMBRELLAS

Indo-Chinese Workers in France Never Fail to Carry Them on Sundays, Rain or Shine.

Riding along through France on a Sunday in these times, one is reasonably certain to meet many Chinamen under umbrellas.

They mostly hail from Indo-China. The French imported them by thousands for service in the labor battalions behind the lines. During the week, dressed in nondescript mixtures of native garb and cast-off uniforms, they work at road mending or at ditch digging or at truck loading jobs.

On Sundays they dress themselves up in their best clothes and stroll about the countryside. And, rain or shine, each one brings along with him his treasured umbrella and carries it unfurled above his proud head. It never is a Chinese umbrella either, but invariably a cheap black affair of local manufacture.

Go into one of the barracks where these yellow men are housed, and at the head of each bunk there hangs a black umbrella, which the owner guards as his most darling possession. If he dies I suppose it is buried with him.

Nobody knows why every Sunday the Chinaman sports an umbrella, unless it be that in his Oriental mind he has figured it out that possession of such a thing stamps him as a person of travel and culture, who, like any true cosmopolitan, is desirous of conforming to the custom of the country to which he has been transported. A Frenchman, if careless, may leave his umbrella behind when he goes forth for a promenade; a Chinaman never does.—Irvin S. Cobb in Saturday Evening Post.

HOW WOMEN HAVE ADVANCED

Interesting Now to Recall Their Status in Great Britain Less Than a Century Ago.

Should women be whipped?

Just a century ago wiseacres, politicians and noble lords of Great Britain were debating the point. It was quite a new idea to worry about what was happening to women, but after some discussion it was decided that they ought not to be whipped—that the best way to handle them was on the "gentle-but-firm" method—and in 1820 the wiseacres, politicians and noble lords passed a bill known as the whipping act, prohibiting the corporal punishment of women.

Having made this exertion on women's behalf they returned to the discussion of things which interested them.

Fifty years passed. The seed which had been planted in 1820 began to take root in 1870, and the question of special legislation for women again bobbed up. This time an act was passed allowing women to be possessors of their own property—a magnanimous document known as the married women's property act.

Those two acts, small in themselves, were of great portent to women. They were the first admission that women had any rights or legal status.

In the last fifty years women have come to the foreground in leaps and bounds. By the interpretation act of 1889 the government went so far as to allow that "words in any act of parliament passed after 1850 imputing the masculine gender shall include females unless the contrary intention appears."—London Mail.

Symbols of Religious Ideas.

There are many religious and semi-religious legends connected with the Chinese pagodas. It was said of the "Flowery pagoda" of Kwangchowfu that, if ever its vane were to fall, evil would come upon the city. Upon two occasions the vane did fall, so it is related in Chinese annals, and evil times were sent as a punishment for the neglect of an irreligious people. Many of the names by which the pagodas were originally known were religious in character. Also, most of the towers were in the courtyards of the Buddhist monasteries, so that, whatever the occasional uses might have been, the original idea of the Chinese builders was evidently entirely religious.

BAPTIST NEWS

Mr. Avard Longley Walker of Woodside road, was unanimously elected by the Church on Wednesday evening as the Superintendent of the Sunday School.

At the six o'clock service Sunday evening Miss Margaret D. Winn of the Mather Industrial School in South Carolina, will tell of her experiences as teacher in that school during the past year.

Birds Trained to Fight.

Many birds are trained to fight, among them notably the little bulbul. They are very cruel fighters, and are themselves quite keen on the contest. As is customary with this species when tormented, the signal of the bad temper is given by the utterances of angry notes. When two of them meet in combat they utter weird shrieks, flap their wings, raise their topknots and literally throw themselves at each other. The quails have a stand-up fight with beak and spur, but the bulbuls have more of a wrestling match. They roll over and over, first the subsequent victor and then the vanquished being in turn on top. Weaver birds, or "bayo," as known to natives, are good fighters and, possessing very strong bills, they grip on to each other like vises. It is very peculiar that it is possible to inculcate the fighting instinct in these little birds exclusively by training, for as tame pets they are very graceful and fascinating.

TO HONOR GOLD DISCOVERER

Project for Establishment of a Museum at Placerville, Cal., in Memory of James Marshall.

Miss M. A. Kelley of Kelsey, instructor in El Dorado county schools, has undertaken the establishment of a Hangtown museum at Placerville, and a similar institution to be erected surrounding the blacksmith shop of the late James A. Marshall, discoverer of gold in California, as it now stands in Kelsey. The Hangtown museum as contemplated is to contain exhibits of the days of '49 and the various articles used in gold production during the early days of Hangtown.

A large assortment of these exhibits is available from old residents or descendants of the pioneer families in El Dorado county. Placerville will support the location and maintenance of the museum. At Kelsey, where the old blacksmith shop of Marshall now stands almost ready to fall to pieces, it is desired to build a stone wall and covering around the old shop to preserve the remembrance of Marshall.

Miss Kelley knew Marshall intimately. Many people have it that Marshall died a pauper. This, Miss Kelley says, is untrue, and that he not only possessed the hotel where he died, but had two gold mines known as the "Big Sandy" and "Gray Eagle," both of which are productive mines and now owned by the Breyman estate of Toledo, O.

TOY DOG HAS HIGH VALUE

Brussels Griffon, Practically Unobtainable Just Now, Is Likely to Become Popular Favorite.

The Brussels Griffon is popularly known as "the monkey-faced toy dog," and he is one of the brightest, smartest and gamest of all toy breeds. The Griffon is a cross between Irish terrier, Yorkshire terrier and Yorkshire spaniel and only the fortunes of war and the difficulties of getting any dogs out of Belgium have prevented the Griffon from becoming a leader among the toy breeds that are so fashionable just now.

American breeders of Griffons have a bit of advantage over their European confreres, inasmuch as cropped dogs are allowed to be shown in this country and there is no question that it does improve the appearance of this breed when the ears are carried erect.

The smaller these dogs are the more valuable. A Griffon weighing three or four pounds, that is to say, so small that he can be carried in a lady's muff, is worth almost anything the fortunate possessor wants to ask for him. At the present time it is almost impossible to obtain such a dog.

Horses Generously Fed.

Horses in the veterinary hospitals on the British front in France were fed four times a day. The more debilitated ones were fed five or six times. When they were particularly run down the patients got nothing but cooked foods. They received tonics, too, and it was remarkable to see the improvement in their condition that a few weeks effected.

IN ABE MARTIN'S COUNTRY

Where Wisdom Centers and "the World Do Move," but in Decidedly Leisurely Manner.

All Brown county seemed to be waiting for us when late we reached the "picnic grounds." Abe Martin types hung round the roadway to the grove. Ginger pop, orange cider, ice cream cones were disappearing down warm and thirsty throats. All through the grove there were grateful voices talking gently of the saving of the corn crop by the rains. Coats and collars were not as numerous as on Fifth avenue, but kind hearts and friendly visiting and exchange of confidences were as evident as anywhere in all the world. Veterans of '61 were linking up their war with this, and one elaborately whiskered farmer earnestly confided to me: "I fought four years to make good Lincoln's word, and I guess our boys today will stand by Woodrow."

Honest, homely, shrewd and wise, they talked Abe Martin's language:

"It's nice t' live in a little town where you don't have t' give somebody a dime to hold your overcoat."

"A kicker is nearly allers wrong."

"A sympathizer is a feller that's for you as long as it don't cost anything."

"Politics is just one 5-cent cigar after another."—Lyman P. Powell in the Living Church.

The Irregular Males.

Oliver Iselin, on leave in Tuxedo, was praising the American girls engaged in war work overseas.

"And they're good girls," he said, "better girls, I believe, than our country ever turned out before.

"They're certainly better than the old ladies, male and female, who spy on them on the pretense of looking after their morals.

"One of these old ladies, an elderly New York broker, was talking to a canteen girl in Paris.

"'Yes,' the girl said, 'I adore my work. The only thing I complain of is the irregularity of the mails.'

"The old broker heaved a sigh and tried to take the girl's hand, but she drew it away.

"'Ah, yes,' he said. 'The males were irregular, too, in my young days. As we used to put it—Never trust a female too far nor a male too near.'"

Preserve the Trees.

Probably the most highly prized tree in the world is the avocado pear tree in California, which returns an annual income of $3,000, and was once insured for $30,000. As to trees in general, immediate money returns supersede, in most minds, sentiment or natural beauty. A "landscape robbery" which caused the "robbers" no compunctions, was the cutting of a splendid yellow poplar which for several generations had been a landmark among the Cumberland hills. The forest monarch, yielded over 7,000 feet of first-class lumber, valued at $11,000. There was no one to cry "Woodman, spare that tree!" whose protest counted against its destruction. The countryside has lost a natural beauty never to be restored; the owner has money in his pocket. As Joyce Kilmer wrote: "Only God can make a tree."

TRANS-ATLANTIC FLIGHT

Winchester Man Saw Finish of First Lap

U. S. S. Columbia,
Hortia Fayal, Azores,
May 19, 1919.

Editor of the Star:

I am writing you a few lines to ask you if you would please take interest enough in this paper that I am sending you that I wrote of this great flight, to put it in the Star, for the benefit of our Winchester people.

I am way over here in these islands with people that can not speak our language. If you speak American to them they will say "No Savvy Signor." You might as well be in the forest talking to a "gang" of pine trees.

This town looks to be about like that "Christ walked through when he was on earth." The people live in little houses made of brick about 10 feet high and about 12 feet wide. They keep their cows in the one corner and they live in the other. They use cows over here for horses.

This island belongs to Portugal. American money is worth twice as much as theirs. Their dollar is worth only sixty cents of our money. The people here only get 50 cents to a dollar a day. They pay soldiers two and one half cents a day.

It is now chow time, I will have to close. Give my regards to all the Winchester people.

Clarence H. Bryan.

Hundreds of men on board the U. S. S. Columbia saw the plane high in the air, coming around the corner of the island in a light mist, when it was covered a minute later with a very heavy mist. On sight of the plane, the U. S. S. Columbia blew three long blasts on her siren and whistle to greet the daring aviators. The plane finally pointed her bow down towards the water where she landed with the greatest ease. After coming up and securing to the stern of the Columbia, the aviators were given cheer after cheer.

After the aviators came on board, they were given a huge dinner by the captain of the Columbia and a place to snatch a little sleep, while the mechanicians from Rockaway Beach station, on board, went and examined the plane; put fuel and water aboard.

A small fire broke out in the bow of the plane while putting gasoline aboard, origin unknown. However it was found to be one of the flares used for distress signal purposes. This was quickly extinguished with small damage.

After the motors were tested and fuel, oil, and water was taken on the seaplane, it was reported ready to hop off on the last lap of the flight. Weather conditions however prevented the aviators from hopping off that afternoon. It is expected that good weather will be here tomorrow at which time the aviators expect to sail.

The other seaplanes, the NC1, and NC3, it was learned with grief, met with mishap and had to take to the water. There are conflicting stories about the NC1 and NC3 regarding the circumstances of their trouble. Some messages say that a destroyer has them in tow, while others credit the NC1 as being on her way.

The weather conditions along the Azores coast are decidedly favorable at present. The surface winds are much lighter now over the route. They are accompanied by fog, rain, and perhaps a heavy mist, but it is declared if it is possible to leave here conditions are exceptionally favorable for a flight, and alighting in this country. The sea disturbance is not sufficient to make a forced landing dangerous, except at some point to the west of the islands.

NEW HOPE BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES

Last Sunday was one of the greatest days in the history of the New Hope. God's blessings fell upon us in abundant showers. In the morning the pastor preached a strong sermon from the subject, "The Joy of Sacrifice."

At the afternoon service Rev. Frank Brookins of West Medford preached. He was accompanied by his choir. At this service $402 was raised. At the evening service the Rev. Mr. Dolan of the Baptist State Convention was the speaker. After the sermon the sum of $2,359.62 was reported by the tribe leaders, making a total of $2,761.62 for the day.

A detailed report of the rally will be printed later.

BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA

Mystic Valley Council

A large representation of scouts and officers from this council attended the Greater Boston Federation Rally held at the Harvard Stadium in Cambridge, Saturday, June 7. The wall scaling event was won by Troop 1 of Winchester, F. E. Smith, scout master, the team of 12 scouts going over the wall in 58 seconds. Scouts Alden Reed and Bruce Bond, representing the council in Heliograph Signalling captured the second prize in this event.

Winchester scouts assisted in the opening of the drive in Boston, Monday, May 9th, for the Associate Members of the Boy Scout movement, by giving a demonstration of a day in camp on the common. The scouts erected their pup tens, spread their ponchos and blankets, and cooked their dinner. Those participating were James L. Fitch, acting assistant scout master, troop 1, and Scouts Fletcher Barnard, Benjamin Priest, Philip Hight, Richard Riddle, Robert Woodbury. W. E. Smith, scout executive was in charge.

Troop 5, Charles Farrar scoutmaster, took a hike to Camp Laraway on Tuesday evening, where they conducted an out-door meeting. At this time various tests were given. It is hoped that other troops will follow this example, as it is excellent weather for out-door activities of all kinds.

Scout Donald Ramsey of troop 6, has passed his merit badge examination for first aid successfully, and is now qualified to be a member of the special service patrol in Winchester.

A new Boston record was set for wall scaling by Troop 1, which successfully completed the demonstration in 58 seconds, getting 12 Scouts up and over a plain smooth 11-foot wooden wall. The success of the team was due partially to the work of the "last man" Richard Riddle, upon whom fell the responsibility of boosting 11 others over and then getting over himself with little or no assistance.

The members of this team are: James Fitch, captain, who is center of the High School football team; Richard Riddle, Walter Reading, Philip Hight, Roger Sherman, Harold Gray, Fletcher Barnard, Edward Taylor, Raymond Buhier, Clarence Prime, John Tucker and Paul Sargent. Francis E. Smith is Scout Master of the troop.

OUTING OF THE MACHINE GUN COMPANY ASSOCIATION

The first annual outing of the Winchester Machine Gun Company Association on Saturday, June 7th, was attended by a very large percentage of the present members of the company and a good showing of the ex-members and honorary members. About 65 were present in all.

The outing was held at Villa Napoli, Nantasket, whence the members travelled by automobile, some of them leaving Winchester in the morning and others going from Park Square, Boston, at one o'clock. A few went by boat.

As soon as all had arrived, a parade marched to the baseball grounds, for the first event on the program. President Norton of the association, Sergt. George Fitch, Honorary Surgeon Olmstead, and 1st-Class Private Gleason headed the parade in costumes weird and wonderful. Teams representing the old 1st and 2d platoons of the original Winchester company were captained by Sgt. Barr and Corp. Johnson respectively. The game was very fast, and much hitherto unsuspected talent was uncovered. Battery for the 1st platoon was Richardson and Barr, for the second platoon, Curtis and Kelly. The features of the game were Curtis' long hit and Proctor's slide into the remnants of a bonfire. Umpires Bicknell and Olmstead made some extraordinary decisions.

The next event on the program was the potato race, followed by the three-legged race, won by Privates McKearin and Turnbull. Corp. Johnson carried off the honors in the 50-yard dash. His speed stirred up the ambition of some of the older members of the company, resulting in a closely contested race between Lt. Hindes and Capt. Smalley, and another sprint in which Pvt. Gleason showed that he could outrun many of the younger men.

At this point the festivities were interrupted by a storm with a tremendous downpour of rain, which kept the men indoors until the big event of the day, viz: the dinner.

Dinner was served in the large dining room of the Villa, and was made an event of great gaiety by the cabaret assisted by Russ Wiggin and others. After this the party broke up. Chairman Wallace, Flanders received congratulations on the success of his plans.

These Days of High Prices.

Robert's grandfather gave him a penny to spend, and Robert said: "Grandpa, you must remember everything costs more. I can't get much candy for a penny."

CONG. SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC

A large representation from the First Congregational Sunday School and Church went by automobile, generously loaned for the occasion, to Riverhurst, Saturday afternoon, June 7th, for the annual outing of the Sunday School. About 200 attended.

The many charms of this picturesque spot lent themselves to the amusement of every one. The boating, canoeing and bathing claimed the immediate attention of many. While others sought shelter from the heat in the shade of the pines.

A matter of a little time, however, saw a general movement toward the field where the games were to be held. An attractive program of events was soon underway, to pause only for the big show—the ball game. A Sunday School Picnic without a ball game? Never.

The Boy vs The Married Men

No wonder the Winchester home team was in distress that afternoon, with such local talent away at Riverhurst. What else could you expect?

Mr. Chidley playing first base, proved himself a second Babe Ruth. His three bagger showed a batting eye as keen as any big leager. Deacon Thompson and the Rev. Alexander Abbott, the battery for the Men, proved that Billy Sunday had nothing on them.

The Deacon's Bean ball was working well—but Captain Abbott says it does not hurt to be beamed and he ought to know.

Be that as it may, after Dr. Ordway had given up first base to Mr. Chidley, so he could render first aid to the Reverend Catcher, who had caught one of the Deacon's fast ones on the end of the finger, and the umpire (Mr. Palmer) has been chased, the storm kings arrived and the game was over in five innings and the score 7 to 7, Mr. Chidley's two three baggers doing the trick.

More clothes and a basket supper then claimed everyone. Ice cream and popoodles of it, free for the asking—and some bread line—despite the chill.

The prospects of a warm home prompted an early return to Winchester, all happy, some tired, some resolved never to grow up.

The events and winners are:

100 yd. dash, won by Robert Clark

50 yd. dash, won by Robert Clark.

Three legged race, won by Lawrence Limpus and Robert Clark.

Potato race, (boys), won by Charles Vanner.

Potato race, (girls), won by Dorris Nichols.

Centipede race, won by Marshall Fay, Walter Peterson, Warren Barnes.

Throw Golf, won by Norman Ash.

Cock fight, won by Marshall Fay.

Where are you John? won by Lawrence Limpus.

Sack race (boys), won by Warren Barnes.

Sack race (girls), won by Pearl Dearborn.

Ball Game

Single men vs Married men. Five innings. Score 7 to 7.

The committee in charge included Mr. F. Grafton Abbott, Mrs. Daniel C. Dennett, Mr. E. E. Thompson and F. V. N. Dand.

WINCHESTER MACHINE GUN COMPANY NOTES

The company goes to regimental camp at Boxford, July 19 to 26th. Men will receive State pay, and allowance will be made for travel and rations.

With the expiration of the two-year enlistment term, a number of changes have taken place in the company. Among the men whose time has expired but who have re-enlisted for one year are the following:

Sergeants Hovey, Barr, Woods, Rivinius, Dearborn.

Corporals Richardson, Johnson.

Bugler Dotten.

Cook Proctor.

These, together with the men whose term of enlistment has not expired, give the company a good nucleus of experienced non-commissioned officers to train the recruits.

Lieuts. Hindes and Lampee have resigned, They have been succeeded by Harold Hovey, promoted from First Sergeant, and Seymour B. Willet, formerly a Sergeant in the company but recently a regimental Sergeant-Major at Headquarters of the 12th Regiment. Sergt. Barr is acting First Sergeant.

Captain Prior, Regimental Surgeon, examined Monday night the men who have re-enlisted, and one new recruit, E. J. Noonan.

Lots of room now in the ranks for new men. The company would be extremely pleased to enroll a number of Winchester Service men, but lack of experience need keep no man from applying.

Hugh J. Erskine of Winchester has asked to be appointed guardian of Margaret Erskine Ireland, aged 20, of Winchester.

THE FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of last week The Fortnightly was represented at the annual meeting of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs held in Holyoke by the President, Mrs. H. T. Bond, the First Vice-President, Mrs. H. W. Hildreth, the Second Vice-President, Mrs. G. W. Apsey, the Federation Secretary, Miss Cora Quimby.

It is requested that any member of The Fortnightly who has changed her address, or telephone number, since remitting her dues, send a written notice of the change to the treasurer, Mrs. Florence R. Scales, 39 Parkway, as soon as possible, that the year book may be correct when it appears.

MARRIAGE INTENTIONS

The following intentions of marriage have been filed at the office of the town clerk during the week past:

Arthur J. Quigley of Harrisburg, Pa., and Katherine Harkins of 9 Cliff street.

Coleridge Mullins of Everett and Lilly H. Smith of 47 Harvard street.

Charles A. Row of Somerville and Grace Reiley of 8 Park avenue.

Edwin Ginn of 55 Bacon street and Margaret Morse Cutter of Newton Centre.

Kenneth Grant of 9 Harrison street and Grace Maynard Wilkinson of West Medford.

Patrick McElhiney of 5 Arthur street and Mary Tigue of 27 Loring avenue.

Primitive Plow.

Even at the present time modern plows are practically unknown in Egypt, and all that is used is a log with a wooden hook, the end of which is steel-pointed. Any animals available, from a donkey to a camel, constitute the team, and sometimes even a camel and a bullock are seen pulling together.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

The advent of warm weather—by spells—reminds us that it is June and the season for outings, so the Union has decided to hold its annual open air meeting, calling it a picnic, Wednesday, June 25, at Salem Willows. The trip thither will be taken in an auto truck which will hold a limited number so it will be necessary to apply in advance. Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Daniel Kelley, Tel. 106, or from Mrs. Frank Roberts, Tel. 719-M. It is hoped others may go in their own conveyance to swell the number but the committee would like to hear from all who are planning to join the party.

Members of the Union are asked to remember their dues and also the gifts for the Katharine Lent Stevenson Memorial. Nearly all have paid and the treasurer would like to close the account soon.

Ratification of the Suffrage amendment is the "nexte thinge" for those who believe that women are rational creatures, capable of taking part in the government, and who are willing that they should do so.

War Prohibition seems in less danger of repeal than before the great "Anti" meeting Monday night when the repeal bill was admitted to have no chance to pass. Congressman Gallivan, its sponsor, so declaring.

WORLD WAR VETERANS

As the business of the first meeting of the American Legion was mostly devoted to organization and election of officers, the meeting was obliged to adjourn on Tuesday evening without considering other business of importance.

The large gathering showed a great amount of enthusiasm and I believe the town of Winchester can look forward to, and be justly proud of its branch of the American Legion, now forming all over the United States.

No date was set before adjourning for the next meeting. The officers, however, have decided on June 24th as the next meeting night in the Town Hall. We would like to have had a meeting earlier, but this date is the first night the hall be available. Every man who attended this last meeting is urgently requested to be present on the 24th, and other service men who could not attend the last meeting are also asked to make an effort to be present at this meeting.

There are some very vital questions to be taken up; the appointing of important committees, naming of the Legion and plans for the July 4th parade. Any service man is eligible to join the Legion and it is to their own advantage to do so.

It is hoped that every man or woman in Winchester that was in any branch of the service will get into uniform on July 4th, and parade. It is up to us to show the committee, which has worked hard on this celebration, and the citizens of the town, that we appreciate their efforts and reciprocate their fine spirit.

It is requested that if there are any men who will not parade with us that they do not try to influence others the same way.

If any men feel unable to march, let him communicate with the Post adjutant and he will arrange for him to ride.

Stop and consider the Grand Old Army veterans. When we were boys, we watched them year after year march on Memorial Day to do honor to their comrades who had departed. The past few years their ranks have steadily depleted, but this has been caused only by their being called to the Great Beyond.

If these venerable men stood together throughout all these years, let us start right, everyone of us, and turn out together on July 4th and help make this celebration the greatest day in the history of Winchester.

Harry J. Donovan,
Post Adjutant.

THE YANKEES ON THE MARNE

Oh! the English and the Irish and the
'owling Scotties too,
The Canucks and Austryeleyuns and the 'airy French Pollu—
The only thing that bothered us a year before we knew,
Was 'ow in 'ell the Yanks 'ud look and 'wot in 'ell they'd do.

They 'adn't 'ad no trynein', they didn't know the gyme,
They 'adn't never marched it much—
their shooting was the syme.
An' the only thing that bothere us that day in lawst July
Was 'ow in 'ell the Line 'ud 'old if they should run aw'y.

Them leggy, nosy new 'uns, just come across the sea—
We couldn't 'elp but wonder 'ow in
'ell their guts ud be.
An' the only thing that bothered us in all our staggerin' ranks
Was wot in 'ell 'ud 'appen w'en the
'Uns 'ad it on the Yanks.

My word! it 'appened sudden when the drive had first begun,
We seed the Yanks arunnin'—Gaw
blimy! 'ow they run:
But the only thing that bothered us
that seed the chase begin,
Was 'ow in 'ell to stop 'em 'fore they got into Berlin.

They didn't have no tactic but the bloody manuel,
They 'adn't learned no orders but
"Ooray!" an' give 'em 'ell.
But the only thing that bothered us about them leggy lads
Was 'ow in 'ell to get the chow to feed their "Kamerads."

So we're standin' all together in a
stiffish firin' line,
If anyone should ask you, you can say
we're doin' fine.
But the only thing that bothers us—
an' that don't bother much,
Is 'ow in 'ell to get the dirt to bury all the Dutch.

Gaws trewth! it's rotten fightin' that all our troops 'as seen,
The 'Un's a dirty plyer, bees'e's always been.
But the only thing that bothers us in
'andin' 'im our thanks,
Is 'ow in 'ell we'd done it if it were'nt
for the Yanks.

Oh, the English and the Irish and the
'owling Scotties too,
The Canucks and Austryleyuns an'
the 'airy French Pollu.
The only thing that bothered us don't bother us no more,
It's why in 'ell we didn't know the Yankee boys before.

WINCHESTER HOSPITAL A BENEFACTOR

The Winchester Hospital has recently received the sum of $5,124.98 from the estate of the late Joseph Moulton. Mr. Moulton made his home in Winchester for many years. Owing to the fact that the money was left to the Winchester Hospital instead of the Visiting Nurse Association, which is the corporation conducting the hospital, legal complications arose, which kept the matter before the courts for the past six months.

Gifts of this kind are deeply appreciated, but in order that future errors may be avoided benefactors are kindly asked to acquaint themselves with the legal title of the corporation, the proper forms of which are here given:

Form of Bequest
For the Visiting Nurse Association

I give and bequeath unto the Visiting Nurse Association in Winchester, in the State of Massachusetts, organized in the year 1899, incorporated March 26, 1906, the sum of....
. . . .

Form of Bequest
For Winchester Hospital

I give and bequeath unto the Winchester Visiting Nurse Association, incorporated March 26, 1906, the sum of .... Dollars; said sum to be held and invested by the trustees of the Association as a part of its permanent fund; the income only to be devoted to the maintenance of the hospital of said Association located in the town of Winchester, Massachusetts.

GRADUATION EXERCISES

The graduation exercises of the High and Wadleigh Schools will be held in the Town Hall as follows:

High School, Tuesday evening, June 17, at eight o'clock; Wadleigh Grammar School, Friday evening, June 20, at eight o'clock.

The program for each evening will be about one hour and a half in length and it is believed, will be interesting to all who remember their school days, as well as to those who know the boys and girls and young men and women who will receive their diplomas.

As required by law, the audience will be limited to the number of seats in the hall, namely 1008. This number of tickets will be issued, first, in large part to those persons, such as parents and friends, who have an immediate personal interest in the exercises, and the second, to others who apply at the office of the Superintendent of Schools, until the limited supply is exhausted.

The doors will be opened at 7.30 p. m. Admission will be by ticket only, as noted above, until 7.50 p. m., when all vacant seats will be filled by those without tickets who may desire admission. Persons who, having tickets, are delayed after 7.50 p. m. will therefore be disappointed, as there will probably be more persons waiting than there are unoccupied seats.

HE WOULD GO

He would go over the oshun,
He would go over the sea,
Blow, blow, ye wynds uv the oshun,
An' bring back my Woodro to me.
Woodro, he woodgo,
He woodgo over the sea.

Last nite as i lay on my pillo,
Last nite as i lay on my bed,
My hart it was out on the oshun,
I dremp that my Woodro hed fled!
Woodro, he woodgo,
An' re didgo es he sed.

O what di i hev fer my supper?
O what did i hev fer my tea?
That i shood be dreeming that Woodro

UNWELCOME LOT OF VISITORS

Irruption From the Sea That Struck Terror Into the Heart of Youthful Castaway.

J. Allen Dunn's "Jim and the Admiral," in Boys' Life, contains this passage: Jim is alone on an atoll of the South Sea islands when a band of blacks invade his solitude.

"Something appeared on a seething crest, a slender length of black like a mammoth water beetle, striking out with desperate legs. The next instant it slid sideways down the watery hill and smashed upon the reef. A dozen figures fell from it and then a dozen bobbing heads appeared in the lagoon. It was a canoe, the bobbing heads were those of natives.

"While he stared, first one then another, dragged a weary body up on the beach and rested on hands and knees with heads hanging down as if exhausted. Slowly they got to their feet and staggered up the beach.

"They were like no natives Jim had yet seen. These men were black rather than brown. Their hair stood up in fanlike frizzes, dyed yellow and red by lime. Their foreheads were low, eyes deep sunken, chins retreating. The lobes of their ears hung in ragged strips almost to their shoulders and, stuck in the leathery fringes, were ornaments of brass and shell. Save for a wisp of fiber they were stark naked. And they were almost skeletons. Hips and ribs showed through skin tight as the parchment on a drum, elbows and knees were great knots and the legs and arms mere bone and corded sinews. Their lips were hideously swollen and cracked, they leaned on long spears. One, who seemed the leader, with a flat shell thrust through the cartilage of his nose, carried a club inset with gleaming bits of shell and studded with sharks' teeth. In the lagoon, its outrigger smashed, drifted their canoe, a high prowed, elaborately carved model."

VALUE OF KNOWING ENGLISH

Fewer Accidents Among Workmen When They Have an Understanding of the Language.

A reason for Americanization, as carried on in factories and shops, is that it not only makes the employees better citizens and more efficient workmen, but protects them against accident. The department of labor has published an analysis of the experience of a large steel plant during eight years. For each 10,000 American born workmen in eight years, 21 were killed, and for each 10,000 non-English speaking foreign born 26. The figures for permanently disabled, 28 and 65, respectively, show greater discrepancy, and those for the temporarily disabled, 878 and 2,635, one greater still. Moreover, while from year to year the frequency of accidents among English speakers decreased, it was much less affected among non-English speakers, and the average severity of the temporary disabilities was greater among the latter.—New York Evening Post.

How They Did It.

"Say, Ezekiel," said Samanthy Punkinvyne as she looked up from the paper, "how do you reckon them soldiers kept their dugouts from cavin' in?"

"Why, Samanthy, I certainly am surprised at your ignorance o' military affairs. They cemented 'em with this here trench mortar."

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, 75c.

"CARRY ON"

High School Class Graduation Exercises Tuesday Evening

The graduating exercises of the Senior class of the High School were held in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening before the usual large audience of parents and friends. As has become customary, a program of about an hour and a half in length was presented by the graduates, assisted by the High School Orchestra and the High School chorus. Rev. A B Gifford, pastor of the Methodist Church, offered the prayer.

The exercises this year were considered by many in the hall to have been the best in a long time. The attendance was a record breaker, both the large and small hall, as well as both balconies, being filled to the limit of the number allowed in the building.

The decorations were of a highly effective and very simple nature. Across the top of the centre of the stage was the class motto, "Carry On," made of gold letters on a background of purple. Across the back of the stage was a fine United States flag, and across the front, just in front of the foot lights, were potted hydrangeas, which, when the foot lights were turned on, made a most pleasing setting.

The exercises were carried out with great credit to the graduates and those who assisted them. The speeches were all given in clear tones which carried through the whole hall and were without exception most excellently rendered. The violin solos by Miss Felber and the vocal solos by Miss Bond were rendered in a manner to excite much applause and cause many to regret that an encore was not possible. The orchestra gave a number of well played selections and the work of the chorus was a credit to Mr. Richard W. Grant, instructor in music, who led it.

The principal feature of the exercises was the pageant "Americans All," written and arranged by Miss Anne Zueblin, a member of the graduating class. The theme of the pageant was America, represented by the characters of Uncle Sam, Democracy, Faith, Hope, Charity, Liberty, Fraternity, Equality, Prosperity and Peace, welcoming the nations of the earth to share her blessings with her, the various foreign nations and countries being represented by boys and girls in costume, who came forward in turn to receive the golden star which Democracy bestowed upon them.

Another feature was the presentation and acceptance of a memorial tablet containing the names of the members of the school who had died in the service.

Class Song, 1919

On the threshold now of another world
We stand, with a raptur'd gaze,
Feeling the whisper'd promise fair
Of the wealth of coming days.

The glorious Future stands beyond,
And she calls commandingly,
Urging us on to finer tasks
Which we but dimly see.

Yet shall we go with courage high,
Souls confident and strong,
Having a will all powerful
To choose the right from wrong.

For eagerly our hearts shall beat
With this ambition keen,—
A name to earn, and a worthy one,
For the class nineteen-nineteen.

LOUIS GODDU DEAD

Noted Inventor Passed Away on Wednesday

Louis Goddu, inventor of much of the machinery in use throughout the world in manufacture of shoes, died Wednesday at his home, 13 Madison avenue. For many years Mr. Goddu was connected with the United Shoe Machinery Company, and was instrumental in having the big plant located in this town some 20 years ago, the establishment later expanding to greater proportions in Beverly.

In all Mr. Goddu was allowed about 300 patents, the greater number on machinery identified with the shoe business, although his genius found expression in scores of devices outside his life work, including a burner for use of petroleum as fuel. In 1899 he was awarded a gold medal at Chicago for a machine producing wire nails. His talent was recognized in foreign countries and medals were bestowed on him by royalty.

In the early sixties Mr. Goddu, while employed as a cobbler in Boston, devised machines for pegging shoes and performing other operations. He later invented machines that sewed shoes with wire, following with a series of sewing machines employing wire, and eyeletting machines. The list of devices covered about every operation and, in an improved form are in general use today. A generation ago Mr. Goddu was connected with the McKay Metallic Fastener Association, manufacturers of shoe machinery, and when that company was merged with the United Shoe Machinery Company, went with the new concern. Since 1900 most of his experimenting was done in a shop near his home.

One of the inventions of Mr. Goddu in universal use is the wire staple for binding books and pamphlets, the machine having been perfected many years ago. He was granted patents on turrets for war-ships and devised improvements in car construction calculated to expedite traffic. His model for the Brooklyn bridge, built many years ago, attracted widespread attention.

Mr. Goddu was born in St. Cesaire, Canada, Oct. 1, 1837, and was thrown on his own resources at 14. He married Miss Rozana E. Roy, who died many years ago. He leaves three daughters, Rozana E. Lane, Vienna G. Preston, and Edna, and sons, Louis H., Napoleon, William and George, the latter having succeeded to his father's position with the United Shoe Machinery Company. Services will take place at 2.30 p. m. at the residence this afternoon. The interment will be at Wildwood. interment will be at Wildwood cemetery.

MARRIAGE INTENTIONS

Marriage intentions have been filed with the Town Clerk during the past week as follows:

Herman Hartwell Haskins of 183 Parkway and Helen Edith Hoff of Somerville

William Samuel Joyce of 165 Washington street and Margaret Louise Stone of 201 Washington street.

Bert F. Pease and Jennie L. Porter, both of 25 Vine street.

Howard Thomas Fraser of 112 Main street, Woburn and Florence McCall of 635 Main street.

TOWN MEN PRESENT DEMANDS

Men employed on the Town Highway, Sewer and Water departments went out on a strike Wednesday morning, asking $4 a day, with Saturday a half holiday. This represents a raise of 50 cents a day. The men already have a half day Saturday. After the men had been interviewed by Town Engineer James Hinds, who explained that their demands could not be met until a meeting of the heads of the various departments had been held, they returned to work. The various heads of the departments met last evening at the Town Hall to consider the matter.

BASE BALL TOMORROW

The Columbus Club of Dorchester will be here tomorrow for a game. This team is one of the contenders for the championship of that district and outside of the St. Ambrose team which beat them 2 to 0 Tuesday they look the class of that section. They have a fast crowd of players and a good battery in Ryan and Wayman. The catcher, Wayman, was formerly with the Cleveland team of the American League. With the brand of ball Winchester is playing we should see some of the old time enthusiasm on the field.

SPEAKS AT CELEBRATION

Lieut. Governor Cox to Address Boys in Service at Dinner

Announcement has been made that Lieut. Governor Cox will be the speaker at the dinner to be given the Winchester men in service at the town hall on the evening of July 3rd. This is welcome news to everyone, as Winchester will be glad to welcome the Lieutenant Governor on this occasion.

The invitations to the boys will be sent out tomorrow. The committee desire to reach every man in service, and should anyone be omitted, he should understand that it was caused by some unavoidable reason, for those some unavoidable reason, for those in charge are making every endeavor to send everyone an invitation. Therefore, if you do not receive your invitation, and you are or have been in the service, do not hesitate to go to the town hall and apply for your tickets.

PROGRAM

July 3
Dinner at Town Hall at 6 p. m. Dancing from 8.30 to 12. (Invitation of the Fortnightly).

July 4
Baseball at Manchester Field at 10.30 a. m., Soldiers vs. Sailors.

Baseball at Manchester Field at 2 p. m., Winchester vs. St. John's Catholic Club of Cambridge.

Parade at 1.30 p. m.

The town clerk's room at the town hall will be open for the distribution of tickets every day from now until the 28th, and on the 28th the office will be kept open until 9 p. m. for the convenience of everyone.

If a man is unable to call personally for his tickets, he may send any member of his family, who may obtain his ticket. All tickets are to be numbered and checked, simply to insure that they go into the proper hands.

One big feature of the celebration will be the parade on the Fourth. This will start at 1.30 from the corner of Washington and Mt. Vernon streets. The route will be by way of Washington and Main streets to Bacon street; thence to Church street to the centre, up north Main street, Swanton to Washington street, to the town hall, where the men in service will review the marchers with the Board of Selectmen.

Practically every organization in town has signified its intention to participate in the parade, either by entering a float or marching. There will be four bands, four drum corps, two bands of bagpipes and other music. All in all, this portion of the program promises to be a big feature.

The dance to follow the dinner is by invitation of The Fortnightly. The ladies of this organization never do anything by halves, and they are going to give the boys and their partners the best time they have had since before the war.

The base ball game on the morning of the 4th, between the soldiers and sailors, also promises to be one of the principal features. Charley Flaherty will captain the Army team and Henry Matthews the Navy.

The afternoon ball game will be at 2 o'clock. The town team will meet the St. John's Catholic Club of Cambridge, one of the strongest semi-professional teams in this vicinity, and the game will undoubtedly be the best of the whole year.

The other features of the celebration, including the music, fireworks, etc., have all been arranged for and will really make a big program in themselves.

All of the public buildings, the stores and business houses in the centre and many private residences along the route of the parade will be decorated for the affair, and all citizens are urged to fly their flags and decorate in honor of our boys in service.

The Committee on Decorating would like citizens to lend their flags for decorating the streets, the 4th of July. Flags may be left at the Town Engineer's Office, Town Hall. All are asked to write their name plainly on their flag, so that it may be returned to them.

BIG FIRE

Screen Factory Burned Down Sunday Morning

The old screen factory at North Winchester was burned to the ground early Sunday morning, lighting up the country for miles around. The fire was the most spectacular the town has had in a long time. Although on a bright moonlight night, situated as it was in the open meadows with no other buildings or trees near it, the fire was seen from all parts of the town.

It was discovered by the engineer of a passing train shortly before three o'clock Sunday morning. He blew his whistle and awoke Boyce A Emerson of 52 Cross street, who telephoned the fire station. Others were awakened at about the same time by the illumination and locomotive.

Two alarms were immediately rung in, the second calling the motor pump of our department and a chemical from Woburn. The fire force was not of much use, however, for the flames were through the roof before they arrived on the scene. Over 1000 feet of hose was laid and one stream was played on the building as it burned. The alarm was sounded at 2.50 a. m. and by 4.30 there was little left of the building.

The old factory was well known to everyone at the Highlands. Built in 1897 by F. O. Snow for a screen factory, it had lain vacant for the past four or five years. The building was 32x60 feet, three and a half stories high, being built of lumber sawed and fitted to erect in New Hampshire. Three or four years ago it passed over to the late Arthur E. Whitney and was then sold to Daniel J. Daly, who owned it at the time of its burning down. It is reported that there was $1000 insurance on it. For some time it had been used for storage.

It is thought the factory was set on fire, as it was in an isolated position and there could be no reason for it catching otherwise.

GRANT WILKINSON

Mr. Kenneth Grant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Grant of Harrison street, and Miss Grace Margaret Wilkinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Alonzo Wilkinson, of West Medford, were united in marriage last evening at the home of the bride's parents by Rev. Henry Francis Smith, pastor of the West Medford Congregational Church.

The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. Pink rambler roses, asparagus fern and an abundance of summer flowers made an effective setting for the affair. The bride wore for her wedding dress a creation of white bridal satin, with tulle veil and orange blossoms. Her shower bouquet was of Mignon roses and lillies of the valley.

Miss Charlena A. Grant, the groom's sister, was maid of honor, and Mr. Rufus L. Sisson, Jr. of Potsdam, N. Y., a classmate of the groom at Dartmouth, '14 was best man. The ushers were Messrs. Dexter A. Tutein and Leon P. Tuck of this town and Roger M. Wilkinson and Harold A. Dykeman of West Medford.

A reception followed the ceremony the couple being assisted in receiving by their parents. Following an automobile trip through the mountains, they will make their home at 1 B[illegible] ston terrace, West Medford.

AN URGENT APPEAL

Winchester has a reputation to sustain. In every drive here during the past three years we have gone over the top. Now we are in urgent need of (500) five hundred dollars to keep our baseball on the field until Oct. 1st. Who will be one of 50 men to give $10.00 or who one be one of 100 men to give $5.00 to sustain our reputation as a live town. The manager gives his service freely to keep the interest going but he cannot do it alone. Woburn and Lexington have had no trouble in collecting sufficient funds. Are we going to lag? I don't think so, if I know Winchester people. Send all checks, large or small, to

THE WINCHESTER STAR DEMONSTRATION HOME GARDEN

Conducted by

MRS. ALONZO F. WOODSIDE, 30 Lebanon Street

Co-operating with the

Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture and Home Economics

Uncle Cy was asked by his neighbor why he had so many bugs on his crops. The farmer replied that every time he killed a bug a dozen more came to the funeral.

Sometimes it does seem as if this was the case so rapidly do the insects breed and increase. At first appearance of any insect measures for its control should be taken at once. Another week of neglect might mean a ruined crop or a badly damaged garden.

Look the tomato plants over for signs of plant lice. A curled leaf turned brown will give you a clue. The one or two plant lice you find there are the forerunners of countless thousands a few weeks later. Buy some 40 per cent Nicotine Sulphate such as "Black Leaf 40" and use it now.

If you have a small patch of potatoes destroy the yellow egg clusters of the potato bug which you will find on the underside of the leaves. It will pay you to do this. Potato bug eggs are also found on tomato leaves, beetuce, blades of grass and other plants. Potatoes should be sprayed now with Bordeaux mixture and arsenate of lead. An application every two weeks up until the last of August is required for best results. A fine penetrating mist gives the best satisfaction in spraying and care should be taken that the leaves of the plants and the underside of the leaves are sprayed as well as the exposed leaf surface.

Vine borers do a vast amount of damage to cucumbers, squashes and melons. A practical way for the home gardener to prevent much of this trouble is to cover the hills with a frame covered with mosquito netting. These protectors not only keep away the vine borer moths but the striped cucumber beetles and squash bugs until the time arrives when the vines require more space in which to grow. At this period it is too late for the vine borers to do much damage. However, if the borers do get into the vine through neglect they should be removed through a slit in the stem near the ground as soon as the vine commences to wilt. Pump dirt should be banked up against the vine where the slit is made. If several joints of the vine are covered with soil a secondary root system will develop and thereby help to maintain a vigorous plant. Striped cucumber beetles do much damage to cucumber, squash and other vines. They not only eat the foliage but penetrate it thus making places through which the blight spores enter. Much of the damage from the striped beetles can be prevented by using the protectors as outlined above. One should start spraying their vines as soon as the protector is removed and spray each week with strong arsenate of lead in order to prevent the beetles doing serious damage. Bordeaux is always added to the arsenate in order to keep out blight. The experience of some gardeners has shown that moth balls or other repellants placed among hills of cucumbers or squashes will serve to keep insects away due to the repellant odor.

Rose bugs are a hard proposition in the garden but a good strong sweetened arsenical spray will put them out of business. Use 1 pound of lead arsenate paste to 3 gallons of water and sweeten with a little molasses.

Some form of arsenate such as arsenate of lead and some fungicide such as Bordeaux mixture and a 10 per cent Nicotine Sulphate as "Black Leaf 40" are the only spray materials needed by the average home gardener. Arsenate of lead and bordeaux are often combined in a convenient paste form. It is undoubtedly more convenient to use one of the commercial bordeaux-lead combinations than to try to make them at home when needed in only small quantities although they are much more expensive. Use three times as strong as recommended. Bordeaux-lead combinations will prevent blights on potatoes, cucumbers and melons and kill all leaf eating insects such as potato bugs, flea beetles and most caterpillars. "Black Leaf 40" kills by contact all sucking insects, the most common of which are the plant lice or aphids. It may be safely and effectively used with bordeaux or lead combinations.

An ounce of prevention in the garden at this time is worth a pound of spray material applied a month later.

KNEELAND ON COMMITTEE

New Republican League of Massachusetts Formed

Representative William A. Kneeland is a member of the Executive Committee of the new Republican League of Massachusetts, the newest thing in political organizations launched for the purpose of interesting the young men in public affairs.

Louis K. Liggett is president; Henry L. Bowles of Springfield, Maj. Carroll J. Swan of Boston and Alexander B. Campbell of Worcester, vice-presidents.

The dues are fixed at $100 a year. No member may contribute more than $5 a year to the funds of the organization. The new organization hopes to enroll 100,000 members before the Fall campaign. "The League," said Sec. Turner Saturday, "is to be a young men's organization, whose watchword is Americanism. We want to draw into the league all the young men of the State who believe that the permanent welfare of the State and Nation depend on the Republican party.

"We hope to carry on a constant campaign of education by speech and printed matter along the lines of genuine Americanism, upholding the fundamental institutions of the Government and society against the destructive tyranny of Socialism and Bolshevism.

"We desire to work with the State, city and town committees of the Republican party, and we have the hearty indorsement of the Republican State Committee.

"There are between 700,000 and 800,000 men in this State entitled to register and vote. More than 10,000 of them fail to do so. Right here is a great piece of work for this league to tackle. Let's get these men on the lists and let's get them interested enough in public affairs to induce them to exercise the right of suffrage. Whenever we have a big vote Massachusetts is overwhelmingly Republican.

"We must get ready to fight the battle against Socialism, Bolshevism or Internationalism. The Red flag must be banished. The ballot is our great weapon. It is all right to pass laws against these men and their emblems, but we must have honest, fearless, courageous men in office to enforce the laws and see that the Anarchists and other violators of the law are punished, and that the punishment fits the crime. We stand for 100 percent Americans. No diluted American will do. The Republican League is in the field to see to this."

W. C. T. U. NOTES

Plans for the annual outing of the Union have been completed and the following schedule is announced. The barges will start from the Methodist church at 9.30 a. m. Wednesday, June 25, and all who are planning to go are asked to be there at that time, except those living in the vicinity of Washington and Lebanon streets, where a stop will be made a few minutes later. In case of stormy weather the arrangements will be cancelled and there will be no outing this year, as postponement is not practicable. The place for the outing is Salem Willows and arrangements for a good time have been duly made.

It is asked that those wishing to go should notify the committee not later than Monday, June 23, as it will depend upon the number going what conveyance shall be used. Mrs. Frank Roberts, Tel. 719-M, has the matter in charge, and will give further information regarding the plans.

Day by day reveals the continual sea-sawing of the "wets" regarding the prohibition question. To repeal, or to nullify, or to hope for the President's action, or to trust to some new development to erase the handwriting on the wall—they do not seem able to decide which were the best thing to do. They have so long trusted to their gods of brass and stone or—to be less metaphorical—to those of silver and gold, that they cannot adjust themselves to the new spirit of the people they have so long and so easily controlled. They have at last conceded the futility of opposition to the constitutional amendment, but they still have hopes of relief through the exercise of President Wilson's privilege of changing his mind. It is admittedly their one hope at present except by the hazardous route of a new constitutional amendment, but while there is life there is hope. We who have long beat almost helplessly against the iron walls of the liquor traffic can appreciate their feelings except for the difference in the objective. "Thrice is he arm'd who hath his quarrel just," and they have only self interest to oppose high ideals.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES

The following case of contagious disease has been reported to the Board of Health for the week ending June 19: 1 Diphtheria.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases of Deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists 75c.

BASE BALL NEWS AND NOTES
By "Mack"

Saturday Winchester met and defeated the Boylston A. A. of Jamaica Plain 3 to 0. The home team had a much better lineup than on the previous Saturday and had little trouble beating the visitors. Comerford, the former Yale pitcher was in the box for Winchester and had the game well in hand at all stages. He was also backed up in good shape by the fielding. I had to make several last minute changes in our lineup to do the inability of our players to get away. The time is now here when we can get what players are necessary, so good ball should be seen from now on.

On June 17th we met the Carr Eastener Co. of Cambridge and beat them 3 to 1. This game showed another good pitcher on the mound for Winchester and we are going to keep him here for the rest of the season if possible. The Carr Co. team is as good a team as we are liable to face this season and they were not in it at any stage of the game with Winchester. The only run scored should have been an easy out as the ball took a bad bounce over Sanford's head when he was all set for the play. Waters had the Carr team stopped from the first inning. Leison who pitched for the visitors was hit hard and only great fielding kept the score low.

The Carr Co. team as a whole showed good base ball but were up against a better outfit and one which played the string out.

NOTES

3 won, 2 lost, for a percentage of .600. That looks better.

I had to let Gilmore, Lipschultz and Press go as they failed to show anything here as ball players ought to show.

Press is practically done as a pitcher; being unable to deliver anything but a straight ball.

Gilmore played with the Bethlehem Steel Co. nine Saturday and his team was beaten.

Morton who filled in as third base looks like a good player. He said he would play the rest of the season here beginning this Saturday.

Purdy who filled in as right fielder in an old N. E. league played and is a good man. He lives here in Winchester. Tom Flaherty covered second, and helped out in an emergency, but his place is right field. He and Purdy will alternate places during the season.

June 17 showed the best team of the year on the field for Winchester, and a still better one coming Saturday.

Waters the pitcher is a good man and looks as though he will be able to hold most of the teams that face us this season.

Jim Prior on first is a star at that post and is rated as one of the best batters in the Suburban league. He is also a fine left hand pitcher.

No fault can be found with Ralph Hatch as a pitcher but we have got to hit to Winchester games. Ralph to hit to Win games. Ralph will stick with the team and I will use him when possible.

Sanford on second is a finished ball player but I am not certain about holding him. He plays with the Watertown Arsenal team Saturday and he said he may be back again with Winchester.

DeLong who played third base is an experienced player and can fill any position in the infield. He is also a fast man and a nice batter.

Blue and Prior failed to show much as batters in the holiday game, by both are not expected to hit southpaw pitching.

this game but wated him bat. I expect to see him lead the team in hitting before the season is over.

Leison who started the game for the Carr Co. is a good pitcher but he was up against it in the live crowd we had facing him.

Nellis who caught him looked good but we had no opportunity to test his aim. While Flaherty stopped the other baseman well off the bag.

Keller who played first base looked to be the best player on the team but he tried on two occasions to get away with a little questionable baseball. If baseball cannot be played clean, better cut it all together.

Watertown was beat us so badly a couple of weeks ago and beat the St. Ambrose Club and beat them 5 to 4 in a good game.

Woburn was given a jolt when the Watertown Arsenal beat them 7 to 1, hitting Weafer all over the field.

On the holiday they beat the U. S. Shipping team 7 to 0. This team has a big reputation but the only thing they got was their hand. The ball team fails to deliver. They have been beaten regularly. Woburn had a good team on the field June 17th.

In conclusion we had a little difficulty with the crowd that came here with the Carr Co. team. The crowd who attend the game here in Winchester are noted for being fair to visiting teams and at all times orderly. The benches are for players, scorer, manager and assistants. No others are allowed on the benches. The Umpire orders the benches cleared and failure to do so can cause a forfeiture of the game either on our side or the visitors. We have no trouble on our bench as the ones who occupy it generally moves away when the game starts. But in the June 17th game this crowd of 15 or 20 insisted on staying where they knew they had no right whatever. The officer was only doing his duty when he asked these men to sit in the grandstand where there was plenty of room or on the grass where a great many more were sitting. The man with whom I did business about this game was not with the team and perhaps things would have been different. We do not ask outsiders to do anything we will not do ourselves, but while I am managing baseball in this town I expect visitors and players alike to observe the rules and regulations of a ball game irrespective of their reputation as a ball team and from now on no one is going to stay on the player's benches unless in uniform.

BIG FIELD AT COUNTRY CLUB

Three Events on Seventeenth Proved Attraction to Many.

Three events at the Winchester Country Club on Tuesday, the 17th, attracted a field of over 70 players during the afternoon, with almost as many for the morning. Ideal weather and attractive tournaments proved a big drawing card.

The mixed foursomes in the afternoon, one-half added handicap, was won by Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Bond with a gross of 102 and a net of 74. Mrs. H. K. Clarke and Mr. J. STRIKE ON WOBURN CAR LINE

Motormen and conductors of the Woburn line of electrics went out on a sympathetic strike with the men at Lowell Wednesday, and without warning to the public the cars cease running, there being no service. The Lowell operatives refused to use the hand register on open cars. It is reported that the Reading line operatives will also go out on a sympathetic strike.

SCOUT DEMONSTRATION

Boys Gave Excellent Exhibition Friday Evening

The Boy Scout demonstration in the town hall on Friday evening was an event of much importance to the youth of Winchester, and the entertaining and well carried-out program furnished excellent entertainment for the large number of parents and friends who attended. The proceeds from the evening are to be used by the Scouts for the benefit of the Winchester Hospital and for the purchase of needed Scout equipment.

The program opened with the sounding of "Assembly" by the bugler. Troops 1, 2, 3, 5, 6 and 7, filing on the stage, while Troop 1 sang "Hail, Hail, We Scouts Are Here." The first number consisted of an explanation of the Boy Scout badge or insignia by Benjamin Priest, who drew a picture of the insignia on a chart erected on the stage. He was assisted in his talk by Scout Kelley, who gave the Scout oath, and by Scouts Sherman, McNeilly, Sargent, Hammond, Meade, Elden, Kelley, Taylor, Corliss, Hallock, Franders and Woodbury on Scout law.

Scout Joslin then explained the second class badge, followed by the "poetry squad," made up of Scouts from Troop I, who gave recitations. The song by Troop I, "By the Waves at Night," was another good feature, it being followed by a dialogue by Scouts Kelley and Farrar, a duet by Scouts Fletcher Barnard and Stanley McNeilly, bugle calls by Scout Chapman, dialogue by Scouts Sargent and Joslin, and a singing contest by Scouts Riddle and Kelley.

An amusing number was a tilting contest by Scouts Joslin and Tucker against Smith and Dasy. This was followed by a sketch by Scouts Gray and Sargent, duet, "Roll, Jordan Roll," by Scouts Riddle and Chapman, cornet solo by Scout Stanley McNeilly, monologue, Scout Benjamin Priest; song by Scout Fitch with marching squad; diving exhibition by Troop I, including going over one and two chairs; a tramp scene with sketch by Scouts Priest, Taylor, Kelley, Martin, Riddle, Fitch, Sargent and Bond, led by Hight.

Another feature was the introduction of Troop I to the audience, with special mention of their recent work in the wall scaling contest at the Harvard Stadium, they winning the event and establishing a new record of 58 seconds.

Scout Commissioner Robert F. Guild made a few remarks on the growth and work of the Scout movement in Winchester, and Mr. Vincent Farnsworth made a plea for an increase in the associate membership by the citizens.

A demonstration of the trench carry by Scouts Redding and Prime opened the second part of the program, followed by Morse signalling by the champion team of the Mystic Valley Council-Scouts Reed and Bond. Semaphore signalling by Scouts Fitch and Sherman, setting-up exercises by Troop 3, led by Alden Reed, and stretcher carry demonstration by Scouts Sherman and Gray followed.

An interesting feature was the demonstration of knot tying by a squad from Troop 5, coached by Scout Master Farrer and Gordon Corliss read a paper on Baden-Powell, founder of Boy Scouts. Another interesting number was the whistling of the "Marsellaise" by all of the troops.

The music included selections by the Scout band, led by Philip Hight, and in closing "America" was sung by the Scouts and the audience.

Lincoln Russell ably accompanied the musical numbers on the piano, and the band was especially good, as was the bugling by Scout Chapman. Riddle's vigor in his parts was most refreshing, and Jonny Priest made many a professional comedian look sick in comparison by his work in his monologue and tram scene. In Scout Master Farrer's knot tying squad, the work led by Scout Francis Barrett was done with snap and precision.

The proceeds, about $50, will be used to great advantage, both by the Hospital and the Troops.

As the closing event of the year for Troop 1, the boys attended the Red Sox game Tuesday. It was a fine exhibition to them, especially Ruth's "homer." After the game they had supper in Boston and went to the "movies." The patrol of Scout Donald Estes had won the prize for work for the year on Scout tests, and the day was a free celebration for them, as being their prize.

WINCHESTER DID NOT RACE

Lawson Trophy Still Remains With Medford High

The Medford High School canoe crew four won the title to the possession for this year of the Thomas W. Lawson Massachusetts interscholastic championship bronze trophy, June 17th, through the failure of the Winchester High or any other school canoe crew to appear at the annual Lawson trophy half-mile race on Mystic Lake.

The Medford High crew paddled in their cedar four to the Winchester Boat Club house, where Capt. Stanley Pearce of the Medford crew was informed that the Winchester crew was not going to compete. The members of the Winchester crew had not been able to have regular practice, as several members of the crew are preparing for college examinations, including Capt. Theodore Clifton and David Skinner. Up to the day of the race it was planned to have a crew of some sort represent Winchester High, but apparently the plan could not be carried out.

The Medford High crew, including Capt. Pearce stroke, George Norton No. 2, John Hennessey No. 3 and Webster Harlow helmsman, gave an exhibition race over the regular half-mile course.

The Lawson trophy will remain at the Medford High School Library for another year. Medford High's crew having won it last year in the annual Bunker Hill Day contest.

Entered at the post-office at Winchester, Massachusetts, as second-class matter.

TELEPHONE NUMBER 29.

The Post Office Department has again raised the postal rates on newspapers, notice being received this week of the increase. This time the raise is based on the amount of reading matter carried by the paper and not on the advertising, the Department evidently deciding to lend a favorable ear to the past pleadings of the advertising journals, which claim to have been hard hit by the other tax. The papers, of course, must pay it, and the answer appears as another menace in the cost of news.

The decline of oratory and literary effort abroad at this season causes many of us to forego any thought of making a careful or even casual criticism of what is placed before us, even within the confines of our community. That some of this effort is undoubtedly wasted is always evident, and except for the pride of a fond parent, or the necessity of following a time honored custom, much of it might never be thrust into the light of a June commencement. And through sheer indifference at this season or the necessity of following a time honored custom the good goes with the bad, and unknowingly we pass by and leave forever closed the gates to what might have been in most promising career. We may, therefore, assume that favorable comment made by a number of persons under these conditions is worthy of consideration, and we are pleased to note that much comment has been heard this year in connection with our High School commencement. Two features appear to stand out in their own right, strong enough to excite a criticism and much favorable comment. One was the class poem, written and recited lately recited by Theodore E. Clifton, which we publish in this issue, and the other was the parental, written by Miss Anne Zueblin and produced by the class. We are glad to commend both to our readers for a further perusal, the pageant being published in full in the current issue of the High School paper, the Recorder.

FENCE NEEDED AT WEDGEMERE

To the Editor of the Star:

I wish to call attention to the urgent need of building a fence between the two tracks at the Wedgemere Station. This afternoon an elderly woman who is dared of hearing came down on the 5:20 train from Winchester. A train from Boston was just passing when she got out at Wedgemere. Not knowing it was coming, she started to cross the track as soon as her own train had passed. When in the middle of the track, she felt herself drawn back from behind and looked up to see the train from Boston going by. Of course she should have stopped and looked before attempting to cross. She wishes to publicly express her gratitude to the faithful and vigilant depot master at the Wedgemere Station.

MARY R. HINMAN.

1919 CLASS EXERCISES

Last Saturday evening the class day exercises of the class of 1919, Winchester High School, were held at the home of Miss Katherine Fairfield. The program began at seven-thirty, when the members gathered on the lawn in front of the side piazza and were addressed by Hamilton Gifford, Class Orator. The oration was followed by the reading of the Class History by Miss Kathleen Morse, Class Historian. Miss Elizabeth Cunniffe, Class Statistician, then read the statistics of the class of 1919. At the close of the reading of the statistics, the floor was given over to Miss Anne Zueblin and David Skinner, Class Prophets, who in a very clever dialogue, delivered the Class Prophecy. Following the Prophecy came the awarding of Class Gifts, six attractive articles presented to each member of the class, a number of which provoked general laughter.

At the close of the class exercises the members adjourned to the dining room, where refreshments were served. General dancing followed and the program ended very pleasantly with games on the lawn.

The patrons were Mr. and Mrs. Fairfield, Mr. and Mrs. Fairsey, Miss Weed, Miss Parker, Mr. Thompson and Mr. Carey.

A member of the class is planned for the coming Christmas week at the home of Miss Brenda Bond. While plans are not yet formulated, this may be the nucleus of a permanent Alumni Association.

The committee in charge of the class day exercises was as follows:

Clinton Raynor,
Gordon Wheeler,
David Skinner,
Isabel Beggs,
Annette Mason,
Brenda Bond.

PIANO-FORTE RECITAL

The third and last in the series of three recitals given at the close of the season, by the pupils of Mrs. Annie Soule Lewis, was held in the party of the Unitarian church, Woburn, Monday evening, June 16th.

Pupils from Winchester, Woburn, Medford and Stoneham took part in solos, duets and selections for two pianos.

Instead of the extra numbers—usually vocal—that were contributed by former pupils, Mrs. Lewis gave short instructive and entertaining talks on "Methods," "Recitals," "Memorizing."

With personal experiences and quotations from celebrated educators.

The records for the years' work were read and the names of the prize winners were given.

Saturday afternoon of this week—the pupils in the intermediate grade meet for the social and prize distribution at the home of Mrs. Lewis, which is the closing event for this musical season. Next season opens September 15th, 1919.

EXCEPTIONAL ISSUE

High School Paper Has Biggest Edition in History

The graduation number of the High School Recorder, out this week, is the largest edition in the history of the school magazine. The book contains forty-four pages. The cover is embossed with a reproduction of the pin of the graduating class.

This issue, containing fine engravings of all the principal members of ation speeches and essays, and the usual number of pages of school doings and notes, has been published by the staff during the week. It probably represents more work on the part of the editors and management than any other issue yet produced. The book was printed at the STAR Office.

Owing to the demands for copies, an extra large edition has been printed, and a limited number of the magazines are on sale at the STAR Office. The magazine reflects much credit on the staff in charge as well

SAFETY—because here your money is under capable guard in an institution built upon intelligence and honesty.

CONVENIENCE—because the Winchester National Bank is near your home and offers service not available if you deposit away from home.

ECONOMY—because money in the bank is not liable to be spent so lavishly as money carried in the purse.

AUTO ACCIDENTS

On the evening of the 17th an automobile driven by James Weit of Somerville hit Ralph Whitney, 13 years old, son of Ralph Whitney of 659 Main street, badly bruising and cutting him. The accident occurred near the Mystic Valley garage on Main street. According to stories the boy ran into the street directly in front of the approaching car. He was taken to the Winchester Hospital by Chesley Whitten, who was passing in his car. The boy was badly stunned and frightened, and it was at first thought that he was seriously injured. Doctors Emery and Dennett were called, who found no bones broken. He was kept at the hospital under observation.

Earlier in the evening a car driven by Miss Leona Norton of Copley street was in collision with a car of the Kelley & Hawes Co. at the corner of Mt. Vernon street and Winchester place. Leonard Allen of Stoneham was driving for Kelley & Hawes. There was no damage.

When driving his Packard touring car on Beacon street, Brookline, on the evening of the 17th, Mr. Patrick Walsh was struck by a car owned and driven by John F. McIlvare of Roxbury, both cars being badly damaged and Mr. Walsh and his wife, who was with him, badly cut by broken glass and shaken up. According to report Mr. Walsh was crossing Beacon street from Carlton street when the other car, travelling at a good rate, crashed into him. Miss Edith Curry, who was one of the passengers in the McIlvane machine, was quite badly injured.

On the forenoon of Monday, a car driven by Anna C. Tinkham of Methuen, hit a delivery wagon of the Richardson Market standing in front of the store on Mt. Vernon street. The auto just caught the rear wheel of the wagon, pushing it along the street a short distance and onto the sidewalk. There was no damage.

"The spirit of selfishness wrapped its constricting coils about his heart. The coils, steadily tightening, pressed, one by one, the drops of human kindness from his soul. Hardened, malevolent, a mere caricature of a man, he lived on and on. He died unmourned. Selfishness is a serpent—ominous, inspiring. Across the paths of all men it creeps. Those that look to the ground to avoid the dirty things of life, shun it. Those who, careless of life's dangers, wake up to find it in their bosom, strangle it—if it be not too late. With the rest, its slimy coils become a comfort, a thing to worship. And they live their dying death shunned and ostracized. They die unmourned. —Milwaukee Journal.

ATHLETE IS NOW VINDICATED

War Has Proved That Sensible Devotion to Sports and Games Was Time Well Spent.

Much was said before the war in deprecation of the young man who devoted himself to athletics, remarks the Louisville Courier-Journal. His early death was prophesied by the easy-going sage of a fellow who took his exercise with his right elbow and his recreation at bar and caravansary. Wherever an athlete died his muscular development was set down as the cause of his untimely end.

It has been made plain by the war that the athletic youth is the preferable youth to fight the enemy. It never was proved that he was less able than others to fight life's battles or that he died sooner than the pasteboard, soft-armed, flabby-legged man.

In the army and in the navy athletic sports and games are encouraged, promoted, utilized. Swimming, tennis, boxing, rowing, football, are regarded as being worth more than the time that is devoted to them. Aviators who are supple and well set up, as well as young and courageous, are the most promising candidates. It has been found that the "light hands" of the man who has ridden to hounds are as valuable in manipulating an airplane as they are in taking a spirited horse over the hunting fields and over fences. Physical training of every sort is a good asset for the young man, and how much more easily the candidate who is forty or beyond has fitted himself for military service if he has kept up since college days the habit of exercise and out-of-door life.

No News.

UNION MEETINGS

Summer Schedule—July and August

The Baptist, First Congregational and Methodist Episcopal churches will hold Union Services during the next two months as heretofore. Each church will provide for three Sunday services, morning and evening, and also for the mid-week prayer meetings for three weeks, commencing with the Wednesday preceeding the first Sunday.

The order:

Wednesday	Sunday
First Congregational
July 2	July 6
July 9	July 13
July 16	July 20
Baptist
July 23	July 27
July 30	Aug. 3
Aug. 6	Aug. 10
Methodist Episcopal
Aug. 13	Aug. 17
Aug. 20	Aug. 24
Aug. 27	Aug. 31

It is hoped that the general interest in these Union Services will be large. Sometimes there is a temptation to attend meetings held at one's own place of worship and to take a Sunday off when the service is at a neighbor's.

May all the meetings be equally well attended and each place of prayer be found very helpful. A cordial invitation is extended to all those who do not regularly worship elsewhere.

Set Your Will to Work.

No restless, lackadaisical, half hearted "paying attention" will "get you anything" on the rough and rocky road to success. Your full will to attend, deserve, examine, inquire into, analyze and explain must be called into play upon as many things as come before you in a day's work or study. If you are as content and complacent about your routine as "The Man With the Hoe" you will remain a clodhopper pretty much all your whole life long. You need not hesitate as most grown-ups do—namely, to ask for explanations of anything or everything not clearly understood. In nine out of ten persons one of the facts beneath lack of ability and incapacity to think analytically rests upon their vanity and grandiose ego, which impels them to pretend to know or understand that which is to them as "clear as mud."

Those Straw Votes.

"I really never did take much stock in straw votes," said the defeated candidate, sorrowfully, "but I must admit that there is more comfort in them than there is sometimes in the real thing."

In Advance of His Age.

The name of Bacon has been surrounded in England by legendary tales of black magic and witchcraft. There are songs about him, and he has always been a figure of mystery, even to his modern interpreters. "Friar Wizard," as he was called, knew too much for his age. He wrote extensive studies on the construction of telescopes. The first mention of gunpowder is found in his books, and it was he who suggested its use for purposes of warfare.

Never Give Up.

No matter how old you are you should never give up trying to better your best. The spirit to give up is by far a greater foe than years. When you think right and aim to materialize your thoughts it's wonderful what you can do. So root out the craven ideas of life and keep your eyes turned westward. Forget your years and tackle the young man's task. What you lack in freshness you will make up in good judgment. What you need is the attempt. Only when you make the effort will you really learn what's in you.—Pennsylvania Grit.

WON BY A RUN

Watertown High Took Game on Wild Throw

Watertown High won from Winchester Friday afternoon by one run, the only run made in the game, when Shanahan scored on a wild pitch. The match was in the Mystic Valley series, and gave Watertown six straight wins. Both teams played air-tight ball, and except for a slip in the third inning, Winchester proved fully as good as the visitors. Waters of Watertown pitched a fine game, with no hits and 14 strike-outs.

IRWIN BROS. NEW BIG SHOW

Irwin Bros. Big New Show will give two performances in this town, afternoon and evening, on Tuesday, June 24, 1919.

Irwin Bros. need no introduction to the showgoing public, as their name is known in every city from coast to coast. This season they have endeavored to outdo all previous efforts, and have put together a show of unusual excellence in both point of aristic merit and novelty. Helliott's comedy bears, 5 in number do bicycle riding, dance with the lady who handles them, wrestle and tumble, displaying an almost human intelligence; the Cycling Reynards introduce a trick cycling act that has to be seen to be appreciated and present a most wonderful exhibition of juggling on a slack wire; the three De Homans, one lady and two men, in a high class acrobatic act that is strictly up to date and also give a scientific exhibition of chair balancing. Madame Irwin presents a troupe of twenty trained dogs that excel anything of their kind ever seen before under a circus canvass. The Renos, who present a high-class trapese act and flying rings, are acknowledged to be the best in their line. The famous Le Claire Ponies, long a feature act in the big time vaudeville houses, are also one of the feature acts, and Violet and Lewis, in a daring aerial act of artistic merit, help to make up the feature acts. There are, of course, a troupe of funny clowns to amuse the children and an unrideable mule that never fails to entertain both old and young. There will be no street parade, as the show travels on its own motor trucks, consequently does not carry any tableau wagons or horses to pull them, but gives a Big Show at a small price of admission.

All Carry On

Four hundred years and nearly forty more
Have passed, since visions of an unknown shore
Loomed dark, forbidding, comfortless, before
The first great sailor of the Western sea.
That sailor died in misery, want, and shame,
Outcast by country, stripped of slightest fame;
Yet he discovered land which now we claim
In right of Freedom and of Liberty.
Two hundred years of colonizing passed,
Two hundred years of toil, till men, harassed
By tyrants' laws, were stirred to fire at last,
And fought till they were free, forever free.

A nation, from these early heroes sprung,
A nation great, though new and yet unsung,
Gave to the world her doctrines, then still young,
Those doctrines, our American Ideals.
The greatest victor now, the whole world o'er,
Our country, champion of oppressed and poor,
Makes nations lean and count on her the more
To smooth the way while every old wound heals.
She brought the courage of convictions high,
Backed by her loving sons, eager to die,
That their own land might proudly raise the cry:
"America her sacred mission feels!"

Stand back of her; your country needs your aid;
Keep clear their record, who supremely paid
That this misguided world might yet be made
More than a haughty emperor's humble pawn.
Our soldiers never thought of cost or gain,
As they charged forward through a leaden rain;
Courage and patriots' love, dyed in the grain,
Were theirs. Now breaks for us a great new dawn.
Times still may change, but never let our land,
Preserve our laws, the work of patriots' hand,
And heed those words so simple, strong, and grand,
The dying soldier's cry: "All Carry On!"

—Theodore E. Clifton.

There is a finished layette at Hallanday's, where anyone may examine the garments during the summer to see how they are made. Wool for children's sweaters and stockings may be obtained from Mrs. Rohrman; telephone 755M.

A good amount of sewing has been accomplished since March with the room open two days a week. Following is a list of garments made during this time: 72 pinafores, 59 men's flannel shirts, 10 women's dressing jackets, 3 women's chemise, 122 girls' petticoats, 220 children's drawers, 1 layette, 34 comfort bags. Total 521 articles. This work has been under the efficient direction of Mrs. Hazeltine, who is leaving town in July. When the room opens in September Mrs. Tindall will again have change of the sewing.

Mr. and Mrs. Wendell M. Weston are in New Haven attending the Class Day festivals of their son, Derby Weston. Mr. Derby Weston left Yale the spring of 1917 and went with the Forrestry Units to Scotland, where he remained for one year in the employ of the British Government getting out lumber to be used in France. On his return to this country in July, 1918, he was sent to the University of Syracuse N. Y., and was one of three chosen from a class of two hundred to attend the Officers' Training School at Camp Zachary Taylor. After receiving his commission as 2nd Lieutenant in December, 1919, he went back to college and was graduated, getting his degree on Wednesday of this week. Mr. Weston joined the Reserve Army for five years.

William Parkman Lodge, A. F. & A. M., held a special meeting last evening in Masonic hall. The third degree was conferred upon three candidates. A strawberry festival was enjoyed following the work.

WINCHESTER EQUAL SUFFRAGE CLUB

The June meeting was held on the lawn at the lovely home of the Misses Elder, on Myopia Hill. Combined with it was the convention of the 25th Representative District. A basket picnic and social gathering preceded the meeting. After opening the meeting the president, Mrs. Dennett, handed it over to Mrs. E. C. Mason, Rep. District leader, who immediately proceeded to the election of District Delegates to the Mass. Woman Suffrage Association. Four delegates with alternates were elected from flour nominations.

The day was perfect, the surroundings beautiful and restful, and a happy feeling of rejoicing at the near completion of the seventy years' struggle for equal opportunity of women with men in their government pervaded the meeting.

Dr. Frederika Moore made a short statement of the valuable and self-sacrificing work conducted by the Women's Hospitals, on the other side, during and since the war, ending with an appeal for funds to help continue their splendid work, especially in Serbia, where the need is desperate. In response on the recommendation of the Board, it was voted to donate $50 from the War Fund for Serbian relief.

Mrs. True Worthy White, publicity chairman of the State Association, gave an instructive talk. Education of public opinion is the most vital need and every community and individual should make a special study of the needs of its city or town. She dwelt upon the great responsibilities assumed by women as voters, and outlined a most thoughtful program of study in citizenship. She feels that women generally will not seek high offices but are naturally more inclined to serve locally. She advises everyone to study the relation of herself to the town or city in which she lives. Since food, clothing, light, coal—indeed all things connected with living conditions—are more or less controlled by politics, her outline connected effective work with the expansion of home beyond four walls, showing how intimately interwoven are all public interests with the home conditions. She suggested starting with investigations at some vital point, beginning study and make one's point in town affairs and make one's self familiar with every phase of the community's life—public utilities, housing, garbage destruction, water, lighting, schools, courts, expenditures, taxes, care of delinquents, etc., etc., all of which gave one the feeling not only of responsibility but of vast opportunities for usefulness which are open to the intelligent voter.

SPECIAL AID

The Special Aid makes an urgent plea for sewers. There are a large number of garments yet to be made; dresses and chemises for girls and sleeveless shirts for boys. These articles are all cut out and ready to be made and may be obtained from Mrs. Deloria, 257R. These garments will be a real necessity in a couple of months and the Special Aid hope to get them to the people of northern France before their need is felt.

A vacation with some of this work accomplished is a most satisfying kind whether taken at the shore or at home.

Assistance is also needed in finishing up the material now on hand for comfort bags. There is still a demand for these bags and it is hoped that the regular quota of 100 bags may be furnished this month. Mrs. Neiley, Winchester, 1270, will be very glad to furnish materials for any number of bags to those who wish to assist.

Shelf paper, wax paper, drinking cups and paper napkins at Wilson's.

The Need of Americanism

Parents and Friends:

On behalf of the class of 1919, I most heartily welcome you to witness and, I hope, enjoy these exercises. They mark our final appearance as a high school body. Our four years of existence as a class have covered a remarkable period in history. We entered high school when all Europe was at war; we hailed with joy the entry of the United States into the conflict; and now we graduate at a time when our country is celebrating peace and victory, and has conscious pride in the thought that America is the just arbitrator of the world. And yet, although we now have become partners in the destinies of other peoples across the waters, and must face those duties whether we relish the task or not, we must not forget our own great home problem, brought out potently in the war,—the Americanization of our whole population.

Americanism, or Americanization, is the interpretation of American ideal traditions and standards and institutions to all peoples within the borders of the United States. It is a force to be used in stamping out all anti-American propaganda activities; and in eliminating all causes of disorder, unrest, and disloyalty which make fruitful soil for such propaganda. Americanism is propaganda, but of a kind which stands only for justice. If it performs its work rightly, the United States will always maintain her position as leader of all free nations.

LAURENCE M. CURTIS

But before one can understand our national ideals, he must have at least the rudiments of an education. In the United States today, ten per cent. of the adult population can neither read nor write. They know nothing about the laws of their own country, its history, and its ideals. Many of them live in districts where schools are not known. Instances have shown that when these people were given an opportunity to learn, they seized it eagerly. Out of the first 2,000,000 men drafted into our national army, 200,000 could not read. Is that a bright mark for our educational system? When you consider also that 18 per cent of the coming citizens of the United States never go to school, you must understand the need of Americanism by means of education. An illiterate people do not make a democratic and patriotic nation. Men must be able to understand ideals, before they undertake to support them. The untutored stay in their own communities, never going out into the world, because they cannot read of the opportunities which the world presents to them. The United States also contains tens of thousands who are even taught American history in a foreign language. They do not know a word of our language, and yet in a few years they will become citizens—with ideas distinctly un-American. Is this condition to exist any longer? Too many citizens, both native and foreign-born, do not speak the language of this land.

HOLLIS L. RIDDLE

In considering the need of Americanism, we find the negro problem takes a prominent part. The education of the negro has never received the proper amount of attention. Many are no better off than their parents in slavery days. They live in rude huts, with no understanding to help them rise above such surroundings. Our government has not performed good service in their behalf. True, they have been granted freedom, but that was something that was due them. Until the negroes have been made cheerful and contented, and allowed the opportunities which are offered to their fellow-citizens of different color, Americanism cannot be said to have succeeded.

HESTER BRADFORD

Not all white people are given the opportunities which should be offered to them. Those people in the vicinity of the mountainous regions of Kentucky, commonly called "the poor whites," are sadly neglected. No facilities whatsoever are offered them to acquire even an elementary education. Many of them live practically in the manner of wild beasts, having no conceptions of the ideals of America. These people, unless educated and supported, are a dangerous element in our country,—an element which will be the first to countenance violence.

After all, however, our greatest problem is the immigrant. These people come from European countries where they have been oppressed and poverty-stricken. They come to America because they have heard that this is the "land of promise." They land in one of our large cities and usually take up their quarters in one of its squalid "foreign sections." A new immigrant does not come in contact with Americans and their ideals in such places. They find there people of their own race, living in the same way and thinking in the same way as in Europe. America in reality is just as far off to most immigrants in our land as to their brothers who remain in Europe. They find conditions no better for them in the United States, than in the land of their birth.

A new-comer to our shores has no idea of even our everyday customs. Americans, however, do not offer to teach them to him. If he learns them at all, people of his own race have to serve as instructors. A good illustration of this teaching is the Year Book contributed by the Slavonic National Society. In this book is an article on "Etikette" in America. This article, printed in the language of the Slovaks, gives the customs of the American people,—or at least, what are supposed to be American customs. It contain instructions ranging from the way of forming an acquaintanceship to the announcement that it is "very, very ugly to drink coffee out of saucers." I think many Americans would be benefited by reading that article. But seriously speaking, immigrants do not succeed, for to succeed they must compete with Americans trained and educated to competition. Thus a disloyal agitator finds fertile soil to sow the seeds of Bolshevism in our foreign colonies. Bolshevism,—a force which urges the overthrow of the foundation of society and civilization,—is spreading in these foreign settlements. Agents are spreading the doctrine of class hatred,—a new doctrine for America. This idea must be combatted. The recent May Day riots have disclosed a powerful organization planning to control this country by force. Its strongest supporters are the immigrants who not only have brought discontent with them from Europe, but have had that discontent sharpened by failure in America. Our country has just finished a war to safeguard the ideals which guided the building of the United States. Socialist autocracy is now springing up in the place of German autocracy. Americanism, not force of arms, is needed to win a victory over this new menace.

GORDON WHEELER
Advertising Manager W. H. S. Recorder.

To my mind these are our two great American problems—the uneducated citizen; the ignorant foreigner. There is only one answer—Education! Education national, state, and city. These people must be taught our language, our ideals of government; our glorious history. And with that teaching, we must give them the good old Roosevelt doctrine of the "square deal." That and no more. No supremacy of class. Equality and opportunity for all, in the same degree.

Clinton S. Raymor.

MARION NICHOLS
Valedictorian W. H. S. Graduating Class.

VALEDICTORY

Tonight we sever our relationship with the Winchester High School. The four years which we have spent together have been eventful ones. They have brought to this class of 1919 a realization of what it means to have been born in America, to have grown up in the United States, and to have attended school in a state and in a town where opportunities for education have been so excellent. We have but to look at poor, struggling Russia to see what the lack of education may mean to a country, and we have but to consider that this horrible World War was university made, to see what the wrong kind of education may mean to a nation and to the world. How thankful we should be that our training has been influenced by the principles of right and justice as proclaimed by Washington, Lincoln, and Roosevelt. To all those who are in any way responsible for our advantages, to our parents, to our teachers, to the school committee, and to the citizens of Winchester, we wish to express our appreciation and our gratitude.

Classmates:— From those to whom much has been given, much will be expected. As we separate tonight, and go forth to take up our different responsibilities, let us ask ourselves this question. What part are we to take in bringing to more perfect fruition our American ideals? Shall we hear the cry for workers and remain indifferent, or shall we, because of the principles which we have been taught even from childhood in these Winchester schools, go out tonight resolved to fit ourselves to become leaders in this great era of reconstruction? For four years we have thought and acted together. Let it be our last common resolve, in memory of the American boys who gave their lives abroad for American ideals to do our part in furthering the ideals of Liberty, Union and Democracy.

Celebration for Men in Service to be a Big Event

Final plans are now being made for the big celebration, probably the largest this town has ever witnessed, in honor of the returned men in service.

Just one feature will indicate the extent and magnitude of the affair it is now estimated that the parade alone will occupy an hour and a half in passing a given point.

Meeting of the various committees in charge have been and are being held every night. Nothing remains now but the few small details which arise at the last minute in such an affair, and these are being met promptly by the many who are in charge.

The dinner at the town hall on the third of July will be opened to accommodate every man who can come, and while it has been scheduled to begin at 6 o'clock, no one should remain away for fear of not reaching the hall at that hour, as everyone will be cared for and such large affairs are usually late in getting into full swing.

It has been requested that all men in service who are able to do so, wear their uniforms—the sailors their "blues." If any of the men do not have uniforms or are unable to wear them, they will be welcomed just the same and given the best time the Town is capable of providing. Lieut. Governor Channing Cox will be among the guests of honor, and a rousing entertainment given during the menu. The Fortnightly, in charge of the dance which will follow, has also spared no expense in the matter of music and refreshments, and this feature will be one thing that no man will want to miss.

The program for the 4th will fill the day from morning to night, and when the last bomb of the biggest fireworks display this town has ever seen is exploded at the close of the program, it is felt sure that no man from this town who has been in the service will hold any doubt of the feelings of his townspeople towards him and his services.

The morning ball game will be

ADDRESS BY MR. HERRON

Will Speak on Army Experiences in France

Mr. Schuyler F. Herron, former superintendent of schools in Winchester, who has been serving for over a year as Divisional Director of Education for the Y. M. C. A. with the Army in France will give an address at the First Congregational church, Sunday afternoon at 7 o'clock. He will tell of his experiences while in the Y. M. C. A. service and of the general impressions he gained from contact with American soldiers abroad. The vessel on which Mr. Herron and Mr. Heffion sailed was torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine. His address should be interesting and illuminating.

Mr. Chidley has just received the following letter from Y. M. C. A. headquarters concerning Mr. Herron's work in France.

There will be community singing at the service, and the public is cordially invited to attend.

June 23, 1919

Mr. Howard J. Chidley,
Winchester, Massachusetts.
Dear Mr. Chidley:

Mr. Schuyler F. Herron of Winchester has returned from overseas after thirteen months of work with the Y. M. C. A. He has been an Educational Secretary at Guillancourt, Marne, Gondrecourt Static Area during his term of service.

We wish his friends to know how greatly we appreciate what he has done for the soldiers, through this Association.

You were one of his references when he went overseas and you will, I am sure, be glad to know that he has justified your confidence in him.

Yours very sincerely,
Carlos H. Stone

The wedding of Miss Estelle A. Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Davis of Brookline, formerly of Winchester, and Theodore W. Shi, son of Judge and Mrs. G. W. Shi of East Orange, N J., took place Friday evening at the Church of the Epiphany. Rev. John W. Suter of Boston, rector honorarious of the Church of the Epiphany, officiated at the ceremony with Rev. Murray W. Dewart, rector of the Church of the Epiphany.

TOWN MEN STRIKE

Highway and Sewer Department Employees Go Out

Following the petition presented to department heads last week, employees on the town Highway and Sewer departments went out on strike this week. Men on the Water Dept. after considering the matter, have not yet gone out with one exception.

The men who have struck are the day men, those known as the salaried men employed by the year, still remaining at work. Th men have struck for 50 cents a day increase, raising their wage to $4 a day. They also desire pay for legal holidays to have a half holiday Saturdays.

The Highway men, with the exception of the Superintendent and about eight others, are all out and the same applies to the Sewer department. The men on the Tree and Health departments have not struck About 35 men are out

At a meeting of the Selectmen Monday night no decision was reached to meet the demands, it being voted that under the conditions nothing could be done.

If the men continue out they will not only forfeit the two weeks' vacation which the Town voted them, but they will lose their pensions.

ELECTRICS BACK

Following a strike of a week, electric cars resumed running Wednesday morning. The Woburn-Medford line ceased running last week on the 17th and the Arlington-Reading line went out Sunday, the men sympathizing with a strike at Lowell over the use of the hand fare collector and other grievances previously published.

Durking the strike the steam trains were largely patronized and jitneys did a thriving business. A number of Woburn jitneys came to Winchester to solicit trade and were warned by the police that they should secure licensese to carry on trade here.

HANDICAP IN M. G. A. RATING

George H. Hazeltine won the handicap vs M. G. A. rating at the Country Club Saturday afternoon with one stroke up in a lead of 45 entrants. W. O'Hara and S. T. Hicks finished next at 2 down. The scores:

VOTED TO MARCH

Meeting of American Legion Attended by 100 Service Men

Another organization meeting of the local branch of the American Legion which is forming here was held on Tuesday evening at the town hall with an attendance of about 100 men from the various branches of the service. In the absence of Post Commander elect, O'Mollia, Vice-Commander C N Eaton presided

The chief reason for the call of the meeting was to settle the controversy over the men marching in the coming welcoming home parade with the State Guard company and their wearing their uniforms. At a previous meeting the matter of marching was threshed out, the Legion voting to march after a lengthy discussion. Since then there had been objection to marching with the State Guard company.

A vote taken on the question gave a result of 34 present as willing to march and 34 who would not march. This followed a discussion by various men present, in which it was suggested that the parade be led by the G. A. R. and Spanish War veterans as escorts.

In a further discussion remarks were made by Dr. D. C. Bennett and Selectman Roland E. Simonds, and Chairman George T. Davidson of the parade committee was called from his home to explain how the order of parade would be made up. Mr. Davidson stated that the State Guard company was willing to march in any position given it, either in the middle or at the end of the line. If the Company received orders to march at the head of the line, it would either have to do so, or could not march. He felt the boys should not object to the Company marching, but so far as his committee was concerned, if they objected, the Company would not march, as the celebration was given wholly for the men in service and every endeavor was being made to please them.

A vote again taken on the matter resulted in a unanimous vote to march in the parade at any place the committee wishes."

The matter of wearing uniforms was considered, and it was stated that while no definite order had been received, it was the request of the committee in charge of the celebration that all wear uniforms if possible, the sailors to wear "blues."

It was stated that Post Commander elect O'Mella, who was absent at the time of his election, would accept the office. Owing to ill health it was stated that he will be obliged to be away from town during the summer, but will probably be present at the meetings in the fall.

Owing to the fact that some of the men will have little time to reach their homes, change to their uniforms and get to the dinner at 6 o'clock, it was voted to request the committee to advance the hour to 5:30. It was also voted to request The Fortnightly, in charge of the dance, to extend that part of the program to 2 a. m. from 12 p. m.

In further organizing the Legion, it was voted upon recommendation of Mr. Blackham to divide the town into three districts, appointing a committee of fifteen with five from each district. This committee will aid in completing the membership and electing the permanent officers. A fee of 25 cents was voted and collected to defray the current expenses

At the conclusion of the meeting tickets to the dinner and dance were given out by the town committee.

Have the STAR follow you on your vacation. No additional cost over the regular price. DON'T FORGET TO CHANGE YOUR ADDRESS.

ATTENDED DARTMOUTH REUNION

Many Winchester graduates attended the reunion at Dartmouth last week. Among those who went to Hanover were Rep. and Mrs. William A. Kneeland, who took with them as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moseley of Kalamazoo, Mich Both gentlemen were members of the class of '94. Deacon Charles E. Swett was another old graduate present, this year being his 25th reunion. Another Winchester gentleman who attended his 30th reunion was Dr. Albert F. Blaisdell, who was there with Mrs. Blaisdell. Others were Mr and Mrs. Charles Lampee, Mr. and Mrs. Carl F. Woods, Rev. and Mrs. S. Winchester Adriance and Mr. Robert M. Stone.

WHITNEY SHOP CLOSES

Employees Strike for Shorter Hours and Union Recognition

The Whitney Machine Co., manufacturing tanning machinery and employing about 90 men closed down last Friday following a strike of its employees. The factory is still closed and the managers are silent as to when it will open or regarding future plans.

According to the company no complaint had ever been received from the men, either regarding working hours or pay. The factory ran a 50 hour week with full pay for legal holidays.

A few weeks ago an agreement was presented to the managers by two labor organizers, Messrs. Cedarholm and Mahoney of the International Association of Machinists. This agreement called for a 44 hour week with 50 hours pay, members of the Association to be given preference in hiring new help, depression in trade to be treated by a reduction in working hours before a reduction in help, and differences between the company and employees not adjusted by the shop committee and superintendent to be referred to the representative of the International Association of Machinists.

As neither of the delegates presenting the demands had ever been employed by the company, and as it had never been informed of any dissatisfaction by its men, the matter was allowed to rest.

Last week Wednesday the delegates, telephoned the company to inquire what it intended to do about the agreement and were informed that no decision had been made. The reply was that the employees would go out on strike the next day at 10 o'clock unless the agreement was signed.

At 10 o'clock Thursday about 46 of the men left their work, leaving 42 at the shop. These dwindled to about 15 on Friday, and under these circumstances the managers decided to close down, allowing those employees who did not go out to leave their jobs. The pattern makers and carpenters did not participate in the strike, not coming under the union recognition.

Whether the factory will be reopened or kept closed is undecided at this time the managers having formed no future plans.

This company was one of those which had entered the big parade for the July 4th celebration, planning to place two floats in line and march in a body. As the plant is now closed, the firm state that it is very doubtful if it can enter into the parade.

An offer by the Company of a 48 hour week and a 10 per cent. advance of wages has been rejected by the Union delegates.

FRED CLARK

Fred Clark, vice-president and manager of the North Packing & Provision Co., and widely known throughout the country among the packing interests, died at his home on Everett avenue Sunday. He was 53 years of age and a native of Senecao Falls, N. Y.

Mr. Clark was stricken with a shock a year ago last November. At that time his wife was also stricken and died. During the past year and a half he had been afflicted with other shocks and had steadily failed in health.

Fred Clark came from old Holland ancestry. He was the son of John D. and Serdenia E. (Smith) Clark. The original family name was De-Clark, his father taking the letter D as the middle initial. His early education was acquired in the public schools of Buffalo, N. Y., and he entered business with a wholesale and retail hardware firm of that city, when a young man, later going into the tinware and sheet metal [illegible] foundering this [illegible] the employ of Swift & Co., at Chicago, being with that firm for twelve years, when he became vice-president and general manager of the North Packing & Provision Co., which office he had held for the past seventeen years. He was also a director in Swift & Co.

He came to Winchester seventeen years ago, making his home up to within a few years ago on Dix street. He recently built a house on Everett avenue, where he died.

In 1896 he married Miss E. Mary Watson of Buffalo, N. Y. She died in November, 1917. He is survived by two sons, Fred W. and Robert S., and by one brother, George D. Clark of Seneca Falls, N. Y.

He was a Mason and a member of the Algonquin and City Clubs of Boston, and the Calumet and Winchester Country Club of this town. Few men were more prominent in the packing business or widely known throughout the country. During the early part of the war Mr. Clark was the chairman of the Food Production Committee of the Winchester Committee on Public Safety, and it was due solely to his able guidance and direction that this town made such a good showing in that branch of war activity. He was widely known and greatly liked.

Simple funeral services were held at the residence on Tuesday afternoon at 1.30, conducted by Rev. Howard J. Chidley of the First Congregational Church. There was a large attendance of townspeople and many officials and representatives of the packing industry, and the display of flowers was most beautiful.

The pall bearers were the same group of gentlemen who served at the death of Mrs. Clark, and included Messrs. Edwin C. Starr, George E. Little, Rufus Clark, Elmer P. Randlett, William F. Edlefson and Benjamin T Morgan. The burial was in Wildwood cemetery.

BOAT CLUB DANCE

By request an extra dance will be held at the Winchester Boat Club Saturday evening June 28th at 8 P. M. at which club members will be charged the same as non-members.

THE WINCHESTER STAR DEMONSTRATION HOME GARDEN

Conducted by

MRS ALONZO F WOODSIDE, 30 Lebanon Street

Co-operating with the

Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture and Home Economics

It is now time for the home gardener to think about the crops he will plant to succeed his early spring planting. Spinach, radishes, lettuce have gone by in most gardens and early peas will soon be harvested and pulled up. The question naturally arises in the minds of many gardeners "What shall I plant now?"

Shell beans can be planted up to July 1st and string beans up to July 10th. Beets and carrots for winter use may be sown as late as the middle of July and satisfactory results obtained. Cos lettuce is an excellent variety to plant during the summer months as it withstands the heat better than the other varieties. Kohl Rabi is an excellent vegetable that grows quickly. It should not be planted later than the second week in July. Cauliflower plants may now be set out although gardeners as a rule find them somewhat difficult to raise.

See to it that your root crops are thinned before they commence to crowd. Thin beets to 2 inches apart in the row and when the young beets begin to crowd, thin again. Let your beets grow 6 inches or more in height before thinning as they make the best greens at this stage. The following distances are about right to leave between vegetables when thinning: carrot, 2½-3 inches; parsnips, 4 inches; beans, 2 inches; corn in drill 6 inches; chard, 6 inches; New Zealand spinach, 12 inches and pole beans, squash and cucumbers 4 to 6 plants to the hill.

If your vegetables are growing slowly spread a pinch of sodium nitrate around the plants and hoe it into the soil. Another way to apply the plant stimulant is to dissolve a teaspoonful of it in a quart of water and sprinkle the soil around the plants with it taking care not to touch the foliage with the nitrate. Sodium nitrate produces fine results on all plants grown for their leaves.

If you wish to raise some good early tomatoes work into the soil around the plant a small handful of acid phosphate. Then make three or four applications about 10 days apart of sodium nitrate to the plants.

Tomato plants should be trained to two stems and tied up to a stake. This method of training keeps the vines up off the ground and allows the sun light to reach every part of the plant. This induces earliness in the crop, produces better fruit and lessens the blossom end rot trouble. All lateral branches should be nipped off. These grow from the junction of the main stem and a leaf. The fruit stems grow out from the main stem itself so there should be no trouble in distinguishing them from lateral branches.

Many gardeners have the idea that a garden should be watered every day during a dry spell. This is a bad practice as it tends to draw the plant roots towards the surface. The garden drys up quickly the next day and a crust forms on the surface which produces a condition for a rapid evaporation of moisture from the soil. Frequent cultivation of the garden does more good than several waterings. This is especially true in hot dry weather. If your garden needs water, soak it thoroughly in the evening and next day give it a good cultivation so it will hold the moisture. A garden should be cultivated after every heavy rain.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE

A Winchester gentleman advances a suggestion which The Spectator does not recall having ever encountered, even by inference. It is to the effect that in our public schools we need a new text book in the form of a compendium of the fixed laws of the land, so simplified and arranged that the juvenile mind may have a proper comprehension.

The scope of the book which this Winchester gentleman proposes would include the statutes against murder, theft, arson, forgery, embezzlement, bigamy, malicious trespass, etc. etc. Against the portions of the text describing these crimes the gentleman wants the attendant penalties set forth so clearly that misunderstanding would be impossible. The real necessity for all this may not be clearly apparent; but the Winchester gentleman's suggestion is at any rate a very novel one.

A group of Winchester gentlemen seated on a veranda a few evenings ago were discussing the subject of why education is a failure. The Spectator did not hear the whole of the discussion and he may be doing the group of gentlemen an injustice, but the subject of the discussion suggests a mistaken premise at the start. Education is not yet conceded to be a failure; as a matter of fact, education in some of its aspects seems to have been very much of a success, or at least to have contributed largely to success.

One of the gentlemen offered an illustration in proof of the point, whatever it was, but this illustration leads the Spectator to believe that the gentleman was arraigning a system that resulted in too little specific knowledge of facts and in too frequent mere acquisition of impression that was at best vague and that at the most partook more of the mental peculiarities of the student himself than of the subject matter. This ... case will be proved by the illustration, barring the possibility which the gentleman seems not to have contemplated, that the Massachusetts boy who wrote this essay on "Tuberculosis" was a budding humorist:—

"Tuberculosis was started in 1884 by Dr. Trudeau, who had it in the Adirondacks. Although consumption is not herited and does not belong to this climate, it is getting very popular. It is often cured. For instance, a young boy was operated on for appendicitis but when opened, his appendice were found to be full of tubercle. He was quickly sewed up, and his father bought him a sweater and out of door outfit and now he is doing well. In Colorado where people have consumption, they had to take their furniture out and build a tent and live in it out of doors. The people of California were very healthy, but Colorado is a very consumptive state, also Massachusetts is. Twelve good breaths a day will cure consumption. Consumption is a germ disease and threefourths of all consumptives are cured. The sleeping bags are very useful to the consumptive people, because they can put their heads alone into them or leave their heads out and put the rest of the bodies into them. I saw the germs. It is a big white ball with blue spots on it. I think it would be fine to sleep in one of those beds with the heads inside and the lungs outside."—

At least the young essayist was not afraid of evolving some of his own personality into his composition. But because a boy in a Winchester school recited, after a general talk about the Redmen and the nation's customs of segregating them upon reservations, that mostly the Indians were kept in reservations, would it be quite fair to condemn the Winchester schools as failures? or to charge that the teaching methods were all wrong because another pupil, defining prefixes meaning of tri as three and promptly illustrated, trio, three o's? Even the glib recitation that the Mississippi river rises at its source, flows which way the wind blows, and empties into its mouth, can hardly be counted reason enough to throw school, teacher, method, and education itself overboard.

Education, fortunately, is not a failure. The public school system is not all wrong. Methods are not altogether faulty. Results are not wholly poor. Something worth while characterizes system, methods, results, and there is still a chance for the lad who jumbled up his composition on "Tuberculosis" to get a star in the public schools towards an education.

In urging upon churches a broader policy of advertising the director of publicity of the Presbyterians makes the remarkable statement that in Los Angeles, "where the churches advertise more heavily than the theatres, they are invariably filled, many of them to overflowing."

The Spectator has no knowledge as to whether this assertion is correct or not, but it raises a point which comes up in all advertising. If the full benefit of judicious campaigns of publicity are to be realized, there must be no disappointment on the part of those attracted by the announcements. If clergymen hope to pack their churches with congregations larger than theatre audiences it will be incumbent upon them to maintain a standard that will hold this rush. Therein will come the rub for many.

Great as the possibilities of advertising are when properly handled, there are always the dangers of reaction to be considered. A church which drew large congregations by garish methods, and then failed to make good, would soon be in a worse plight than before.

The Spectator.

A man, said to be a resident of Woburn, had a narrow escape from death at the centre crossing Saturday noon. As the 12.08 train passed through the center he attempted to jump aboard. He was thrown to the street, and very fortunately for him, rolled along side the cars without going under them. Beyond a few bruises he was not hurt.

While looking for unlocked doors one night last week, patrolman James Donaghey received a bad fall in one of the alleys between buildings in the center by stumbling over an empty packing case. He hurt his wrist at the time, but thought nothing of it until a few days later, when the pain caused him to visit a doctor, with the result that he was informed that he had a bad fracture. He is still on duty and the broken bone is healing satisfactorily.

WADLEIGH GRADUATION

Large Attendance at Exercises in Town Hall

The graduation exercises at the town hall Friday evening for the Wadleigh Grammar School were as usual largely attended by parents and friends of the pupils. The program of the exercises was published in last week's edition of the STAR.

The back of the stage was draped with large American flags and the front of the platform was banked with ... while over the front of the stage was suspended the class colors of blue with the class motto. The Wadleigh School orchestra played the opening march for the graduating class. Rev. Henry E. Hodge, pastor of the First Baptist Church offered the prayer. The address of welcome was given by Miss Barbara Pike, the president of the class, and one of the honor pupil graduates. The chorus of the pupils sang Gounod's "Lovely Appear" before the address of Miss Pike.

A feature of the exercises was a patriotic pageant by Katherine Bryce entitled "To Arms for Liberty." Thirty-five pupils of the class took part in the pageant, under the direction of Miss Davis, assisted by Miss Mary J. Hill and Miss Mary H. Barr, teachers in the Wadleigh School.

The diplomas were presented graduates by School Committeeman Stillman Williams, assisted by Supt. of Schools, John R. Fausey and Miss M. J. Davis, acting principal.

A tribute to the memory of Joseph H. Heffion, principal of the Wadleigh School for nine years, who died while in Y. M. C. A. service in France, was given by Ex-Supt. of Schools Schuyler F. Herron, who went to France with Mr. Heffion as a Y. M. C. A. secretary.

A fund is being raised to place a memorial to Mr. Heffion in the Wadleigh School. In referring to it Mr. Herron expressed the wish that the thousands of school children who went to the Wadleigh School while Mr. Heffion was its principal should contribute something to the memorial fund.

BASEBALL TOMORROW

(By "Mack")

We will have here tomorrow the United Drug Co. team; and let me say right now, it is the best attraction to appear here so far this season, and you have seen several good teams already. They have been beaten in only one game, and have beaten Arlington, the Minute Boys, Quincy—and to cap the good work, handed "Mike" King's star outfit, the Pere Marquette team, a beating last Saturday. I can see Mike picking lemons to beat for the next three weeks.

Well, anyway, they are due here Saturday, and you will have a chance to see some good baseball. Another large crowd should be on hand, and as I have said many times before, seats are a scarce article on Manchester Field, so an early arrival is suggested.

Last Saturday saw the largest nonholiday crowd of the season, but we did not meet expenses. Now in as big a crowd as we had Saturday, and as good a game as we put up, I think the least we can look for is our expenses if nothing more. I am putting my time against your quarter, and I am surely entitled to that. I do not know of any place where you can go for a Saturday afternoon and get any more enjoyment than on Manchester Field for 25 cents, and the meanest kind of a man I know of is the one who will try to get away without paying for the game, knowing well we cannot force him to. The majority of the people in this town are good sports and think nothing of doing their share to help out, and all I ask is that they place their tickets in full view where the non-payers may see them and see if there is not some way to wake up a little pride in them.

I am bringing good ball teams here and getting a good team to represent the town, all of which takes money. With a $100,000.00 ball park here in town, it will not be much credit to the town if we cannot keep such an American institution as the ball team going.

Don't forget to send your contribution to the treasurer, George T. Davidson, Park avenue, Winchester.

BASEBALL NEWS AND NOTES

Heavy hitting and good base running by Winchester, coupled with good pitching by Fred Waters, enabled Winchester to put over an 8 to 3 win on the Columbus Club of Dorchester, Saturday.

The game was played before the largest Saturday crowd of the year, and it showed that by putting on good baseball you can get the Winchester people to attend games, and they surely enjoyed the game. Nothing entertains a home crowd more than good batting, especially when your own team does it, and our team surely landed on the ball with a vengeance.

The game was very even until the 5th inning, when Winchester piled up big runs and tucked the game away; then the airtight pitching of Waters held the visitors in check and Winchester romped home an easy winner.

NOTES

Four won, two lost for a percentage of .666. Now we are going some.

The Columbus Club, outside of the catcher, appeared to be a pretty good team.

Wagman, the catcher, tried to cover up his short comings by arguing with the umpire. The crowd soon got after him, and woke him up. Some one said he caught for Cleveland. The only thing he ever caught in Cleveland must have been a cold.

Ryan, the pitcher, used a slow ball entirely too much. He got away with it for a while, but the Winchester boys soon got used to it and drove it safe to all corners.

Cochrane, the right fielder, was with the Lost Battalion in the Argonne, and was shell shocked. They say he is a grand player although he missed that roller of Purdy's.

Freeman on second base looked good as did McVey on 1st base, but the speed boy of the team seemed to be Sheehan in left field.

For our own team nearly all the boys played good ball. From comments by the spectators they seemed to think we had a good team on the field.

Outside of Jimmy Gilligan on second, all the players have appeared here before this season.

Gilligan formerly led the Converse Rubber Co. in batting and is a very fast and sure fielder. This season he coached the St. Anselm's College team, and won the prep school championship by beating Boston College High.

Morton on third played here Saturday June 14th, and while he did not hit against Ryan, he will show you some later.

Blue in left field comes here with the reputation of being a heavy hitter. He has not shown much here and looks as though he has a weak throwing arm.

Purdy filled in for "Mack" in center and put up a good game. Did you notice him go around the bases when his hit got away from Cochrane? Some runner.

Does "Nig" Flaherty like slow ball pitching? Well, ask Mr. Ryan of Dorchester. That three bagger had a regular Babe Ruth label on it. Tom is no Ty Cobb on the bases, but he did get over the ground on that wallop.

Hevey played his best game of the season and was in a nice double play with Gilligan and Prior.

And that boy Prior can play first base with any of them. He has not done any batting to speak of but he can do it, as his record this season shows. Prior, Sanford and Gillis were the whole show on the Medford team.

Charlie Flaherty is catching and batting better than at any time in his career. He made a clean steal of home in the fifth. He could have stolen that catcher's mask and glove it was so easy.

And Waters did pitch a nice game of ball. He was off form in the first inning, but after that there did not seem to be much to it but Winchester.

Our old friend, "Buck" was around town during the week telling about going to bet $25.00 on the Columbus Club. There were a couple of sports on the field waiting, but they failed to see the color of his coin. There is no use talking, if hot air was electricity, "Buck" would be a power house.

And say boys, while reading the papers last week, I noticed that our team did not look good to Woburn. I did not notice that any of the teams we have been playing were very weak ones. We are not throwing out our chests if we win, nor putting over any alibis if we lose. They should worry up in Woburn about our team. We will be on the field when Woburn is ready to play us some time next month. I would like to have the first game with Woburn July 19th. We will toss for the opening field, or I'll open with a game in Woburn. Anything will suit yours truly. Come Ferdie, what do you say? I am not fussy. I want to give the fans a run for their money.

Watertown Town Team beat Arlington Saturday 7 to [illegible]. Kiley, the Watertown pitcher, gave 10 bases on balls and Arlington stole five bases, but could only put over 3 runs. How do you figure that game?

Woburn beat St. Joseph's of Lynn 11 to 2. It is no way to test a team's strength playing such a team as that. Can you imagine the anvil chorus in Winchester if we played an 11 to 2 game. The crowd would be asking me all the next week, "where was the lemon grove."

The Minute Boys beat the Roxbury All Stars 9 to 2 in seven innings. The Roxbury team is a good one, but made nine errors, which were enough to lose several games. We are going to play the Minute Boys in August.

Rosindale beat the Boylston's in a well played game 7 to 4. DeLong, who played such good ball June 17 got a two-bagger.

Hood Rubber Co. beat the Riverside team of Allston 10 to [illegible]. St. [illegible]den and Dates of Waltham played with them. Shea, who fanned 17 Winchester players when pitching for the Brighton K. of C. was in the box for Riverside and was hit for 17 bases.

The U. S. Shipping Board gave St. Ambrose an awful beating 14 to 0, but St. Ambrose did not have their full strength on the field while the shipping team had several extra strong players in their lineup.

The Carr Fastener Co. was handed another nice trimming by Winthrop. Golden, their star pitcher, getting hit for 14 bases. The Carr Co. is finding the opposition considerably stronger than last season when they only lost three games.

Sanford and Donnellan played with the Watertown Arsenal team against Fore River, but was beaten. "Bobby" Gill, who formerly pitched for Reading was in the box for Fore River. Joe Brawley pitched for the Arsenal team. We had no trouble beating Joe three times last season.

I recently met "Bill" Kenney who formerly played first base here. He is now playing with the Edison team and going good.

The Melrose K. of C. are in the field with a team. They have some young [illegible] colts playing on the nine—Fred Newton, Tom Piggott, Andy Morrissey and a few others who helped Noah shingle the ark are in the lineup. They were beaten in the opening game 11 to 3.

Well, we have been heroes for a week. Lord knows what they will be calling us next week if we lose.

The Navy will be in charge of Henry Matthews and he will have with him:

Arthur Loftus
Phil LeDuc
George Dunbury
John (Razor) Flaherty
Warren Goldie
James Flinn
George Bird
Burnham Preston
Clarence Dunbury
Stafford Phippen

Here is a good team at that.

The game will start at 10:30 or earlier and there will be a band on the field to liven it up.

This game is creating almost as much interest as any part of the celebration, and with the rivalry of both branches of the service, it is bound to be a hot one.

It is expected George LeDuc will umpire. The boys expect to take up a collection on the field, and every one should donate something. More particulars in next week's STAR which will appear on Thursday, July 3.

The afternoon ball game will be played with one of the strongest semi-pro teams in this vicinity and will be a good one, if indications are anything to judge from.

The parade will form at the town hall at Washington and Mt. Vernon streets. The route will be by way of Washington, Main, Bacon, Church, Main, Swanton, Washington to Mt. Vernon street, where the men in service will fall out and review it at the Town Hall as it marches to Manchester Field to disband. The parade already is of such magnitude that it will take an hour and a half to pass a given point.

Among the bands in line will be the Waltham Watch Co. Band, the Athenaeum Band from Cambridge and others. There will be one of the celebrated Italian bands, the St. Joseph's Drum Corps of Somerville, the Lexington Drum Corps, the Lowell Drum Corps, and other musical organizations.

Every town organization will be represented, both in marching and by floats, and some of the effects are to be very fine.

The whole route of the parade is to be decorated, and all residents are asked to aid in decorating their estates.

The committee in charge desires the loan of flags for the general decorations. Any flag will be acceptable, both American and of the Allies, and residents willing to so lend their flags are requested to telephone the town hall (1305R) and they will be called for. Write all names plainly on the hem of the flag.

Persons who can aid and participate in the parade are requested to notify the chairman of the parade committee, Mr. George T. Davidson. Everyone is asked to do his part in making the affair a success.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING

JUNE 16, 1919

The Board met at 7 o'clock p. m., all present.

The Records of the meeting of June 9 were read and approved.

Police Department. Special Police:

At the request of the Superintendent of Streets, the Board under suspension of its rules appointed subject to the approval of the Chief of Police Messrs. Thomas McGowan and Patrick J. Kenney, special police officers for the year ending April 30, 1920. Messrs. McGowan and Kenney who are foremen in the Highway Department, are appointed special officers so as to give them some authority to prevent drivers of vehicles from entering streets that have been closed for repairs.

Invitations:

An invitation was received by the Board from Court Emmanuel Foresters of America, to attend the "Dedication of an American and Italian flag" in the Town Hall on Saturday afternoon, June 21, 1919 at 3.30 o'clock. The Clerk was instructed to write Court Emmanuel F. of A that as many members of the board as could would be pleased to accept this kind invitation.

Noxious Animals:

A letter was received from the Town Counsel in regard to the liability of the Town to pay damages for the destruction of fowle by foxes. This report was received at the request of the Chairman of the Board, because members of the Board had been notified by persons, owners of fowl which had been killed by foxes that they thought the Town was liable.

The Town Counsel states that he is of the opinion that the town is under no such liability, but should the foxes multiply to such an extent as to become a menace, Revised Laws, chapter 50, section 10, provides that a town, at a legal meeting may appropriate money for the purpose of "encouraging the destruction of noxious animals." This statute is based upon a law which was passed in 1817 (Chapter 1111 entitled 'An act to encourage the destruction of bears, wolves and other mischievous animals" and allows a town to raise any sum of money it may think proper, and the money so raised may be distributed in bounties to encourage the destruction of bears, wolves and other mischievous animals, or birds, in such sums as the town which may levy the same shall direct."

Should any of our citizens living in the outskirts of the town feel that because of their distance from civilization foxes may so multiply and increase as to become a menace, I suggest that they ought to ask the Finance Committee to recommend at the next annual town meeting an appropriation for the payment of bounties for the destruction of such animals. Apparently, this is the only provision that is made to cover such a case.

A good sized bounty would so appeal to the red blooded instincts of all of our citizens of sporting proclivities that the pest would soon be exterminated, and while the hunt was on our woods and fields would so resound as to remind us forcibly, if not pleasantly, of the "good old days" of our forefathers."

Scholarships :

The Board voted to recommend to Hon. Edwin T. McKnight, that Mr. Paul C. Cole, 15 Mystic Avenue, formerly of the 116th Engineers, 41st Division, be considered as a possible candidate for the scholarship offered by him.

Police Dept. Patrolmen:

Under suspension of its rules, the Board appointed Mr. William E. Cassidy of 80 Irving St., a patrolman of the Winchester Police Department for a probationary period of 6 months at a salary of $1300 a year, same to take effect at 6 o'clock, June 17, 1919.

Fire Works:

A petition was received from the Winchester News Co. for a license to sell fireworks at 564 Main St., Winchester. This matter was referred to Mr. Symonds for investigation and with power to act.

Invitations:

An invitation was extended to the Board by the Superintendent of Streets to attend the meeting of the North Shore Superintendents' Club which will be held at Boston City Hall at eleven o'clock, Friday, June 20, 1919.

Town Hall Bldg. & Land (Retaining Curb):

The Board voted to have the Superintendent of Streets proceed with the work of laying a concrete retaining curb in front of the Town Hall lawn and also with the construction of an approach to the Honor Roll. Before commencing this work, however, the Supt. of Streets is to consult with Mr. Kidder of the Board and Mr. Hinds, Town Engineer.

Laborers' Wages:

The following petition was received from the employees of the Highway Department of the Town of Winchester, respectfully petition the Board of Selectmen for an increase in wages consisting of 50 cents per working day, and also pay for the usual legal holidays. We have appointed the following committee to wait upon you in this matter: Messrs. Frank Nowell, Patrick Nelson, James Noonan, John Fallon, William Stevenson.

"The committee appointed by the Highway Department employees appeared before the Board and the matter was discussed at some length. Mr. Clarke, Supt. of Streets also being present. The Board decided to hold a joint meeting Thursday evening, in the Selectmen's Room at 7.30 o'clock to discuss the labor question with all the other Boards in Town which employ laborers. The Clerk was instructed to notify by telephone the Park Board, Water & Sewer Board, Board of Health, Cemetery Board and the Tree Warden. The meeting adjourned at 12 o'clock P. M.

GEORGE S. F. BARTLETT,
Clerk of Selectmen.

IN MEMORY OF MR. HEFFLON

Former Superintendent of Schools Herron spoke as follows at the graduation exercises of the Wadleigh School Friday night:

A little more than a year ago, your Principal, Joseph H. Hefflon, answered the call of his country and of humanity. He was sorry to leave you and in his absence he missed you, missed you more than you can know, the desire of coming back to you and planned to return to make more effective his work with you. When I last saw him, a little before his fatal illness, he talked much of you.

With the memories that you have of him, you may be interested in a brief statement of his service in France. He was in charge of the distribution of Y. M. C. A. supplies for the brave Third Division and with them displayed the qualities that characterized him as Principal and teacher. He saw that supplies were distributed adequately and expeditiously and he endeared himself to his associates and to the soldiers. They called him "Pap," as you did, and they recognized his competence, as you did, and the children there loved him as you did here.

During May he was at Chateauvillain near Chaumont. In June he was at Vles Maison, Montmirail, Conde Viffort and Courboin, all near the well-known Chateau Thierry front. In July, he was with the division in their victorious advance across the Marne. In August, he looked after them at rest. In September, he went with them against the salient at St. Mihiel. During this period he became well acquainted with the noises of war and the dangers from shot and shell and deadly gas, doing his work day by day, steadily, efficiently, as if the battlefield were his school, indifferent to the physical discomforts which were undermining his health.

Reluctantly, unable to continue in the field, he took charge of the distribution of mazazines to the troops of the American Expedition Force in France and they were well distributed.

To you he has left the memory of a skilful teacher, a patient, wise and sympathetic friend, the inspiration of the vision of duty and sacrifice. In the American cemetery at Swiesnes near Paris, beneath the shadow of Mt. Valerien, is his grave. Before its cross flowers planted by the loving care of a widowed French mother promise immortality for him and you and me.

In England, they have a great church, Westminster Abbey, and in France, the Pantheon, places in which they keep in goblen letters on marble tablets the record of the men who have done well for their fatherland. I am glad to know that it is your intention in somewhat similar fashion to place a memorial to Mr. Hefflon in the Wadleigh School. It will indicate the love felt by a thousand graduates during the last ten years; it will tell the story of his life and service to those who will come on through the years.

At His Grave

The taps have sounded. There at rest
Lies that dear tenement he blest
By his indwelling.

The warm winds blow, the soft rains fall,
Around, the birds give jerous call,
The buds are swelling.

Where his remembered body lies
Beneath the friendly azure skies
Once more is peace.

Soon o'er that land now marred by strife
The grass and flowers will be rife
Never more to cease.

We mourn indeed but not as those
Who have no hope, since well we know
That home to which the good soul goes
Has neither pain nor want nor woe.
So knowing, we can be content
And patient wait till time is spent.

MUST DESTROY CORN CROP

Tree Warden Samuel S. Symmes received notification from the State authorities Tuesday that his corn crop was considered a nuisance, and that unless he destroyed it forthwith the State would do so and charge the expense to him. This is because the corn borer has infected it.

Mr. Symmes states that he has given careful attention to his corn. He feels keenly the order, which will cause a total loss to him of his corn, and feels it is unjust, especially as the corn borer has infected many states. The present season is said to have been a bad one for local farmers, who are considerably worried over the outcome.

DEDICATION OF FLAGS

Last Saturday on the occasion of the dedication of the beautiful American and Italian flags of Italian Court Victor Emanuelle of the F. of A. of Winchester, there was a large attenance of members and friends of the Court, at the Town Hall.

Sig. Cavalleri Rossi, Italian Vice-Counsul of Boston, spoke in Italian words commemorative of the occasion, giving the wonderful history of both flags, the high ideals symbolic of each, the part they played in the World War and in closing touched upon the democracy made possible by the Stars and Stripes to the citizens of the U. S.

Atty. Felix Forte of Boston made a very stirring speech in English and held the audience intensley interested while he outlined the part of each of our allies in the present war to victory, telling how the American and Italian flags stood side by side and of the friendship existing between Italy and the United States for many years. He spoke briefly on Fiume and other issues before the Peace Conference, followed the fight for democracy throughout the world from 1776 and appealing to the members and other residents of Italian birth to never forget their allegiance and duty to our country and the Town of Winchester, in keeping with the unwavering loyalty citizens of Italian extraction had always maintained to the United States.

Rev. Nathaniel J. Merritt, pastor of St. Mary's Church, dedicated and blassed the flags and spoke informally and lovingly to his people.

Music was furnished by the Panetta Orchestra. It rendered patriotic and opera selections during the afternoon.

BUTTON SALE

The sale of Winchester buttons last Saturday to raise a fund for the purchase of the bronze medals to be given the men in service at the dinner next Thursday night proved a failure, but $250 of the $500 needed being realized. The buttons are to be kept on sale at the stores in the centre, and all residents are asked to purchase one to wear on July 4th. If this is done it is felt confident that the balance of the money will be raised. The sale is in charge of Messrs. George T. Davidson, Henry A. Emerson, James Hinds and Maurice C. Tompkins. Saturday's sale was conducted by a number of the Sigma Beta girls of the High school, they being in charge of Miss Constance Lane and Miss Doris Bowman.

The engraving of the names of the men on the medals will be taken care of by the Winchester Trust Co. as a gift to the men.

GROOM FINED $50 AFTER ELOPMENT

Michael Barbone of Arlington reported to the police of that town Saturday that his 16 year-old daughter, Camelia Barbone, had run away from home. The girl left without any word and took with her a few belongings. He felt certain that she had run away with Amelio Luonto of this town, and the local police were instructed to ascertain if the couple were here. They were reported to have left Arlington in an automobile.

On Monday night they were arrested at a house on Hill street here and taken to the police station and turned over to the Arlington police. The girl said she was in love with Luonto and desired to marry him, so on Tuesday special licenses were secured and they were married. Luonto, when arrested was carrying a loaded revolver and for this he was in the Woburn court, Wednesday morning, being fined $50.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Hildreth are spending the summer at Graniteville.

Mrs. F. E. Barnard is at Merideth, New Hampshire.

QUARRY STRIKE STOPS ROAD CONSTRUCTION

A strike at the Winchester Rock & Brick Co. interrupted road construction at Woburn this week, the city obtaining its road building material from that company. Woburn has one job unfinished, and it is reported that until the strike is settled, the work will have to stand still. There is no information regarding the probable duration of the labor trouble.

Mr. Frank O. Guild, well known as a Boston druggist, who died Saturday at the Brooks Hospital, was father of Mr. Robert F. Guild of this town, a former Harvard man and present member of the local School Committee. Mr. F. O. Guild was 61 years of age and a native of Uxbridge. He conducted a drug store at the corner of Boylston and Exeter streets for over 20 years, was a prominent Mason and a member of the Metropolitan Driving Club. Besides his son here he leaves a widow, Etta M. Guild of Newton.

FRASER-McCALL

Miss Florence McCall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCall of 635 Main street, was married on Monday evening to Mr. Howard Fraser of Woburn by Rev. John W. H. Corbett of St. Mary's church. The ceremony was performed at seven at St. Mary's rectory, and was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents from eight until twelve.

The bride wore a wedding dress of white georgette crepe, trimmed with lace and a wedding veil. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lillies of the valley. Miss Evelyn Fraser, sister of the groom, wa bridesmaid and wore nile green taffeta. She carried pink roses. Mr. Robert Fraser, brother of the groom, was best man.

The reception was largely attended, guests from Ohio coming on for the affair. The groom was a YD man, and was most generously remembered by many of his trenchmates by numerous beautiful gifts. Following a wedding trip to Niagra Falls, the couple will make their home at 635 Main street.

TRAIN TIME CHANGES MONDAY

The time on the steam road changes for the summer Monday, the only trains affected being those coming here from Boston. The changes are not so numerous as usual, and no new trains have been added nor existing trains removed. Such changes as will be made are only in the time of departure from Boston and arrival at Winchester. Patrons of the railroad should secure a copy of the new timetable, however, for the difference of a few minutes may greatly inconvience them.

DROWNED AT FROG POND

George H. Boyle, 11 years old, the son of Mrs. Margaret Boyle of East street, was drowned on Saturday afternoon in a small pond off Cross street, near the plant of the General Crushed Stone Co. known as the Frog Pond.

The boy was noticed by Robert Schmitt, an ex-service man, who was passing by, to throw his hands into the air as he went under the water. Schmitt says he thought the boy was trying to "touch bottom", and after waiting for him to come up, he realized something was wrong and telephoned from the stone plant to the police station.

Sergt. McCauley went at once to the scene and the body was taken from the water, Patrolman Cassidy and Chief DeCourcey of the fire department assisting in the work.

The pond is small and about five feet deep. The place was formerly used for a picnic ground, but of late years the small pond had been almost wholly filled up.

The mother of the boy did not know he had gone swimming in the pond, and thought he was playing about the yard. He was one of a large family of children, his father being one of the influenza victims last fall. He was a pupil in the sixth grade of the Washington School, and is survived by his mother, six brothers, Edward, Fred and James Boyle of Winchester, Stephen Boyle of Woburn, Henry Boyle of Malden and Daniel Boyle, now in Turkey on a United States warship. Five sisters also survive him, Mrs. Ella McKinnon and the Misses Mildred, Mary, Grace and Carlene Boyle.

High mass of requiem was celebrated at St. Mary's Church on Tuesday morning at 8.15. The burial was at Calvary cemetery.

WOMEN'S COUNCIL MEETS IN PARIS

Eighty Well-Known French Women Guests of Y. W. C. A. for Opening Session.

Paris, Feb. 2—Eighty of the most prominent women in France who are interested in all women's problems attended the first meeting of the Provisional Council of the American Young Women's Christian Association, held at Paris headquarters, 8 Place Edouard VII, Jan 29.

Mrs. Robert Lansing, wife of the Secretary of State, who is first vice-president of the council, presided, conducting all sessions in French, as two-thirds of the members represent French associations with whom the Y. W. C. A. has been cooperating.

All women in France are looking forward to the findings of the council as of tremendous importance not only to women in France, but all over the world. The purpose of the council is to collect and make available information about conditions and needs of women, to become acquainted with women who are identified with different kinds of work and to develop a few typical illustrations which will set standards for future permanent work.

Following are the societies represented: Union Chretienne des Jeun Filles, Student Movement, Foyer des Allees, Amies de la Jeune Fille, National Council of Women. Among the delegates were Mme. Jules Siegfried, Mme. Avril de St. Croix, Baroness Warteville, Comtess Pourtalos and Mme Waldegrave of London.

Mrs. William G. Sharp, wife of the ambassador to France, is honorary chairman of the council and Mrs. Francis McNeil Bacon president pro tem. Miss Charlotte Niven, director of Y. W. C. A work in Italy, is secretary.

Departmental and provincial groups will hold meetings weekly to discuss local problems, the entire council meeting at the end of each month. In April, at the last meeting, each group will decide how the information and experience may be used most effectively in the future.

Delegates are guests at the Hotel Petrograd, the Y. W. C. A. Hostess House in Paris.

Y. W. C. A. PROMOTES WORLD FELLOWSHIP

Will Send Industrial Commission to Meet Foreign Labor Leaders.

The War Work Council of the Young Women's Christian Association plans to send an industrial commission of women to England, France and Italy in April to meet prominent labor leaders of those countries with a view to promoting world fellowship among women.

The commission will be made up of Mrs. Raymond Robbins, representing the National Women's Trade Union League of America; Mrs. Irene Osgood Andrews, American Association for Labor Legislation; Miss Grace Drake, National Consumers' League; Mrs. James S. Cushman, chairman of the War Work Council of the Young Women's Christian Association; Miss Florence Simms, Miss Marie Wing and Miss Imogene B. Ireland, secretary to the commission, all of the Y. W. C. A. and Miss Mary Gibson, an authority on employment management.

Miss Florence Simms says in regard to the commission: "The war has forced upon us the bearing of international relationships in all things, and our touch with women in other countries has made us include in our international thinking the industrial life of women. The war has wrought so many changes in this that it seems a timely thing that women interested in the larger life of our women workers should take counsel together and express their interest with the hope that certain minimum standards which seem essential to health and welfare among women may be agreed upon and obtained.

"Our War Work Council is sending abroad this women's commission from organizations in America directly connected with the welfare and largest of industrial women."

Cutworm Killing.

Cutworms which pass the winter as partially grown larvae are generally starved out by fall plowing as their food is turned under. White grubs are destroyed more easily by deep, fall plowing because this insect burrows nearer to the powdered line during October and being turned up at that time cannot hibernate again before winter sets in.

Jim's Will

By LOUISE OLIVER

(Copyright, 1918, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

When Edith got home she didn't know whether to laugh or cry. The day's shopping with Jim had been so different from what she had expected.

Jim, let me explain, was the big westerner Edith was going to marry, and they had been out buying furniture for their house. The house itself had been a rock upon which their prospects of marital bliss had almost gone to pieces, but Edith had finally given in and allowed Jim to buy the suburban horror of brick and stone that he insisted upon.

"Your little bungalow is pretty, dear," he said when she took him to the house she had set her heart on, a low rambling Dutch type of stone and stucco, "but I'd feel like Gulliver in the Land of Lilliput. You may have a toy affair like that somewhere for the summer, if you want, but I'll have to have something solid under my feet, dear. I've been accustomed to solid terra firma for so long. I can't live in a shell now."

So Edith had consented to start her married life in the house of Jim's choice.

But she had ideas of her own about furnishing it. What then was her chagrin to discover that Jim had ideas, too. He laughed at the spider-legged set she wanted for the dining room. "I'd upset the table the first meal," he said. "Show us something substantial, none of this doll-house stuff," he insisted, and Edith found herself, instead of reveling in Queen Anne and Adam sets as she had planned, trying to decide on tables and buffets that would have graced—or not—state dining rooms of royalty, and as substantial as the sarcophagus of Napoleon.

"Seems to suit the house better, don't you think?" he asked.

And Edith was compelled to acknowledge that it did.

She longed for a living room of wicker and chintz, and a library of pure old mahogany. But Jim would have none of it. Heavy, massive leather and tapestry for him.

"You forget I'm big, dearie," he said. "I'd go through that light stuff in no time."

But the worst had been the plates. She abhorred electrolas, but had recommend none when he paid four hundred and fifty dollars for an electric one. The one thing she did insist upon was the choice of a piano. What she wanted was a two-thousand dollar grand like her own at home.

But when Jim saw it he remarked: "Where do you put the rolls in?"

"The rolls? Oh, this isn't a player-piano, dear. I'll play it, you see."

"But when you're away and I want music what shall I do?"

"But I'll get be away, dear, much."

"But can't you play on the other kind, too? I'd like to have one that goes by electricity. They're made, aren't they?"

They were, and Jim bought one for four thousand dollars.

Now, Edith was back in her own room looking at her own pretty face in the mirror of her dressing table.

Was she quite sure she was going to be happy with Jim, her big Jim, who had come to New York and taken her heart by storm just when she had about decided to marry Herbert Morrow.

Herbert was an artist and she shivered when she thought of his judgment of her new home. He had such wonderful ideas about furnishing.

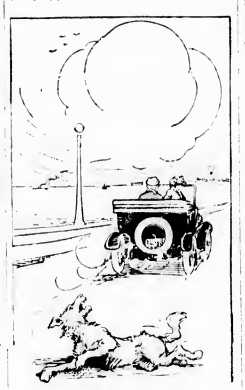
Just then her telephone rang. It was Herbert Morrow himself.

"What do you say to a little spin in my new car, Edith, just for old times' sake. It's a perfect day."

Any other time she would have refused, but some way now she wanted to go. They adored the same views, shadows of a cloud on the water, the tilt of new green on a branch. She thought it would be refreshing after trying day.

"All right, I'll go," she said. "A spin is the park would be fine good."

A few minutes later they were flying over the broad smooth driveway, the cool spring wind in their faces.



Lay a Kicking Heap.

They both laughed gayly at this, and didn't see the dog that had started to cross the road at the turn. There was a yelp, and the poor thing lay a kicking heap behind the car.

Edith caught Herbert's arm. "Oh, do turn back. We've run over him and killed him."

He was only a cur. The car neither turn in the park. You know. There's a policeman. He'll shoot him if he's not dead. Don't worry, my dear girl. It's done all the time. A few less to feed in the world be a good thing anyhow. It would release thousands of pounds of food for the soldiers.

It was an argument she could not deny, and she ceased turning to ascertain the dog's fate, but the afternoon was spoiled now; she asked to go home.

"New Yorkers are funny people," Jim said the next day. "Yesterday afternoon I found a hurt dog in the park. Some cur had run over him and then gone ahead. A policeman was just going to shoot him when I came along. Wanted Prince."

"Didn't you let him? Surely it would have been more merciful."

"Mercenary!" I said the dog was hurt. I didn't say he couldn't live. I almost had to wallop the cop before he put his gun away."

"Oh, Jim, what did you do?"

"Well, I couldn't take him to the hospital on Prince, so I stopped a car," Jim grinned. "It was a big limousine, all lined with pearl gray stuff and two men on the box. Milady was out for an airing."

"You never did, Jim Winter!"

"Sure I did. And I made the policeman take care of Prince while I lifted the poor thing into the car, and then I got in myself and held his head. The old woman jabbered and fussed to beat the band, but it didn't matter. They got us to the hospital, and that did."

"What hospital?"

"Bonesville."

"That's not a dog hospital."

"I know, that's what they tried to tell me there, but it was the only place I could think of. Well, I lifted doggie out and carried him inside and told them to do what they could for him; to set his bones. I'd take him home and nurse him. And sure enough a doctor and two nurses fixed him up all right. I've got him, and he'll live."

Suddenly Edith flung her arms around his neck. "Oh, Jim, Jim, I thought I was afraid of your will, but I'm not now. And I'm going to confess I've been baby enough to be unhappy about the furniture. But nothing matters now, dear. You're a dear wonderful man and I adore you."

"Oh, that reminds me," said Jim. "I had almost forgotten. I got to thinking about those things and the house, too, and how you've been such a dear and let me have my own way. I'm afraid I'm a brute the way I have of ordering people around and I mustn't do it with you. I'm going to exchange the house for the one you wanted, and if you'll put on your hat we'll go and select the furniture all over again. You can have anything you like and I won't say a word."

"Oh, no, Jim," cried Edith then. "I don't want it now. I'm going to learn to like the things you do."

HARD TO UNDERSTAND PLANS

According to This, Old Dame Nature Seems to Have Got Things in Some Slight Tangle.

Dan Beard, noted woodsman and camper, gives advice about owls in Boys' Life.

If you meet the Virginia long-eared owl, he says, he is a regular bolshevik. Ben and he will kill rabbits, squirrels, chickens, grouse, birds, young and old, just like any Hun. So do not give him the scout salute, but give him a charge of bird shot instead. Treat the snowy owl in the same way. He is a beautiful bird and makes a fine specimen to set on the bookcase, and is a great deal more useful there than sitting on a chicken coop.

There's something funny about the field mice, too. If we have too many of them we will never have any clover. The field mice do not eat clover, but they will destroy the bumblebees' nest, and no clover can grow without bumblebees. Moreover the bumblebees get the honey from the clover and distribute the pollen to other plants and fertilize them so that the seed will ripen. Honey bees cannot reach the honey in the red clovers, consequently they leave it alone.

Thus you see that the clover is dependent upon the bumblebee, that the bumblebees are dependent upon the owls and hawks, and because the owls would exterminate them. Good! This is a funny world. Everything's all tied up together.

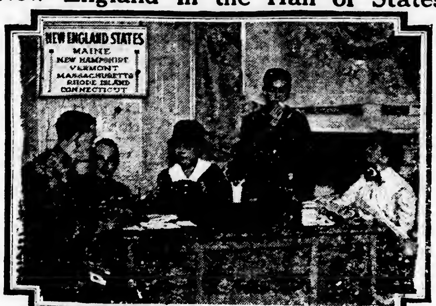
New England in the Hall of States



Hundreds of N[illegible] sol-diers, [illegible] great Army [illegible] of New York are [illegible] special welcome [illegible] touch of home as [illegible] forts of volunteer [illegible] at the New England [illegible] Hall of States [illegible]. While some states are using [illegible] appropriations, such as Ma[illegible] $50,000 and Kansas's $[illegible], in welcoming their home-coming sons, Connecticut, New Hampshire, Vermont, Maine, and Rhode Island are leaving this work to the Society of New England women. Without the aid of state funds even for the clerical hire, incident to writing to from 50 to 150 wounded men a day, women of this organization are doing the best they can to see that New England's wounded men are welcomed as warmly, if not as generously, as those of sister states. More funds are urgently needed. T[illegible] can be sent to Miss Elizabeth Dexter, New England desk, Hall of States, New York.

The giving of the home-touch to the welcoming of returning fighters centres at the Hall of States, which the War Camp Community Service maintains at 27 West 25th Street, close to the Victory Arch. There "Buddies" meet at the war's end; there the soldiers meet for the first [illegible] folks from their home [illegible]. Some of them [illegible] and [illegible] the [illegible] with men from the [illegible], who [illegible] others want [illegible] back home [illegible] the War Camp Community Service [illegible] service when, under Dr. W. D. Fisher, [illegible] New England and other states for soldiers and sailors.

The hospital work of the Hall of States is, perhaps, the most important thing [illegible] there. Under a system perfected by the War Camp Community Service the names of all wounded men, sometimes to the number of 4,000 arrivals a day, are immediately divided into state groups and put in the hands of the Hospitality Committees from the various states. The women at once write to the boys asking them to call at the Hall of States, or, if that be impossible, to indicate whether they wish to have a visitor call on them.

The New England desk is in the active charge of Miss Elizabeth B. Dexter. She is assisted by Mrs. James Ward Warner, chairman for the New York Colony of the Society of New England Women, and Miss Lizzie Woodbury, treasurer.

MEMORIAL TO FR. SHEEHAN

Memorial services for the Rev. John P. Sheehan, assistant pastor of the Church of St. Mary of the Assumption of Brookline, and a former well known resident of this town, were held at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon at Holywood cemetery, and included the dedication to his memory of a granite cross, eight feet in height, a tribute from the members of the Brookline Catholic Club, which he founded and of which he was the spiritual director up to the time of his death.

The services were attended by Mrs. Catherine Sheehan, mother of the dead priest, and a large proportion of the Catholic population of Brookline. They were in charge of a committee of the club comprising Thomas F. Costello, chairman; Walter J. Cusick, Arthur Spooner, Stephen E. Burke, and Daniel J. Lacy. The memorial cross was veiled with the service flag of the Catholic club, containing 104 stars and a golden cross and crown to represent the late spiritual director. Seventy-five service men, members of the club, in the uniform of the United States army and navy, also were present.

Selectman Walter J. Cusick, president of the Brookline Catholic Club, presented the memorial on behalf of the club. He spoke at some length of the heroic work and splendid sacrifices made by Fr. Sheehan and declared that the Brookline Catholic Club, for which he had labored so long and so earnestly and for which he accomplished such great things, was, in reality, the real monument to his memory.

One Million Five Hundred Thousand Pounds of Powder for the Feet.

That is what the government sent last year to make the soldiers' and sailors' feet comfortable and fit for the kind of war they fought and finished.

In Peace and War for over 25 years Allen's Foot-Ease, the Antiseptic, Healing Powder for the Feet to be shaken into the shoes and sprinkled in the foot-bath has been the standard remedy for all aching, swollen, hot, tired feet, blisters and sore spots and for the instant relief of corns, bunions and callouses.

Thousands of people sent packages of Allen's Foot-Ease to their sons, brothers or sweethearts in the army and navy because they knew from experience that it would freshen and rest their feet, make their shoes comfortable and walking easy. Those who use Allen's Foot-Ease have solved their foot troubles.

THOUSANDS OF WAR VETERANS START LIFE ANEW JULY 4

JULY 4th THRIFTOGRAMS

A thrifty, prosperous citizenry assures a thrifty, prosperous nation and the one constantly interacts on the other. Celebrate the "Glorious Fourth" by buying War Savings Stamps.

A War Savings Certificate is a Declaration of Independence. Through it you will attain freedom and prosperity.

Be a signer of your own Declaration of Independence. Put your name today on a War Saving Certificate.

Make July 4 your own Independence Day. Throw off the shackles which keep you in a rut, or in debt, by saving regularly and investing safely in War Savings Stamps.

Your interests and your country's interests are identical. Money saved and invested safely expands industry and enterprise. It gives you steady employment and prosperity and makes your country stable and prosperous. Buy W. S. S.

Are you glad there was born a youngster in the world of nations on July 4, 1776, called the United States of America? If so, aid her well being and consequently your own by investing in War Savings Stamps.

Benjamin Franklin was one of the original signers of the Declaration of Independence. He believed in personal as well as national independence. That is why his picture is on the 1919 War Savings Stamps.

——Buy W. S. S.——

July 1919 is especially a season of rejoicings and beginnings. We celebrate our national anniversary this year with unusual vim and enthusiasm because of the cessation of war and the return of the boys from overseas.

As in a long ago July we began our life as a nation, so in this July many young men are practically beginning their lives anew.

They are not the same careless young men who went away with a jest and a song. They have returned older, more thoughtful, more earnest. Some of their old associations will be distasteful to them, and they will create new ones.

The war has made a similar impression upon the entire nation. We too are changed, we too have learned to think more wisely. Especially notable in this connection is the revival of the old time spirit of thrift upon which was builded the national prosperity which enabled us to achieve wonderful results in a minimum of time.

In their zeal to help the Government, many became during the war, almost unaware, the possessor of more money than they ever had before, and they will not willingly relax from so satisfactory a condition.

There is nothing which fosters a spirit of worthy independence as does the consciousness of sufficient means to meet an emergency. With those who experience it every day is independence day. If there are those who do not realize the happiness which comes through thrift, there is no better time than the present to make a declaration of independence all their own, and for a foundation Thrift and War Savings Stamps are available, safe and profitable.

LITTLE RUTH WANTED TO BUY "FRIF STAMPS"

Every week on pay day Ruth's auntie brought her one or more Thrift Stamps. Auntie was not only very fond of Ruth but she was a young woman of business and understood the value of small savings. She wanted Ruth to be well provided for and therefore made an investment for her in the way Uncle Sam had made possible for people with small incomes every time the payman had been around.

Three-year old Ruth was deeply interested in the stamps. She literally cried for them. Late one cold afternoon last winter when it had grown quite dark, Ruth insisted on going out. Nothing would dissuade her from it. She was finally bundled up and the door opened into the blackness beyond. Nothing daunted, Ruth went out alone and trotted up the street ever so far. Mamma, following after, wondered what the baby could want. As there seemed no end to the journey she finally asked Ruth what she was going for. The answer came promptly, "Ruth buy Frif Stamps."

Ruth seems to have learned her lesson and Auntie is more in earnest now than ever in buying Thrift Stamps and seeing them turn into War Savings Stamps for baby Ruth.
